GRAND GAS BALLOON ASCENSION by Professor Steiner, on Saturday, at the Odd Fellows benefit Festival, with grand entertainment, and dancing day and evening, Saturday and Sunday. Bosthwick Reid, the champion trick swordman, Miss Linden, vocalist, Mlle Gracie in her blindfold trapeze, Will Stevens as the flying man, Mlle. Victorine, the Albi no children and orchestral concert.

Notes.

Last evening when Harry Edwards stepped on the stage as Sir Harcourt, and put the question in soliloquy, "Have I made a mistake, have I then been foolish?" a voice from the gallery instantly replied, "Yes, you have" For a moment Sir Harcourt staggered at so pertinent a rejoinder, from so impertinent a source, then, silently and profoundly bowed to the direction from which so blunt, yet hearty expression of opinion had proceeded, and went on with the play.

The Hooleys opened at Stockton on Monday evening, in the "Two Orphans," playing to immense houses.

From our Australian letter it will be seen that there is a regular exodus of talent from Australia to India, in consequence of the Prince of Wales' visit to the latter country. This will leave Australia with but a small army of artists. The broken ranks must be filled, and this is written as a hint to those who wish to be drafted.

On Thursday week, August 12th, Mr. Carleton of the English Opera Troupe takes his first benefit in America. "Ernani" will be produced, Mr. Maas will "favor the company with a song," and Mme. Rosewald, Mr. Whiffen and Mr. Carleton will give one of O[illegible]bach's operettas.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

WHY SHE NEVER TOLD HER LOVE.

Could it be virgin bashfulness
 That still concealed the tender thought?
Or fear she might perchance confess
 A love that was not sought?

Was it mere womanly caprice?
 Or pride? or maidenly reserve?
Was it respect for mental peace?
 Or merely want of nerve?

She could not choose but understand.
 He thought, his little game of sighs,
Slow parting pressures of the hand,
 Soft words, and "speaking eyes."

The reason why (this was above
 Ten years ago) he now knows well:
She simply never told her love,
 Because—she'd none to tell!

Wanted, a Minister.

A newspaper in Milwaukee, Wis., published the following among its advertisements the other day:

WANTED—A rector for St. James' Parish, Milwaukee, Wis. He must possess all the Christian graces and a few wordly ones; must have such tact and disposition as will enable him to side with all parties in the parish on all points, giving offense to none; should possess a will of his own, but agree with all the vestry; must be socially inclined and of a dignified manner; affable to all, neither running after the wealthy nor turning his back upon the poor; a man of high-low church tendencies preferred; must be willing to preach first-class sermons and do first-class work at second-class compensation; salary should not be too much of an object as the desire to be a zealous laborer in the vineyard; should be able to convice all that they are miserable sinners without giving offense; each sermon must be short and complete in itself—full of old-fashioned theology in modern dress—deep, but popular, and free from the eloquence peculiar to newly graduated theologians; should be young enough to be enthusiastic, but possess the judgment of one of ripe years and experience. He only who possesses the above qualifications need apply. To such a one will be given steady employment for a term of years. For further information apply to any member of the congregation.

Levy's Corneting.

The N. Y. correspondent of the Baltimore Bulletin thus speaks of Mr. Levy and his cornet: New York at present is a desert waste. It might as well be Omaha or the Kamschatka Islands for all the people one sees, or the places one can go to. Even the Garden cannot gather one in every evening, notwithstanding the perpetual wonder of Levy. That bright and rather fat cherubim, who rivals Gabriel in the loudness of his trump and "lays over" any other man in the immaculate nature of his evening dress, is now going through his motions on the cornet. He breathes a stettorian blast, then gets off a series of rippling variations, and alternately dealing forth blows of sound, and caressing the air with the daintiest of touches, makes up what may well be called his champion solo. Levy is certainly a wonderful player. People yell over him, and one hears "bravo" from every side after he has finished. They have put ice into the Waterfall, and the place now is as cool as your best friends when you call upon them to lend a hand. They do say that the elegant Levy, this demnition-fine, eye-glassed cock of the cornet, had once for his proudest boast that he was the friend of Mace. Why didn't that gentleman knock some of the nonsense out of him?

In the Detroit Police Court.

THE STORY OF A HAT.

"Is this Thomas Hardy?" inquired his Honor of the next man.

"Send me afloat if it isn't!" replied the prisoner.

"Are you a sailor?"

"Dry-dock me if I haint!"

"You'll get into dry-dock fast enough, my boy! The story goes that you went into a store on Jefferson avenue and wanted to look at a hat. A hat was shown you, and you yelled out, 'Shoot the hat!' threw it down, jumped on it, and then ran away. Is this true?"

"The larbord side is about right."

"Well, sir, what induced you to act that way?"

"Shipped too much rum aboard, I guess,"

"It looks that way. I can't have you running into this harbor every two or three weeks all Summer and asking me for clearance papers. I think I'll throw you a towline this morning and haul you into the creek."

"All fast, sir!" said the prisoner, with a smile.

"Bell him to go ahead slow, Bijah," continued the court, "and mark him for ninety days."

THE GOLDEN RULE.

"What's this boy doing here—this innocent-looking, white-haired boy?" asked his honor.

"Gittin up a dog-fight," explained Bijah.

"My son, is this true?"

"I never said a word—the other boys got up the fight!" wailed the lad.

"I do not know what I can do with you. We keep a cross-cut saw here to saw boys in two, but it is Saturday morning and I don't want to muss up the station house. I suppose we——"

"The boys lied on me!" exclaimed the boy, trembling all over.

"They did, eh! Now boy, tell me the solemn truth—did you have hold of either dog?"

"No, sir—you may kill me if I did!"

"Did you say sicken?"

"No, sir—no!"

"Didn't you bet five marbles against three jaw-breakers that the red dog would win?"

"No—no!"

"Well, boy, this is a serious case, but I am going to overlook it. I think you have told the truth, but you had no business there. In the distant future you want to remember that it is four times better to pull weeds in the garden than to attend a dog fight."

"I will, sir."

"And remember to keep truth in your handkerchief pocket all through life. One ounce of truth is worth more in the wholesale market than forty tons of lies."

"Yes, sir."

"Now you can go."

The boy reached the door to encounter the band, who marched him off, singing:

"Oh, bury Bartholomew out in the woods,
 In a beautiful hole in the ground,
Where bumble-bees buzz and the woodpeckers sit,
 And the straddle-bugs tumble around;
So that in Winter, when the snow and the slush
 Have covered his little bed.
His brother Artemus can go out with Jane
 And visit the place with his sled.

Mr. Bronson Howard is to write a play in conjunction with Mr. James Albery. Wonder if the London dramatic critics have yet been posted as to the proper occasions when to wear dress coats. If not, look out.

The Young Man from the East.

" Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

Said a Brooklyn girl to her lover: "I wish it understood that when we are married you will make it a rule to give me all the money I ask for, and never inquire what I do with it." "But does that show a proper confidence in me? How can you so wound the feelings of the man who loves you?" "Ah! my dear," was the reply, "my motto is principle, not men!"

A Chicago man thinks that the Indians ought to be exterminated, because after all William Penn's kindness to them, "they went and made him stand up one day, and shoot an apple off his little boy's head with an arrow.

Favorite air with the ladies—In the sweet buy and buy.

The difference between having a tooth properly drawn by dentist, and having it knocked out by a fall on the pavement is only a slight distinction—one is dental and the other accidental.

Why is a church bell more affable than a church organ? Because one will go when it is tolled, but the other will be "blowed" first.

The superintendant of a Sunday-school in Washington is an undertaker, and there is some talk of asking him to resign, because he makes the children sing "I Would Not Live Always" regularly every Sunday.

Who can refrain from smiling at the story of the young lady who, after delivering a lecture on "Dress Reform," went to sit down, and couldn't get within six inches of the chair.

There's nothing so wonderful about malleable glass that can be hammered. A friend of mine has a glass still unbroken, though he has kept punch-in-it at intervals for several years.

Edmund Yates is said by a correspondent to have offered a distinguished authoress ten guineas per week for a weekly portion (eight columns in length) of a novel; and, upon the lady saying that her terms were double that amount, to have expressed great surprise. Whereupon the lady said, "I have long since given up sacrificing my bread and butter in order to furnish gentleman like yourself with cakes and wines."

Honesty—A washerwoman buying a dozen new pockethandkerchiefs.

Why cannot a temperance man kiss a Jewess? He has sworn not to taste jewlips.

Why is Summer like the letter "g"? Because it comes at the end of Spring.

A Russian proverb says:—"Before going to war, pray once; before going to sea, pray twice; before getting married, pray three times."

A cheap Summer resort—linen duster.

The poet Schiller died May 9th, 1805. The steamship Schiller, named after the poet, went down May 9th, 1875.

A man who cheats in short measure is a measureless rogue. If in whisky, then he is a rogue in spirit. If by falsifying his accounts, then he is an unaccountable rogue. If he gives a bad title to land, then he is a rogue indeed. If he gives short measure in wheat, then he is a rogue in grain.

A Chinaman married a negro woman in Arkansas a year ago, and they now have a baby which has light hair and is as white as snow.

An aged lady of Fontainebleau left her physician an enormous oak chest as a legacy. On opening it he found all the drugs and potions he had given her during the past twenty years.

The editor of the Taunton Gazette has been eating 'em, for he says, "The comely cucumber cometh, conveying countless cases of cholera and colic, causing cheerful comments on the part of the compounder of curious but comforting cordials."

There is a Scotch looking-glass maker heads his advertisements with this quotation from Burns: "The giftie gie us to see oursels as ithers see us."

"My brethring," snarled a poorly paid minister, "you have your cattle on a thousand hills, and your minister on only one hill, and a mighty poor hill at that."

The Mayor of Green Bay is near-sighted, and he lifts his hat to the shadow of a dray horse and reaches out to shake hands with lamp posts.

Mother—"Now, Gerty, be a good girl, and give Aunt Julia a kiss, and say good-night." Gerty—"No, no! if I kiss her, she'll box my ears, like she did papa's, last night." Tableau.

The cur-few tolls the knell of departing dog.

"Chawles, Chawles, bwing me—ah—a small—a very small piece of beef—ah—about the size of a half a dollah. Do you understand, Chawles?" said a delicate youth to a restaurant waiter. "Yes, sah, in a steered off, a great raw-boned fellow, sitting near by, yelled after him, "Waitaw, waitaw!" "Yes, sah; what will you have, sah?" The eyes of all in the room were upon the muscular countryman as he drawled forth "Chawles, Chawles, bwing me a small—a very small piece of pork—ah—and one bean. Do you understand, Chawles?"

"Is Smith dead?" shouted a printer on one of the Waverly, Iowa, papers, while taking "dead" pay locals from the "form" in the process of "making up." "Yes," answered the editor from the sanctum, where he sat conversing with a well-known physician of that place, "Smith dead!" exclaimed the disciple of Esculapius, leaping from his chair, "Good God, when did he die! Why, I prescribed for him only last night!"

Her Husband's Letter.

A middle-aged woman had a letter handed her at the general delivery in the post office yesterday, and she sat down on a window-sill and read it. Her interest was intense from the start, and she spoke up and said:

"He calls me his little darling. That's good!"

After reading a few lines more she said:

"And he misses my society so much!"

Half way down the page she spoke again:

"And he calls me his sunbeam—his guardian angel."

She climbed up on the sill a little further, turned the letter over and mused:

"And he's lost three pounds of flesh worrying over my health. He's just a dear, loving old darling, that's what he is!"

She reached the top of the fourth page and exclaimed:

"What! going to Flint, eh!"

Further down she growled:

"And he met that red-headed widow Kernshaw on the cars, eh? I'll see about that! He probably didn't tell her he was married!"

She got down to the "P. S.," glanced over a couple of lines, and then yelled right out:

"Not coming home until next week! Trains snowed in! Great press of business! I'll see whether he isn't coming! Bub, where's the telegraph office?"

And she ran across the street and sent him a despatch which made the operator's hair stand up as he received and read it.

Levy's Corneting.

The N. Y. correspondent of the Baltimore Bulletin thus speaks of Mr. Levy and his cornet: New York at present is a desert waste. It might as well be Omaha or the Kamschatka Islands for all the people one sees, or the places one can go to. Even the Garden cannot gather one in every evening, notwithstanding the perpetual wonder of Levy. That bright and rather fat cherubim, who rivals Gabriel in the loudness of his trump and "lays over" any other man in the immaculate nature of his evening dress, is now going through his motions on the cornet. He breathes a stettorian blast, then gets off a series of rippling variations, and alternately dealing forth blows of sound, and caressing the air with the daintiest of touches, makes up what may well be called his champion solo. Levy is certainly a wonderful player. People yell over him, and one hears "bravo" from every side after he has finished. They have put ice into the Waterfall, and the place now is as cool as your best friends when you call upon them to lend a hand. They do say that the elegant Levy, this demnition-fine, eye-glassed cock of the cornet, had once for his proudest boast that he was the friend of Mace. Why didn't that gentleman knock some of the nonsense out of him?

Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

Maguire's New Theatre.

To produce "The Huguenots" without a full season's rehearsal, and on so small a stage as that of Maguire's New Theatre, was a bold venture on the part of the English Opera Company; yet last night showed how fortune favors the bold, or rather proved how well drilled and capable a company it is. There was no apparent lack of rehearsal, and the shortcomings of the stage were more than made up for by the generally good and often particularly impressive singing of the principals. The house was crowded to overflowing and remained in a chronic state of applause until nearly midnight. We will take the liberty to consider this a "perfect" rehearsal and postpone our extended notice of the opera until to-morrow night when it will be repeated, and when, we feel certain, the one or two slight errors of last evening will be corrected. To-night, "Il Trovatore," with Miss Beaumont's debut as Leonora.

Opera House.

That very amusing comedy of Bronson Howard's known as "Saratoga" will be given but twice again, this evening and at the Saturday matinee. To-morrow evening Miss Fanny Davenport takes her benefit, when she will appear as Nancy Sykes, in "Oliver Twist," and Margery, in "The Rough Diamond." In the latter Miss Davenport will sing with Mr. Lewis that delectable duet entitled "When a little farm we keep." On Saturday evening "Weak Woman" will be presented, which is also advertised for the extra Sunday evening performance.

California Theatre.

Miss Jennie Lee will not soon forget her last night's benefit, we think. A crowded house, a most enthusiastic house, a house that yelled when she came on and yelled when she went off, a house that would encore everything, good, bad or indifferent. Out of the house too, came a whole flower garden done up in bouquets and holding in them some valuable souvenirs more lasting than their fragrance. The burlesque of "Ahmed" was capitally put on, good scenery, remarkably pretty costumes and any amount of fun and singing. We would there were more time to speak of Miss Lee in her dainty Ahmed's dress, the Princess of W. A. Mestayer and the two kings of Pateman and Leech.

This evening, Miss Ella F. Badger, a young San Francisco lady, makes her debut, appearing as Julia in "The Hunchback," after which she will recite Drake's "Address to the American Flag." Miss Badger has grown up amonst us, has received her education here and may therefore be looked upon as a California product, and we do not doubt but that the interest to see how a California young lady deports herself on the occasion of her debut will crowd the house.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The first concert of the new season was given at Platt's Hall yesterday afternoon to a house, which compared with those of the former season, showed a decided improvement in management and attendance. Nearly all the boxes were filled, whilst the floor chairs showed but one or two empty rows. The quality of the entertainment, and the popular price of admission will, we believe, yet recommend themselves more strongly to the San Francisco public. An orchestra of over fifty musicians, a good conductor, and a programme embracing such instrumental gems as Litolff's overture to "Robespierre," the three first numbers of Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony," Gungl's "Dream on the Ocean" waltz, Gounod's "Meditation," and Weber's overture to "Oberon," furnish such a cultured entertainment as San Francisco may be well proud of, and as San Francisco's most certainly should patronize.

Miss Badger's Debut.

To-night, Miss Ella F. Badger, a pupil of Miss Julia Melville will make her debut at the California Theatre, as Julia in "The Hunchback," supported by the company. After the drama Miss Badger will recite Drake's "Address to the American Flag," and the bill will conclude with "Robert Macaire."

George M. Ciprico.

On Friday this gentleman will produce his play of "Edmund Kean; or, The Bohemian," at the California Theatre. The play has been revised and we believe improved by the introduction of a new scene, the work of Mr. G. B. Densmore, who has already proved what his capabilities as a dramatist are.

Benefit of T. J. French.

On Saturday evening, Mr. T. J. French, the "popular young Treasurer," of the California Theatre, takes his annual benefit. Of Mr. French's popularity—especially with the company on Mondays—there can be no doubt, and he may count, we believe, upon counting up well on Saturday evening. "The New Magdalen," will be the bill.

Platt's Music Hall.

The Saurets having returned from a very successful tour South, have turned their attention charity-wards, and will, on Tuesday evening next, give a grand farewell concert for the benefit of the sufferers by the recent earthquake in Colombia. A great number of assistant artists will complete the programme.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Kimic's popularity as a Dutch comedian has in no way abated. Swain and West's song and dance, Foster, Senate, Price and Mortimer's acts are all entertaining.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

The Ethiopian sketch "Uncle Jeff at Home" is very cleverly played and takes immensely. The other acts "Catastrophe," "Demon of the Woods," and "Siamese Twins," are, with the olio, the source of much pleasure and amusement.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

GRAND GAS BALLOON ASCENSION by Professor Steiner, on Saturday, at the Odd Fellows benefit Festival, with grand entertainment, and dancing day and evening, Saturday and Sunday. Bosthwick Reid, the champion trick swordman, Miss Linden, vocalist, Mlle. Gracie in her blindfold trapeze, Will Stevens as the flying man, Mlle. Victorine, the Albino children and orchestral concert.

A Rattling Story.

A Leeds theatrical celebrity has a reput for economy and shrewdness, which every Yorkshireman gleefully appreciates. His house being infested with rats, a certain rat-catcher was sent for, who, having done his business, sought his employer to make known the fact and for his recompense, for which a hard bargain had, as usual, been driven. He had a bag over his shoulders containing the result of his labor. The celebrity chanced to be in the drawing-room, where hearing his voice, the sturdy rat-catcher sought him and his pay. "You've left no rats behind?" sternly asked the employer, slowly taking out his purse. "Noa, sir," answered the rat catcher surlily, for he did not consider the pay liberal or even fair, and was, consequently, not too amicably inclined. "And what are you going to do with all those rats in your bag?" "Weel, aw mun mak' a livin', tha knows, eny hoo, soa aw sells 'em," replied the man' moodily. "Sell them!" echoed the other, quickly, the light of a brilliant new idea irradiating his countenance. "Sell my rats! What right have you to sell my property sir?" I agreed to pay you to catch my rats; I did not say you were to have my rats when they were caught. Now look here, my man. I'll pay you at once; but, first, how much are you going to allow me for my rats?" The rat-catcher's patience was exhausted; he strode from the door toward Mr. ——; and, in abrupt reply to that able manager's anxious inquiry, he suddenly, with an angry oath, threw the bag upon the carpet's velvet pile, and catching up the lower end of it, with one violent shake scattered the rats pell-mell one over the other at his employer's feet, crying, in the midst of the squeaking, scratching, and scrambling of the frightened animals which ensued, "Nah, then, tak' the blowed owd rats and twist them raand tha neck!"

A Mortal Struggle.

A short but interesting contest took place in one of the newspaper offices the other day, when an overgrown and turbulent house-fly, strong in his muscle and in his conceit, attacked a cockroach that was just coming from breakfast. The cockroach was leisurely pushing his tongue here and there into the interstices of his teeth, to remove the particles of paste and mucilage that had adhered to them during the process of mastication, and appeared to be thinking of anything else in the world rather than a fight; but when the fly pounced down upon him, his countenance changed. In about three seconds that fly discovered that there was a mistake somewhere, and the completely subdued appearance which he wore as he started on a retreat across the table, with the cockroach mounted sarcastically upon his presumptuous back, left no doubt in the minds of the spectators as to how the brief battle had gone.

Taken in Tow.

On the Beach at Long Branch: "Come on now, Ned!" cried a New York girl to her stripling lover; "we've got clear of papa—now let's take a dive."

"Your father is an awful big and stout man, observed the youth.

"Oh, never mind that," exclaimed the miss, petulantly; "let's take a swim—just see the great waves."

"Don't you think it dangerous?" anxiously inquired the lover, gazing up and down the beach."

"Dangerous? No! There isn't hardly any under tow at this point; it s—?

"Oh, but it isn't the under-tow I'm afraid of," interrupted the young man.

"Isn't it?"

"No; it's your father's toe!"

And she couldn't get him to risk it.

How Rachel Became Beautiful.

The child who draws is already taking his first lessons in the beautiful and the good; and the fragments of the masterpieces which he has under his eyes teach him not only to imitate the beautiful, but to make himself beautiful. Mlle. Rachel told me, one day, at the Duc de Morny's, where I was speaking of her beauty, "You don't imagine—all of you who think me beautiful nowadays—how ugly I was at the beginning. I who was to play tragedy, had a comic mask. I was laughable, with my horned forehead, my nose like a comma, my pointed eyes, my grinning mouth. You can supply the rest yourself. I was once taken by my father to the Louvre. I did not care much for the pictures, although he called my attention to the tragic scenes of David. But when I came among the marbles a change came over me like a revelation. I saw how fine it was to be beautiful. I went out from there taller than before, with a borrowed dignity which I was to turn into a natural grace. The next day, I looked over a collection of engravings after the antique. I never received a lesson so advantageous at the conservatoire. If I have ever effectively addressed the eyes of my audience by my attitudes and expressions, it is because those masterpieces so appealed to my eyes." Rachel said this so admirably that we were all moved by her words; for she talked better than anybody, when she chose not to talk like a Paris gamin. "Oh, I forgot," she continued; "I must tell you that if I have become beautiful, as you say, though I don't believe a word of it, it is owing to my daily study how not to be uglier than I am. I have eliminated what there was of monstrous in my face. As I was in the season of sap when I took the idea of making myself over again, after the ancestral rough draft, everything, with the help of Providence, went well. The nobs of my forehead retired, my eyes opened, my nose grew straight, my chin lips were rounded, my disordered teeth were put back in their places." Here Rachel smiled with that delicate smile that was so enchanting. "And then I spread over all a certain air of intelligence, which I do not possess." She was interrupted by so many compliments, which were the simple truth, that she could not continue the story of her imperfections. "Well," she said, "the good thing about it is that I did not try to be beautiful for the sake of a man, as other women do, but for the sake of art, disdaining the 'commerce of love,' as the philosophers call it." Rachel was applauded that evening as never before. There were not more than fifty persons at M. de Morny's, but they were the top of the basket of all Paris, a partierre of dilettanti, which is much better than a partierre of Kings. And yet she had been acting.—[Arsene Houssaye's Letter from Paris.

The Young Man from the East.

" Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

FRIDAY..................AUGUST 6

Sold and Paid For.

A young actress, with all the characteristics of her nation—wit, beauty and talent in her art, entered her apartment in the Rue ——, and carelessly threw her shawl on the ottoman. She seemed to droop in grief, and why? She had no rival to dread in her theatre; not a hair of her silken tresses had changed its hue; not a vow or a protestation less had crowned her last success. Why, then, was she sad?

"Alas!" she said, addressing her only true friend, her confidential femme de chambre, "I am the most miserable of earthly beings. My whole heart is absorbed in one subject; my existence is a bane to me without it."

"And who is that happy object?" inquired Josephine.

"Oh, Josephine," she replied, "I have fondly gazed, too fondly fixed my affections;" and then she mused to herself, "where can I find two thousand francs?"

It was of an enameled dressing-case she spoke. She had seen it as she came home; had asked the price; but alas! it was two thousand francs! and she sighed very heavily.

The door-bell rang—the maid went and returned.

"It is the English lord with the unutterable name, madame."

"Let him come in," she sullenly replied.

His lordship entered; he came to offer the homage of his adieu. The entree to the society of such beauty and such talent he would preserve for his future visits to Paris; and he ransacked his brain to find some souvenir to present in token of his admiration.

"I can only be sure of pleasing," said he, "If I knew what will find favor in your eyes."

The prevailing passion of the enamelled dressing-case still being her only thought, she exclaimed:

"Yes, yes; there is the Rue de la Paix what would make me the happiest creature in the world. It is an enamelled dressing-case. Morning and evening, did I possess it, you would ever be in thought before me."

"Before an hour," said he, "you shall be the happy being you so richly deserve to be."

One, two, three hours passed on, and no dressing-case appeared. The impatient beauty could bear it no longer; she threw her shawl hastily over her neck, called a coach, and drove to the Rue de la Paix. The dressing-case was sill on the counter.

"What!" said she, "and have you not had an offer for it?"

"Yes, madame, an Englishman did admire it much; he offered fifteen hundred francs, we refused, and he left the shop, saying that, if we repented, we might send it the Hotel Meurice."

"And why did you not send it?" she demanded.

"Because we would not take a farthing less than two thousand francs."

"Hark ye," said the eager beauty, "I will avow a secret. It was for me he offered to purchase it. I will make up the difference; five hundred francs is an easy sacrifice; two thousand francs I could not give; send it to him forthwith. Here are the five hundred francs," she added; and she parted with her last billet.

The packet was carefully arranged, and quickly, too, on its destined way. Our heroine returned home, thinking of the awakening on the morrow, which would see the object of her fancy before her. She fell asleep—she awoke—it was already day—she rang her bell.

"Well!" she exclaimed to her attendant—"well!"

"It is not yet arrived, madame," was the reply.

She breakfasted—an angel could not be more patient; the clock struck ten, eleven, twelve—she could bear it no longer; a coach was called—Hotel Meurice was its destination. She asked a waiter:

"Did a person bring a dressing-case here last evening?"

"Oh, yes, madame," he replied, "and a beautiful one it was. It was for Lord——. You should have seen his delight when he received it. He said aloud to himself: 'I did not know it was such a prize. It is not dear—fifteen hundred francs! Why, it was nothing for it.' And then he added, smiling: 'By my troth, Mademoiselle —— (I could not hear her name) must do without it. John, pack it up.'"

"Gracious heavens!" exclaimed the actress, "and where is he?"

"On the road to Boulogne, madame," replied the smiling waiter, "where is he by this time nearly arrived, having left at ten o'clock last evening, with four horses and a

Died Swearing.

Laferriere, the great French actor, is publishing his memoirs in the Paris Figaro. They are deeply interesting, being full of anecdotes of the many celebrities, who were his contemporaries, such as Talma, Mlle. Mars, Mlle. Duchaisnois, Mlle. Eleury, etc. Amongst other many good stories, he tells one of the great actress Madame Bourgignon. This lady was once exceedingly beautiful, and very fond of imitating Madame de Montespan, whom she is said to have greatly resembled in person. She was much addicted to the use of bad language. On her death-bed, after having received the last sacraments of her church, Madame Bourgignon disposed herself piously to meet death, determined never again to use a profane word. Before the priest, who assisted her, left her, she earnestly requested him to give her his prayer-book, which he readily agreed to do, in order that she might hold it in her hand during her last agony. Unfortunately, however, she lost it in the bed, and just as she was about to give up the ghost, asked her maid for it, uttering, as she did so, a tidy oath, "Nom de Dieu," said she, "ou est il ce livre? Sacre nom de Dieu, ou est il?" and with these words the worthy Madame Bourgignon expired, having sworn to the last. She was, however, to do her justice, a very good kind of a woman, and charitable in the extreme.

Home Sweet Home.

The Herald, in a lengthy article in praise of the life and works of Payne, attributes the tune of Home Sweet Home to Bishop. The air is, in reality, Sicilian, and still popular in that country. Donizetti introduced it into his opera of "Anna Bolena," in the last act. A reference to the score of that opera will soon prove the truth of this asertion. The words of the air in question are "O ciel i miei lunghi spasmi." "Anna Bolena" was composed for Madame Pasta, in 1825, and is now rarely given on account of the difficulty of finding a tenor to sing the music of Percy, written for Rubini, which is exceedingly elaborate and high.

Mr. Irving's Discourtesy to Salvini.

The London Figaro is responsible for the following sharp paragraph on this subject: "Mr. Henry Irving, the distinguished tragedian, presided at the annual dinner of the Theatrical Fund. He made a notably self-satisfactory chairman, but it was not our conception of the character, for he had not a word of encouragement for struggling talent, which was present in the person of Signor Salvini. From his speech on this occasion, the public was surprised to hear that Mr. Irving was once a little boy. He is now a little man."

Opera House.

"Saratoga" has but one other production, more's the pity, that of to-morrow afternoon. This evening. Miss Fanny Davenport, will test her drawing powers, the occasion being her complimentary benefit. The bill she offers consists of "The Rough Diamond" and acts from "Oliver Twist" in which dramas Miss Davenport takes the characters of Margery and Nancy Sykes, respectively.

California Theatre.

As far as the house, its size and kindly nature went, Miss Badger's debut was undoubtedly a success, whilst as to the conduct of the debutante, there can be but one opinion,—that if conscientous acting, freedom from affectation (and stage nervousness), and the marked evidences of a desire to do what is legitimate are to be the signs and tokens by which a successful first appearance is to be judged, then Miss Ella F. Badger has much reason to congratulate herself. She had evidently been well taught for her stage business was all good. In the scenes where declamation and power of action were needed, Miss Badger was slightly wanting, but in the quieter passages of the play there was much to commend. At the conclusion of the drama the debutante in being called before the curtain made a very neat speech of thanks.

This evening Mr. George M Ciprico will produce his play of "Edmund Kean; or, The Bohemian." The play has been revised and we believe improved by the introduction of a new scene, the work of Mr. G. B. Densmore, who has already proved what his capabilities as a dramatist are.

Maguire's New Theatre.

In consequence of the sudden illness of Mr. Jos. Maas, "Il Trovatore" was withdrawn last night and "The Marriage of Figaro" substituted, which latter charming opera was played to a good house and of course, thoroughly enjoyed. This evening the second performance of "Les Huguenots," with the same immense cast as on Wednesday night.

Benefit of T. J. French.

On Saturday evening, Mr. T. J. French, the "popular young Treasurer," of the California Theatre, takes his annual benefit. Of Mr. French's popularity -especially with the company on Mondays—there can be no doubt, and he may count, we believe, upon counting up well on Saturday evening. "The New Magdalen" and "The Spectre Bridegroom" will form the bill.

Platt's Music Hall.

The Saurets having returned from a very successful tour South, have turned their attention charitywards, and will, on Tuesday evening next, give a grand farewell concert for the benefit of the sufferers by the recent earthquake in Colombia. A great number of assistant artists will complete the programme.

Gilder's "Monday Pops."

On Monday evening Mr. Gilder recommences his popular concerts after a lapse of four months. The artists he has secured for the revival of this praiseworthy institution are Miss Blanche Galton and Herr Formes.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts are four in number and all well selected, the olio is particularly good and the whole bill is well arranged for the amusement of its patrons.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

A good first-part, several most entertaining acts and an olio embracing the specialties of all the artists will form the bill for to-night.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

GRAND GAS BALLOON ASCENSION by Professor Steiner, on Saturday, at the Odd Fellows benefit Festival, with grand entertainment, and dancing day and evening, Saturday and Sunday, Bosthwick Reid, the champion trick swordman, Miss Linden, vocalist, Mlle. Gracie in her blindfold trapeze, Will Stevens as the flying man, Mlle. Victorine, the Albino children and orchestral concert.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

"Chicago Moving Westward."

Among the recent arrivals from our sister city Chicago, we note with pleasure the advent of Messrs. T. & D. Lundy, who have just opened at No. 777 Mission street, opposite St. Patrick's church, with the finest assortment ever imported to this coast of black walnut, bronze and marble clocks, suitable for stores, offices and parlor use, also pictures, engravings, mirrors, family bibles, albums, prayer books, etc., etc., all of which they furnish on easy payments.

BREAD AND CHEESE.

I met my love in the Summer;
The breeze blew from the south,
Sweet with the breath of the clover;
I kissed her little mouth—
But I told my pet so plainly,
As I gave her hand a squeeze,
"I've lots of love for you, darling,
But not much bread and cheese."

But then she showed her dimples;
The blue eyes seemed to shine;
Her head was on my shoulder;
The little lips sought mine.
She said, "I am not hungry,
And Summer time is here,
Who cares for bread and cheese, love?
I want the kisses, dear."

Rossi.

M. Maurice Grau has made arrangements with Rossi for a series of fifty performances, to be given. commencing in November next, at the Lyceum Theatre. Rossi is an actor of very high merit, as great if not (in some things), greater than Salvini. He is not so handsome, as he has a very flat nose, but his figure is magnificent. In Hamlet he is very grand, and Mrs. Cowden Clarke, a Shakspearean scholar of the highest order, informed the writer that he perfectly realized her idea of the part. Indeed, she was so enthusiastic on the subject that she actually wrote a long letter to the Athenæum, describing the performance in the highest terms. In Othello Rossi is also fine, although in this part he has to yield the palm to Salvini. He does not allow Desdemona to leave her bed as Salvini did, but kills her in the usual manner. He is particularly noble and impressive as King Lear, and strikingly effective as Shylock. He plays Timon of Athens, Coriolanus, and Romeo exceedingly well, so that his Shakspearian repertoire is unusually extensive. For the matter of that, Salvini acts Timon and Coriolanus often when in Italy, and it is certainly very curious that he didn't perform the characters in England. Rossi is much younger than Salvini, and not so stout. His voice is rich and powerful, and his method the same as that of Salvini, but much more subdued. He dresses better than his only rival, but lacks much of his splendid carriage and picturesque impressiveness. In Othello his great scene is that with Desdemona in the fourth act. As Hamlet he dresses as we see John Kemble in Lawrence's pictures, with a black cap and plumes. His acting of the part is very beautiful, and his reading absolutely perfect. He adheres to the English traditions, and consequently his performances will be sure to meet with the greater approval. Like Salvini, Rossi is a thorough gentleman, and a man of unblemished reputation and of scholarly attainments. He will doubtless, be accompanied by some leading actress of great ability of which there are so many in Italy at present.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish bock."

Amusements, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"The Bohemian," as played last evening by Mr. Geo. M. Ciprico, is an extremely interesting play with possibilities for strong dramatic action, notably on the parts of the lone night star, Mr. Ciprico and W. A. Mestayer, whose Gregory Calcium, the manager of the traveling troupe, which is joined by Gale Rolfe, the gypsy, afterwards known as Edmund Kean, the actor, was an excellently played character. Mr. Ciprico's acting has notably improved since his last performance here, and his re-appearance was greeted by a full house

This evening, Mr T. J. French, the "popular young Treasurer," of the California Theatre, takes his annual benefit. Of Mr. French's popularity—especially with the company on Mondays—there can be no doubt, and he may count, we believe, upon counting up well this evening. "The New Magdalen" and "The Spectre Bridegroom" will form the bill.

OPERA HOUSE.—Miss Fanny Davenport has no cause to complain of the manner of her reception last evening or the numbers attending her benefit. As Nancy Sykes and Margery, she showed a dramatic power and versatility which those who have only seen her in Society Comedies, little imagined her to possess. In the "Rough Diamond" she sang the duet of "When a Little Farm we Keep," with Mr. Lewis, and sang it with a very sweet voice, which is another gift the possession of which was not hitherto known. This afternoon "Saratoga" for the last time, this evening "Weak Woman."

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—A crowded house came to hear "The Huguenots" last evening, and listened to the grand music with never halting attention ever and again relieving itself with applause, which whilst enthusiastic was yet tempered with judiciousness. For instance the scena of Marguerite de Valois (Mme. Rosewald) in the second act and Urbano's (Mrs. Seguin) opening aria in the first act were encored; whilst the finale of the second act, the war song of old Marcel (George Conly), the trio between Urbano, Marguerite and the First Maid of Honor (Miss Chirong), the benediction of the winds and the duet between Marcel and Valentine (Mme. Richings-Bernard) received the heartiest applause. The company may honestly congratulate itself on producing such an opera, in so so short a space of time, and in so highly creditable a manner.

GILDER'S POPULAR CONCERTS.—On Monday evening Mr. Gilder recommences his popular concerts after a lapse of four months. The artists he has secured for the revival of this praiseworthy institution are Miss Susan Galton and Herr Formes. The programme is an excellent one.

THE SAURETS.—Having returned from a very successful tour South, have turned their attention charitywards, and will, on Tuesday evening next, give a grand farewell concert for the benefit of the sufferers by the recent earthquake in Colombia. A great number of assistant artists, including Miss Clara Beutler, Miss Wadsworth, Mr. Cohen, Signorina Valerga, Miss Pateman and the Mexican Philharmonic Band will complete the capital programme.

PLATT'S NEW MUSIC HALL.—On Friday evening next, Mme. Arabella Goddard, proposes giving a farewell concert. She will be assisted by Mme. Fabbri, Mlle. Elzer, Herr Carl Formes and a full orchestra.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—The olio has been brightened up for this evening, whilst the acts are all of an amusing nature. "That Ash Barrel," "Dodging for a Wife" and "Pictures Taken," being the three new ones for this evening's bill which is a particularly good one.

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.—This evening, Mr. George W. Jester, the Man with the Talking Hand, will make his appearance at this place of amusement Mr Jester is an artist of no mean talent The bill will conclude with "The Detective's Daughter" with all the company in the cast.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this magnificent symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS ATTRACTIONS.—GRAND GAS BALLOON ASCENSION by Professor Steiner, on Saturday, at the Odd Fellows Benefit Festival, with grand entertainment, and dancing day and evening Saturday and Sunday. Bostwick Reid, the champion trick swordsman, Miss Linden, vocalist, Mlle Gracie in her blindfold trapeze, Will Stevens as the [illegible], Miss Victorine, the Albino children and orchestral concert.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

NOTES.

The Hooley Company is at present playing at Stockton. San Jose is the next destination.

Georgetown, Colorado, has started a dramatic sheet entitled The Stag

The Alleghanians have been doing well in Portland, crowded houses being in attendance at each performance.

The [illegible] Minstrels were at Yreka on the 22d ult.

Morrell's Minstrels were last heard from at Harrisburg.

The McGinley Sisters are in Portland.

The Handel and Haydn Society are rehearsing the oratorio of "Athalie."

San Jose is becoming quite lively. The Saurets did well there, the concert on yesterday week last being a most successful affair. The Kennedys open there on Monday next, Wilson's Palace Amphithe-

way of amusements during the week, except a dramatic and musical performance given at the Metropolitan Theatre, on Thursday evening, by the members of the Children's Progressive Lyceum for the benefit of the building fund of that congregation

All those who knew Harry Allen and Miss Nellie Larkelle late of the Oates troupe, will be pleased to hear that they have been engaged for nine months by Mr. Robinson of Robinson Hall, N. Y.

Harry Eytinge, the superb, the resplendant, the gorgeous, has been engaged as stage manager for the Louisville Theatre the coming season.

Daly's Fifth Avenue Company open at Salt Lake City for a day or two on the 20th instant "Divorce" and "The Big Bonanza" are billed.

Manager Hess has engaged a new prima donna for his next season, to wit, a Miss Annie Montague, who some months since made a very promising debut in Paris.

Emerson's Minstrels showed at Dayton, Ohio, on Thursday, at Columbus last night, will be at the same place this evening, then open at the Grand Opera House, Cincinnati, on Monday, for two weeks Open at St. Louis on the 23d for a fortnight, and thence proceed to New York. Business continues uninterruptedly good. From New York, where they only remain a short time, they journey to Chicago, opening in September, and remaining in the Lake City until January 3d, 1876, when they will return to the Golden State and the City of Trade Winds.

Mr and Mrs J. P. Burnett (Miss Jennie Lee), left for the East this morning. They open at Salt Lake City on Thursday, where they play for a few nights, and then proceed to 'Aughty Halbion you know. They carry with them the good wishes of all San Francisco, and the hope that they may be brought back here safe and sound at no very distant future. Whilst at Salt Lake, our late soubrette and light comedian will produce "May Blossom," a new piece written for Miss Lee by R. H Cox, and "Joe," a sketch, adapted from "Bleak House" by J. P. Burnett and R. H. Cox. They return to America the beginning of 1876, and will then proceed to Australia, via San Francisco.

Miss Ellie Wilton makes her first re-appearance on the stage of the California Theatre since her return from her European tour this evening, as Grace Roseberry.

The two new theatres are rapidly going ahead. The two upper galleries at that on Mission street are lathed and will soon be plastered, the proscenium arch is completed, the stage is assuming shape, and the opening may be looked for within three months. At that on Market street, work is so quickly progressing that the next thing we shall have to notice will be putting in the roof girders

We have heard nothing more of the Palace Amphitheatre variety show scheme. Thorne and Leroy want to make it a joint stock affair, and we hope they will.

On Thursday next, Mr. Wm. Carleton, who during the past five weeks has established himself as a decided favorite amongst all the opera goers, purposes putting that favorite to the proof through the ordinary medium of a benefit. For this occasion the bill will consist of the first three acts of "Ernani," the comic operetta of "Too Many Cooks," otherwise known as "The Rose of Auvergne," in which Mr. Thos. Whiffen will take part, Madame Patey's song "The Storm" by Mrs. Seguin, and "La Donna e Mobile" by Mr. Maas.

Mr. Chas. R. Thorne has a work at present in press here entitled "Green Room Echoes from Behind the Curtain and Around the World." Mr. Thorne's experiences as written by Mr. Thorne, cannot fail to be interesting.

For some months past Madame Inez Fabbri and Mr. Charles Schutz, have been working to organize a Grand Opera Company for the coming season. Such a company has after much trouble and expense, been organized and will we understand open the New Grand Opera House on Mission street. The rent has been paid in advance and Madame Fabbri has become interested in the Opera House as stockholder to the extent of seven thousand dollars. This looks like business.

At the conclusion of the present engagement, Mrs. Caroline Richings-Bernard, will take the lead of a comic opera troupe, bearing her name, to travel the country, under the management of a New York bureau. The company will consist of Mrs. Caroline Richings-Bernard soprano, Pierre Bernard tenor, Mrs. Henri Dayton contralto, John Bentz basso and a chorous of ten. Their repertoire will include "The Rose of Tyrol," "The Brewer of Preston," "Night in Rome" and "Contrabandista."

It is with real pleasure that we learn of Mr Herold's conclusion not to abandon his contemplated season of orchestral matinees. It is a good work and will not, we think, languish through lack of patronage. Compared with the attendance at the previous matinees that of last Wednesday was most promising. If such an increase should take place on Wednesday next, Mr. Herold will have no cause to dip into his pocket for the expenses, but will rather load himself with a respectable surplus from the box office. It would be somewhat of a disgrace to the musical taste of San Francisco, should these matinees be permitted to fall through.

The order of business at the California Theatre next week is simply the revival of "The Two Orphans" with the original cast, including, of course, the Lingards as Louise and Henriette. Nothing need be said to call attention to this revival, the people are all agog therefor. The one week's production of this remarkable drama did but serve to whet the appetite.

The order of business at Maguire's New Theatre for next week will be to-morrow evening, "The Marriage of Figaro," Monday night, "The Huguenots," (happily); Tuesday, "Mignon;" Wednesday, "Il Trovatore," and Thursday, a great bill for Mr. Carleton's benefit.

The order of business at the Opera House for next week will be Monday evening "Weak Woman," which will be repeated on Tuesday; Wednesday night "Mons Alphonse," and Thursday first production in San Francisco of the latest Parisian excitement "Rose Michel."

Bartley Campbell and Stephen Fiske are still at it, hammer and tongs, over "The Big Bonanza" alias "Ultimo," alias "Bulls and Bears." Impeachments of veracity are now in order, vehemence in abuse may possibly follow.

The attempt will be made again to-morrow afternoon to sail a whitehall boat to Oakland, from the Long Bridge, with a kite for the sail.

The first game for the championship between the Occidental and San Francisco Base Ball Clubs will take place to-morrow afternoon, at 1½ P. M., on the California Grounds, corner Mission and Thirteenth streets.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

They introduced a trained cat in "Chilperic" at Robinson Hall one evening, who on being told to go to the devil, immediately made for a policeman at the back part of the house.

Manager Samuel Colville writes to the Sunday Mercury from London, that he has engaged Miss Emily Soldene, and reorganized the English Opera Bouffe Troupe, together with Mlle. Sara and her corps de ballet, for a tour of the United States, commencing in New York September 13th

Considerable credence is given to the gossip that New Yorkers in large numbers, during the current Summer, have preferred the attractions of Gilmore's Concert Garden to the imaginary delights of a sojourn at uncomfortable farm-houses and high-priced rural hotels. It is a notorious fact that fewer fashionables left the city than in previous years, and the large number to be met nightly on the spacious promenades and amid the vernal foliage of Gilmore's affords reasonable grounds for believing that this popular resort has restrained fashionable peripatetic instincts.

The unprecedentedly long season at the Olympic was brought to a close on the 30th, the necessity for refitting for the new season rendering a brief closure imperative.

Mr. Max Maretzek sailed for Europe Thursday week last aboard the Canada. A report is current that he goes to engage an Italian opera troupe for Mr. Sheridan Shook, who is credited with the intention of transforming the Hippodrome into an opera house, with a tariff of popular prices.

The meeting of the Figaro Club on July 31st, was highly successful and quite enthusiastic. Several new members were admitted. Amongst them, we learn, was Miss Augusta Dargon, and several other distinguished ladies and gentlemen. The subscription fee is $20 per annum. Mr. Gaylor has been chosen chairman, and Mr. W. R. Doty secretary. The president is, as we have already stated, Mr John Brougham.

The Metropolitan Theatre was reopened on Monday, August 2d, under the management of Billy Pastor and M. B. Leavitt.

The Kiralfy Brothers are exhibiting an energetic preparation of "Around the World." Already popular anticipation is on tiptoe for this new revelation in spectacle, which is announced at the Academy of Music for August 23d.

Scenic artists and frescoers are hard at work within the walls of Niblo's, and Mr. A. T. Stewart is spending money most freely upon his great theatre. Numerous well-known managers have made great efforts to become the lessees, among whom may be mentioned the Kiralfy Brothers, Mrs. John Wood, Shook & Palmer, E. L. Davenport, and many others, but the immense rent demanded has been the "stumbling block;" yet it it may be safe to say that William Wheatley will be once more manager of the vast theatre which in former years was a mine of greenbacks to him and many others.

Manager Berry's new Third Avenue Theatre was inaugurated on the 26th of July, with Mr. Fred G. Maeder in a new sensational drama entitled "The Poor and Proud of New York."

"Chilperic," as now presented by the English Comic Opera Company, at Robinson Hall, bids fair to have, as long a run as its predecessor, "Girofle Girofla." The prima donna roles in "The Rose of Auvergne" and "Chilperic" are sustained by Miss Clara Fisher, the young lady who commanded such admiration by her singing in "Girofle-Girofla."

It is very gratifyng to announce that the citizens of Brooklyn tendered Miss Minnie and Lillian Conway a farewell benefit, which took place at the Brooklyn Academy on the 29th ult. The occasion derived additional interest from the fact that a very large number of the leading artists in the profession volunteered their services Among these may be mentioned Mr. Levy, the famous cornet player, Mrs. D P. Bowers, Miss Jane Coombs, Mr. J. C. McCollom and Mr. W. R. Floyd of Wallack's. Minnie and Lillian sailed for Europe on the day following.

Edwin Booth will probably appear as Richard II. during his Fifth Avenue Theatre engagement.

We are justified in predicting that during the approaching season Shaksperian representations will be witnessed in at least one, and probably two, N. Y. leading theatres, in a manner that could not be equaled in England. At Booth's there will be Barry Sullivan in "Hamlet," and Davenport and Barrett in "Julius Cæser;" and rumor whispers of a production at the Fifth Avenue Theatre, with Edwin Booth in the cast. At the Union Square Theatre the best organized company on the English stage will represent the romantic and emotional drama; at Wallack's, English comedy will hold sway; at the Lyceum and Park Theatres, opera bouffe and vaudeville will be the reigning attractions; at the Bowery Theatre, Wood's Museum and Third Avenue Theatre standard dramas will be represented; the New Eagle Theatre, the Olympic Theatre and the Theatre Comique will be devoted to refined variety entertainments, and minstrelsy will find worthy representatives at Darling's (late Bryant's) and the San Francisco Minstrels Opera House

The musical season also promises well. The classic lyre will be tuned by Mlle. Tietjens, Herr Wachtel and Hans Von Bulow, while a flood of light and popular music will be dispensed by Miss Julia Mathews and company, Miss Emily Soldene and the Kellogg English Opera Troupe

Colonel Mulberry Sellers Raymond is visting Paris.

We were in error last week in saying that Mr Sheridan Shook had leased the Brooklyn Theatre. Messrs. Lester Wallack and Theodore Moss have obtained a five years lease, and will now endeavor to establish a home for the drama in the city of churches

Miss Julia Matthews opens the Fall season at Wallack's on Monday, August 16th, with "Blue Beard."

We are not surprised to find that the troupe calling themselves The Troubadours and the rivals of the Vokes, turned out unmitigated frauds. There are six members of the troupe, not one of whom can either sing, dance or act They are vulgar, obtrusive, devoid of humor, and perfectly unworthy of appearing before a Union Square Theatre audience. "It has not been our misfortune" says the N Y. Dispatch "to witness a more sickening exhibition in many years, and we heartily sympathize with Messrs. Shook and Palmer in having been induced to let this company desecrate their theatre Further criticism is quite unnecessary."

ELSEWHERE.

Hooley's Opera House, Brooklyn, will be run as a comedy theatre next season, under Hooley & Campbell's management, with a newly-organized dramatic company, consisting of Miss Katherine Randolph Rogers, leading lady, Mr. J. J. Prior, Lizzie Mahon, Marion Fiske, M. V. Lingham, leading man, M. C. Daly, and Gaspard Maeder, scenic artist, with others yet unengaged by Messrs. Simmonds and Wall.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

HEADQUARTERS PEOPLE'S NOMINATING CONVENTION of 100,

No. 11 Kearny Street, Rooms 2, 3, 4,

SAN FRANCISCO, AUGUST 8, 1875.

To the Citizens of the City and County of San Francisco.

Whenever a Government that has been established by the people for the benefit and protection of the people, becomes corrupt, unjust and tyrannical, it should not be tolerated by an intelligent, discriminating and loyal community, enjoying the election franchise Under a Republican form of Government like ours there can be no excuse for rebellion to redress either real or fancied grievances, when it can be so easily accomplished by the ballot. In a community blessed with free speech, a free press, free schools and the election franchise, the industrial classes become intelligent, loyal and confiding, and cannot be easily imposed on by the opulent, shrewd, grasping and designing portion of the community. Professional politicians and unscrupulous demagogues, through the aid of party machinery, often control or nullify the dearest rights of the people, viz.: the free exercise of suffrage. When the wealthy and influential class of society become indifferent to the needs and reasonable demands of those whose lot is poverty and toil, and in their greed for more gain are robbing them of their birthright by conniving with political hucksters to despoil them of a fair share of representation in our law-making bodies and places of emolument and trust, it becomes the industrial classes to ignore all party ties and unite in defending their common interests; therefore be it

Resolved.—First—That the only safety of the working classes lies in electing to offices of power and trust a fair share of representative workingmen.

Second That the water question is one of vital importance to the working classes, and that it is the duty of the authorities to make such disposition of the matter as will give to the inhabitants of this city the most wholesome water attainable, at the least possible cost,

Third—That the City of San Francisco should be the owner of gas works, that the citizens thereof might be furnished with good illuminating gas at a reasonable price.

Fourth That the public streets and sewers, being the property of the city, should be built and kept in repair by the city, thereby equalizing the taxes on all citizens equally interested.

Fifth—That all property should be taxed at its market value; that double taxation, in any form, is an injustice to the person so taxed; that the present system of assessing property is defective, and should be so amended as to hold every person liable for a correct statement of his effects liable to taxation.

Sixth—That our common school system is the pride of our country, and as such, should be sacredly guarded against all sectarian influences

Seventh—That the interests of labor and capital are identical, and should be so adjusted as to be mutually beneficial; that intelligent labor is superior to all other, and to this end the hours thereof should be such as to give opportunity for study, which is indispensably necessary thereto.

Eight—That as the People's Nominating Convention of One Hundred to that end are now engaged in selecting such citizens for the various public offices of this city and county, and State Legislature, as will faithfully endeavor to carry out the above, we, therefore, call upon all good citizens, irrespective of party, to aid us in our efforts, by sending us such names of honest and competent men as will command the respect and support of the whole community. By order of the Executive Committee, A. D. ARPER, Secretary.

☞ All communications should be addressed to the Secretary at these headquarters. au9-1t

Amusements, Etc.

Opera House.

This is the last week of Daly's Fifth Avenue Company. One of the features will be the abatement of prices to a popular standard. Another will be the benefit of Mr. Morrissey, the treasurer, to-morrow, when "Mons Alphonse" and "My Uncle's Will" will be produced. Yet another feature will be Mr. Daly's benefit, on Saturday afternoon and evening, when all the members of O. D. Hess Opera Company will participate. This evening "Mons. Alphonse."

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Marriage of Figaro" was listened to by yet another good and attentive house last evening. Mme. Rosewald's Susannah being another creditable addition to her repertoire. This evening "The Huguenots," which will, we are sure, draw a crowded attendance. In our Saturday's notice of the programme for this week we omitted to mention the production of Auber's "Crown Diamonds" on Saturday evening.

California Theatre.

"The Two Orphans" will be revived to-night, and will hold the stage all the week. The cast, with the exception of John Wilson taking the place of Harry Edwards (who is bug-hunting somewhere), as Chief of Police, and E. N. Thayer in Wilson's place as Lafleur, the play will bear no marked change. The scenery, however, has been added to and improved.

Herold's Matinees.

It is with real pleasure that we learn of Mr. Harold's conclusion not to abandon his contemplated season of orchestral matinees. It is a good work and will not, we think, languish through lack of patronage. Compared with the attendance at the previous matinees that of last Wednesday was most promising. If such an increase should take place on Wednesday next, Mr. Herold will have no cause to dip into his pocket for the expenses, but will rather load himself with a respectable surplus from the box office. It would be somewhat of a disgrace to the musical taste of San Francisco, should these matinees be permitted to fall through.

For Charity's Sake.

The Saurets, having returned from a very successful tour South, have turned their attention charitywards, and will, on Tuesday evening next, give a grand farewell concert for the benefit of the sufferers by the recent earthquake in Colombia. A great number of assistant artists, including Miss Clara Beutler, Miss Wadsworth, Mr. Cohen, Signorina Valerga, Miss Pateman and the Mexican Philharmonic Band will complete the capital programme.

Madame Arabella Goddard.

On Monday evening next Madame Arabella Goddard gives a farewell concert, at which she will be assisted by Herr Carl Formes, Madame Fabbri, M'lle Elzer, and a full orchestra. Amongst the many excellent numbers of the proposed programme will be found Sir William Sterndale's sonata, "The Maid of Orleans," composed expressly for Madame Arabella Goddard, and Sir Julius Benedict's grand fantasia on "The Star Spangled Banner," also composed expressly for Mme. Goddard.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts bring Senate, Nickerson, Mortimer, Price, Swain and West to the front, besides which they and the other members of the company all exhibit their specialties in the olio.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Mr. G. W. Jester, with his Talking Hand, has made quite a hit. It is indeed and literally, a wonderful piece of manipulation. Everybody should see it.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one

Woodward's Gardens.

The grand combination troupe performs Saturday and Sunday Pedro Gonzales and Jesus Perez, the Mexican gymnasts in their somersault rope dancing; Borthwick Reid, the champion trick swordsman; Miss Linden in operatic selections; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts; Will Stevens as the flying man; Mlle. Victorine and Josie, the infant dancer.

Notes.

This evening Mr. Gilder recommences his popular concerts after a lapse of four months. The artists he has secured for the revival of this praiseworthy institution are Miss Susan Galton, herr Formes, Miss Blanche Galton and Mr. Thos. Whiffen.

Miss Ellie Wilton's re-appearance on the California stage on Saturday evening, was signalized by round after round of sturdy applause, and the presentation of no less than twelve baskets of flowers.

GOOD NIGHT.

Good night, good night, my gentle love;
Sweet soothing sleep thine eyelids close:
May dreams of light—of Heaven above—
Make paradise of thy repose,
And angels guard thy bed, my love!
One kiss—one kiss before I go!
Fain would I stay
Till break of day,
But that thine eyes say "No, no, no!"

Good night, good night, my gentle love—
Still lingering let me say good night,
Prest heart to heart, till o'er the grove,
Young Phœbus lifts his banner bright,
And I bid thee, "Good morning, love!"
One kiss, one kiss before I go!
Fain would I stay
Till break of day,
But that thy lips say, "No, no, no!"

"Entertaining" A Friend.

A wife, when she has received suitable notice, can get up an excellent dinner for her husband's friend. She does her level best, working without a stint until a repast which pleases her in every particular is spread. Then the following conversation takes place with the guest:

"I hope you'll be able to make out a meal."

"I shall do nicely, I know," he says.

"I'm really ashamed of the table," she rattles on.

"Why you needn't be," he protests.

"But it's his fault," she explains, nodding toward her husband. "He never gives me any warning scarcely and it's such warm weather now that there is nothing you can keep on hand for an emergency."

"Why, you have done nobly, I think; couldn't have done better," asserts the guest, beginning to lose his interest in the topic.

"Oh, I hope you didn't think this anything of a dinner," she says, looking with anxious pride over the spread. You must come up again, and let me know beforehand, and I'll promise you something decent to eat."

"I'm sure this can't be beaten," protests the guest, with a sense of becoming depressed.

"Oh! bless me; this is nothing but a pick up dinner, just the same as we have it alone. Do try another biscuit; I don't suppose they are fit to eat, though," she says, with increased anxiety, as she observes their delicate color and flaky texture.

"They are beautiful," he hastily explains, feeling very uncomfortable the while.

"You must take the will for the deed," she resumes. "I didn't see that we were out of bread until the last moment, and then I hastily made up these. I didn't think they would be half way decent, as there was no time to work them."

And so she rattles on with her disastrous comments, the dear old fraud, while he continues to protest, and continues to feel more and more like getting up and flying away.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Old Mint Restaurant.

"Chicago Moving Westward."

Among the recent arrivals from our sister city Chicago, we note with pleasure the advent of Messrs T. & D. Lundy, who have just opened at No. 777 Mission street, opposite St. Patrick's church, with the finest assortment ever imported to this coast of black walnut, bronze and marble clocks, suitable for stores, offices and parlor use, also pictures, engravings, mirrors, family bibles, albums, prayer books, etc., etc., all of which they furnish on easy payments.

They do not keep in "The" Hat store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, but persons desiring a good, durable and stylish hat at a reasonable price, should go there, and they will find a larger and more select stock than anywhere in the city. Wanted a Pass.

A wicked looking man with a mole on his chin, and a cane in his hand, put his head in the ticket agent's window down at the Plum street depot a day or two ago, and said:

"I want a pass up the road."

"Where do you want to go?" inquired the agent, eying the man suspiciously.

"Just up to Chicago," replied the man.

"Who are you?" asked the ticket agent.

"Here's my card," he said, handing him a card bearing the following:

> ZAMMY K. BUFFER,
>
> WITH
>
> CINCINNATI SUNDAY POST.

"What do you do on the paper?" inquired the ticket agent, handing him back the card.

"Why, I write," replied the man.

"You write, eh?"

"Yes sir."

"Well, sir," sharply inquired the agent, are you the editor of the paper?"

"No. I write the wrappers!"

He didn't get the pass.

The Family Next Door.

There is a family moving into the house next door; we can hear through our blinds the carriers of the furniture move along the walk. All the talking we hear is done by one voice. It is the man of the house, and he has got a little son. We need not look out of the windows for confirmation of this impression. His words establish it as clearly as the eye could witness, and we know just what is being done out there as well as if we stood in the midst of it. Every time he speaks we dot it down on an extra sheet of paper, and so far he has made the following utterances:

"Put that whip down."

"Get out of the way."

"Don't climb up there."

"Take your shoes off that bedstead."

"Shall I speak to you again?"

"Do you want to break those things?"

"Come out of that."

"Go away from the horse; do you want to get your head kicked off?"

"Do you hear me, or shall I speak again?"

"Hey, there! what did I tell you about that horse?"

"Now, you sit still there, and don't you dare to move an inch, or I'll break every bone in your body."

A Mortal Struggle.

A short but interesting contest took place in one of the newspaper offices the other day, when an overgrown and turbulent house-fly, strong in his muscle and in his conceit, attacked a cockroach that was just coming from breakfast. The cockroach was leisurely pushing his tongue here and there into the interstices of his teeth, to remove the particles of paste and mucilage that had adhered to them during the process of mastication, and appeared to be thinking of anything else in the world rather than a fight; but when the fly pounced down upon him, his countenance changed. In about three seconds that fly discovered that there was a mistake somewhere, and the completely subdued appearance which he wore as he started on a retreat across the table, with the cockroach mounted sarcastically upon his presumptuous back, left no doubt in the minds of the spectators as to how the brief battle had gone.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Family Next Door.

There is a family moving into the house next door; we can hear through our blinds the carriers of the furniture move along the walk. All the talking we hear is done by one voice. It is the man of the house, and he has got a little son. We need not look out of the windows for confirmation of this impression. His words establish it as clearly as the eye could witness, and we know just what is being done out there as well as if we stood in the midst of it. Every time he speaks we dot it down on an extra sheet of paper, and so far he has made the following utterances:

NEW ENGLAND KITCHEN

The undersigned have been charged with the duty of establishing and conducting the "New England Kitchen" during the Industrial Fair, to commence on the 17th of August, at the corner of Mission and Eighth streets.

The proceeds of the Kitchen will be applied as a building fund for a Sailors' Home.

We shall endeavor to reproduce the manners, customs and costumes of the last century, and to illustrate, as far as possible, the domestic life and habits of the people through whose instrumentality our country has attained its present exalted position among the nations of the world. The object cannot but commend itself to every philanthropist, as its basis is universal benevolence, without reference to sect or country. Social gatherings of the olden time will form an attractive feature in the Kitchen, viz.: the 'spinning bee," apple paring, donation party, singing school, wedding party, etc. The room will be of ample size for the accommodation of a large number of guests, for whose entertainment the best of materials, cooked in the best manner, will be served during the continuance of the Fair; and, among many others, the following dishes peculiar to New England: Pumpkin, apple and chicken pies, Indian puddings, pork and beans, brown bread, cider, apple sauce, Johnny cake, doughnuts, etc. In order to give a truthful and lifelike representation of the times of our ancestors, the committee have been at great expense in fitting up the necessary arrangements, and therefore ask from their friends donations or loans of relics, jewelry, wearing apparel, furniture, and whatever else they may be able to find of ancient date. There are also needed for the tables raw and cooked materials. Cash contributrons, which may be enclosed to Mrs. C. E. Cogswell, Treasurer, No. 610 Front street, will be thankfully received. Friends, either in city or country, sending contributions will please have them plainly marked "New England Kitchen," corner of Eighth and Mission streets. Communications may be addressed to the "New England Kitchen," corner of Eighth and Mission streets, and notices of contributions so addressed will be called for.

Wells, Fargo & Co's Express will convey all contributions from the country, free of charge.

HEADQUARTERS

PEOPLE'S NOMINATING CONVENTION of 100,

No. 11 Kearny Street, Rooms 2, 3, 4,

SAN FRANCISCO, AUGUST 8, 1875.

To the Citizens of the City and County of San Francisco.

Whenever a Government that has been established by the people for the benefit and protection of the people, becomes corrupt, unjust and tyrannical, it should not be tolerated by an intelligent, discriminating and loyal community, enjoying the election franchise. Under a Republican form of Government like ours there can be no excuse for rebellion to redress either real or fancied grievances, when it can be so easily accomplished by the ballot. In a community blessed with free speech, a free press, free schools and the election franchise, the industrial classes become intelligent, loyal and confiding, and cannot be easily imposed on by the opulent, shrewd, grasping and designing portion of the community. Professional politicians and unscrupulous demagogues, through the aid of party machinery, often control or nullify the dearest rights of the people, viz.: the free exercise of suffrage. When the wealthy and influential class of society become indifferent to the needs and reasonable demands of those whose lot is poverty and toil, and in their greed for more gain are robbing them of their birthright by conniving with political huxters to despoil them of a fair share of representation in our law-making bodies and places of emolument and trust, it becomes the industrial classes to ignore all party ties and unite in defending their common interests; therefore be it

Resolved.—First—That the only safety of the working classes lies in electing to offices of power and trust a fair share of representative workingmen.

Second—That the water question is one of vital importance to the working classes, and that it is the duty of the authorities to make such disposition of the matter as will give to the inhabitants of this city the most wholesome water attainable, at the least possible cost,

Third—That the City of San Francisco should be the owner of gas works, that the citizens thereof might be furnished with good illuminating gas at a reasonable price.

Fourth—That the public streets and sewers, being the property of the city, should be built and kept in repair by the city, thereby equalizing the taxes on all citizens equally interested.

Fifth—That all property should be taxed at its market value; that double taxation, in any form, is an injustice to the person so taxed; that the present system of assessing property is defective, and should be so amended as to hold every person liable for a correct statement of his effects liable to taxation.

Sixth—That our common school system is the pride of our country, and as such, should be sacredly guarded against all sectarian influences

Seventh—That the interests of labor and capital are identical, and should be so adjusted as to be mutually beneficial; that intelligent labor is superior to all other, and to this end the hours thereof should be such as to give opportunity for study, which is indispensably necessary thereto.

Eight—That as the People's Nominating Convention of One Hundred to that end are now engaged in selecting such citizens for the various public offices of this city and county, and State Legislature, as will faithfully endeavor to carry out the above, we, therefore, call upon all good citizens, irrespective of party, to aid us in our efforts, by sending us such names of honest and competent men as will command the respect and support of the whole community. By order of the Executive Committee. A. D. ARPER, Secretary.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Huguenots" was reproduced last night to an appreciative house. The favorite numbers were, as usual, greeted with energetic applause. Urbano's two songs, the benediction of the swords, the finale to the second act, the Queen's aria and the grand duet between Valentine and Raoul being received with the most marked favor. To-night, by general request, Ambrose Thomas' charming opera "Mignon," and to-morrow "Il Trovatore."

California Theatre.

There was a trifle of doubt in the managerial mind last week, and even up to Monday morning, whether the revival of "The Two Orphans" was not rather a risky thing to do. But the business done at the box office all during the day and the house crowded in every corner last night, completely dissipated that doubt. "The Two Orphans" is once more a success. Last night the play was somewhat long, but to-night the machinery (and machinists) will work more smoothly and quickly, so that tiresome waits may not run the piece up to nearly midnight.

Opera House.

"Mons. Alphonse" was played by the Daly Fifth Avenue Company last evening in a thoroughly charming manner. Miss Fanny Davenport's Madame Guichard was an excellent piece of ludicrous character acting, Mr. Fisher played Captain Montaglin in a manly, pleasant way, Miss Jeffreys Lewis as Raymonde was spirited and effective, whilst little Miss Woodthorpe, who made so successful a debut at the California as Prince Arthur, augmented that success last night by the artistic manner in which she played Adrienne, "one of the nameless." The applause was most continuous and enthusiastic.

To-night, Mr. Jas. W. Morrissey, the treasurer, whose affability and energy are bye-words, will take his farewell benefit when "Mons Alphonse" will be repeated with the addition of the comedy of "My Uncle's Will," and the presentation to each lady of a copy of Mollenhauer's "Fifth Avenue Waltz."

For Charity's Sake.

The Saurets, having returned from a very successful tour South, have turned their attention charitywards, and will, this Tuesday evening, give a grand farewell concert for the benefit of the sufferers by the recent earthquake in Colombia. A great number of assistant artists, including Miss Clara Beutler, Miss Wadsworth, Mr. Cohen, Signorina Valerga, Miss Pateman and the Mexican Philharmonic Band will complete the capital programme.

Madame Arabella Goddard.

On Friday evening and Saturday afternoon next Mme Arabella Goddard gives two farewell concerts, at which she will be assisted by Herr Carl Formes, Madame Fabbri, M'lle Elzer, and a full orchestra. Amongst the many excellent numbers of the proposed programme will be found Sir William Sterndale's sonata, "The Maid of Orleans," composed expressly for Madame Arabella Goddard, and Sir Julius Benedict's grand fantasia on "The Star Spangled Banner," also composed expressly for Mme. Goddard.

Herold's Matinees.

To-morrow afternoon the second of the present season of orchestral matinees will be given at Platt's Hall, the concert commencing at 3 P. M. The programme is an excellently arranged one, including Mozart's symphony in E flat, the overture to "William Tell," Lindpainter's overture to "Faust," Hermann's Grand Festival March, Voigt's "Reverie," for stringed instruments, and a good selection of the best dance music. It is not too much to say that in no other city of the size of San Francisco in the States will be found the means of so delightfully enjoying the best orchestral music. Those who have not heard the present organization of musicians, under the conductorship of Mr. Herold, have no idea either of the material or the manner of its working. Mr. Herold deserves support if ever any man did, and we trust that to-morrow afternoon will show that San Francisco knows what to patronize.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts bring Senate, Nickerson, Mortimer Price, Swain and West to the front, besides which they and the other members of the company all exhibit their specialties in the olio.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Mr. G. W. Jester, with his Talking Hand, has made quite a hit. It is indeed and literally, a wonderful piece of manipulation. Everybody should see it.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

The grand combination troupe performs Saturday and Sunday. Pedro Gonzales and Jesus Perez, the Mexican gymnasts in their somersault rope dancing; Borthwick Reid, the champion trick swordsman; Miss Linden in operatic selections; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts; Will Stevens as the flying man; Mlle. Victorine and Josie, the infant dancer.

Notes.

The Kennedys opened at San Jose last evening to a moderate house.

About the 25th of August Manager Wilson purposes establishing a hippodrome on the 100-vara lot, corner of Seventh and Mission streets. He has procured some of the stock and appliances of Barnum, and proposes giving a series of chariot races and other sports of the arena during the Fair.

The Hooleys' opened at San Jose last evening in "The Two Orphans," to good business.

The Saurets gave a concert at San Jose on Friday evening, but the attendance was not so good as the performance deserved.

Miss Montaigu, the young Southern lady who so successfully supported Mr. McCullough as Virginia in "Virginius" at St. Louis, has arrived in town, under engagement to the management of the California Theatre.

"Rose Michel" will not be produced by the Daly Company as was the intention of the management. To-morrow evening "Divorce." Thursday night Miss Katherine Rogers left for the East this morning.

Mr. John McCullough has arrived in New York.

It is proposed to give Jas. A. Herne a benefit at Maguire's Theatre previous to his departure for Australia.

In noticing Mr. Daly's benefit, we accidentally said that all the members of the English Opera Troupe would take part. It should be, all the principal artists who are not engaged in singing at their own theatre.

Mr. Frank Gilder's popular concert last evening was fairly attended, the programme evidently meeting the tastes of the people.

On Thursday night, Mr. Wm. Carleton, who during the past five weeks has established himself as a decided favorite amongst all the opera goers, purposes putting that favorite to the proof through the ordinary medium of a benefit. For this occasion the bill will consist of the first three acts of "Ernani," the comic operetta of "Too Many Cooks," otherwise known as "The Rose of Auvergne," in which Mr. Thos. Whiffen will take part, Madame Patey's song "The Storm" by Mrs. Seguin, and "La Donna e Mobile" by Mr. Maas.

On Wednesday week, Mr. Robert Eberle, the stage manager of the California Theatre takes a matinee benefit, when Miss May Howard will make her only appearance in this city previous to going East.

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

Miss Lydia Thompson, on the occasion of her seven hundredth representation of "Blue Beard," in London, received one of the most notable ovations recorded on the British stage. She will return to America with an enlarged company, beginning at Philadelphia, April 3, 1876.

Wieniawski was the soloist at the closing concert of the London Philharmonic.

The four hundredth performance of "La Juive" was recently given at Paris.

"Tennyson wishes Irving to create the role of Cardinal Pole. It is not known whether Irving will or will not comply with Tennyson's wishes. Irving's popularity has not been increased—rather the reverse—by Salvini's powerful acting. He is admitted by the great majority—I know not one dissentient—to be inferior to the Italian. He may, therefore, seek to regain lost ground by creating the character of Pole. But Irving is, as you know, so great a mannerist, that he himself must be aware that his Cardinal Pole would be almost a copy of his Richelieu, unless, indeed, Tennyson's Pole is so totally opposite to Lytton's Cardinal Duke, that such an eventuality would be nearly impossible. As for his Macbeth, I much question if he has the necessary power." So says the London correspondent of the Philadelphia City Item.

Sig. Campanini is collecting a company of concert artists in Europe, and will visit this country during the ensuing musical season.

"Chicago Moving Westward."

Among the recent arrivals from our sister city Chicago, we note with pleasure the advent of Messrs. T. & D. Ignorance of National Music.

The Indianapolis Journal deems it a singular fact that few Americans know the words of our national songs. It particularizes thus: "It is safe to say that a score of parties in this vicinity tried yesterday (the 6th) to sing 'The Star Spangled Banner,' and failed, because no one knew the words. All knew the tune, but nobody the text. They could talk about it, give the key, start it, and keep it up for a line or two, but nobody knew the words or could lead off in the beautiful and patriotic song. It is peculiar to the American people, and not specially creditable. Every Frenchman can sing the Marseillaise. Every German knows his national song, and so of other people. Only the Americans are deficient in this respect, who, of all others, ought to be posted. It ought to be made a regular duty in every common school of the land to memorize and sing 'The Star Spangled Banner.' It is good poetry, good music and good politics. It cannot be learned too soon nor repeated too often. The words are simple, the melody beautiful, and the history easily explained. It is the most characteristic of our national songs, and everybody ought to have it at his tongue's end."

Said a wag, pointing to a blind wood sawyer, "Nobody ever saw that man see, but hundreds have seen him saw."

Photographic Art

Is supposed by some to be in its infancy. We doubt it much, as it is impossible to imagine pictures retouched and finished with more artistic skill than those we saw at Brodeck & Co's new Art Gallery, 640 Market street, opposite the Palace Hotel.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The Old Mint Restaurant.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

A new sign for a tavern has been invented—Dew drop in.

When a man's breath is liable to fail him, he should eat onions and make it strong.

Give a boy a market-basket of groceries to carry home and he will swing it across his spine, bend half way to the ground and groan with agony, but give him that weight of base ball bats and he will skip along as merry as a potatoe bug in a ten-acre lot.

No doubt the happiest dogs that ever lived were the two taken aboard of Noah's Ark, for they had but one pair of fleas between them.

How to tell a good horse—Stand in front of his shoulder and pull his head down gently till his ear is at the level of your lips. Then tell him.

A smart thing—a mustard plaster.

How to become puffed up—swallow a pint of yeast.

Academy of Design—a young lady's boarding-school.

A woman will reach up and pull at a window-sash for a few seconds quite good-naturedly, but when it doesn't come down, and she turns around and sees her husband looking comfortably on, she mentally asks herself, "Is civilization a failure?" and wades for him.

It is a singular fact that the best way to obtain information about the beauties of Lake George is to ask the young fellow who wears the diamond ring on his little finger; he is always ready to point out the pretty places, and keeps on pointing till the sparkles attract attention.

But few women—if we may trust the assertion of the Brooklyn Argus—are so handsome that they can bear to hear another woman's charms extolled, without looking around for a mirror to see if their crimps are right.

Theodore Thomas' well-known admiration for Wagner has induced an organ-grinder to pay him the delicate compliment of playing the whole opera of Tannhauser under his bed-room window every morning.

The gardener who hung an old coat out to frighten birds away, and afterward found a young brood in one of the pockets, writes to us asking another remedy.

If we may believe a Chicago paper Miss Annie Louise Cary was engaged several years ago to a wealthy Philadelphian, but, on his objection to her appearing in a page's dress on the stage, recalled her promise. The Philadelphian who could not realize that the question of a display even of such a pretty pair would be all the same a hundred years hence is not worthy to contributute to the Centennial fund.

One morning a little four-year-old boy lay awake in his crib. His head seemed to be stopped with a cold. After vainly endeavoring for a while to clear it, he exclaimed, "Mamma, what's the matter with one side of my nose? It won't go."

"What did you hang that cat for, Isaac?" asked the school marm. The boy looked up, and, with a grave look, answered: "For mewtiny, marm!"

Why is a woman tying her corsets like a man drinking to drown care? Because in so-laceing herself she becomes tight.

Why is a solar eclipse like a woman whipping her boy? Because it is a hiding of the sun.

A lazy fellow falling a distance of fifty feet, and escaping with only a few scratches a bystander remarked that he was "too slow to fall fast enough to hurt himself."

"How are you, count?" said a noted wag to a spruce-looking specimen of the genus snob. "Sir!" exclaimed the indignant swell, "who are you and why do you call me count?" "Why I saw you counting oysters, last week, and I supposed you were of royal blood." Snob vamosed.

Stop the war against the "tie back" dress! The women are aroused, and threaten to adopt Turkish trousers, "each leg to be pulled into a band around the ankle, and finished with a ruffle edged with lace."

A lumberman, being but poorly provided with materials of sustenance for his men, fed them with pork cooked with the rind upon it. A young man of the company, not liking that outer portion of the food, was observed by the host to be carefully removing the outside covering. Whereupon mine host said, "Young man, we eat rind and all here." To which the youth replied, "All right, old man, I'm cutting it off for you."

Most people are like eggs—too full of themselves to hold anything else.

Epitaph.—"Here lies W. W. Who never more will trouble you, trouble you.

Since the introduction of the pull-back skirts the theatrical managers have decided that it will be useless to produce the "Black Crook."

People's Nominating Convention of 100.

The proclamation issued by the above convention, which will be found in our advertising columns is well worthy of attention. The corrupt official governments, both State and Municipal, during the past few years, will probably be eradicated if the majority of our citizens take up the fight and vote for the thoroughly honest men which this convention proposes to nominate on its ticket. The resolutions announced in the proclamation are certain to be upheld by all parties whoare desirous of squelching professional politicians and unscrupulous demagogues. Rings and monopolies will be especial objects of attack, for it is to the interests of the People that this convention devotes itself. On Wednesday next definite action in the matter of nominating conscientious and efficient municipal officers will be taken.

Vivisection Commission Questions.

To what extent do you think the practice of cutting up one's friends prevails in this country?

Under what circumstances do you consider that we are warranted in cutting each other?

What distinction do you draw between cutting a man and cutting a man dead?

Have you known any unpleasant results follow a slashing article?

Can you furnish any trustworthy statistics as to the number of authors who have been cut up within the last seven years!

Have you turned your attention to cutaway coats in connection with the subject of this present investigation?

Have any instances come under your notice of persons who have appeared terribly cut up?

How would you act towards bores? Would you feel the slightest compunction at cutting them short?

Have you ever known any untoward consequences arise from cutting at whist?

You are not required to criminate yourself, but have you ever made short cuts, and if so, with what results?

What course of conduct should you pursue if you were called upon, at a moment's notice, to divide two ladies at the dinner-table?

HEADQUARTERS PEOPLE'S NOMINATING CONVENTION of 100,

No. 11 Kearny Street, Rooms 2, 3, 4,

SAN FRANCISCO, AUGUST 8, 1875.

To the Citizens of the City and County of San Francisco.

Whenever a Government that has been established by the people for the benefit and protection of the people, becomes corrupt, unjust and tyrannical, it should not be tolerated by an intelligent, discriminating and loyal community, enjoying the elective franchise. Under a Republican form of Government like ours there can be no excuse for rebellion to redress either real or fancied grievances, when it can be so easily accomplished by the ballot. In a community blessed with free speech, a free press, free schools and the elective franchise, the industrial classes become intelligent, loyal and confiding, and cannot be easily imposed on by the opulent, shrewd, grasping and designing portion of the community. Professional politicians and unscrupulous demagogues, through the aid of party machinery, often control or nullify the dearest rights of the people, viz.: the free exercise of suffrage. When the wealthy and influential class of society become indifferent to the needs and reasonable demands of those whose lot is poverty and toil, and in their greed for more gain are robbing them of their birthright by conniving with political hucksters to despoil them of a fair share of representation in our law-making bodies and places of emolument and trust, it becomes the industrial classes to ignore all party ties and unite in defending their common interests; therefore be it

Resolved.—First—That the only safety of the working classes lies in electing to offices of power and trust a fair share of representative workingmen.

Second—That the water question is one of vital importance to the working classes, and that it is the duty of the authorities to make such disposition of the matter as will give to the inhabitants of this city the most wholesome water attainable, at the least possible cost.

Third—That the City of San Francisco should be the owner of gas works, that the citizens thereof might be furnished with good illuminating gas at a reasonable price.

Fourth—That the public streets and sewers, being the property of the city, should be built and kept in repair by the city, thereby equalizing the taxes on all citizens equally interested.

Fifth—That all property should be taxed at its market value; that double taxation, in any form, is an injustice to the person so taxed; that the present system of assessing property is defective, and should be so amended as to hold every person liable for a correct statement of his effects liable to taxation.

Sixth—That our common school system is the pride of our country, and as such, should be sacredly guarded against all sectarian influences

Seventh—That the interests of labor and capital are identical, and should be so adjusted as to be mutually beneficial; that intelligent labor is superior to all other, and to this end the hours thereof should be such as to give opportunity for study, which is indispensably necessary thereto.

Eight—That as the People's Nominating Convention of One Hundred to that end are now engaged in selecting such citizens for the various public offices of this city and county, and State Legislature, as will faithfully endeavor to carry out the above, we, therefore, call upon all good citizens, irrespective of party, to aid us in our efforts, by sending us such names of honest and competent men as will command the respect and support of the whole community. By order of the Executive Committee, A. D. ARPER, Secretary.

☞ All communications should be addressed to the Secretary at these headquarters. au9-1t

NEW ENGLAND KITCHEN

The undersigned have been charged with the duty of establishing and conducting the "New England Kitchen" during the Industrial Fair, to commence on the 17th of August, at the corner of Mission and Eighth streets.

The proceeds of the Kitchen will be applied as a building fund for a Sailors' Home.

We shall endeavor to reproduce the manners, customs and costumes of the last century, and to illustrate, as far as possible, the domestic life and habits of the people through whose instrumentality our country has attained its present exalted position among the nations of the world. The object cannot but commend itself to every philanthropist, as its basis is universal benevolence, without reference to sect or country. Social gatherings of the olden time will form an attractive feature in the Kitchen, viz.: the "spinning bee," apple paring, donation party, singing school, wedding party, etc. The room will be of ample size for the accommodation of a large number of guests, for whose entertainment the best of materials, cooked in the best manner, will be served during the continuance of the Fair; and, among many others, the following dishes peculiar to New England: Pumpkin, apple and chicken pies, Indian puddings, pork and beans, brown bread, cider, apple sauce, Johnny cake, doughnuts, etc. In order to give a truthful and lifelike representation of the times of our ancestors, the committee have been at great expense in fitting up the necessary arrangements, and therefore ask from their friends donations or loans of relics, jewelry, wearing apparel, furniture, and whatever else they may be able to find of ancient date. There are also needed for the tables raw and cooked materials. Cash contributions, which may be enclosed to Mrs. C. E. Cogswell, Treasurer, No. 610 Front street, will be thankfully received. Friends, either in city or country, sending contributions will please have them plainly marked "New England Kitchen," corner of Eighth and Mission streets. Communications may be addressed to the "New England Kitchen," corner of Eighth and Mission streets, and notices of contributions so addressed will be called for.

Wells, Fargo & Co's Express will convey all contributions from the country, free of charge.

California Theatre.

For some time we shall simply have to chronicle each morning a good house at this theatre on the proceeding evening. "The Two Orphans" seems to have lost none of its popularity by being shelved since May 29th. The two new scenes, that of the Pont Neuf and Tour de Nelles in the first act and the office of the Minister of Police in the second act, are notable additions to the already elaborate scenery.

Opera House.

Mr. Jas. W. Morrissey had the crowded house he so well deserved last evening. He left this morning by the overland train for Salt Lake. To-night Mr Daly's successful society play of "Divorce" will be put on. Mr. Daly's benefit will occupy the two performances on Saturday, matinee and evening. Full particulars of the bills will be given.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Mignon" has not lost, but rather gained in favor by repetition Thomas' masterpiece drew a good house last night, and the performers threw an extra amount of spirit into the opera. Madame Rosewald's singing was particularly applauded and unusually well given. To-night "Il Trovatore" forms the bill, an opera which will forever be a popular one.

Herold's Matinees.

This afternoon the second of the present season of orchestral matinees will be given at Platt's Hall, the concert commencing at 3 P. M. The programme is an excellently arranged one, including Mozart's symphony in E flat, the overture to "William Tell," Lindpainter's overture to "Faust," Hermann's Grand Festival March, Voigt's "Reverie," for stringed instruments, and a good selection of the best dance music. It is not too much to say that in no other city of the size of San Francisco in the States will be found the means of so delightfully enjoying the best orchestral music. Those who have not heard the present organization of musicians, under the conductorship of Mr. Herold, have no idea either of the material or the manner of its working. Mr. Herold deserves support if ever any man did, and we trust that this afternoon will show that San Francisco knows what to patronize.

Mr. Carleton's Benefit.

To-morrow night, Mr. Wm. Carleton, who during the past five weeks has established himself as a decided favorite amongst all the opera goers, purposes putting that favorite to the proof through the ordinary medium of a benefit. For. this occasion the bill will consist of the first three acts of "Ernani," the comic operetta of "Too Many Cooks," otherwise known as "The Rose of Auvergne," in which Mr. Thos. Whiffen will take part, Madame Patey's song "The Storm" by Mrs. Seguin, and "La Donna e Mobile" by Mr. Maas. The box sheet indicates the best house for the season.

Madame Arabella Goddard.

On Friday evening and Saturday afternoon next Mme. Arabella Goddard gives two farewell concerts, at which she will be assisted by Herr Carl Formes, Madame Fabbri, M'lle Elzer, and a full orchestra. Amongst the many excellent numbers of the proposed programme will be found Sir William Sterndale's sonata, "The Maid of Orleans," composed expressly for Madame Arabella Goddard, and Sir Julius Benedict's grand fantasia on "The Star Spangled Banner," also composed expressly for Mme. Goddard.

Mr. Eberle's Benefit.

On Wednesday week, Mr. Robert Eberle, the stage manager of the California Theatre takes a matinee benefit, when Miss May Howard will make her only appearance in this city previous to going East. Last evening Mr. Eberle was presented with a testimonial from all the members of the company offering their services. The box sheet is open to-morrow.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Swain and West's songs and dances are nightly and rightly applauded, Senate's banjo solos are good, Foster's ballad singing is much applauded, and the whole bill is brimfull of attractions.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

"Postoffice Sam," "Strategy," "Brown's Chickens" and "The Detective's Daughter" are the acts, whilst in the olio are found G. W. Jester's wonderful performance, George Thompson's specialties, and good things by every member of the company.

Grand Billiard Match.

On Saturday evening next a grand billiard match, at the three-ball French carom game, will be played at Wilson's Palace Amphitheatre, between John Deery, ex-champion of the United States, and Anthony Kraker, the champion of the Pacific coast.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

The grand combination troupe performs Saturday and Sunday. Pedro Gonzales and Jesus Perez, the Mexican gymnasts in their somersault rope dancing; Borthwick Reid, the champion trick swordsman; Miss Linden in operatic selections; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts; Will Stevens as the flying man; Mlle. Victorine and Josie, the infant dancer.

Notes.

It is proposed to give Jas. A. Herne a benefit at the Opera House on Sunday evening next, previous to his departure for Australia.

W. H. Crane, who has taken the place of manager of the Hooley Company whilst Mr. Hooley is in the East, was in town yesterday, and gave us the following items:

They opened at San Jose on Monday night in "The Two Orphans" to a $400 house. When the San Joseites have had enough of Mr. Hart Jackson's adaptation from the French, they will be favored with Mr. Bartley Campbell's adaptation from the German.

It is with this same adaptation, i. e. "Ultimo," that the Hooley Company will reopen at the Opera House, Bush street, on Monday night next. After remaining there a week, playing, perhaps, "David Garrick," "Jenny Lind" and "The Merchant of Venice," the company moves across to Maguire's Theatre, where they open upon the 23d in Barton Hill's "Magnolia," for which great preparations have been made in the way of scenery.

Whilst at Sacramento Miss Hawthorne became so ill that they were obliged to come on and leave her, Miss Emily Baker playing Henriette at Stockton in the place of the invalid, and playing it well, too.

By-the-bye Miss Emily Baker is no longer Miss Emily Baker, but Mrs. A. H. Hastings, for these two happy souls began to beat as one, it seems, whilst here, the single thought resolving itself into action on Monday morning. Time, 7 A. M.; place, the Registrar's office, Stockton. May they be happy—but Stockton, Stockton, ominous place!

During their wanderings, that is the wanderings of the company, they found that Shakespeare pleased the Stocktonians best, French melodrama had the most charms for the Sacramentans and that humor met the want of the Virginia Citizens.

During their wanderings, too, a debutante, by name Miss Ella Kraighne, and by social standing the near relative of one of the company, created quite a furore in every town by her splendid and artistic impersonation of Sister Therese, in "The Two Orphans." Her Glib, in "Ultimo," too, is spoken of as being a most promising performance of a most difficult part.

Whilst at Stockton the company played at the Lunatic Asylum. The bill included "Jenny Lind," which, in its cast, includes Mr. H. Crane as Granby Gag. Whilst putting all his comic force in the medley, which our readers will remember, he heard a peculiar sound in the audience, and looking in the direction from which the noise came, was horrified at finding a group of women inmates shedding the bitterest tears and crying aloud in their sympathetic enjoyment of what they took to be the most affecting exhibition of pathos.

The underline for Saturday next at Maguire's Theatre has been changed, and "Il Talismano" will be given in place of "The Crown Diamonds," the latter opera to be held over till next week.

The house at the Saurets' farewell and charitable concert was by no means what either the occasion or the artists demanded.

Mr. J. W. Allinson and family sailed by the Queen from New York to England on July 10th. Motive—in search of new talent and operas for the Oates troupe.

Ladies About to Furnish Houses

Will do well to call and examine our new and beautiful styles of wood carpets and wainscots, at 40 Geary street.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

BARGHASH.

[The Sultan of Zanzibar is the latest sensation in London, and under the above title William J. Florence contributes the following to the London Figaro:]

I am the Seyyid grand, ha! ha!
I heard of the fetes you gave to the Shah,
The Sultan, Khedive, and others by far
Inferior in rank to myself begar!
So, after a voyage by ship and car,
To London I came from Zanzibar,
Post haste, telegraph, flash.
The English are fond of freeing the Slave,
And freedom to blacks in Jamaica gave,
So if of them a boon I crave,
In shape of a loan, these Britons brave,
They'll snap at the chance for the sake of the slave. Shame.
Shares, bonds, mortgage, cash.
They'll show me "Woolwich," the "Armstrong gun,"
A grand review—and an Emperor's son:
A race at Epsom—and that done,
I'll wink and pretend I like the fun.
Laugh, chaff, gammon, trash.

Then to the City—coach and four,
Lord Mayor—freedom, snuff-box, bore;
Then speeches—dinner, speeches more,
While crowd in the street like madmen roar;
Aldermen stuff, and drink, and snore,
Turtle, punch, venison, hash.

On inhumanity they'll lecture me,
While they've plenty of slaves of their own, d'ye see;
They could show me scores of strong white brutes
Who kick their wives with their hob-nail'd boots;
They could show me slaves, now, mark my speech,
Who make men's shirts for a penny each.
They could show another sickening sight—
The crowd in the Casual Ward at night.
The gin-shops, too, with gas and glare,
And the soddened slaves collected there:
The reeking slum, the arches dry,
The corpse on the tide—for slaves do die;
Show me all these, then prate if you dare
Of free-born Britons, my Lord in the Chair.
But I am Seyyid of Zanzibar,
And not a Briton, thank my star.
I hate your cant, 'tis balderdash;
I want less gab, I want your cash,
Guroo, Guroo, bedad, Barghash.

Perfectly Satisfactory.

She said she'd take a dozen of eggs, but while the grocer was counting them out she asked the price. He told her, and she shrieked:

"Seventeen cents!"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Why, that's outrageous!"

"Well, it's hard times and everything is up."

She sat down on a sugar barrel, sighed several times, and asked if eggs were likely to be higher or lower.

"I don't claim to be a prophet," he replied, as he twisted a sheet of paper into the shape of a funnel, "but I dare say they'll be down to sixteen and one-half cents in less than a week, and perhaps go lower. Trade, which is naturally depressed during July and August, is looking up a little. Our exports of gold are now equaled by our imports. The calling in of bonds puts more ready money afloat, and capitalists are much more hopeful this week than last. The crops are about ready to move, navigation prospects are brighter, and public confidence in financial measures is rapidly returning. One thing moves around another, you see, and though, as I said before, I am no financier, and my predictions are not entitled to any great weight, it seems clear to me that eggs have got to come down. A great current of eggs is setting toward this point from a dozen different directions, and even if the calling in of bonds and the sale of surplus gold don't produce lower prices, I cannot see why figures should go up."

She reached into the pickle barrel, nipped a cucumber, and went away wondering why her husband never knew anything.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

One Dollar Hats

They do not keep in "The" Hat store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, but persons desiring a good, durable and stylish hat at a reasonable price, should go there, and they will find a larger and more select stock than anywhere in the city. DION BOUCICAULT.

A CLEVER SKETCH.

At the close of a recently published article on players, the writer says: We have now reached the man of men, the ablest, theatrically, that our language has produced since Shakspeare. The best hated man, the best literary thief, the most original plagiarist, the least original of all men who ever wrote for the stage, and the man who has done the most for it—Dion Boucicault, the son of the astronomer Lardner, and of a French milliner in Dublin. If the stage had not existed before Boucicault was born, it would have had to be created for him, if he had not created it for himself. Except Lope de Vega, no man has ever furnished the stage with so much material worth putting on it. From "London Assurance," 1831, to "The Shaugraun," 1874, wherever the English tongue is spoken, no theatrical season ever commenced or ended without using some of his work; and, on one particular date that has escaped us, plays by Boucicault were being played simultaneously in every city of the United States, of Australia, of England, of Ireland, and of Scotland. Actor, author, poet, novelist, painter, he unites in himself all the various abilities that combine to make the dramatist. Yet, in the sense of Shakspeare, of Knowles, of Dumas, of De Vega, he is not a dramatist at all, for he is wholly unable to originate either a plot or a character. But given both, he will present them in combinations as harmonious, as sudden and as effective as a kaleidoscope furnishes in the way of print patterns. This worker in theatrical mosaics has done the most and the best for the stage Irishman. Myles na Copaleen and Danny Mann, Father Tom, and, finally, the Shaughraun, are not his in inception. They are wholly his children in their perfection. They are breathing, living entities, and purely Irish. The smack of the soil, not of the books where he found them, is on them all. His magic hand took the brown, dried shamrock from between the covers, blew upon it, and beneath his breath it opened again, green as on its mother sod, and sparkling with the due of its native skies. As an actor of the Irish parts he creates, none save John Drew can be compared to Boucicault. His refashioned, reinspired Irishmen are natural. He acts them naturally, having received them so in their recreation. A literary trickster is Boucicault, yet a great literateur. A heart of brass he has, but by some crank of nature his powers of sympathy seem almost unbounded. To all the legion of French plays, and plots from French novels that he has stolen so unblushingly, and so lyingly claimed as his, he has imparted an interest to the differing modes of thought of the Anglo-Saxon mind that savors of the miraculous power of Shakspeare treating an Italian story for a London audience. He was baffled alone by the intensity of Henri Murger's Gallic wit and Gallic pathos. Boucicault is now an old man. Yet his mental vitality seems as strong as ever, and we may yet have from his combining and plastic hand comedies as good as "London Assurance," Irish dramas as good as the "Colleen," scenes as absorbing as that of the telegraph office in "The Long Strike," and adaptations as skilful as "The Willow Copse."

The Fate of a Showman's Family.

The French papers are filled with incidents of the late flood of the Garonne, and among others is one to the effect that on the survivors searching among the debris for bodies, they came upon the van of a traveling showman, which had been carried down by the current barely injured. The company inhabiting it had not time to escape from their itinerant dwelling. An unfortunate watchdog, chained to the axle, was battered almost into a pulp. All the "traps" were stowed away in baskets, covered with tarpaulin, which served as beds to the drowned players, and came out fresh and gaudy in the midst of the wrecked objects. A little girl, supposed to have been a dancer, had not washed her face on going to bed, and the vermillion was bright as if baked in fast colors upon her ghastly cheek. The female giant, with a pair of artificial legs, to which her feet were strapped, was in her tinsel crown and dress of common cotton velvet. She and her husband had probably sat up late, and were only thinking of divesting themselves of their finery when a wave swept over the plain, and in its recoil drew them into the central current.

A MAN OF MYSTERY.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: Ashtabula Johnson is a mysterious man, and he lives on Aberdeen street. Ashtabula is one of those eccentric individuals who buttonholes you on the street, leads you carefully to the edge of the sidewalk, and then looking about him, says very cautiously:

"How's Spriggins?"

"Spriggins, Spriggins," you reply, "what Spriggins?"

"Lonzo!"

"Oh! I dunno anything about him."

Drawing you still nearer the edge of the sidewalk the mysterious man says:

"This is between you and me, now."

"Well!"

"I heard that Spriggins was going into oats heavy. Now he's got reasons, see," and he holds up his fore-finger and looks as wise as an owl. You get away from the mysterious man and presently you see him collar Jones in the midst of a large company and march him off to whisper about an equally important matter. As near as can be calculated Johnson has no other business but this. Well, the other day, Ashtabula dropped in to see Philo Martinberger, who tips back his chair in front of a livery stable on State street. He found Philo in conversation with some parties from the country, regarding the sale of a car-load of horses. Taking the dealer by the arm Ashtabula led him through the stable, out of the back door, and round the corner to a blacksmith shop. Then he sat down on a box, took out his knife, pried off a sliver from the box, and says he:

"Phil, I understand you've got a cow to sell. Set down."

Philo looked as him a moment and then said very quietly: "Oh, you heard I had a cow to sell?"

"Yes," responded Ashtabula, "sit down and talk her over."

Philo looked at him a minute; then said he, "Come here, Johnson."

Johnson came, and his companion took him by the coat-sleeve and started into the street. He went down to where that six-story unfinished building stands, between Dearborn and State, and crawling through the boards that are nailed over the doors, led Ashtabula up five flights of uncompleted stairs at the imminent risk of breaking his neck. Puffing and blowing they reached the top, and Philo led the way over the piles of lumber to the extreme east of the building. Then after stopping to take breath, he put his mouth close to Ashtabula's ear and softly whispered: "I've sold her!"

It has been nearly a week since that occurrence, and Mr. Johnson is still full of wrath; but a large circle of his acquaintances declare that Philo Martinberger deserves a medal and shall have one.

HEADQUARTERS

PEOPLE'S NOMINATING

CONVENTION of 100,

No. 11 Kearny Street, Rooms 2, 3, 4,

SAN FRANCISCO, AUGUST 8, 1875.

To the Citizens of the City and County of San Francisco.

Whenever a Government that has been established by the people for the benefit and protection of the people, becomes corrupt, unjust and tyrannical, it should not be tolerated by an intelligent, discriminating and loyal community, enjoying the elective franchise. Under a Republican form of Government like ours there can be no excuse for rebellion to redress either real or fancied grievances, when it can be so easily accomplished by the ballot. In a community blessed with free speech, a free press, free schools and the elective franchise, the industrial classes become intelligent, loyal and confiding, and cannot be easily imposed on by the opulent, shrewd, grasping and designing portion of the community. Professional politicians and unscrupulous demagogues, through the aid of party machinery, often control or nullify the dearest rights of the people, viz.: the free exercise of suffrage. When the wealthy and influential class of society become indifferent to the needs and reasonable demands of those whose lot is poverty and toil, and in their greed for more gain are robbing them of their birthright by conniving with political hucksters to despoil them of a fair share of representation in our law-making bodies and places of emolument and trust, it becomes the industrial classes to ignore all party ties and unite in defending their common interests; therefore be it

Resolved.—First—That the only safety of the working classes lies in electing to offices of power and trust a fair share of representative workingmen.

Second—That the water question is one of vital importance to the working classes, and that it is the duty of the authorities to make such disposition of the matter as will give to the inhabitants of this city the most wholesome water attainable, at the least possible cost,

Third—That the City of San Francisco should be the owner of gas works, that the citizens thereof might be furnished with good illuminating gas at a reasonable price.

Fourth—That the public streets and sewers, being the property of the city, should be built and kept in repair by the city, thereby equalizing the taxes on all citizens equally interested.

Fifth—That all property should be taxed at its market value; that double taxation, in any form, is an injustice to the person so taxed; that the present system of assessing property is defective, and should be so amended as to hold every person liable for a correct statement of his effects liable to taxation.

Sixth—That our common school system is the pride of our country, and as such, should be sacredly guarded against all sectarian influences

Seventh—That the interests of labor and capital are identical, and should be so adjusted as to be mutually beneficial; that intelligent labor is superior to all other, and to this end the hours thereof should be such as to give opportunity for study, which is indispensably necessary thereto.

Eight—That as the People's Nominating Convention of One Hundred to that end are now engaged in selecting such citizens for the various public offices of this city and county, and State Legislature, as will faithfully endeavor to carry out the above, we, therefore, call upon all good citizens, irrespective of party, to aid us in our efforts, by sending us such names of honest and competent men as will command the respect and support of the whole community. By order of the Executive Committee, A. D. AEPER, Secretary.

All communications should be addressed to the Secretary at these headquarters. au9-1t

NEW ENGLAND KITCHEN

The undersigned have been charged with the duty of establishing and conducting the "New England Kitchen" during the Industrial Fair, to commence on the 17th of August, at the corner of Mission and Eighth streets.

The proceeds of the Kitchen will be applied as a building fund for a Sailors' Home.

We shall endeavor to reproduce the manners, customs and costumes of the last century, and to illustrate, as far as possible, the domestic life and habits of the people through whose instrumentality our country has attained its present exalted position among the nations of the world. The object cannot but commend itself to every philanthropist, as its basis is universal benevolence, without reference to sect or country. Social gatherings of the olden time will form an attractive feature in the Kitchen, viz.: the "spinning bee," apple paring, donation party, singing school, wedding party, etc. The room will be of ample size for the accommodation of a large number of guests, for whose entertainment the best of materials, cooked in the best manner, will be served during the continuance of the Fair; and, among many others, the following dishes peculiar to New England: Pumpkin, apple and chicken pies, Indian puddings, pork and beans, brown bread, cider, apple sauce, Johnny cake, doughnuts, etc. In order to give a truthful and lifelike representation of the times of our ancestors, the committee have been at great expense in fitting up the necessary arrangements, and therefore ask from their friends donations or loans of relics, jewelry, wearing apparel, furniture, and whatever else they may be able to find of ancient date. There are also needed for the tables raw and cooked materials. Cash contributions, which may be enclosed to Mrs. C. E. Cogswell, Treasurer, No. 610 Front street, will be thankfully received. Friends, either in city or country, sending contributions will please have them plainly marked "New England Kitchen," corner of Eighth and Mission streets. Communications may be addressed to the "New England Kitchen," corner of Eighth and Mission streets, and notices of contributions so addressed will be called for.

Wells, Fargo & Co's Express will convey all contributions from the country, free of charge.

Amusements, Etc.

Opera House.

"Divorce" drew a full house last evening, and was capitally played with a cast that included Miss Fanny Davenport, Miss Jeffreys Lewis, Miss Emily Rigl, Mrs. G. H. Gilbert, and Messrs. Harkins, Parkes, Drew, Davidge, Lewis, and Fisher. To-night "Frou-Frou" for the last time.

On Saturday, Mr. Daly takes a grand farewell compliment in the form of two benefit performances. The entire Fifth Avenue company will take part, and all the disengaged artists of the English Opera Troupe will, (through the kindness of Mr. Hess, appear. The box sheet is now open at Sherman & Hyde's.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Il Trovatore" was never better sung by this company than last evening. The Manrico of Mr. Maas, the Azucena of Mrs. Seguin, the Leonora of Miss Beaumont, and the Count di Luna of Mr. Carleton offer a quartette of vocalists of which few such organizations can boast the equal. The music was appreciated as it should be.

California Theatre.

The best house yet was present last night at the California Theatre, crowded in numbers and displaying the most fervent and unremitting interest in all the action of the wonderful melodrama, "The Two Orphans."

Mr. Carleton's Benefit.

To-night Mr. Wm. Carleton, who during the past five weeks has established himself as a decided favorite amongst all the opera goers, purposes putting that favorite to the proof through the ordinary medium of a benefit. For this occasion the bill will consist of the first three acts of "Ernani," the comic operetta of "Too Many Cooks," otherwise known as "The Rose of Auvergne," in which Mr. Thos. Whiffen will take part, Madame Patcy's song "The Storm" by Mrs. Seguin, and "La Donna e Mobile" by Mr. Maas. The box sheet indicates the best house for the season.

Madame Arabella Goddard.

There is much interest felt in musical circles respecting the two concerts which Madame Arabella Goddard gives to-morrow evening and Saturday afternoon, at which she willl be assisted by Herr Carl Formes, Madame Fabbri, M'lle Elzer, and a full orchestra. Amongst the many excellent numbers of the proposed programme will be found Sir William Sterndale's sonata, "The Maid of Orleans," composed expressly for Madame Arabella Goddard, and Sir Julius Benedict's grand fantasia on "The Star Spangled Banner," also composed expressly for Mme. Goddard. Both these great compositions are entirely new to San Francisco. The Madame's assistant artists will give two grand operatic selections, a scene from "Norma," and the terzetto from "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Mr. Eberle's Benefit.

On Wednesday week, Mr. Robert Eberle, the stage manager of the California Theatre takes a matinee benefit, when Miss May Howard will make her only appearance in this city previous to going East. Mr. Eberle has been presented with a testimonial from all the members of the company offering their services. The box sheet is open today. The bill will consist of "East Lynne" and a varied performance of many attractions.

Mr. Herne's Benefit.

On Sunday evening next Mr. James A. Herne will take a farewell benefit previous to his departure for Australia. A bill of extraordinary attractiveness has been prepared, embracing the drama of "A Hard Struggle," with Miss Georgie Woodthorpe as Amy; Baby Benson in her specialties, and Frank Murdoch's play, entitled "The Lighthouse Cliffs," with James A. Herne in his original character of Oliver Liveoak.

Grand Billiard Match.

On Saturday evening next a grand billiard match, at the three-ball French carom game, will be played at Wilson's Palace Amphitheatre, between John Deery, ex-champion of the United States, and Anthony Kraker, the champion of the Pacific coast. Both parties are in constant training for the contest, which is looked upon as one of unusual interest.

Herold's Matinees.

Although Platt's Hall was not crowded yesterday afternoon, there was yet so happily marked an increase on the attendance of the previous Wednesday, that we sincerely believe Mr. Herold may consider that the tide has turned and that his orchestral matinees are becoming popular and successful. Certain it is that the house yesterday afternoon proved that they had become fashionable for a brighter attendance, it would not be possible to gather together Those present were evidently of that highly educated and intelligent class to whom good music offers the most acceptable of aesthetic treats. The feature of the programme was Mozart's Symphony in E flat, or rather the first four movements, including an allegro, an andante, a minuetto, and an allegro vivace. It was listened to with an appreciation that proved the cultured status of those present. Next after this, should be mentioned Voigt's Reverie for stringed instruments, a most exquisite piece of dreamy harmony. It was unanimously redemanded. The overture to "William Tell," Lindpainter's overture to "Faust," and a selection of the best dance music completed the most excellent programme. The masterpieces of all the great composers are in rehearsal.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

To-night there is an extra attraction here in the shape of a grand nautical and piscatorial drama, entitled "Naiads of the Ocean, or the Sea Serpent." Great preparations have been made for its effective production.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

The acts are four in number, excellent in character and well put on. The olio is thoroughly amusing, and includes the performrace of G. W. Jester, the man with the Talking Hand.

RIESEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

The grand combination troupe performs Saturday and Sunday. Pedro Gonzales and Jesus Perez, the Mexican gymnasts in their somersault rope dancing; Borthwick Reid, the champion trick swordsman; Miss Linden in operatic selections; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts; Will Stevens as the

Notes.

Lingard gave an entertainment at Vallejo last night.

Just as Mr. Boucicault was about to leave New York for England, and even whilst aboard the Bothnia, he was arrested for libel, at the instance of Robert McWade, the actor, the ground for the action being found in a published letter from Mr. Boucicault reflecting on Mr. McWade as a theatrical pirate Heaven save the Mark! Mr. Boucicault was, however, allowed to go on his way. John Penard and John McCullough standing as bondsmen for $10,000, the amount of the damages claimed.

The underline for Saturday next at Maguire's Theatre has been changed, and "Il Talismano" will be given in place of "The Crown Diamonds," the latter opera to be held over till next week.

Miss Georgie Woodthorpe plays at Herne's benefit, by the kind permission of Barton Hill, Esq. It is evident from this that Miss Woodthorpe is now a member of the California Theatre Company, and we are glad that she is.

THE MAID AND THE MONGOLIAN.

A maid heard, "Mongolians are meek,"
So she sailed off to China to seek
And find whether she Couldn't marry a he
Tea-rooster, or a mandarin meek.

She found a gay heathen—Fing-Wi,
A chap who stood seven feet high.
Says she "Gracious! What fun!
Oh, you sun of a son
Of a gum, come and marry sweet I."

Something must have bothered the sight
Of one eye, as he whispered, "All right,
Muchee high old gallee!
Oh! Hunkee Doree!
Me no workee! you washee! all right!"

Then soft to herself said she, "Nay,
Civilization has travelled this way,"
So, taking her hat,
She got up and gat,
And is still going East, I dare say.

Wanted a Change.

When little Johnny Pearl, who lived in New Haven, was three years old, his father was frequently called from home on business. One evening while he was absent on one of these journeys, which took him to Natchez, Johnny's mother was hearing his prayers, "Our Father who art," etc., when Johnny raised his head from its place on mother's knee, and looking up earnestly into her face, said: "Mamma, Johnny's tired saying 'Our Father who art in heaven;' let's say our father who art in Natchez."

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, "THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Palmer Bros.

It Was Sam.

The other day a tall thin woman from over the river hunted around Vicksburg until she found Coroner Blessing, whose retiring disposition and prompt attention to business are certain to make him famous all over the State within the coming year, and when she was certain of her man she inquired:

"Business ain't driving now is it?"

"Well, nothing to brag of. I get a floater or a nigger now and then, but it isn't anything like old times."

She heaved a sigh and continued:

"Sam is missing."

"Sam, Sam," he repeated.

"Yes, my ole man. It's nigh on to twelve weeks since he started to cross the river about six miles above here, and I'm getting anxious. I thought I'd drop down and see if you remembered of having sot on such a man."

"About twelve weeks ago—less see. I believe I did pull a floater some ten or eleven weeks since."

"Was he a tall man?"

"Yes, I think he was."

"Have a long nose and brick-colored hair?"

"Yes—I remember now."

"Cow-hide shoes and a yaller coat on?'

"Yes I got that very man!"

"Ariz to the surface, was pulled in here, sot on according to law and duly buried?"

"He was madam. And do you believe that the body was that of your missing husband?"

"I know it. He could drive mules or paddle a dug-out with any man in Louisiana, but he couldn't swim worth cobs. His canoe flopped over, he went under, and that's the reason he didn't come home!"

"And do you want the body exhumed so as to make sure?"

"Was he put down to stay?"

"He was well buried, madam."

"Well, it's 'bout as well to let him stay there. He's probably fell away so that I wouldn't know him, and I don't feel like having my narves strung up."

"Well I'm very sorry for you, madam. If I could have identified the body, I would have sent you word right away."

"It's all right. I've felt it in my bones for mor'n two months that I was a widder, and the shock don't stagger me like it would at first. I'm sorry, for Sam was kind.

"Yes it was too bad."

"But he ought to know'd better, when he couldn't swim. I told him and told him and told him, and that day I told him again, and he hollered back, 'Shut up!'"

"He did!"

"Yes, he did; and now he's under the sile and I'm here! I'm 'bleeged, Mr.——; I know where he is now, and when I wake up in the night I shan't worry so much. Is there anything to pay?"

"No, nothing."

"Well, I'll go home feeling better. It's kinder hard to have the old man go under that way, but I 'spose the Lord knows best. The Bible says we cometh up to be cut down, and I suppose that means drowning as well as shooting."

And she felt to see if her spectacle case was all safe, and started for home.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

"Chicago Moving Westward."

Among the recent arrivals from our sister city Chicago, we note with pleasure the advent of Messrs. T. & D. Lundy, who have just opened at No. 777 Mission street, opposite St. Patrick's church, with the finest assortment ever imported to this coast of black walnut, bronze and marble clocks, suitable for stores, offices and parlor use, also pictures, engravings, mirrors, family bibles, albums, prayer books, etc., etc., all of which they furnish on easy payments.

One Dollar Hats

They do not keep in "The" Hat store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, but persons desiring a good, durable and stylish hat at a reasonable price, should go there, and they will find a larger and more select stock than anywhere in the city. Their motto is: "The best at the lowest possible prices." "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

BALFE'S POSTHUMOUS OPERA—"THE TALISMAN."

[As this opera will be produced by the English Opera Company to-morrow evening for the first time in San Francisco, our readers will certainly find an interest in learning the story of Balfe's last work.]

As the curtain rises a troupe of Saracenic soldiers sing a chorus. They disperse, and Sir Kenneth and an Emir enter. Sir Kenneth declares himself an envoy from the Princes of the Crusade to the noble ladies, Richard's Queen Berengaria and cousin, Edith Plantagenet, who have secluded themselves for prayer in the rock chapel of Engeddi; the Emir offers to guide the Knight to his destination, and, after a duet, in which the charms of English and Sarcenic maidens are contended, the pair set forth. Scene the second shows the corridor of the rock chapel. Edith Plantagenet enters, sings a recitative and prayer, and on hearing that Sir Kenneth is approaching, expresses her joy in an aria, and is then summoned by a treacherous slave, Nectabanus, to the Queen for vespers. Scene the third is the interior of the chapel, and here the Queen and Edith, accompanied by the court ladies—all clad in conventual robes—enter in procession, singing a "Salve Regina." Edith recognizes Sir Kenneth and drops a rosebud. As the procession gradually recedes, the Knight apostrophizes the rose in a song, the "Salve Regina" mingling with its last strains; the tones of the organ add their harmonies, and the curtain descends on the first act.

The second act opens in the tent of Richard the Lion heart, who, full of joy at the return of his Queen from her pilgrimage, expresses his devotion in a recitative and song. Sir Kenneth enters, and is warned by the King against loving too loftily. Their interview is interrupted by De Vaux, who tells the King that the Duke of Austria has planted his banner beside that of England on St. George's Mount, the place of honor, and ceded to Richard as acknowledged leader of the Crusade. Richard's hot blood fires at this news, and with a short trio the three hurriedly quit the scene, and repair, sword in hand, to the Mount. Richard tears down the Austrian banner and tramples upon it, a general tumult takes place, quelled by the King of France. The King commands Sir Kenneth to arm himself and guard the banner during the night, and then sings his war song "Monarch supreme." General enthusiasm and grand chorus. As the hosts disperse, Sir Kenneth enters for his knightly duty. As he keeps watch, he sees the tent of his lady-love and sings a romance, "On balmy wings." His vigil is interrupted by the entrance of Nectabanus, who brings him a summons from a royal lady to follow him to her tent. The struggle of the Knight between love and duty and the evil glee of the slave are depicted in a duet, and finally Sir Kenneth quits his post. Scene the third is the Queen's Pavilion with the Queen and ladies discovered. Edith enters, and the Queen informs her that Sir Kenneth has been decoyed from his post, and is in the neighboring tent. Edith bittterly reproaches the Queen for thus placing the honor of a knight in jeopardy; and Berengaria, dismayed, hastens to assuage her husband's certain anger. Sir Kenneth enters, and in a duet with Edith, declares his love, Edith tells him to keep the ring that was used to lure him from his duty and bids him, as he loves her, speed back to the Mount. Edith retires, and as Sir Kenneth is going, the King enters and De Vaux rushes in at this moment to tell the King that his banner has been torn down. "And here is the traitor," cries the King, raising his battle-axe to slay Sir Kenneth. The Queen and Edith enter, ladies and guards, rush in, and grand finale.

Act the third finds Richard in his tent reading a letter, which proves that Sir Kenneth is more than a Knight. De Vaux explains to the King that the Nubian slave, who yesterday preserved the King from the assassin's dagger, was Sir Kenneth, who, banished from the camp, had returned, disguised, to discover who had dishonored himself and the royal banner. He charged the Marquis of Montserrat with the deed, and sought permission to meet the Marquis in the lists. "P St. George, he shall!" exclaims the King, and bids De Vaux tell Sir Kenneth attend him in the royal pavilion. The Queen and Edith enter, and, in a trio, the King bids Edith to be of good cheer, for "something will happen," that very night. To the strains of a march the Princes of the Crusade, with their followers, enter. The King bids the minstrel Knight sing a strain of love. Sir Kenneth's voice is excited, hears and joins in the strain, and Sir Kenneth and nobles enter. "The traitor Knight," cry the soldiers. "No traitor," says the King, "but David, Earl of Huntingdon, Prince Royal of Scotland and worthy bridegroom to Edith Plantagenet." Edith sings a joyous aria, the King joins their hands, the march breaks forth, the curtains of the pavilion are drawn aside, the sea and the ships of the Crusaders are discovered. "Ho! for England," shout the soldiers, and amidst general enthusiasm, the opera ends.

Fashionable Repentance.

A French woman in Lent may be truly said to be the very opposite of a French woman during the carnival. From Ash Wednesday to Easter Monday she draws her veil close about her face, her dress becomes sombre, her bonnet is less coquettishly perched on her head, her high heels tread the pavement with less pertness than usual. During the forty days which follow the carnival she walks as though bowed beneath engrossing reflections; she preaches inwardly to herself; she expiates the sin of having lent a ready ear to mundane proposals; she feels twinges of conscience as she thinks how many waltzes she has indulged in; she does not show her teeth so much when she laughs, and a minute observer might be astonished to see, when she takes her seat in her box at the opera, that the body of her dress has heightened in proportion to her repentance.

The Figaro Club.

The Figaro Club, says the New York correspondent of the Baltimore Bulletin, was no sooner "Figaro la!" than it was Figaro nowhere. They do say it died of too much Charles Gayler, but that is unkind. How could there be too much Gayler? When some one said, in sarcastic reference 'to Charles' avoirdupois, "No wonder it went through with Gaylor on top," I confined him to facts, and showed how a project that excited at once the opposition of the theatrical agents and the managers could not live. What security is there for an arrangement that sets up to rival the agents, and, at the same time, in making engagements, cannot be held for forfeiture of contract by managers. Gayler left the Arcadian Club, they say, to founder—I mean found—the Figaro. It is sad to think that somebody's loss should be nobody's gain.

A Parisian Celebrity.

Paris has lost a celebrity, and France has got his stocking. Simon Bouffard, the rag-picker, is no more; he died recently, at the full age of eighty odd. It cannot truthfully be said in his case that his "mantle" has descended on any one, for obvious reasons. For forty years he had been the benefactor and banker of rag-pickers in general, also the usurer, charging 15 per cent. for loans. He amassed by these pickings a fortune of several thousands. He lived an eccentric life, and when dead—he died suddenly, from apoplexy—his cat was found playing with his head, and his monkey had put on his hat and spectacles. He left no will, and having, liked Topsy, merely "growed," there were none to inherit, so his little fortune falls into the State coffers.

HEADQUARTERS

PEOPLE'S NOMINATING CONVENTION of 100,

No. 11 Kearny Street, Rooms 2, 3, 4,

SAN FRANCISCO, AUGUST 8, 1875.

To the Citizens of the City and County of San Francisco.

Whenever a Government that has been established by the people for the benefit and protection of the people, becomes corrupt, unjust and tyrannical, it should not be tolerated by an intelligent, discriminating and loyal community, enjoying the elective franchise. Under a Republican form of Government like ours there can be no excuse for rebellion to redress either real or fancied grievances, when it can be so easily accomplished by the ballot. In a community blessed with free speech, a free press, free schools and the elective franchise, the industrial classes become intelligent, loyal and confiding, and cannot be easily imposed on by the opulent, shrewd, grasping and designing portion of the community. Professional politicians and unscrupulous demagogues, through the aid of party machinery, often control or nullify the dearest rights of the people, viz.: the free exercise of suffrage. When the wealthy and influential class of society become indifferent to the needs and reasonable demands of those whose lot is poverty and toil, and in their greed for more gain are robbing them of their birthright by conniving with political hucksters to despoil them of a fair share of representation in our law-making bodies and places of emolument and trust, it becomes the industrial classes to ignore all party ties and unite in defending their common interests; therefore be it

Resolved.—First—That the only safety of the working classes lies in electing to offices of power and trust a fair share of representative workingmen.

Second—That the water question is one of vital importance to the working classes, and that it is the duty of the authorities to make such disposition of the matter as will give to the inhabitants of this city the most wholesome water attainable, at the least possible cost.

Third—That the City of San Francisco should be the owner of gas works, that the citizens thereof might be furnished with good illuminating gas at a reasonable price.

Fourth—That the public streets and sewers, being the property of the city, should be built and kept in repair by the city, thereby equalizing the taxes on all citizens equally interested.

Fifth—That all property should be taxed at its market value; that double taxation, in any form, is an injustice to the person so taxed; that the present system of assessing property is defective, and should be so amended as to hold every person liable for a correct statement of his effects liable to taxation.

Sixth—That our common school system is the pride of our country, and as such, should be sacredly guarded against all sectarian influences

Seventh—That the interests of labor and capital are identical, and should be so adjusted as to be mutually beneficial; that intelligent labor is superior to all other, and to this end the hours thereof should be such as to give opportunity for study, which is indispensably necessary thereto.

Eight—That as the People's Nominating Convention of One Hundred to that end are now engaged in selecting such citizens for the various public offices of this city and county, and State Legislature, as will faithfully endeavor to carry out the above, we, therefore, call upon all good citizens, irrespective of party, to aid us in our efforts, by sending us such names of honest and competent men as will command the respect and support of the whole community. By order of the Executive Committee, A. D. ARPER, Secretary.

☞ All communications should be addressed to the Secretary at these headquarters. au9-1t

NEW ENGLAND KITCHEN

The undersigned have been charged with the duty of establishing and conducting the "New England Kitchen" during the Industrial Fair, to commence on the 17th of August, at the corner of Mission and Eighth streets.

The proceeds of the Kitchen will be applied as a building fund for a Sailors' Home.

We shall endeavor to reproduce the manners, customs and costumes of the last century, and to illustrate, as far as possible, the domestic life and habits of the people through whose instrumentality our country has attained its present exalted position among the nations of the world. The object cannot but commend itself to every philanthropist, as its basis is universal benevolence, without reference to sect or country. Social gatherings of the olden time will form an attractive feature in the Kitchen, viz.: the "spinning bee," apple paring, donation party, singing school, wedding party, etc. The room will be of ample size for the accommodation of a large number of guests, for whose entertainment the best of materials, cooked in the best manner, will be served during the continuance of the Fair; and, among many others, the following dishes peculiar to New England: Pumpkin, apple and chicken pies, Indian puddings, pork and beans, brown bread, cider, apple sauce, Johnny cake, doughnuts, etc. In order to give a truthful and lifelike representation of the times of our ancestors, the committee have been at great expense in fitting up the necessary arrangements, and therefore ask from their friends donations or loans of relics, jewelry, wearing apparel, furniture, and whatever else they may be able to find of ancient date. There are also needed for the tables raw and cooked materials. Cash contributions, which may be enclosed to Mrs. C. E. Cogswell, Treasurer, No. 610 Front street, will be thankfully received. Friends, either in city or country, sending contributions will please have them plainly marked "New England Kitchen," corner of Eighth and Mission streets. Communications may be addressed to the "New England Kitchen," corner of Eighth and Mission streets, and notices of contributions so addressed will be called for.

Wells, Fargo & Co's Express will convey all contributions from the country, free of charge.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Mr. Carleton's benefit as we expected it would, drew the largest house of the season. The beneficiare may congratulate himself on a reception, which for warmth and tangible qualities has been surpassed by few, even when granted to those who have grown to consider themselves old-time favorites. This evening "Lucia di Lammermoor," and we expect for the last time. To-morrow night "Il Talismano."

California Theatre.

There is nothing to say about the "Two Orphans" except what has already been said, a wonderful play and a crowded house. The drama now runs like a well-regulated piece of machinery, and is finished at a reasonable time after eleven.

Opera House.

This is the farewell week of Mr. Daly's Company, it should be remembered, and to-night is the last night of "Saratoga," it should also be remembered. Nor should it be forgotten that to-morrow Mr. Daly takes a complimentary farewell benefit, which will include the two performances by Mr. Daly's whole company, and a concert by all of the Hess English Opera Company not engaged. "My Uncle's Will," "Weak Woman," scenes from "Saratoga," and "The Big Bonanza," and songs by Miss Beaumont, Miss Rosewald, Mrs. Seguin, Mr. Maas, Mr. Conly, Mr. Carleton and Mr. Seguin will form the two bills.

Madame Arabella Goddard.

There is much interest felt in musical circles respecting the two concerts which Madame Arabella Goddard gives this (Friday) evening and to-morrow afternoon, at which she will be assisted by Herr Carl Formes, Madame Fabbri, M'lle Elzer, and a full orchestra. Amongst the many excellent numbers of the proposed programme will be found Sir William Sterndale's sonata, "The Maid of Orleans," composed expressly for Madame Arabella Goddard, and Sir Julius Benedict's grand fantasia on "The Star Spangled Banner," also composed expressly for Mme. Goddard. Both these great compositions are entirely new to San Francisco. The Madame's assistant artists (Madame Inez Fabbri, Mlle. Anna Elzer and Herr Karl Formes), will give two grand operatic selections, a scene from "Norma," and the terzetto from "The Merry Wives of Windsor."

Mr. Eberle's Benefit.

On Wednesday week, Mr. Robert Eberle, the stage manager of the California Theatre takes a matinee benefit, when Miss May Howard will make her only appearance in this city previous to going East. Mr. Eberle has been presented with a testimonial from all the members of the company offering their services. The box sheet is open today. The bill will consist of "East Lynne" and a varied performance of many attractions.

Mr. Herne's Benefit.

On Sunday evening next Mr. James A. Herne will take a farewell benefit previous to his departure for Australia. A bill of extraordinary attractiveness has been prepared, embracing the drama of "A Hard Struggle," with Miss Georgie Woodthorpe as Amy; Baby Benson in her specialties, and Frank Murdoch's play, entitled "The Lighthouse Cliffs," with James A. Herne in his original character of Oliver Liveoak.

Buckley's Variety New Theatre.

"The Naiads of the Ocean" has proved a great uccess. Spectacular, comical, and well put on, it could scarcely fail to do so. The other features of the bill are unusually attractive.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Lon Dixon makes his reappearance here to-night; Charley Harris is good in his Dutch specialties, and there are two new acts, "Troubles of a Hairdresser" and "Too Late for the Train."

Grand Billiard Match.

On Saturday evening next a grand billiard match, at the three-ball French carom game, will be played at Wilson's Palace Amphitheatre, between John Deery, ex-champion of the United States, and Anthony Kraker, the champion of the Pacific coast. Both parties are in constant training for the contest, which is looked upon as one of unusual interest.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Rieson Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

The grand combination troupe performs Saturday and Sunday. Pedro Gonzales and Jesus Perez, the Mexican gymnasts in their somersault rope dancing; Borthwick Reid, the champion trick swordsman; Miss Linden in operatic selections; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts; Will Stevens as the flying man; Mlle. Victorine and Josie, the infant dancer.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cJ

TOTTY'S ARITHMETIC.

One little head, worth its whole weight in gold,
Over and over a million times told.

Two shining eyes, full of innocent glee,
Brighter than diamonds ever could be.

Three pretty dimples for fun to slip in,
Two in the cheeks and one in the chin.

Four lily fingers on each baby hand,
Fit for a Princess of sweet Fairy-land.

Five on each hand, if we reckon Tom Thumb,
Standing beside them, so stiff and so glum!

Six pearly teeth just within her red lips,
Over which merriment ripples and trips.

Seven bright ringlets, as yellow as gold,
Seeming the sunshine to gather and hold.

Eight tiny waves running over her hair,
Sunshine and shadow, they love to be there.

Nine precious words that Totty can say;
But she will learn new ones every day.

Ten little chubby, comical toes;
And that is as far as this lesson goes.

Shakespeare in France.

Among the most amusing controversies of the present day has been one which has recently taken place in the Paris Figaro on the meaning of the words "a green girl," which Polonius addresses to Ophelia, in "Hamlet." The Figaro thinks itself right when it says they mean, "unworthy to reason with a learned man and only worthy of the daughter of a vegetable seller—marchande de verdure." A correspondent, however, informs M. de Villemaissant, in a long letter, that he is wrong. The English, says he, never say "oyster girl," "paper boy," etc., when they mean one who sells oysters and newspapers. Therefore he concludes they would not say "green girl" for one who sells vegetables. Which, as it happens, is exactly what they do say, at least as far as the two first instances go. In consequence of this, says M. de Villemaissant's correspondent, "green girl" cannot mean—daughter of a vegetable dealer. The learned writer is at a loss to know exactly what it does mean, and finally comes to the conclusion that it is nontranslatable. Here he is wrong, for "green girl" is very readily rendered into French as "vous etes un enfant," "you are a child," which is the true meaning of the word "green" in this case, for with this signification we still use it when we wish to say a man is childish or simple. "How green you are!" "Do you think I am so green as all that," etc. Cleopatra, in "Antony and Cleopatra," says "those were my salad days," meaning her young and inexperienced days, for salad is green. The Pall Mall Gazette has enlightened M. de Villemaissant on the subject, much to his satisfaction, and doubtless also to that of his learned correspondents.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, "THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

Don't Help Pay Other People's Debts,

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is: "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits. L

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

Terrill and Chapman's.

Billiard Parlor, northeast corner of Bush and Kearny streets, entrance on Bush street. The best lighted and most comfortable Billiard Hall in the city—has 17 front windows. Rooms for private parties. Six new tables. Pocket tables for Pool parties. Best of cigars and liquors. m

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

When a woman gets to be thirty years of age, it becomes a dangerous business for her twin brother, who already shows signs of baldness, to go around announcing the particulars of his birth.

If the Philadelphia papers keep on as they have lately, they will soon create the impression that an exhibition or fair of some kind will be held there next year.

A subscriber writes to an editor in the East: "I don't want your paper any longer." To which the editor replies: "I would not make it any longer even if you did; its present length suits me."

When a man has a business that doesn't pay, he usually begins to look around for a partner to share his losses with him.

An economical resident of Manhattanville has been using kerosene for the past year as a cheap substitute for gas, but as he followed his third servant girl to the grave a few days ago, the most casual observer could not fail to note that he looked troubled. He seemed to be wrestling with some gigantic arithmetical problem with the chances largely favoring his failure to solve it.

She had been sewing, and laid the Sophie covering down on a chair with a long needle pointing heavenward, as it had got too dark to continue work. A caller was announced who unfortunately sat down in this chair, and when she asked an explanation of his strange conduct he explained that he had "only tried to grab a fire-fly off the ceiling."

A young man appointed to a clerkship in the Treasury Department was conducted to his desk and instructed concerning his duties, but shortly afterwards the chief of the department discovered him comfortably reposing in his seat with his feet characteristically resting on the desk. "Hello," said the chief, "didn't you expect to do any work?" "Work:" exclaimed the astonished youth, "I had to work hard enough to get here."

There are only two hundred men in Connecticut who have not invented some sort of clothespin, or some kind of salve or liniment.

It is wrong to discourage marble playing among boys. The steadiness of nerve and accuracy of aim they acqnire will be invaluable to them in after years when playing billiards.

"Such remarks I consider 'low,' and an insult to my 'understanding,'" said a witty Rochester beauty to a gentleman who praised her small feet.

A billygoat butted a buzz-saw in a Hoboken planing-mill last Friday, but at last accounts the buzz-saw was just going right on about its business as if nothing had happened.

A good double pun has been made by a clergyman. He has just united in marriage a couple whose christian names were respectively Benjamin and Ann. "How did they appear during the ceremony?" inquired a friend. "They appeared both Annie-mated and Bennie-fited," was the reply.

It is said that the treasurer of a base ball club has absconded with a large sum of money. If that be so, it must be considered a base action, which doubtless will cause a loud bawl among the members. Perhaps the absconder will attempt to make a home run. If his victims endeavor to catch him on the fly, will it be considered foul.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

Mr. Owen Marlowe has been engaged by the Kiralfy Brothers for the approaching production of "Around the World in Eighty Days," at the Academy of Music.

Mr. Joseph Jefferson, upon witnessing Mr. George Belmore as Newman Noggs, in "Nicholas Nickleby," at the Adelphi, London, pronounced him the "greatest living impersonator of that character."

The new play in which the lovely Clara Rousby will appear at Booth's Theatre, New York, is founded on the story of Mademoiselle de Belle Isle, and Mr. Dauney Maskell is the business manager who is announced to pilot this speciality through the states.

The Messrs. Kiralfy announce the following engagements for their approaching season at the Academy, commencing on August 23d: Mlles. Peletier and Roselli, premieres danseuse, and Mons. Buiserett, ballet master. The foregoing have also been engaged for the grand ballet, and were expected by the steamer, due on the 16th; Mlles. Rosi, Andrea, Lamsperti, Aurora, Lupido, Ardoti, Costina, Leonati, and sixteen others.

Miss Marie Gordon (Mrs. John T. Raymond,) will play Laura Hawkins in "The Gilded Age," at Union Square Theatre.

The steamer Greece brought 189 tons of scenery and machinery for the Kiralfy's "Around the World," at the Academy.

Mr. John Brougham writes as follows to the New York Times: 'Will you be good enough to contradict the report I read in your paper to-day intimating that I had lost heavily by the recent bank failure, and which I am glad to be able to say is not so. I take this opportunity of gratefully thanking the many friends who, acting upon the same supposition, so promptly offered their material aid, a manifestation of kindly and considerate regard not likely to be forgotten by JOHN BROUGHAM.".

Mr. John T. Raymond, the actor, also writes to say that the report that he held letters of credit on Duncan, Sherman & Co. is not correct. So much the better for him.

"The Troubadours" collapsed after seven performances, and the Union Square Theatre desecration ceased. On Monday, August 16th, Messrs. Shook and Palmer will commence a preliminary season under their own management, when Mr. John T. Raymond will be seen for the first time at this theatre in his great impersonation, Colonel Sellers, in the drama of "The Gilded Age."

The attendance at the great Summer amusement institution of New York, continues unabated, and the proprietors of Gilmore's Concert Garden may fairly lay claim to the title of public benefactors.

Mr. Florence sailed from England for New York in the Abyssinia on July 31st. The London Figaro, of the 10th inst, prints a piece of facetious verse, by Mr. Florence, named "Barghash," which is freigted with the imaginary reflections of the Sultan of Zanzibar, and which appeared in our issue of the 11th.

Anglicised opera bouffe bids fair to have a permanent home at Robinson Hall, that house having been most liberally patronized during the warm weather.

"The mode," says the N. Y. Mercury, "by which the advent of Barry Sullivan is announced, is neither truthful nor tasteful. The show bills speak of this gentleman (an Irish actor with British proclivities) as 'the world's greatest tragedian.' Even were this announcement true, it would be in the highest possible bad taste upon the walls of the theatre which still bears the name of Edwin Booth. It would also be a direct fling at E. L. Davenport, Lawrence Barrett, John McCullough, and Edwin Adams, who are all approved American tragedians, with a very numerous following. But the announcement is not true even in Great Britain, where Phelps, Fechter, Creswick, and Irving appear to be much more in popular favor than ever Barry Sullivan was in his palmy days. Besides, the announcement also excludes Salvini, because the phrase employed is 'the world's greatest tragedian.'"

These places of amusement are to reopen for the season during the present month: Daly's Fifth Avenue and the Metropolitan opened on the 2d; the Union Square, Wallack's and the Theatre Comique, will open on Monday, the 16th; Darling's (formerly Bryant's) Opera House, and the Academy of Music, with Kiraliy's "Around the World," on the 23d; and Booth's, the Globe and the Olympic, on the 30th.

Owen Fawcett will return to New York about Sept. 1, and rejoin Daly's Fifth Avenue Company to travel under J. C. Duff.

Miss Anna Louise Cary sailed for Europe July 31st.

Miss Julia Matthews, who is to open the Fall season at Wallack's on Monday next, has the reputation of being in Europe the finest exponent of English translations of the works of the eminent opera bouffe composers, such as Offenbach, Lecocq, etc., and the operas "Girofle-Girofla," "Barbe Bleue," "Grand Duchesse," "La Belle Helene," etc.

The Vokes Family and Mr. John T. Raymond arrived from England on the 27th.

The Dublin Times writes enthusiastically upon the late portrayal in that city of the hapless Sappho by Miss Genevieve Ward, enlarging both upon her personal and mental attractions. Miss Ward will shortly appear in New York.

ELSEWHERE.

Frank Roche, formerly connected with the Boston theatres, will be leading man at the Cincinnati Grand Opera House next season.

Bartley Campbell will manage Hooley's Theatre, Brooklyn, next season. His company will include James O'Neill, as leading man, Clara Fisher Maeder, and Marion Fiske.

Tony Pastor and Troupe will be at the Chestnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, for one week from August 30th.

Mrs. J. J. Pryor will return to the stage at Hooley's Opera House, Brooklyn, next month.

G. L. Fox and troupe open at the Walnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia, on Monday next.

Barney Williams is still at Bath, L. I., and will not play until October.

The latest version of "Robinson Crusoe," made by Mr. Benson Kelly, has been produced at the Museum, Philadelphia, and achieved a very fair success—more of a success than the piece deserved it seems, for it is awkwardly put together, and the language is not of the best.

At nearly all the Philadelphia theatres important changes have been made in the management. At the Walnut Mr. George K. Goodwin, late of the Chestnut, becoming manager; at the Chestnut, Messrs. Gemmill, Scott, Bailey and Keen become the managers; at the Arch, Mrs. John Drew has wisely engaged Mr. Charles Gardiner, late of Chicago, as business manager, in place of Mr. Joseph Murphy; at the Museum it is rumored that Colonel Wood will place the management in the hands of a competent person, and manage a theatre in Chicago.

At a church concert in Chicago on a recent afternoon, Miss Cary, probably for the first time in her life, broke down completely. The Tribune says: "Her third number, Mendelssohn's beautiful aria, 'Oh, Rest in the Lord,' was encored, and, in reply, she came forward and commenced to sing 'Sweet Home.' She had only finished the first line, however, when her feelings overcome her so that she was compelled to stop and take her seat, where she indulged in a good, hearty, old-fashioned fit of crying, getting over it, however, in time to appear in the 'Angel Trio,' although with a very red and swollen face."

Manager Charles Pope, of the St. Louis Olymic, will reopen that theatre, August 30th.

E. L. Davenport will open the regular season at the Arch-street Theatre, Philadelphia, either as Hamlet or Sir Giles Overreach.

Miss Aggie Wood is engaged as soubrette at Hooley's Opera House, Brooklyn.

Nettie Allen died of yellow fever at Key West, Fla., July 14th. She had been a member of John Templeton's Dramatic Company, and being in ill-health, remained there—to die.

Bartley Campbell's "Bulls and Bears," otherwise "Ultimo," will be played as the opening piece of the Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Providence, and Hooley's Brooklyn Theatres.

Mr. Frederick Robinson will appear during the summer season in Fred. Marsden's new play, entitled "At Bay; or Called to Account."

The Boston Theatre was reopened on the 2d of August, with Miss Kate Bateman, in "The Old Curiosity Shop."

TORONTO, July 26th.—Horticultural Gardens, Holman' Opera Troupe, for two weeks; business large. Grand Opera House, Duprez & Benedict's celebrated minstrel troupe, to fine business. Royal Opera House, Charles Fechter and troupe, to fair houses.

Tony Pastor and troupe are at Boston, and will open at the Chestnut, Philadelphia, for one week.

Susan Denin and troupe were at Grand Haven, 9th, 10th and 11th.

CHICAGO, July 26th.—Hooley's Theatre, Union Square Theatre Company, in fourth week with "The Two Orphans," to big business. Rest of theatres closed.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

SATURDAY..............AUGUST 14

Amusements, Etc.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE. — To-night will close the first week of the renewal of "The Two Orphans," a week that has already seen six overflowing houses, and that will see eight. We fully expect to see the next week begin as this left off—with a crowded attendance.

OPERA HOUSE.—"Saratoga" is, we think, the best play the Daly Company does. At any rate it has pleased the public fancy best, and the public after all is the best judge—the one to whom most attention should be, and is paid, at any rate. "Saratoga" was produced for the last time last night. This afternoon and to-night the farewell complimentary benefit to Mr. Augustin Daly, which will include the two performances by Mr. Daly's whole company, and a concert by all of the Hess English Opera Company not engaged. "My Uncle's Will," "Weak Woman," scenes from "Saratoga," and "The Big Bonanza," and songs by Miss Beaumont, Mme. Rosewald, Mrs. Seguin, Mr. Maas Mr. Canly, Mr. Carleton and Mr. Seguin will form the two bills.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—"Lucia di Lammermoor" was produced for the last time last night. Mme. Rosewald's rendition of the florid music of Lucia was, as usual, the feature of the evening. Her style and method are both certainly admirable. This afternoon "Martha," and this evening the first performance in San Francisco of Balfe's posthumous opera of "Il Talismano," of which a long account was published in yesterday's FIGARO. To-morrow evening last performance of "The Huguenots."

MADAME ARABELLA GODDARD.—This lady's farewell concert last evening drew a fair sized and critical audience. What was most looked for was the last composition of Sir William Sterndale Bennett, a sonata in E Flat, having for its subject four incidents or phases of feeling taken from "The Maid of Orleans." It was performed last evening for the first time in public. There are four movements—an andante, an allegio, an adagio and a moto di passione. Of the four, the only one claiming particular notice is the adagro, which offers a beautiful specimen of a prayer without words. The andante pastorale is graceful and easy, but the other two are deficient in their titular characteristics, the first of a martial spirit, and the second of passion. As it was, the prayer depended greatly on Madame Goddard's exquisite taste and skill. Sir Julius Benedict's fantasia on "The Star Spangled Banner" is a brilliant piece of pianoforte pyrotechnics, and was played so brilliantly as to gain a decided encore and make Gilder tremble in his shoes. In consequence of sudden indisposition, Madame Fabbri was unable to appear, her place being taken by a Madame Bernhard. This afternoon Madame Goddard's farewell matinee, with a programme including Beethoven's sonata pathetique.

FAREWELL BENEFIT TO MR. JAMES A. HERNE.—To-morrow evening Mr. James A. Herne will take a farewell benefit previous to his departure for Australia. A bill of extraordinary attractiveness has been prepared, embracing the drama of "A Hard Struggle," with Miss Georgie Woodthorpe as Amy; Baby Benson in her specialties, and Frank Murdoch's play, entitled "The Lighthouse Cliffs," with James A. Herne in his original character of Oliver Liveoak. Baby Benson's appearance is her last previous to leaving for Australia.

MR. EBERLE'S BENEFIT.—On Wednesday next the stage manager of the California Theatre takes a matinee benefit, when Miss May Howard will make her only appearance in this city previous to going East. Mr. Eberle has been presented with a testimonial from all the members of the company offering their services. The box sheet is open today. The bill will consist of "East Lynne" and a varied performance of many attractions, amongst them, notably the "Old Sexton" by W. H. Crane of the Hooley Comedy Troupe.

GRAND CHAMPION BILLIARD MATCH.—This Saturday evening a grand billiard match, at the three-ball French carom game, will be played at Wilson's Palace Amphitheatre, between John Deery, ex-champion of the United States, and Anthony Kraker, the champion of the Pacific coast. A lively game is expected, much money, in addition to the stakes, having been put up.

GRAND WRESTLING MATCH.—A wrestling match will take place on Monday evening next at the Palace Amphitheatre, between Wm. Farrel and John McMahon, for the championship of America. Reserved seats can be secured at Oscar Lewis' saloon, Sutter street. Farrell, it may be rembered, is the man who successfully met McLaughlin at Platt's Hall some months ago.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—"The Naiads of the Ocean" draws immensely. Kimic's scenes are great, Swain and West's song and dance takes well, and the whole bill is good.

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.—Lon Dixon made his reappearance last night, and was well received. Jester, the man with the Talking Hand, is also a great success. All the acts and the olio are good.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS—ATTRACTIONS. The grand combination troupe performs Saturday and Sunday. Pedro Gonzales and Jesus Perez, the Mexican gymnasts in their somersault rope dancing; Borthwick Reid, the champion trick swordsman; Miss Linden in operatic selections; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts; Will Stevens as the flying man; Mlle. Victorine and Josie, the infant dancer.

NOTES.

Mr. J. F. Zimmerman, the business agent of the C. D. Hess English Opera Troupe, leaves for the East on Sunday. As an agent, Mr. Fred. Zimmerman has few equals—steady, obliging, untiring and ever willing to please. Press and public have much to thank him for. We are glad to find that his connection with the present opera company—although we suppose it will travel under the name of the Kellogg Opera Troupe—will not be severed, and we hope that another six months will bring back pleasant Fred Zimmerman, whom we now wish God speed.

Although the regular season of the English Opera Company ends this evening, Mr. Hess has been induced by the incessant paying patronage which has favored him here, to remain another week, which will make a season of seven weeks, or fifty-six performances. Of the company, and of the season we shall have more to say when "the time of their departure draweth nigh." The order of business for the coming week will be—Monday evening, "Il Talismano;" Tuesday evening, benefit of Miss Beaumont, who will appear as Leonora, in "Il Trovatore;" Wednesday, first presentation of "Crown Diamonds; Thursday, benefit of Mr. Henry Peakes, and presentation of acts from "Faust," "Fra Diavolo" and "The Bohemian Girl;" Friday, benefit of Mrs. Seguin, with bill not yet fixed upon, and Saturday evening, benefit of Mme. Rosewald.

Manager John Wilson has another mammoth project on foot, or rather on horse. On Saturday next there will be opened on the big lot, corner of Seventh and Mission streets, the largest hippodrome that has ever been put under canvass in the United States. The course, which is oval in shape, is little short of a quarter mile in length. The track will be made a fair, sound race track, and the performances will consist of chariot races, horse races, etc., all conducted on a gigantic scale. There are two car-loads of paraphernalia en route, whilst the stud at present occupies the ocean race track. Some idea of the size of the undertaking may be gathered from the fact that the present traveling tent will be used simply as a dressing-room. The tent will be up by the middle of the coming week, and the performances inaugurated at its close.

The order of business at the California Theatre will simply be a repetition of "The Two Orphans," and a repetition of the immense houses that have attended its every performance this week. There seems no reason why this wonderful melodrama should not run out the three weeks of the Lingard engagement.

One of the features of Mr. Dominick Murray's engagement, which succeeds that of Mr. Lawrence Barrett, will be the production of Chas. W. Barry's dramatization of Fennimore Cooper's "Spy." It has the advantage of being the first of the swarm of patriotic plays which are to rank hereafter as Centennial Dramas.

Howard Paul has lately composed several new comic songs. He will come to this country again next season and sing them. Unhappy we! What have we done, please Mr. Paul, that you should seek thus to afflict us? Paul, Paul, why persecutest thou us?

Mr. C. D. Hess, as manager of the Kellogg English Opera Troupe for next season, will have a company of which he may well be proud. Miss Annie Montague, the new "secunda donna" of the troupe, has arrived in New York, and will make her debut at Booth's Theatre in October. She is an American and has been studying with Berianti, at Milan, for the past five years. Berianti speaks of her as a most promising pupil. "The Lily of Killarney," with new music by Sir Julius Benedict, will be amongst the repertoire of the company. Mr. Maas has been re-engaged.

Virginia City has been particularly lively, a complimentary to a street bible lecturer having taken place at the Opera House on Sunday evening last.

W. H. Woodfield, late of the Oates Troupe, has become the tenor of the Robinson Hall English Opera Company.

Bartley Company has written a new politico-society play, with the scene of action laid in Washington and San Francisco. It is named "Pet."

Emerson's Minstrels are at present in Cincinnati. They open at St. Louis on the 23d for two weeks, thence to New York.

Montgomery Queen's Circus shows at Jackson, Mich., to-night. Will open at Grand Rapids on Monday.

In answer to one or two pertinent inquiries as to what had been done with the moneys collected for and contributed to the Bryant Relief Fund, we are enabled to state that the Treasurer of the Fund has paid Mrs. Bryant $16,164 99, including $7,000 from the theatrical managers of New York.

The Alleghanians last heard from at Eugene City, where they were playing to fair houses.

The Wilton Troupe made its appearance in Grass Valley on Tuesday evening, and played "The Cigar Girl of Cuba" and "The Irish Heiress," to a good house. The "biz" on Wednesday evening was equally as good.

The Hooley Comedy Troupe open at the Opera House on Bush street on Monday evening next in "Ultimo." A cheeky thing by jingo!

The Kennedy family are holding their own at San Jose, and played on Monday and Tuesday evening to very fair houses.

Jennie Lee opened at the Salt Lake Theatre on Monday in "May Blossom," a protean drama written especially for Miss Lee and her very talented husband. We call it protean because Miss Lee assumes six distinct characters and Mr. Burnett three. Lotta and J. K. Emmett had better look to their laurels. They will be followed by the Daly Fifth Avenue Troupe.

The Hooley Comedy Troupe opened at San Jose on Monday in "The Two Orphans." On Wednesday evening "Ultimo" was produced to the biggest house of the season. Even the San Joseites saw some humor therein. The Mercury in speaking of the performance says: "After seeing "Ultimo" last night, we do not wonder that the San Francisco people were delighted with it. It is a play brimful of fun and every character was well taken. The central figure of the piece is an antiquated scientific Professor (W. H. Crane.) Crane, by his impersonation of the character would make a dog laugh. As a bit of eccentric comedy it deserves to stand side by side with Raymond's Colonel Sellers, or Owens' Solon Shingle. Kennedy as De Haas; gave us another exquisite characterization. He fairly divided the honors with Crane."

Somewhere about the 30th of August, "The Two Lives," a dramatization of "A Tale of Two Cities" by G. W. How and W. L. Alden, will be produced at the California Theatre, with Barton Hill as Sydney Carton.

Alfred Wilkie has organized a company to perform Arthur Sullivan's comic operetta of "Cox and Box."

We have received from M. Gray the song of "Give me Kisses," by Felix Marti, and "The Bonanza Waltz" by Miss Mary Jane Shawhan, aged nine years. It is dedicated to Messrs. Flood & O'Brien.

The Lingards, at the conclusion of their engagement at the California Theatre, will sail for Australia, where L. S. Lynch, their agent, has been for some time. They start, most probably, by the first steamer in September.

Prof. Alfred Seward, late organist of Trinity Church, has returned to San Francisco, under engagement to St. John's Church. On Wednesday evening last Mr. Seward gave an organ recital at St. John's, and proved that his hands had lost none of their cunning.

"Mrs. John Sefton," says the New York Dispatch, "will remain in San Francisco and play at the California Theatre next season." Unfortunately this is not the case. Mrs. Sefton is under engagement to Mr. Wallack, and will return East on Thursday next.

Mr. Harley Merry, late scene painter with Mr. Hooley here, is now at work on the scenery of the Chestnut-street Theatre, Philadelphia.

Some embryo Boucicault is writing a drama of California life entitled "The Starbottle Claim." Bret Harte should hurry up with his Starbottle drama.

During the engagement of the Fox Humpty Dumpty Troupe the California Theatre Company will take a holiday. During the holiday Mr. T. W. Keene will play an engagement at Wood's Museum, New York.

At each of the new theatres very creditable progress has been made. At that on Mission street the lathing is so far advanced that three more days will see it finished. The plastering will commence on Monday. The border lights and footlights are in place, and the wheels for hoisting and lowering the scenery are up in the rigging loft. At that on Market street the progress is remarkable. The second circle is built and the third circle is rapidly getting in position. The stage will soon be put in hand. As soon as the theatre proper is built all the machinery, which is at present in the hands of a corps of carpenters at a shop on Mission, between Fifth and Sixth, will at once be put in place.

"Martha" will be played this afternoon, and it may be interesting for those who are listening to its music to read (between acts) a fact or two concerning the opera. No opera has ever been more popular than Flowtow's "Martha." Since 1849, when it first appeared, it has been performed upward of one hundred times at all the great theatres of the world; and it still is a perfect gold mine for its composer, who derives from it alone, aside from his other operas, an income of at least 20,000 florins a year. Frederick von Flotow has always been a favorite child of fortune. Although nothing more than an amateur in 1845, and in effect a mere stripling, his first operatic venture, "Allessandro Stradella," proved so thorough a success that his name was ranked amongst the foremost operatic composers of Europe. At the age of twenty-three he was hailed as a peer by Meyerbeer, Auber and Rossini, and his beautiful opera rapidly made the tour of the world. His next composition, "Martha," made him most popular of his brethren among the operatic composers of Europe. It had two hundred successive representations at the Opera Comique in Paris, and soon became a favorite with the operagoers of the civilized nations.

If the contract is carried out, on dit, and we see no reason why it should not be, the Grand Opera House, on Mission street, will be handed over in a completed state to Madame Fabbri on the 15th of October. The season will commence most probably on the following Sunday evening. Madame Fabbri, of course, looks for and deserves the most unmistakable and general endorsement of the public in this great undertaking. The chief members of the company are all en route for San Erancisco, and we can assure our readers that both company and performances will be of a character to merit that endorsement. Mr. Charles Schutz will be the business manager.

At the grand clog-contest at Arnheim and Freeman's benefit, at Pacific Hall, last Tuesday evening, Mr. Morris Welch was the winner of the gold medal and the championship of the Pacific coast. The medal is now open for all.

The first game for the championship between the Eagle and San Francisco Base-ball Clubs will take place to-morrow afternoon at half-past 1 at the Recreation Grounds. A good game may be expected, as the Eagles turn out a strong nine.

The house at the California Theatre last evening was a wopper, French counting up over $1,200.

The N. Y. Spirit of the Times is always correct in its news, as witness this paragraph: "The Big Bonanza" is drawing very large houses at the Opera House, San Francisco, and so is "The Shaughraun" at McGuire's.

Mr. Daly and company leave San Francisco this evening. Whilst the season has not been on the whole a thoroughly successful one, it at least has borne its lessons. It has proved for one thing that a good stock company will pay here, provided Darwin's theory of the "selection of the fittest" is carried out. So much depends upon the plays presented. If the company is fit for "Saratoga," "Mons Alphonse," and plays of that ilk, why put on old English comedies and sensational dramas. The company is eminently adapted here as it was in New York to the plays which it made its successes in,—which would read very much like an axiom were it not for "The Big Bonanza" postulate. Mr. Daly deserves infinite credit for his pluck in bringing so large a company to great a distance, and if the preliminary advertising lead the public into expectations which were hardly realized, 'twas an excess of business tact which is certainly no crime in this age of pull devil, pull baker. Should Mr. Daly decide to visit San Francisco again, he will most probably find the city somewhat grown, and certainly a warm welcome from the many who have had to thank him for the frequent opportunities of spending pleasant evenings. The company will open at Virginia City on Monday night, playing there three nights and a matinee.

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

On the occasion of the first benefit of Salvini in London he was presented with a massive piece of silver plate in the form of a cigar box.

Adelaide Neilson will begin an engagement at the London Haymarket, December 26th.

An Italian opera troupe will follow the Prince of Wales on his trip in India.

Mr. Charles Wyndham is now playing Bob Sackett, in a Germanized version of "Saratoga," at the Wallner Theatre, Berlin.

The London correspondent of a New York paper thus describes Jenny Lind, as seen at a recent gathering: "She dresses her hair in precisely the same style as when in America, twenty-five years ago. It is but slightly tinged with frost, and is nearly as full and flowing as of yore. Age has more particularly left its imprint in the shape of crows' feet on her chin and neck, and at the corners of her eyes and mouth. She has the same blended expression of firmness and sweetness of temper, the same winning smile, and the same simplicity of behavior. She was dressed in a dark ash-colored silk, with a rich India shawl thrown loosely over her shoulders. On her head was a small straw hat bearing a short white plume. She was accompanied by her husband and two lovely daughters, aged about eighteen and twenty, looking very much as their gifted mother did at their age. Mr. Goldschmidt shows the effect of age and study, his head being as bald and shining as a white bean."

The reported scheme for the revival of "Othello," at Drury Lane, with Nilsson and Tamberlik, is untrue.

Offenbach never allowed his daughter to see his operas till she was married." What bosh! Why everyone knows that Mary Jane Offenbach was always in a private box on first nights with her pa. We have seen her at the Theatre Comique a half dozen times ourself.

Mlle. Zare Thalberg sings at private parties in London two or three times every week, receiving £105 at each entertainment.

Princess Poniatowsky, widow of the composer, has arrived in London on a visit to Mme. Christine Nilsson.

Miss Bateman, it is said, has brought from Mr. Tennyson the exclusive right to use his drama of "Queen Mary" on the English stage for five years.

Howard Paul appeared at the Haymarket 12th, in "Locked Out."

Mr. and Mrs. Billington were to appear 19th at the Globe.

Signorina Caterina Marco, daughter of the late Mark Smith, has been received with marked favor by the Italian operatic critics. She has already appeared as Gilda in "Rigoletto" eighty times, in "La Sonnambula" thirty-four times, in "I Masnadieri" twenty-five times, and in "I Promessi Spozi" eighteen times. She will sing at Moscow and St. Petersburg next season.

Joaquin Miller in His Glory.

Joaquin Miller is at Long Branch, where his new devotees, Olive Logan and husband, sun themselves in his yellow smiles. Joaquin, when in Rome, used to pose himself every evening just at sunset on the Spanish steps, throw his cloak over his shoulder, and become inspired; the world in Rome is there at sunset, but any attempt at recognition dans ce moment was calmly ignored by the poet of the Sierras. His fits of inspiration used sometimes to come upon him in a drawing-room "of an evening." He would rush to the piano abruptly, in case the piano occupied the most prominent position in the room, and give himself up to a fine frenzy. His audacity is unbounded. On being introduced to the wife of a distinguished American sculptor, whose exclusiveness is well known, he bowed, and made the following extraordinary speech: "The sweetest flowers grow nearest the ground." When he takes his leave of his hostess he exclaims "Lady!" and exits. "Lady" is a poet's privilege. Imagine him bowing over Olive Logan's hand, the peerless Olive supported on the left by Wirt Sikes. Then "Lady!" and exit below his sombrero.

A Lightning Reporter.

An editor of a Boston paper recently employed a graduate of the Yale school of journalism, as a reporter, and sent him off immediately to a neighboring town to work up a mu [illegible] r case. After waiting two days, the editor was horrified to receive a telegram from his ambitious protege, reading, "Have got all the facts and am just going out fishing. Will be down in a day or two." He was true to his word, but after looking at the editor through an opening in the door of the sanctum, he seemed to understand that journalism was not his forte and stole silently away.

A Lightning Story.

He didn't look like a liar. He had, in fact, a George Washington face, and his enunciation was loudly honest and decidedly nasal. He sat roasting his alternate sides in front of a red hot saloon stove, amidst a party of fellows who were trying to outlie each other. "Talkin' about lightnin'," said he, "I reckon none o' you lazzaroni was ever struck, was you? No! Well, I was. Yes, you see, I was out shootin' prairie chickens in Eelinoy last August, and there came up the awfulest thunder storm I ever seen in the whole course of my life. It rained cats and dogs, and the thunder rolled, and forked lightnin' darted all over the sky like fiery tongues. I got behind a hay stack that sort o' leaned over to the south, and the first thing I knowed the lightnin' struck that and set it on fire. Then I moved to a walnut tree that stood near, and a double-jointed bolt ripped that into splinters. I moved to another tree, and the lightning struck it. Then I began to think it meant me, and so I jest walked out, humped myself up, and took three or four of the nastiest claps I ever heered. It shuck me up right peart, but beyond rippin' the coat offen my back, and splittin' one o' my boots from top to toe, it didn't do me no particular damage. But you didn't find old Jim around huntin' a row o' that kind again." The discomfitted listeners in the same line of oratory looked curiously into each other's faces for a moment, and then one by one silently arose and sneaked out, leaving Truthful James master of the field.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Il Talismano" was produced on Saturday evening for the first time, and "The Huguenots" for the last time last evening. In consequence of Mr. Carleton's sudden indisposition, "Il Talismano" will not be repeated this evening. "The Bohemian Girl" will be given in its place.

California Theatre.

The box sheet bears a good showing for every performance during this coming week, which it should be well remembered is the last of "The Two Orphans." We fully expect a continuation of the crowded houses commencing to-night.

Opera House.

The Hooley Company returned last evening from San Jose and will open at this little theatre to night in their great success of "Ultimo." All the members of the company are looking well and one may expect a rattling performance as a send off.

Mr. Eberle's Benefit.

On Wednesday afternoon next Mr. Eberle, the stage manager of the California Theatre takes a matinee benefit, when Miss May Howard will make her only appearance in this city previous to going East. Mr. Eberle has been presented with a testimonial from all the members of the company offering their services. The box sheet is open and filling. The bill will consist of "East Lynne" and a varied performance of many attractions, amongst them, notably the "Old Sexton" by W. H. Crane of the Hooley Comedy Troupe.

Buckley's Variety New Theatre.

"The Naiads of the Ocean" still form the main attraction of this place, but all the acts and every part of the olio will be found up to the mark. "Obeying Orders," "Uncle Jim's Visit" and "Prof. Fowler" are the new acts for to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Lon Dixon in his specialties, Charley Harris in his Dutch peculiarities, G. W. Jester with his Talking Hand, Hughey Robinson in his local hits, George C. Thompson in his character delineations are all on to-night.

A Grand Wrestling Match.

A wrestling match will take place this evening at the Palace Amphitheatre, between Wm Farrel and John McMahon, for the championship of America. Reserved seats can be secured at Oscar Lewis' saloon, Sutter street. Farrell, it may be rembered, is the man who successfully met McLaughlin at Platt's Hall some months ago.

The Fair.

The Ninth Industrial Exhibition, under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute, will be opened to the public at the Industrial Fair Building, Eighth street, between Market and Mission, to-morrow morning at eleven o'clock, with the usual ceremonies. The Hon. M. J. Shaw will deliver the opening address.

Herold's Matinees.

Herrold's third orchestral matinee (new season,) will be given on Wednesday afternoon next.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Notes.

Mr. Herne's benefit was not crowded but the performance was evidently enjoyed by those present.

Although the regular season of the English Opera Company ended on Saturday, Mr. Hess has been induced by the incessant paying patronage which has favored him here, to remain another week, which will make a season of seven weeks, or fifty-six performances. The order of business for this week will be—Monday evening, "Il Talismano;" Tuesday evening, benefit of Miss Beaumont, who will appear as Leonora, in "Il Trovatore;" Wednesday, first presentation of "Crown Diamonds; Thursday, benefit of Mr Henry Peakes, and presentation of acts from "Faust," "Fra Diavolo" and "The Bohemian Girl;" Friday, benefit of Mrs. Seguin, with "The Doctor of Alcantara" and the fourth act of "Rigoletto" for bill; Saturday, benefit of Mme Rosewald and Sunday last night of the season.

Campi's new restaurant, on Clay street, was opened yesterday, to a rush of customers, all giving the same verdict of "One of the best appointed places in the city."

The billiard match played at the Palace Amphitheatre, on Saturday night, resulted in a score of 600 by Kraker to Deery's 593, being one of the closest matches on record. The game did not conclude until two o'clock on Sunday morning.

One of the features of the Industrial Exhibition will be a "New England Kitchen," an arrangement under the superintendence and management of a fit body of ladies for furnishing visitors with wholesome fare, fairly set. For the further entertainment of the guests "Mrs. Dorothy Doolittle, she who was Dame Margary Blake," will sing the song of the "Old Kitchen Floor."

One Dollar Hats

They do not keep in "The" Hat store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, but persons desiring a good, durable and stylish hat at a reasonable price should go there, and they will find a larger and more select stock than anywhere in the city. Their motto is: "The best at the lowest possible prices." "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

The Wigwam.

The best hot lunch to be had in the city is prepared at Ad. L. Waugaman's, 773 Market street, under Fitzgibbon's Dancing Academy; also, a select stock of Wines, Liquors, etc.

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

Ladies About to Furnish Houses

Will do well to call and examine our new and beautiful styles of wood carpets and wainscots, at 46 Geary street.

BABY SONG.

Does baby know
That under the snow
The little plants
Are beginning to grow?
And violets blue,
In glad surprise,
Will open their eyes
When the white snow flies?

No—but baby knows
That under the snows
Of the mother's breast
His Eden is;
And his little hand
Is finding the land
Where the sweets are his.

How Dundreary got his Start.

I saw Sothern make his first stumble in "Lord Dundreary," that fortunate stumble into £100,000. Laura Keene, having her own pretty theatre, brought out the "American Cousin," with an unknown actor named Joseph Jefferson as the Cousin, then the great part, and wishing to fill in what is called a "carpenter's scene," asked Sothern to be funny" for so long a time. He consented, and, having made the audience laugh by a trip coming in, concluded to introduce the Dundreary hop. He had a cold, and accidentally sneezed, and this incorporated another success. Thus was born one of the most remarkable characters of eccentric comedy. How little did the young actor think that he was to play for sixteen years, and to thousands of persons, the character thus carelessly inaugurated!

Mr. Sothern, who played at Wallack's Theatre before this under the name of Mr. Stewart, was very graceful and clever and attractive then. I remember him in a little musical interlude called Jenny Lind, in which he sang charmingly, and he played Armand to Miss Heron's Camille, very beautifully. All of this was swallowed up by the after success of his Dundreary—a great loss, as Mr. Sothern can do a great deal else, and well.

Joseph Jefferson's love-making in the "American Cousin" was profoundly delicate and beautiful; his humor and naivete the world knows by heart, and he went off to fame and "Rip Van Winkle." The "American Cousin has these three remarkable things attached to it—it made the fame of Sothern, it founded that of Jefferson, and it was being played when President Lincoln was assassinated. Laura Keene caught Booth's arm as he jumped from the box, and rushed herself to the spot where the President lay dying. Her handsome dress was dyed with his blood.

An Exciting Rehearsal.

There is a family up in Davenport, Iowa, where the members are not much alarmed at a prospect of a raid from burglars, though times are hard and poor men driven to crime and the head of the family is a bank cashier. This bank cashier is a man who reads the newspapers, and not long ago he became impressed with the numerous accounts of robbers entering the cashiers house at night, gagging and binding the inmates, and forcing the cashier to accompany them to the bank and open the way to the treasure. This Davenport cashier is resolved that he will not go when his time comes, and so he is taking preparatory steps to secure the necessary nerve and vigor on the part of his family when the event takes place. His precautions lie in a rehearsal. Every night he gets up and arms himself with some deadly weapon like a bologna sausage or a vase from the mantel. He binds his wife firmly to the bed-post, threatening her with instant and horrible death the while, and binds in like manner all other members of the family. Then he gags himself and marches off to the bank supposably, but leads the imaginary robbers into a trap by going directly to the jail. He derives a vengeful satisfaction from this rehearsal, but the family have not enjoyed it so much since the cold weather came on. They even yearn for real robbers, in order that this rehearsal business may be done with.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions Club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and all epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescoed and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

The climax of "dead-headism" has been reached in the passes to heaven issued by George, Bishop of Salvador, to his partisans in the San Miguel riots.

A flaming youth—Burns in his boyhood.

The earth is dirty while the ocean is tidy.

How to "repel boarders"—Give 'em hash.

The New Orleans Bulletin thus discourses: "If men are the salt of the earth, women are the sugar. Salt is a necessity, sugar is a luxury. Vicious men are the saltpetre; hard, stern men, the rock salt; nice, family men, the table salt. Old maid are the brown sugar; good-natured matrons, the loaf sugar; pretty girls, the fine pulverized white sugar."

Says a wit: "Last year I saw a watch spring, a note run, a rope walk, a horse fly, and even the big trees leave. I even saw a plank walk, and a Third avenue bank run, but the other day I saw a tree box, a cat fish, and a stone fence. I am now prepared to see the Atlantic coast and the Pacific slope."

The first thing a man takes to in his life is his milk—the last is his bier.

The best trade mark—Cash received.

Marry-time engagements—Naming the day.

The favorite pudding among lawyers—Suet.

Query.—When they make an oyster-bed do they use a seaweed mattress?

When is a soldier's amunition box like a country road?—When it is full of cartridges.

The wife of "Max Adler" weighs 200 pounds. When Max asks her, "Shall I help you over the fence?" she replies demurely, "No; help the fence."

The necropolitan scourge, called baseball, permeates the population of the Sandwich Islands. The champion club in Honolulu is entitled the "Whangdoodles."

The zeal of the relic hunters has reached the climax. A gentleman of Jackson, Tenn., has preserved in alcohol a bedbug which was caught in a bed Gen. Jackson slept in.

Podder was attacked with an ailment for which his doctor prescribed calomel. After he had taken it for some time, the doctor asked him one day if the medicine had in any manner affected his teeth. "I don't know," faintly whispered Podder, "but you can see; they are in the top drawer of the bureau. Mrs. Podder will hand them to you."

This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

TUESDAY................AUGUST 17

In the Detroit Police Court.

LOVED IN VAIN.

"Martha Jack, I'm sorry to see you here," said his Honor to the next prisoner, a tall woman with sad eyes.

"I wish I hadn't come," she sobbed.

"Well, I suppose you couldn't help yourself, Martha, but please don't look so sad and melancholy. Right now, when every woman is making currant jelly and raspberry jam, you ought to smile like a cow in a cornfield."

"Don't abuse me," she wailed, as she wiped her eyes,

"I won't, Martha; I wouldn't abuse my own grandmother. On the contrary, I ask you to cheer up. There's light ahead, Martha."

"There's no light for me," she said, as she carefully wiped her nose.

"It may be that you have loved in vain?" he queried.

"Yes, sir—that's it, sir."

"Well, I can't blame you, then, for throwing a dead cat over into your neighbor's garden, and raising a row. I have loved, and loved in vain. I loved a fat woman one. Ah! she was beautiful—she was gorgeous—she was worth two yoke of oxen and the best corn-sheller in Medina county. My love was in vain. She turned away from me as the polar bear turns from a drifting barrel full of dollar-store diamonds and wishes they were veal cutlets. It was years and years ago, Martha, but even when I think of it now I feel as if I could tear a three-story house down and pick my teeth with the splinters."

She sobbed aloud.

"Go home, Martha," he said, huskily, "go home and put the Monday washing to soak, and be prepared to enter upon the arduous duties of the coming week. Don't be reckless any more—don't throw any more cats around—remember that other hearts suffer with yours."

THE NEXT ONE

Was also a woman—a thick set, scowling woman of forty—who came out of the corridor with the full intention of freeing her mind if it killed her.

"This is a case of ——," commenced his Honor, when she snarled:

"'Tain't a case either—it's only pure spite!"

"You are charged, Mrs. Baker, with ——"

"I don't care a snap for your charges!" she said.

"Mrs. Baker, will you shut up?"

"No, sir!"

"No even to oblige me?"

"No, sir!"

"Then, Mrs. Baker, I shall shut you up?"

"You can't do it!"

"Mrs. Baker, would you rather eat mush and molasses in the House of Correction for the next three months than remain at liberty and be privileged to go to picnics and have some loafer with a red nose step on the trail of your dress and tear the skirt off?" he asked.

"Well, nobody can boss me around!" she exclaimed.

"You are an ugly woman."

"And you are a mean man!"

"And I'll send you up."

"And I don't care!"

"And it's three months."

"Make it four!"

"I'll do it!"

And he did.

There were no other cases, and when the Maria drove around, Mrs. Baker said she'd murder the first man who dared lay hands on her. Four of the officers surrounded her and carried her to the vehicle, handcuffed her to the seat, and the band threw orange peel at her red nose and sang:

"Her hair is red, her nose is the same.
Her temper is fearful to see;
She ought to be caged, the same as a bear,
Or somebody's death she will be."

A Warning.

The following story may be, not inopportunely perhaps, recommended to the notice of any one who, fired with an enthusiasm for literature, think of devoting themselves to the distinguished professaon of journalism. A far West newspaper, having admitted some strong personalities into its columns, announces that it is obliged to cease publication for the following reason: "Our editor has lately disappeared; according to the latest information he was last seen under a tree, slightly raised above certain persons who were—pulling at a rope!"

Mathew Nunan.

The Democratic candidate for sheriff will, undoubtedly fill that office well, not only on account of his capabilities for that position, but because he has been long and favorably known among the commercial community as strictly honest is all his transactions.

Great Snakes.

A correspondent of the London Times, who was present at the Zoological Gardens when a dozen Indian cobras were removed from a box in which they had traveled into a cage, describes the mode in which those deadly reptiles were handled by the keeper as truly astonishing. With his long-handled wire-hook, he from a respectful distance, managed to draw out a snake, tail first, and, catching it by the tip, let it gently down head foremost into its new cage, the lid of which, a glass slide, was open just wide enough to receive it. One after another, eight corbras were thus removed and safely housed, some dilating their hoods and angrily hissing as they tried to strike whatever object they could reach. Snake charmers and Indian jugglers thus handle the cobras with impunity. Suspended by the tail they are powerless to raise themselves and wound the hand that holds them; but care must be taken lest the creature strike at the limbs.

"Steady Enough."

A few days since two couples from Davenport were at Des Moines, and while viewing the sights inspected the new capitol building. Just how they managed to reach the second story is unknown. The first thing the workmen knew of their presence was when they were seen walking around at that height, thirty-five feet from the ground. Finally they completed their sight-seeing and commenced preparations for a descent to terra firma. The way down was a long ladder. One of the gentlemen of the party remarked to his lady: "I'll go down and steady the ladder." Then the maid took hold of the masculine Davenport's ears, and remarked: "Young man, that ladder's steady enough: you wait here until I go down first." He waited.

A Worthy Official.

Mr. Samuel Kent our present competent superintendent of streets, will we hope receive the nomination of the 24. His annual report is certainly very satisfactory, and shows his thorough knowledge of the requirements of our city.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Amusements, Etc.

Opera House.

The Hooley Company was cordially welcomed back last night, the favorite comedy of "Ultimo" being chosen for the initial performance. The Professor of W. H. Crane and the De Hass of Kennedy are as bright and cheery and comical as of yore. All the other members, too, play their respective parts with due respect to the honest making up of the general fun. The changes in the cast are very slight, Mrs. Charles Edmonds plays Mrs. Lexington vice Miss Mestayer, and the two extraneous mining characters have been lopped off. "Ultimo" will be played this and to-morrow nights. Thursday "David Garrick" and "Jenny Lind."

Maguire's New Theatre.

In consequence of the sudden indisposition of Mr. Carleton, the second performance of "Il Talismano" was unavoidably postponed. The "Bohemian Girl" was put on as a substitute and drew well. Mme. Rosewald sang "Arline," and Miss Beaumont the "Gipsy Queen," in place of Mrs. Seguin, whom this glorious climate has also nipped in the throat. This evening Miss Annie Beaumont takes her benefit, when she will offer a bill consisting of "Il Trovatore," the third act of "Il Talismano," and Braga's song of "The Angel's Serenade" with violoncello obligato.

California Theatre.

"The Two Orphans" will be presented every night for the week. So familiar is the public with every detail of this exciting drama, that there is no necessity to dwell upon either the play or the characters therein presented. It still moves the audience to tears and smiles as it did on the first night and as it will on the last.

Mr. Eberle's Benefit.

To-morrow afternoon Mr. Eberle, the Stage Manager of the California Theatre, a favorite everywhere, and as much liked in his private individuality as he he is respected in his official capacity, takes a matinee benefit, when Miss May Howard will make her only appearance in this city previous to going East. Mr. Eberle has been presented with a testimonial from all the members of the company offering their services. The box sheet is open and filling. The bill will consist of "East Lynne" and a varied performance of many attractions, amongst them, notably the "Old Sexton" by W. H. Crane of the Hooley Comedy Troupe.

Herold's Matinees.

Herrold's third orchestral matinee (new season,) will be given to morrow afternoon. Among other excellent selections will be found Haydn's Symphonie in D, the overture to "Tannhauser" and Hamm's overture to "The Merry Figaro."

Buckley's Variety New Theatre.

The acts for to-night are especially good, and include the spectacular piece of "The Naiads of the Ocean," whilst the olio introduces every member of the company in his or her best.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Each act has something to recommend it, whilst songs, dance specialties, local hits, banjo solos, etc., etc., are found in the capital olio.

The Wrestling Match,

which came off at the Amphitheatre last night in the presence of a goodly assembly, was characterized by a fairness and squareness in all the arrangements as pleasant as novel. The contending parties were William Farrell and John McMahon, and the stake $1,000 and the championship of America, as collar-and-elbow wrestler. The struggle, which was to be decided by three falls out of five, resulted in a victory for McMahon.

The Fair.

The Ninth Industrial Exhibition, under the auspices of the Mechanics' Institute, was opened to the public at the Industrial Fair Building, Eighth street, between Market and Mission, this morning at eleven o'clock, with the usual ceremonies. The Hon. M. J. Shaw delivered the opening address. The immense building was crowded. Everybody will be there to-night.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

Great attractions Saturday and Sunday; Gonsales and Ferez the Mexican Gymnasts, in their great somersault rope-dancing; Mlle. Gracie the queen of gymnasts in a new act, never done by a lady on this coast, Miss Linden, Mlle. Victorine, Milo and his velocipede and orchestral concert. Thursday Picnic and Ball, Father Mathew Band.

Notes.

The Hooley Troupe must be immensely popular when a man will steal to procure money to attend one of the performances. Wednesday evening one Pat Daley stole a blue coat from a lodger on El Dorado street, sold it for a few dollars, and went to the Opera House. He was shaking his sides with delight at Crane's comical performances, when officer Adams, who had been informed of the theft, dropped in upon him and changed the farce to a real drama.—San Jose Mercury.

Although the regular season of the English Opera Company ended on Saturday, Mr. Hess has been induced by the incessant paying patronage which has favored him here, to remain this week, which will make a season of seven weeks, or fifty-six performances. The order of business for this week will be—this evening, benefit of Miss Beaumont, who will appear as Leonora, in "Il Trovatore;" Wednesday, first presentation of "Crown Diamonds; Thursday, benefit of Mr. Henry Peakes, and presentation of acts from "Faust," "Fra Diavolo" and "The Bohemian Girl;" Friday, benefit of Mrs. Seguin, with "The Doctor of Alcantara" and the fourth act of "Rigoletto" for bill; Saturday, benefit of Mme. Rosewald and Sunday last night of the season.

From the New York dispatches of a contemporary, we [illegible]rn that Edwin Booth was thrown from his carriage last evening and very seriously injured. At 11 P. M. he remained insensible and speechless, and he is considered in a very precarious condition.

Amongst the passengers who went East this morning were Mrs. Caroline Richings-Bernard, Mr. Pierre Bernard, Mrs. Jno. Sefton and Mr. Geo.

[illegible]red Zimmerman will most probably start for the [illegible]as [illegible] his new charge, the Infantile Mexican Opera Bouffe Company to-morrow morning. Everything has been arranged and the prospect of making a successful season looks bright. He opens at Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre on the 4th of October, which is a good send off, then visits each large Eastern city for a week. At present, chief in the repertoire of the company are the two operas of "La Grande Duchesse" and "Robinson Crusoe." Mr. Zimmerman has wisely made it a binding bargain that within the next two months the company is able to produce "La Fille de Madame Angot" and "Girofle-Girofla" or "La Belle Helene." With four such operas, a week or two weeks may be put in anywhere, with success.

VERSICAL ODDS AND ENDS.

The following verse is the latest contribution to temperance literature:

Little drops of whisky
And little drops of water,
Make a fellow frisky—and
Do what he hadn't oughter.

Were I court-plaster, I would be
A patch upon her lip,
And spend my life in ecstacy,
And sip, and sip, and sip.

Were I a pair of spectacles,
How dearly would I prize
A situation on her nose,
To gaze into her eyes!

Come into the garden, Maud,
With a brickbat and a stone;
Here's the biggest cat you ever sawed,
Gnawing a chicken bone;
Run like the mischief, Maud,
I'm with the beast alone!

HOLKES ON HARD MONEY.

Those were the days when money meant
Something that jingled as you went—
No hybrid like the nickel cent,
I'd have you all to know;

But quarter, ninepence, pistareen,
And fourpence ha'pennies in between,
All metal fit to show,
Instead of rags in stagnant green,
The scum of debts we owe.

OVER HER KNEE.

Over her knee, over her knee,
How my old grandmother used to spank me,
Over her knee, over her knee,
When I was quite a small boy!
It was spank, spank, spank;
No use a kicking, for on she went licking.
With spank, spank, spank,
The thing she quite used to enjoy!

"I have the reputation," said a silly fop to a bright young lady, "of having the softest lips that ever pressed those of beauty." "Indeed!" exclaimed the young lady, spontaneously adding:

"Then as like as two chips
Are your head and your lips."

The following seasonable lines were written the other day by a little Brooklyn girl seven years of age:

In hot weather flies
Begin to bite,
And make poor children
Thrash and fight.
In cold weather they
Stay on the wall,
And do not bother
Us at all.

"Gather ye roses while ye may,
Old Time is still a-flying;
And the same flower that smiles to-day,
To-morrow may be dying."

EPITAPH.

Neuralgia worked on Mrs. Smith
Till 'neath the sod it laid her;
She was a worthy Methodist,
And served as a Crusader.

Friends came, delighted at the call,
In plenty of good carriages;
Death is the common lot of all
And comes more oft than marriages.

'Tis sweet to wait, but oh how bitter,
To wait for a girl and then not git 'er.

Spotted Tail is a little more contented since he got some beef cattle and drove them out on the prairie to feed his large family:

Dearest S. Tail thou hast left us,
And thy loss we sore deplore:
How the Indian agent weeps!
Thou hast climbed the golden stair.
Gone to meat his squaws.

The following epitaph is engraved on a tombstone in a churchyard in Ireland—

"Here lies Pat Steet—that's very true.
Who was he? What was he? What's that to you?"

A Foreigner on Clara Morris' Acting.

Says a gentleman, who was in New York on a semi-diplomatic mission, not many months back: "Of all the dramatic artists I saw in America, Miss Clara Morris seemed to me the most remarkable. She has a very fascinating, although by no means a beautiful presence. Her face is very interesting, and capable of much variety of expression. In Camille she was very excellent throughout. She possesses much of Cazzola's (a great Italian actress), magnetic power, and can work herself and her audience up to an extraordinary degree of enthusiasm. There is nothing stagey about what she does, all is natural, although often eccentric and unexpected. I saw her also in an old-fashioned play, "Jane Shore," in which she pleased me greatly, although owing to her reciting poetry, I found it difficult to follow what she said. Her voice is pleasing, and she seems to have studied the French style of acting and to excel in it." We are quite of the same opinion as the gentlemen who wrote the above, and, being an Italian journalist and well-known art critic, as well as a diplomat, he is perfectly, notwithstanding his slight acquaintance with our language, capable of pronouncing a judgment on the merits of an artiste, who is so singularly gifted as Miss Morris.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The Old Mint Restaurant.

At this old-established house, 605 Commercial street, above Montgomery, always noted among the bon vivants for its good things, can be procured the finest and best cooked Oysters, Steaks and Chops, Breakfasts or Dinners, in town. STRAY HITS AND STOLEN HITS.

"John, I came very near selling my shoes the other day," said one man to another. "How was that?" "Why, I had them half-soled."

Licensed whittlers—Yankees.

Hint to idle doctors—practice on your patients.

There is a horrid rumor of the restoration of crinoline.

A lord of the isles—an usher.

One towel lasts a New Hampshire tavern two weeks.

A man named George Washington is earning a comfortable living out West by going around among the hotels and telling landlords about the desperate struggle for life he once had with a New Jersey mosquito.

If a bishop cannot see beyond his nose how little he knows beyond his See.

The new style of feminine skirts appears perfection, but it has its "drawbacks."

When you get into hot water go to your friends. You'll find them cool enough.

A maiden's heart is like an hotel bed, you may never discover the previous occupant, but you may be sure there has been one.

Indiana girls take part in wrestling matches, and there is little difficulty in getting young fellows to follow Jacob's example, and try a bout with any angel they may bring on.

It makes a man and mars a woman to be talked about.

A girl never looks so killing as when you tread on her dress.

A young manufacturer of our acquaintance is making money fast on this motto, parodied from "Poor Richard:" "Early to bed and early to rise; never get tight, and advertise."

A little boy in Springfield, after his customary evening prayer, a night or two ago, continued, "and bless mamma and Jenny and Uncle Benny," adding, after a moment's pause, the explanatory remark, "his name is Hopkins."

"Do you get off here?" asked the purser of the steamer City of Newport of a lady, as the boat was within two or three hundred rods of Bullock's Point, Tuesday afternoon. "No," she responded, and just as the purser was about to tell her that she would have to buy a return ticket, she continued, "I get off when the boat reaches the wharf."

All the clock makers of Connecticut have agreed to a vacation, and will wind up for four weeks.

A bootless task—Putting on one's socks.

Sweets in adversity—A sugar-house failure.

Drinking glass after glass must produce panes in our inside.

In the new edition of Bartlett's Dictionary of Quotations there is not a single line from George W. Childs, of the Philadelphia Ledger, and yet there are several pages from Tennyson.

Since Brooklyn wives have got in the habit of sweetening tea with rat-poison, the restaurants of that city have been unusually well patronized by bald-headed men.

The end-man in a minstrel troupe gets more salary than a village clergyman, but then he perspires more.

There should be no tie votes at a railroad meeting, and no one should be allowed to rail at the Directors.

What are they which, though always drunk, are never intoxicated?—Toasts.

Why is a compositor like a cripple? Because he can't get on without a stick.

In Norway the longest day lasts three months. The man who six months ago promised to call in a day or two and settle his little bill, must have gone to Norway on a visit.

A Maryland doctor agreed to cure a cripple by "laying on of hands," and failing to do so he was so grieved and ashamed that he stole a mule and left the neighborhood at midnight.

"I would advise you to put your head into a dye-tub, it's rather red," said a joker to a sandy-haired girl. "I would advise you to put yours into an oven, it is rather soft," said Nancy.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

One Dollar Hats

They do not keep in "The" Hat store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, but persons desiring a good, durable and stylish hat at a reasonable price, should go there, and they will find a larger and more select stock than anywhere in the city. Their motto is: "The best at the lowest possible prices." "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

The Country Skool Mom.

She is invariably about twenty-three and six months old, and remanes rite thare for a term of years.

She wares her hair either kut short or hanging around in ringlets, and iz as precise in all things as one of Fairbanks improved platform skales.

She never laffs out loud, and seldum even smiles, but when she duz, she duz it accordin' tew the rules lade down by Murray for speakin' out and pronouncing the inglish language korrectly.

She is the very essence of double extracted propriety, and would rather be four years behind the fashions, in her dress and bonnet, than to spel a word wrong, or parse a sentence inkorrectly.

She keeps a scrap book and an album, and would prefer rather to have the autograph of some milk-and-water poet than the name of some good man to a sixty days' note.

The country skool mom seldom dies an an old Maid; she gets married generally to sum man who has but little edukashun, and he thinks (as he ought to) that thare ain't another such a larnt woman on the face of the earth.

With all her precise foolishness, her pompous knowledge, her silly sentimentalism, and her almost always mistaken manner for matter, I respekt the country skool mom; she taught me mi letters, she was pashunt when I was stupid, she soothed me when I was frackshus, and she often (good soul) gave me a titbit from her luncheon at noon time.

May kind heaven strew sum kind ov happiness in her pathway, for she iz paid poorly, worked hardly, and the step-mother to everybody's children: she never receives from the world enything better than the most formal respekt. —Josh Billings.

Didn't See It.

It is seldom easy to see the hidden benefactor in that which is an apparent affliction. A boy who was "confounding" the mosquito was told by his pastor that "doubtless the insects were made with a good end in view," when the young scamp replied, "I cant't see it whether it is in view or not. At any rate, I don't like the end I feel."

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.

There was a marked improvement in the house last evening. It must have gone something like three hundred dollars better than that of Monday night. This afternoon Mr. Eberle, the Stage Manager of the California Theatre, a favorite everywhere, and as much liked in his private individuality as he he is respected in his official capacity, takes a matinee benefit, when Miss May Howard will make her only appearance in this city previous to going East. The bill will consist of "East Lynne" and a varied performance of many attractions, amongst them, notably the "Old Sexton" by W. H. Crane of the Hooley Comedy Troupe. The box sheet shows a glorious house.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Miss Beaumont had for her benefit night a well filled house, the first, second and fourth acts of "Il Trovatore," the third act of "Il Talismano," many encores, more bouquets, and a general sense of there being a favorite on the boards. Miss Annandale sang a couple of songs between the operas, and Mr. Castle played Manrico as tributes to the occasion. To-night the "Crown Diamonds," first and only time, and to-morrow evening benefit of Mr. Henry Peakes with a magnificent house.

Opera House.

"Ultimo" was produced for the second time last evening, and was received with just such favor as of old. It will be played for the last time to-night. To-morrow evening "David Garrick" and "Jenny Lind" We shall be interested to see how Mr. O'Neill plays a character with which Sothern has so identified himself.

Herold's Matinees.

Herrold's third orchestral matinee (new season,) will be given this afternoon. Among other excellent selections will be found Haydn's Symphonie in D, the overture to "Tannhauser" and Hamm's pot pourri of "The Merry Figaro."

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Charley King with his banjo solos makes his first appearance here to-night. The acts have been changed to "Happy Uncle John," "Madame Gassynigger," "Bad Dickey," and "Engaging Talent."

Buckley's Variety New Theatre.

Mortimore always arranges a good programme. To-night we have Kimic in Dutch songs, Swain and West in their song and dance, Geo. Foster in his ballads, Senate in his banjo solos, and all the company in the various acts.

Reisen Keller.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

Great attractions Saturday and Sunday; Gonzales and Ferez the Mexican Gymnasts, in their great somersault rope-dancing; Mlle. Gracie the queen of gymnasts in a new act, never done by a lady on this coast, Miss Linden, Mlle. Victorine, Milo and his velocipede and orchestral concert. Thursday Picnic and Ball, Father Mathew Band.

Notes.

We have received, "with the compliments of Geo. B. Rieman and those of the firm he represents," a medley picture of Bradley & Rulofson's celebrities. The group contains over a hundred portraits artistically arranged, and is like "A dream of fair women and brave men."

Zimmerman and the Infantile Bouffers, left for the East this morning.

Marie Antoinette Nathalie Pollard (we believe that's all) gives her burlesque political speeches to-night at Platt's Hall, in which the broad and rank peculiarities of the three political candidates will be made broader and more rank.

Miss Annie Montague, the new and fair addition to the California Theatre Company, will make her San Francisco debut on Tuesday, the 31st, in "The Two Lives."

New and beautiful designs of Carpets at 116 Sutter street, Hall & Lachman's.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Old Mint Restaurant.

At this old-established house, 605 Commercial street, above Montgomery, always noted among the bon vivants for its good things, can be procured the finest and best cooked Oysters, Steaks and Chops, Breakfasts or Dinners, in town. Terrapins and the choicest brands of Wines and Liquors a specialty. Charges Moderate. D. B. Magee, the new proprietor, invites the public to give the "Old Mint" a trial. N. B. Open to 2:30 A. M. Old fashioned boiled dinners every Saturday. 2-L

"Chicago Moving Westward."

Among the recent arrivals from our sister city Chicago, we note with pleasure the advent of Messrs. T. & D. Lundy, who have just opened at No. 777 Mission street, opposite St. Patrick's church, with the finest assortment ever imported to this coast of black walnut, bronze and marble clocks, suitable for stores, offices and parlor use, also pictures, engravings, mirrors, family bibles, albums, prayer books, etc., etc., all of which they furnish on easy payments.

Baths

At No. 10 Post Street, Masonic Temple. At this establishment can be had the celebrated munso bath, combination hot air, steam, medicated, steam, salt, electro, chemical, hot air, [illegible], steam, mecurial and toilet baths. Office hours, from 8 A. M. to 10 P. M.

Photographic Art

Is supposed by some to be in its infancy. We doubt it much, as it is impossible to imagine pictures retouched and finished with more artistic skill than those we saw at Brodeck & Co's new Art Gallery, 640 Market street, opposite the Palace Hotel.

Fresh and Sweet.

SHE NEVER SMILES.

She never smiles—no happy thought
  Lights up her pensive eye;
The merry laugh from lip to lip
  Passes unheeded by.
Frozen forever in her heart
  The sparkling font of gladness;
And o'er her pours in rapid flood
  The ebon wave of sadness.

She never smiles—has frowning Grief,
  With his stern magic, bound her?
Has Care, his long, lean fingers raised,
  To cast his fetters round her?
Has one so young the lesson learnt
  That love is oft betrayed?
Ah, no! she never smiles, because—
  Her front teeth are decayed!

Wachtel.

The following pathetic story was recently related by a correspondent of the N. Y. Evening Post: "I send you herewith a touching little incident narrated to me by a friend in Leipzig, who was present on the occasion mentioned. The central figure in the story is one so well known to your American readers, that I feel sure anything about him must be of general interest. The Opera House is thronged with an expectant audience, for Theodore Watchtel is to appear in 'der Postilion von Lonjumeau,' and all Leipzig must hear him. Perhaps there is more than one person in that assembly who is thinking what a fine thing it is to be a favorite actor, and wishing that he could exchange places with Wachtel. The audience even fancy that he must be as impatient as they for the curtain to rise and the opera to begin. While they are waiting let us take a peep behind the scenes. The postboy stands at the threshold, and the attendants look from one to the other with awe-struck faces. Through the half-open door of a dressing-room we see the celebrated Wachtel in an agony of grief, and can easily imagine that the paper he has dropped to the floor is a telegram with bad news. In truth it is, for it brings word that his youngest son is dying and wants to see him. He cannot go; the audience must not be disappointed; he must swallow the lump that rises in his throat till it almost chokes him, and assume all the gayety of Chapelon, the Postilion of Lonjumeau. At the end of the second act, while the audience is making the house ring with applause, Wachtel is reading another telegram. This one tells him that his son is dead. At the end of the third act, he thrills the audience as he sings, 'Gute Nacht, mein Herzliches Kind.' They think the postilion is singing that song, but we know that Theodore Wachtel is bidding his child a last good night."

"Cleanliness is Next," Etc.

A Manchester firm which takes all its employees for a day's trip to the seaside during the summer, decided last year to visit Blackpool. It is the general custom of the workers to have a dip in the sea before beginning the usual amusements. "Eh, mon, how dirty ye are!" said one hale Lancashire lad to his fellow-bather. "Missed the trip last year," was the laconic rejoinder.

The-hat-rical.

The audience at a French theatre is never troubled by tall hats worn by ladies. The following was posted up in a conspicuous position, and proved to be very effective: "The manager requests that all good-looking ladies will remove their hats for the accommodation of the rest of the audience. The aged, the bald and the plain are not expected to comply with this request."

Car Politeness.

She stepped into the car radiant with youth and looking pretty and bright in her flower trimmed hat and trim pull-back dress. Four young men immediately offered her their seats. She accepted one with an entrancing smile, and instantly gave it to a poor, wan, little old woman, who had been standing for ten blocks. Whereupon the young men did not know whether to get up again or not, and tried their best not to look foolish.

Boucicault's French Drama.

"The Gymnase Dramatique has numbered another failure," says the Paris correspondent of the N. Y. Spirit of the Times, "in the three-act drama of Lea, by MM. Boucicault and Emile de Najac. It is a new edition of one of the oldest French melo-dramas. It first appeared under the title of 'La Femme a deux Maris,' and told the old, old tale of domestic infelicity. Translated into the English, it entirely lost its French identity, until recently reclaimed. Alas, however, only to be repudiated by the fastidious patrons of the Gymnase, to whom a piece so coarse and brutal could not be acceptable. The role of Lea, the Italian model, was unwisely given to Mlle. Tallandiera. Unfortunately, her voice is monotonous, dull, and inexpressive, and cannot render the changing sentiments and passions of the part. Such a barrier between an actress and the public, cannot be surmounted by all the other qualifications of histronic power that the lady may possess. M. Achard gave a truthful rendering of the odious character of Rowden. He is an excellent type of the English villian. M. Laudrol's representation of the artist, Leigh, was full of dramatic vigor and emotion. The remainder of the cast were better interpreters than the piece deserved. It is a great misfortune that English dramatists, who appropriate so largely from the French, cannot 'give as good as they take,' and they are obliged, in their mental and dramatic weakness, to become the seizers of the things which are Cæsar's. The heart of the French author vacillates between the compliments of the appropriations and the meanness and cruelty of the thefts. But, since 'all the world's a stage,' some may argue that all the plays are common property."

War Recollections.

Several powder-begrimed veterans gathered in a certain police-station the other evening, says the Louisville Courier Journal, to keep out of the rain for a few minutes, and while there discussed the late war.

"I remember," said, "one that a bullet passed clear through George Gay's body and never killed him."

"I recollect," said another, "that a ball lodged in Bill Payson's lung and never was taken out, but he lived."

"I," said a third, "know well when the doctor's thought Henry Hill's life was gone up as a 'minnie' lodged within an inch of his heart, but he lived."

"Jake Johnson's head was pierced by a ball, and he lived," exclaimed the last man but one. These remarks produced considerable surprise, and excited speech from all save a tall, slim and sleepy individual, who waited till his companions concluded, and then drawled, in piping accents: "Those fellows was a little tough, I allow; but Jim Jones, who fit aside of me, was shot in the neck so that his head just hung by the skin."

"Great heavens!" ejaculated all; "you don't mean to say he lived, do you?"

"Oh, no; he died," drawled slim and sleepy.

Bohemia.

The Paris Figaro reports this conversation between two Paris artists: "How are you getting along?" "Oh, very well. I ask now 12,000 francs ($2,400) for a head and 20,000 ($4,000) for a full-length portrait." "Those are my prices also." They walk on a little farther. "How many orders have you got at those prices?" "Not one. And you?" "Not one either."

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

A broken-hearted widow on Mission street, who recently lost her husband, has dyed her lap-dog black while waiting for the Fall styles in mourning goods to be announced.

A small boy of Clay street, in this city, has such respect for old age, that he will never permit his grandfather to sit down without having previously ornamented the chair with a cushion of pins, point upward.

The Sultan of Turkey has eight hundred wives, upon whom he expends two million pounds a year, but he expects to discard them very soon for an American wife. He is now in training, pecuniarily speaking, for the latter event.

"Jump-up-and-run-away-and-then-sit-down-again," is the name of an Indian chief who has just taken the war-path.

Speaking of the sentiment, "She who rocks the cradle rules the world," the Memphis Avalanche says: "In this section she is generally a colored girl, and we don't believe a word of it."

Iowa has a law which forbids a man marrying his step-daughter. It has no law forbidding his marrying his mother-in-law. The Legislature justly thought such a law unnecessary.

"Good enough in some respects, but too stuck up to bet on a dog fight," was the eulogy on a Nevada man.

The tulle veil is very becoming to some women,—the thicker the veil the better the effect.

A smart thing—a mustard plaster.

The hair from a lady's braid should never be worn on the lapel of a gentleman's coat, unless the parties are engaged.

A celebrated wit once said of his debts that it was neither his interest to pay the principal nor his principal to pay the interest.

Green apples are selling at a price which renders it as easy a matter for the poor man's son to hang over a fence and meditate, as if he were born and bred in luxury.

Women will have their own way of doing things. A Milwaukee woman, hearing of the victory of the American riflemen, flung up her bonnet and cheered until the police interfered.

A Missouri girl, advertising for a husband, mentions as one of her recommendations that she has great experience in fighting grasshoppers.

Last week a Pittsburgh editor wrote: "The closer people get to Nature, the closer they are to God." Then he obtained leave of absence to go out into the country, and was struck by lightning while robbing an apple orchard.

"A child, when told that God was everywhere asked, "In this room?" "Yes." "In the drawers of my desk?" "Yes, everywhere. He's in your pocket now." "No, he ain't, though." "And why not?" "Tauth I ain't dot no pottet."

A philosopher remarks that a man should always be a little bigger, a little older, a little braver and a little stronger than his wife. This is no doubt true, but when the wife knows just where to look for the crimping iron when the husband comes home late at night, what do these advantages amount to, after all?

An Englishman in New York wrote home that in front of nearly every cigar stand was to be found a statue of some distinguished American.

Local option bar-room—one where beats are given the privilege of going next door.

The oldest journalist on the staff of the Cleveland Plaindealer sums up his experience as follows: "No man can keep habitual company with a cockroach and be cheerful."

It seems unreasonable, but there are men who will complain of a free lunch accompanying five-cent beer.

"Are the Spikenses back?" inquired Mrs. Staby, who hasn't been out of town this season. "Yes'm," replied the cook, "and Mrs. Gadby got home from Starborough's last night." "Then, Mary, you open the front shutters and let it be known that we've got back too."

He was a mean man who, when asked for his money or his life, requested the burglar to take the life of his wife, as she could not possibly live if he died, but he could worry along without her.

A forged check—a prisoner's chain.

A new venture in English journalism is "The Obituary," a mortuary record. The editor promises "not only to announce the sorrow but to soothe the grief." One of the features will be the illustrations of celebrated tombs.

DR. BEVERLY COLE, regular Democratic nominee for Coroner, is a thoroughly educated Physician and Surgeon, and an old resident of this city, and is a nomination that will add strength to the Democratic ticket.

Something Like.

Close upon the shore of Lake Winnepiseogee is a town, and in that town dwells a man whom we will call Amber. Mr. Amber keeps a store; and, as he is a genial, accommodating man, he keeps for sale everything which the good people of the country can reasonably expect him to keep. Particularly has it been the practice of Mr. Amber to keep a barrel of whiskey in his cellar. One in the Fall and one in the Spring will generally carry him through. He is very careful to whom he sells, and so far as is known, the authorities have never given him any trouble. One day Mr. Eliphalet Spooner entered his store with a slight protuberance visible upon his left breast. Mr. Spooner was a deacon and a most proper man. He called the merchant aside and asked him if he had any good whiskey. Amber nodded in the affirmative.

"Will you let me have a pint?" and the deacon pulled from his breast-pocket a pint bottle.

"Certainly," said the trader, and forthwith he departed for the cellar. When he returned he brought the full bottle, carefully wiped and corked.

"What is to pay?"

"Fifty cents."

Mr. Spooner handed him over a fifty-cent scrip, and then, in a hesitating way, drew the cork. He placed the bottle to his lips, and tasted, just a drop, to test the quality of the liquor. He did this twice, and the expression on his face was one of hesitation and doubt.

"Mr. Amber," he said, "I'm getting this for my wife. Is this the very best you have?"

"Oh, you want it for medicine?"

"Yes, certainly."

"If that is the case—" The sentence was finished with a smile and a reaching for the bottle. Down into the cellar went the storekeeper again. There was no need that he should empty the bottle and refill it, for he had but one solitary barrel from which to draw, so he took a turn around and soon came back, wiping the bottle afresh.

"I shall have to charge you eighty-seven cents for this, Mr. Spooner."

Having paid the extra charge with the utmost cheerfulness, Mr. Spooner placed the bottle again to his lips, and tasted critically.

"Aha," he uttered, with a bright smile and a grateful nod; "this is something like!"

And he went away entirely satisfied. And Mr. Amber, also, notwithstanding the fraud he had perpetrated, appeared to be satisfied, if one might judge from the quiet smile that illuminated his rubicund visage.

Hadn't Time.

A citizen of Vicksburg who wanted a few hours' work done about his yard the other day, accosted a colored man, and inquired if he would like the job.

"I'd like to do it, but I haven't time,' was the answer.

"Why, you don't seem to be doing anything."

"I don't, eh! Well, now, I'ze gwine a-fishin' to-day. To-morrow I'ze gwine a-huntin'. Next day I'ze got to get my butes fixed. Next day I'ze gwine to mend de table; and de Lawd only knows how I'ze gwine to get frew de week onless I hire a man to help me!"

COLIN M. BOYD has received the nomination of the People's Independent Party and the Committee of One Hundred for Sheriff. C. M. Boyd has had years of experience as deputy, and if elected will make a good and efficient officer.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

One Dollar Hats

They do not keep in "The" Hat store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, but persons desiring a good, durable and stylish hat at a reasonable price, should go there, and they will find a larger and more select stock than anywhere in the city. Their motto is: "The best at the lowest possible prices." "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Though rather savoring of a lack of rehearsal, "The Crown Diamonds" was altogether very creditably and enjoyably given. Mr Maas, who was billed for Henrique de Sandoval, not feeling perfectly secure in the music, gave it up to Mr. Castle, who, especially in the last two acts, did much with the part. His interpolated song, "Thou art so near," received a most undoubted encore. Miss Rosewald's voice and manner of singing are just suited for the ornate music of the part of Cantarina, whilst Mrs. Seguin's Diana and Mr. Peakes as Campo Mayer were equally forcible. Mr. Whiffin took the part of Don Sebastian. To-night, Mr. Peakes' benefit, for which the box sheet is something marvellous in the way of black spots. He will appear as Beppo Mephistopheles and Devilshoof.

Opera House.

Just as "Ultimo" is receiving its full patronage, it has (as per announcement) to be taken off. Last night's house was a good house, the best for the week; and were it produced to-night, there would be the strongest chance of the house being crowded. To-night, however, sees Mr. O'Neill as David Garrick instead of George Pitman, and Mr W. H. Crane as Granby Gag, instead of Professor Lexington. Great preparations are being made for "Magnolia," which will be produced at Maguire's New Theatre on Monday next.

California Theatre.

Mr. Robert Eberle had just such another benefit as that for the Dan Bryant Fund, and that was a good one, indeed. Miss May Howard received a hearty welcome, Mr. W. H. Crane's reception was overwhelming, and Mr. Eberle's appearance in the "Day After the Wedding" was the signal for a big cheer. This evening "The Two Orphans."

Herold's Matinees,

What should come has come, and the Herold's Orchestral Matinees have obtained their right position. The house yesterday was not only brilliant and fashionable—that it has always been—but crowded. There were not ten seats in the house unoccupied. Mozart's symphony in D, and Wagner's overture to "Tannhauser," were the principal numbers of a programme which would have been all the better had the "Konig's Lieder" waltz and Hamm's "Potpourri" been omitted. The overture was played magnificently, and brought out a storm of applause. We look forward to its repetition at no distant date.

Buckley's Variety New Theatre.

For to-night's bill will be found Senate and West's song and dance, George Foster's ballads, Harry Senate's banjo solos, Mortimore and Price in acts and all the company in the olio, and the concluding spectacular piece of "The Naiads of the Ocean."

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

G. W. Jester's performance with The Talking Hand, still continues to attract attention, Charley King's banjo solos, Ned Barry's comic songs, Geo. C. Thompson's specialties, Hughey Robinson's local hits and other attractions are all well arranged for this evening, by Ned Barry, the Stage Manager.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

Great attractions Saturday and Sunday; Gonzales and Ferez the Mexican Gymnasts, in their great somersault rope-dancing; Mlle. Gracie the queen of gymnasts in a new act, never done by a lady on this coast, Miss Linden, Mlle. Victorine, Milo and his velocipede and orchestral concert. Thursday Picnic and Ball, Father Mathew Band.

Notes.

Mr. Frank Lawlor will appear at Mrs. Seguin's benefit to-morrow evening and recite "Shamus O'Brien."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Old Mint Restaurant.

At this old-established house, 605 Commercial street, above Montgomery, always noted among the bon vivants for its good things, can be procured the finest and best cooked Oysters, Steaks and Chops, Breakfasts or Dinners, in town. Terrapins and the choicest brands of Wines and Liquors a specialty. Charges Moderate. D. B. Magee, the new proprietor, invites the public to give the "Old Mint" a trial. N. B. Open to 2:30 A. M. Old fashioned boiled dinners every Saturday. 2-L

"Chicago Moving Westward."

Among the recent arrivals from our sister city Chicago, we note with pleasure the advent of Messrs. T. & D. Lundy, who have just opened at No. 777 Mission street, opposite St. Patrick's church, with the finest assortment ever imported to this coast of black walnut, bronze and marble clocks, suitable for stores, offices and parlor use, also pictures, engravings, mirrors, family bibles, albums, prayer books, etc., etc., all of which they furnish on easy payments.

Baths

At No. 10 Post Street, Masonic Temple. At this establishment can be had the celebrated Munro bath, combination hot air, steam, medicated, steam, salt, electro, chemical, hot air, plain, steam, mecurial and toilet baths. Office hours, from 8 A. M. to 10 P. M.

Ph graphic Art

Is supposed by some to be in its infancy. We doubt it much, as it is impossible to imagine pictures retouched and finished with more artistic skill than those we saw at Brodeck & Co's new Art Gallery, 640 Market street, opposite the Palace Hotel.

Laughing Gas.

Dr. Wilson, Dentist, 205 Third street, makes a specialty of extracting teeth without pain by the use of laughing gas, and with twelve years experience in its use can warrant success with entire safety in the most difficult cases.

NO OTHER NAME.

It is not love, I say, that thrills
  My heart at but his name;
Not love, which e'en one word from him
  Sets brow and cheek aflame;
It is not that, it cannot be—
I'm naught to him, he's naught to me.

It is not love that lights my eye
  When he a message sends;
Those messages but merely show
  We are the best of friends;
"Dear friend," he says, "dear friend," say I—
Why should not that still satisfy.

It is not love that cheek and hand
  And heart sets so a-fluttering
At his approach; there cannot be
  Between us really anything;
And yet—I say it to my shame—
  There's for it no—no—other name!

A Hint for Mr. Hill.

Mr. Barton Hill, having made a few improvements and alterations in his managerial office, we commend the following to his attention as embodying a hint which he might put into action:

Roqueplan, a Parisian journalist who was also manager of a theatre, had an easy method of dealing with literary aspirants. One time, his little managerial sanctum was invaded by a young dramatic author. The apartment was comfortably furnished, and in it was a spacious alcove, hidden by heavy curtains. "Take a seat in the armchair," said Roqueplan to the timid young intruder with the manuscript; "while you read, I'll stretch myself upon the sofa in yonder recess, otherwise I could not appreciate the beauties of your play. Begin, if you please. I am listening."

The poor author drinks a glass of water, coughs nervously, and commences. Roqueplan is in the alcove, hidden from view by the curtains. The playwright was hard at work, and such sentences as, "It was sixteen years ago to-day." "What ails you, marquis?" "'Tis a parting spasm, nothing more!" "To the boats! I see lights gleaming at the manor house!" "The bloodhounds are on my track!" etc., etc., were arousing the dormant echoes of the directorial cabinet. The whole three acts were read without a single murmur from Roqueplan. Delighted at not hearing one word of disapprobation, the author timidly asks if the work is accepted. No answer! The dramatist lifts up the curtain—horror! Roqueplan had opened a little door at the back of the alcove, and was on the stage quietly chatting with some friends. In answer to the remonstrances of the writer, "Excuse me," he explains, with a smile which is "childlike and bland," "I fancied your drama was in four acts; had I known it was in three, I should have returned a quarter of an hour earlier."

Home, Sweet Home.

He was a good singer, and the boys at the club liked to hear him sing "Home, Sweet Home, there's no place like home!" He rolled it out so sweetly and feelingly that it brought tears to their eyes, and then he went home and sneaked around the back way and up over the woodshed into the bedroom, so that his wife couldn't have him at a disadvantage on the stairway! "Home, Sweet Home, there's no place like home!"

Cartes de Visites.

The French novelist Gaboriau was greatly troubled by visitors, and of those he desired never to see again he suspended photographs in his servants' room for guidance. Recently an author called; the servant ran to consult the cartes, and being puzzled asked the visitor "to smile," which request being complied with, he was informed determinedly: "Master is not at home.'

Marital Bliss.

A Nashua man sang, "Don't be angry with me, darling," while he larruped his wife with a stirrup strap. But she got the bulge on him, and stood on his stomach, while she strewed his hyperion curls about the kitchen floor and warbled, "Darling, you are growing bald."

In the Detroit Police Court.

THE OLD STORY.

Samuel Prescott and Mrs. Prescott, man and wife, and colored, came out in a body.

"Family fight, eh?" queried the court.

"He fout me!" she exclaimed.

"Doan' you believe it!" she squeaked.

"He's a reg'lar pirut!" she squeaked.

"Jedge, doan you let dat ar' woman fool ye!" he answered.

"Now, then, what is this row about, and who's to blame?" asked the court.

"He's ter blame!"

"She's ter blame!"

"I want you both to shut up, or talk one at a time. Now, Mr. Prescott, was there a fight?"

"Dere was, sah—she fout me."

"Oh! golly, but dat's a whopper," she shouted. "Why, Jedge, dot nigger is de wustest pusson dis side of Canady."

"Doan' you believe dat, Jedge. She's de one to blame. She's de indyvidual who makes this world a perfeck wilderness for me."

"I—want—to—know—who—is—to—blame," said his Honor, tapping the desk at each word.

"He's de pusson!"

"She's de one!"

"See here, I can't fool around with this case any more. I have no doubt that both of you deserve to be punished, and the sentence of this court is that you both return home and jaw and fight and pull hair and maul each other around for the next five years."

"Jedge, I want———"

"I don't care—go home—get out of here—vanish and be gone, and get away and disappear!"

And they left.

SOMEBODY'S DARLING.

"You can smile and smile," remarked the court, as a girl about eighteen years old nipped out, "but the law wants to know why you threw a pop-bottle through a window on Beaubien street last evening."

"Has any one a right to make faces at me?" she asked.

"How?"

"I was going past Mrs. Johnson's and she made up a face like this ——, and then shook her fist at me like this ——, and then I flew mad."

"Well, Miss Prim, it was your duty to pass right on without seeming to notice her, even if she stood on the front steps and called you a strawberry blonde or yelled out that your pull-back dress didn't pull for shucks. There's my clerk over there. Almost every day as he passes along the street some one calls out "Shoot that necktie!' or 'See those little can!" but he never lets on to hear. He knows his duty, and he knows what law is."

"I won't do such a thing again, sir," she said.

"Well, I shan't punish you for what you are not going to do, but in this case its $10 or sixty days."

She smiled as sweetly as ever, nipped back in the corridor, and was last seen writing a message to her sister on a sheet of brown paper.

Sufficient Ground.

FRIDAY.............AUGUST 20

The Innocent Old Lady.

She lives down on Market street, and she has a daughter about eighteen years old. The old lady retains all her simplicity and innocence, and she doesn't go two cents on style. The other evening, when a "splendid catch" called to escort the daughter to the opera, the mother wouldn't take the hint to keep still, and wouldn't help carry out the daughter's idea that they had wealth. While helping her daughter get ready she asked:

"Mary, are you going to wear the shoes with one heel off, or the pair with holes in 'em?"

Mary didn't seem to hear, and the mother inquired:

"Are you going to wear that dollar gold chain and that washed locket, or will you wear the diamond father bought at the hardware store?"

Mary winked at her, and the young man blushed, but the dear old lady went on:

"Are you going to borrow Mrs. Brown's shawl, or will you wear mine?"

Mary bustled around the room, and the mother said:

"Be careful of your dress, Mary; you know it's the only one you've got, and you can't have another until the mortgage on this place is lifted."

Mary remarked to her escort that it promised to be a beautiful evening, and as she buttoned her glove her mother asked:

"Those are Mrs Hardy's gloves, ain't they? She's been a good neighbor to us, and I don't know how you'd manage to go anywhere if she didn't live near us."

Mary was hurrying to get out of the room, when the mother raised her voice once more and asked:

"Did you run into Mrs. Jewitt's and borrow her bracelet and fan? Yes, I see you did. Well, now, you look real stylish, and I hope you'll have a good time."

Mary sits by her window in the pale moonlight and sighs for the splendid young man to come and beau her around some more, but he hasn't been seen up that way since that night. The old lady, too, says that he seemed like a nice young man, and she hopes he hasn't been killed by the street cars.

A Clever Excuse.

A clever excuse for pocket-picking was invented by a Parisian thief at the Auteuil steeple-chases. A detective pounced upon him just as he had his hand in a lady's pocket. "I am no thief;" the pickpocket indignantly protested, "I am in love with this lady, and was only slipping a note into her pocket," and he produced as proof a love letter hidden in the palm of his hand. As, however, the lady was old and ugly, and forty-one purses were found on the ingenious Frenchman, he was taken off to durance vile.

A Good Nomination.

The office of Sheriff is one of the most important in the gift of the people. We know of no man who would be more competent to fill that position than Matthew Nunan, the Democratic nominee. He has been a strict party man throughout his political career, has been for twenty years a resident of San Francisco, and being a man of considerable property, will certainly identify himself with the prosperity of the city. His experience and business capacity will be a guarantee of his fitness for the office of Sheriff.

A Write Good Reason.

"Sir," said a fierce lawyer, "do you, on your solemn oath, swear that this is not your hand-writing?" "I reckon not," was the cool reply." "Does it resemble your writing?" "Yes, it don't." "Do you swear that it don't resemble your writing?" "Well, I do, old heat." "You take your solemn oath that this writing does not resemble yours in a single letter?" "Y-e-es, sir." "How do you know?" "'Cause I can't write."

Never Had 'Em.

It was at a party that some young ladies were discussing the relative benefits of the sparrows and the worms, when one of the fair ones appealed to young Fizzleton, who had just joined them, and had not caught the drift of the conversation, "Which do you think the worse, worms or sparrows?" What did the stupid brute do but innocently answer, "I don't know; I never had sparrows."

A Good Stopping Place.

A l[illegible] of five years was "playing railroad" with his sister of two and a half. Drawing her upon a footstool, he imagined himself both the engine and the conductor. After imitating the puffing noise of the steam, he stopped and called out Boston! and in a moment after Worcester! and then Springfield! His knowledge of towns was now exhausted, and the next place he cried Heaven! His little sister said eagerly: "Top, I des I'll det out here."

A Strange Invalid.

She came from Detroit, Michigan, and her great pride was being an invalid. She lost no opportunity in stating that she came to Minnesota to recuperate. She did not hesitate to enter into a conversation with any person she came in contact with, giving advice, climatlogical or physiological, to invalids, and seeking the same from those of robust constitution. Her conversation was always prefaced with introductory inquiry, so common to visitors, "Did you come here for your health?" She thus addressed a stalwart ruddy-visaged young man at the dinner table of the Metropolitan a few days since, and the following dialogue ensued:

"Yes, madame, I came here, probably the weakest person you ever saw. I had no use of my limbs, in fact, my bones were but little tougher than cartilages. I had no intelligent control of a single muscle, nor the use of a single faculty."

"Great Heavens!" exclaimed the astonished auditor, "and you lived?"

"I did, Miss, although I was devoid of sight, was absolutely toothless, unable to articulate a single word, and dependent upon others for everything, being completely deprived of all power to help myself. I commenced to gain immediately upon my arrival, and have scarcely experienced a sick day since, hence I can conscientiously recommend the climate."

"A wonderful case!" said the lady, "but do you think your lungs were affected?"

"They were probably sound, but possessed of so little vitality that but for the most careful nursing they must have ceased their functions."

"I hope you found kind friends, sir?"

"Indeed I did, madam, it is to them and the pure air of Minnesota that I owe my life. My father's family were with me, but unfortunately my mother was prostrated with a severe illness during the time of my greatest prostration."

"How sad! Pray, what was your diet and treatment?"

"My diet was the simplest possible, consisting only of milk, that being the only food my system would bear. As for treatment, I depended entirely upon the life-giving properties of Minnesota air, and took no medicine except an occasional light narcotic when very restless. My improvement dated from my arrival. My limbs soon became strong my sight and voice came to me slowly, and a full set of teeth, regular and firm appeared."

"Remarkable, miraculous! Surely, sir, you must have been greatly reduced in flesh?"

"Madam, I weighed but nine pounds. I was born in Minnesota. Good day."

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

Opera House.

"David Garrick" and "Jenny Lind" proved an exceptionally strong bill last evening. In the first, Mr. James O'Neill and Emily Baker as Garrick and Ada Ingot carried off the honors, both characters being played with an artistic force, effective earnestness and happy style, which we confess we were hardly prepared for. In the afterpiece, Crane and Miss Mayhew turned every face smilingly toward the footlights and those behind them. Same bill this evening. On Monday night next, "Magnolia," at Maguire's New Theatre.

California Theatre.

"The Two Orphans" continues to attract large audiences each night. It should not, however, be forgotten, indeed it should be very distinctly remembered, that this is the last week of this wonderful melodrama. Only three more performances, and then good-bye to the exciting history of Henrietta and Louise, for "La Tentation" will be produced on Monday next.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Mr. Henry Peakes may well feel proud of his benefit. It established the fact, at all events, of his being a general favorite. The house was packed, and as enthusiastic as it was crowded. The programme consisted of the fourth act of "Faust," with Mr. Peakes as Mephistopheles; the third act of "Fra Diavolo," with Mr. Peakes as Beppo; and the second act of "The Bohemian Girl," with Mr. Peakes as Devilshoof. In addition to this immense bill, which contained every member of the company, Mme. Julie Rosewald sang the celebrated shadow song from "Dinorah." This evening, benefit of Mrs. Seguin, when "The Doctor of Alcantara," the fourth act of "Rigoletto," Mr. Carleton's song, "Jack and I," and the recitation of "Shamus O'Brien," by Mr. Frank Lawlor, will form the bill.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

With four end-men, four capital acts, a strong company in a strong olio, the entertainment given here cannot help being strongly attractive.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Charley King's banjo solos have taken immensely. The acts are all well chosen and well played, and the olio is particularly interesting.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

Great attractions Saturday and Sunday; Gonzales and Ferez the Mexican Gymnasts, in their great somersault rope-dancing; Mlle. Gracie the queen of gymnasts in a new act, never done by a lady on this coast, Miss Linden, Mlle. Victorine, Milo and his velocipede and orchestral concert. Thursday Picnic and Ball, Father Mathew Band.

Notes.

On Sunday evening next, Mr. C. D. Hess, Director of the English Opera Company, receives a farewell benefit, on which occasion the entire company, Madame Fabbri and Miss Elzer will appear. The programme will be the first and last acts of "Il Trovatore," scenes from "Il Barbiere," and the third act of "Faust."

CORRESPONDENCE.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE,
SAN FRANCISCO, August 18, 1875

Mr. C. D. Hess, Director Grand English Opera—Dear Sir: We, the undersigned, members of the Grand English Opera Company, would respectfully suggest that the final performance of the season, on Sunday evening next, be made the occasion of a testimonial benefit to yourself, as a fitting termination of the season which you have so successfully and satisfactorily conducted. With this object in view, we have already prepared a programme, which will employ every member of the company, and in addition are pleased to state that, through the kindness of Madame Inez Fabbri, the name of her successful young protege, Miss Annie Elzer, will appear in the list of attractions for this occasion. The proposed programme will comprise the first and last acts of "Il Trovatore," scenes from "Il Barbiere de Seviglia," in Italian, and the third act of "Faust."

Trusting that the above will meet with your approval, we remain yours very respectfully,

WILLIAM CASTLE,
EDWARD SEGUIN, } Committee
S. BEHRENS

MANAGER'S OFFICE, MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE,
SAN FRANCISCO, August 19th, 1875.

To the Ladies and Gentlemen of the Grand English Opera Company: Your very flattering communication is before me. I am unable to express the gratification which so generous a demonstration of your approval affords me. I will accept the proposed testimonial, and must say that the entertainment you have prepared is highly satisfactory.

With my earnest thanks for your kind consideration of my humble efforts, and to Madame Fabbri and the charming Elzer, I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant, C. D. HESS.

VERSICAL ODDS AND ENDS.

AFTER POE'S RAVEN.

"And the tilting and the rocking,
Up and down the splendid stocking,
Gartered by a bluish ribbon
That he chanced to see she wore,
Showed him—'twas a sight for weeping—
That a pair of calves were creeping
Out of place as she was sweeping
Like a saintly queen before;
Calves that she had lately purchased
From a fancy dry goods store;
Patent calves, and not much more."

Who, among us men with a sentimental turn, has not sometime watched Somebody's window, and sighed forth our adoration in something like the following:

O, damsel of the azure eyes
And of the amber tresses,
I, your adorer, worship you
With infinite caresses.
I watch your window evenings,
Heart-hungry for the sight
Of the slim figure that is o'er
Its square of tender light,
You lay your breast-warmed jewels down,
Long hair falls on plump shoulders.
Then, draw the blind and so shut out
Impertinent beholders.

THE DEATH OF WILLIE.

Willie had a purple monkey, climbing on a yellow stick,
And when he sucked the paint all off, it made him deadly sick;
And in his latest hours, he clasped that monkey in his hand,
And bid good-bye to earth, and went into a better land.

Oh, no more he'll shoot his sister with his little wooden gun;
And no more he'll twist the pussy's tail, and make her yowl for fun;
The pussy's tail now stands out straight, the gun is laid aside,
The monkey doesn't jump around since little Willie died.

One of the great Quaker poet's sweetest metrical gems, "School Days," is devoted to showing the regret of a brown-eyed New England girl at having "spelled down

——the little boy
Her childish favor singled.

"I'm sorry that I spelt the word,
I hate to go above you,
Because"—the brown eyes lower fell—
"Because, you see, I love you."

Still memory to a gray-haired man
That sweet child face is showing;
Dear girl, the grasses on her grave
Have forty years been growing.

He lives to learn in life's hard school
How few who pass above him
Lament the triumph and his loss
Like her—because they love him.

The Muses never favored a man who could write such lines as these:

Adam laid down and slept: and from his side
A woman in her magic beauty rose.
Dazzled and charmed, he called the woman bride,
And his first sleep became his last repose.

The death of the prominent Cincinnatian, who recently figured conspicuously in all the newspapers, is thus touchingly alluded to in the St. Louis Republican: "His end has cast a shade of gloom upon the entire community; every other Cincinnatian feels as though he had lost a brother:

"A lioness from Lybia's desert waste,
With rattling heels he boldly dared to paste.
She scratched him, and the scratches mortified;
In seventeen weeks the little jackass died.
Gone to meet Sergeant Bates."

Oh, sweet was the song of the gentle tree-frog
Before the grim king came around;
But now you are laid beneath the cold bog,
Out of hearing and under the ground.
Gone to meet her first husband.

Sensation in Boston Theatres.

The Boston Advertiser says, that just as the orchestra were taking their seats at the Museum, in that city, on Monday night, a man, apparently about forty years of age, well dressed, and of intelligent appearance, arose in the centre of the balcony and said in a clear voice: "Ladies and gentlemen: Before the entertainment commences this evening, I should like to tell you all that, unless you change your way of living and follow in the footsteps of Jesus Christ, instead of wasting your lives in the theatres, you will all certainly go to hell." The audience was astonished, and there was a momentary silence, which was followed by mingled applause and hisses, and the man was put out by the ushers without a show of resistance, or, apparently, any desire to stay. He then went directly to the Boston Theatre, and the curtain had just risen when he arose again in the centre of the balcony and said: "Ladies and gentlemen: I am sent here to interrupt this performance by the Lord Jesus Christ. I warn you of your danger." And again he was ushered out and down stairs. The only remark he made as the ushers took him was, "Don't hurt me." Officer McCabe took him to the station, and as he did so he was asked why he did it, and he replied that he stood up as he did because it was his duty, and when he was told that he had no business to interrupt the performance he replied, "I do not wish this to be made a matter of ridicule." A gentleman at the Boston Theatre said that the same person interrupted a performance at the Walnut-street Theatre, in Philadelphia, a year ago in a similar way. He gave the name of Andrew Leslie, formerly of St. Louis, Mo., and lately a member of the divinity school at Cambridge. As he seemed to be laboring under a temporary insanity, Dr. Foye was summoned, and decided that the temporary illness was caused by overwork. He was accordingly locked up for the night, for his own safety merely, as he was harmless.

A Doctor's Diary.

A pocket diary picked up in the street of this city would seem to indicate from the following choice extracts that the owner was a medical man:

"Kase 230, Mary An Perkins, Bisnes, washwoman. Sickness in her hed. Fisik sum blue pils a soaperifik; age 52. Ped me one dollar, 1 kuarter bogus. Mind get good kuarter and make her take more fisik.

Fisik to drink my mixture twict a day, of sasiperily bere and jellop, and fish ile, with asifedity to make it taste fisiky. Rubbed his face with kart grese liniment, aged 30 years of age. Drinked the mixture and wouldn't pay me bekause it tasted nasty, but the mixter'll work his innards, I reckon.

"Kase, 232, Old Misses Boggs. Aint got no bisines, but plenty of money. Sikness all a humbug. Gav her sum of my celebrated 'Dipsiflorikon," which she sed drank like cold tee—which it was too. Must put something in to make her feel sick and bad. The Ole wommen has got the roks."

Cartes de Visites.

The French novelist Gaboriau was greatly troubled by visitors, and of those be desired never to see again he suspended photographs in his servants' room for guidance. Recently an author called; the servant ran to consult the cartes, and being puzzled asked the visitor "to smile," which request being complied with, he was informed determinedly: "Master is not at home.'

Marital Bliss.

A Nashua man sang, "Don't be angry with me, darling," while he larruped his wife with a stirrup strap. But she got the bulge on him, aud stood on his stomach, while she strewed his hyperion curls about the kitchen floor and warbled, "Darling, you are growing bald."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidions. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

Amusements, Etc.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE. — Mrs. Seguin's benefit was what everybody expected it would, and intended it should be,—crowded and brilliant. The programme was well carried out. This afternoon, last performance of "Ernani." This evening, Mme Rosewald's benefit, when acts of "The Crown Diamond" and "Lucia di Lammermoor" will be given. To-morrow night, grand farewell performance for the benefit of Mr C. D. Hess, and of which more may be found in the "Notes."

OPERA HOUSE. — This afternoon "Ultimo" will be produced for the last time; this evening "David Garrick" and "Jenny Lind" for the last time; and to-morrow grand performance of the "Merchant of Venice," with a cast including Miss Hawthorne as Portia, Mr O'Neill as Shylock, Miss Mayhew as Nerissa, and Mr. Crane as young Gobbo. Monday evening, "Magnolia" at the theatre across the street. For further particulars, see "Notes."

CALIFORNIA THEATRE. — It had been decided to remove "The Two Orphans," to night, but so very decided has the patronage been that it is now decided to keep the wonderful melodrama on until Friday next, than which there could be no wiser decision. On Friday "La Tentation" will be produced with Mrs. Alice Dunning Lingard, Miss Dickie Lingard and Mr. William Horace Lingard in the cast.

Y. M. C. A. HALL. — On Tuesday evening, Frank Gilder, undismayed by the attractions of the Fair, gives his 36th Popular Concert. The assisting artists on this occasion will be Miss Marian Singer, Mrs. M. R. Blake, Mr. C. Makin and Signor Padovani, the violinist.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.— "The Naiads of the Ocean" still holds the boards here, and will continue to until Tuesday next. The other acts for to-night are "Quiet Lodgers," "Two Artists" and "Brown's Party."

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.— "She Set Me Drinking," "Happy Uncle John," "Bad Dickey," "Madame Gassynigger," "Engaging Talent," Barry's comic songs, Jester's performances and a host of other attractions to-night.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

THE MITCHELL TESTIMONIAL.—An extra and special performance will be given at the City Gardens to-morrow afternoon, by the members of "Happy Jack" Harrington's Olympic Company, for the benefit of John Mitchell's family—a great ball.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS — GREAT ATtractions Saturday and Sunday; Gonzales and Perez the Mexican Gymnasts, in their great somersault rope-dancing; Mlle. Gracie the queen of gymnasts in a new act, never done by a lady on this coast, Miss Linden, Mlle. Victorine, Milo and his velocipede and orchestral concert, Thursday Picnic and Ball, Father Mathew Band.

NOTES.

"The Spy," which is to be one of the main pieces produced at the California Theatre during Dominick Murray's engagement, has proved a great success at Wood's Museum, New York. The plot is well constructed, the incidents thrilling and the situations strong.

T. W. Keene's engagement at Wood's Museum, New York, will be for twelve nights.

We are pleased to hear that Miss Carlotta Leclercq has made a great hit as Peg Woffington at the Theatre Royal, Glasgow,

On Monday evening next the friends of Mrs. Rowena Granice Steele will give a concert at Platt's Hall, "to aid her in her efforts to get a new, fair and impartial trial for her son, young Harry Granice, who has been convicted of murder for shooting the man who published an infamous slander on his mother's character."

Emerson's Minstrels conclude a fortnight's engagement at Cincinnati to-night, and open at St. Louis on Monday for two weeks.

After "The Two Orphans," which will be withdrawn this evening, "La Tentation," and perhaps "Mons. Alphonse," will be played to conclude the Lingard engagement at the California Theatre. Succeeding that engagement will come another broken week, and then comes the engagement of Mr. Lawrence Barrett, who will produce "Henry V," which play will be put on in the usual magnificent style that always marks the Shaksperian revivals at the California Theatre. "King Lear" and "Virginius" will also be given.

Fortunately, the Bryant Relief Fund was withdrawn from the banking house of Messrs. Duncan & Sherman just four days before the failure.

The Alleghanians are still in Oregon.

The Fulford-Rosedale troupe was last heard of at Redding, Oregon.

An Old Folkes Concert was given at Grass Valley on Wednesday evening.

"May Blossom" which introduced Miss Jennie Lee and Mr. J. P. Burnett as protean artists to the Salt Lake citizens on Thursday, the 14th, was a good deal of a success. Miss Lee took six characters including a page, a fop of the period, an Irish drummer boy and a Sikh soldier whilst Mr. Burnett played a valet, an Irish servant and a private soldier.

Mr. Edwin Adams was to have opened at McVicker's, Chicago, on Monday in "Clancarty," but the accident at Coss Cobb, a day or two ago, will of course, prevent his keeping the engagement. Instead, he will have to keep his bed, but that it is hoped for a fortnight.

Montgomery Queen's Circus show at Bay City, Ind., to-night; will be at Saginaw on Monday.

It is probable that Madame Arabella Goddard will give yet another concert before she leaves for New York where she is expected to commence a series of concerts at the latter part of this month, prior to her return to London.

Geo. L. Fox & Co., who follow Dominick Murray at the California Theatre, are now playing at the National Street Theatre, Philadelphia.

Master J. W. McKenzie, the modest, the bashful, and highly gifted, is with Madame Stevenson giving a series of popular concerts, held every Wednesday afternoon, at Salt Lake.

On Monday, August 30th, "Solid Silver," the play of W. H. L. Barnes, will be reproduced at the California Theatre for the benefit of the City Guard.

The Lotta fountain will probably be formally presented to the city some time during the latter part of next week. Mr Barton Hill will, we expect, be called upon to represent the donor

Mr. Gray has issued two other of Felix's Marti's songs, which are now grouped under the general head of "Songs of the Heart." The last two are "Wooing in the Lane" and "The Miner."

The Daly Fifth Avenue Company opened in "Divorce" at Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, on Monday last, to a house crowded to suffocation. On Tuesday, "Saratoga" and "The Rough Diamond" were played; on Wednesday afternoon, "Big Bonanza;" and on Wednesday evening, "Charity," which concluded the engagement.

This evening a newly engaged company opens Piper's Opera House, Virginia City. Mr. Geo. D. Chaplin is to be leading man, A. D. Billings old man, and Charley Mestayer juvenile.

Lawrence Barrett opens at Piper's, Virginia City, on Monday.

To morrow evening, at Maguire's New Theatre, will be devoted to a testimonial benefit to Mr. C. D. Hess, the Director of the English Opera Company, on which occasion the entire company, Madame Fabbri and Miss Elzer will appear. The programme will be the first and last acts of "Il Trovatore," scenes from "Il Barbiere," and the third act of "Faust." Mr. Hess deserves this recognition, for he has done much during the past seven weeks to provide enjoyable entertainment for the people of San Francisco. The company opened here on Monday evening, July 5th, in "Mignon," and created at once a most favorable impression. "Mignon," however, introduced but half the strength of the company and when it was found on the following evening that "Il Trovatore" was given by the other moiety in the excellent manner which those who attended the performance will so well remember, it was acknowledged that both numerically and artistically the company was one deserving and sure of success. We have neither the time nor the space to follow the production of each opera step by step but the following is the list of those which have been produced: "Mignon," "Il Trovatore," "Fra Diavalo," "Martha," "Don Giovanni," "The Bohemian Girl," "Ernani," "Marriage of Figaro," "Maritana," "The Huguenots," "Crown Diamonds," "Faust," "Il Talismano," and "Lucia di Lammermoor," "The Doctor of Alcantara" and "Two Manny Cooks," sixteen in all. Of these while all have been well patronized, there are two or three which stand out as prime favorites, such as "The Marriage of Figaro," "Ernani" and "Il Trovatore." Out of a company so generally a favorite, it would be indeed difficult to select especial favorites, but Mrs. Seguin, Mr. Carleton, Mr. Peakes, Madame Rosewald, Miss Richings-Bernard, Miss Beaumont, Mr. Maas and Mr. Castle may rest assured that they are much thought of now and will be long remembered It is the universal hope of San Francisco that another twelve months will see Mr. Hess and company once more among us.

On Monday next the Hooley Company will move across the street and open in Barton Hill and Angelas Sefton's play of "Magnolia." It is a southern drama of much force, both in characters and construction, and will be put on the stage in an unusually good style. Strauss has been hard at work on the scenery for some weeks past, and much is to be looked for in the way of scenic effects, notably amongst which are to be mentioned the magnolia grove and a steamboat explosion.

The new theatre on Market street is so rapidly advancing that we expect the roof girders will be put in position during the coming week. At the Grand Opera House on Mission street the lathing is finished, and plastering is now well under way. The opening day, as fixed upon, the 15th of Octo ber, to wit, will not, we think, be postponed.

Henri Stewart, the champion clog dancer, has issued a challenge to all parties to dance for the championship of California, for $250 a side. Morris Welch's attention is called to this.

Miss Ella F. Badger, the "California Girl" who made so successful a debut at the California Theatre a few weeks since, will reappear at Maguire's New Theatre on Monday evening, Sept. 16th, in the play of "Ingomar," supported by the full strength of the Hooley Company.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

The Grand Opera House, N. Y., was sold at auction on the 6th, to Mrs. Helen M. Pike, widow of S. N. Pike, the original owner, for $75,000, subject to a mortgage of $30,000, and to $5,100 back interest upon it. After the Black Friday disaster Gould and Fisk, who had bought the Grand Opera House in their individual capacity, mortgaged it to their creditors for nearly its full value. In Gould's settlement with the Erie Railway the property was transferred to the latter, subject to the mortgage which Gould promised to clear off. This he failed to do, and the company had to buy it in under a forecloseure sale to perfect their title. The present sale was effected under a decree of the Supreme Court by Wheeler H. Peckhan, referee, in the suit of Mrs. Helen N. Pike, for foreclosure of the mortgage. The theatre has been rented to Theodore Hamilton and Joseph H. Wheelock, who have formed a joint stock company.

The prospects for another dramatic copyright war are encouraging. Mark Twain expresses a determination to enjoin the drama of "Mark Twain," while C. R. Reedwin, the owner, seems equally determined to produce it—probably at the Park Theatre.

Mr. George Belmore will play Newman Noggs in Halliday's version of "Nicholas Nickleby," at Booth's Theatre in the Fall.

It is definitely settled that Mlle. Titiens will debut at Steinway Hall Oct. 4th. The announcements are particular in calling her the great Teutonic prima donna, which may be interpreted to mean that the Stadt Theatre is vacant, and the great singer is likely to be called on to fill it before the close of her engagement.

"Our Boys," one of H. J. Byron's latest and most successful plays, has been secured by Mr. Augustin Daly for the Fifth Avenue Theatre, New York.

Stage-manager Moore, of Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre, advertises a "call" for the ladies and gentlemen of the company to assemble in the green-room Sept. 1st.

Mr. Theodore Moss has positively declined the lease of the Brooklyn Theatre.

We were in error in announcing Mr. John Gilbert's engagement at the Chestnut Theatre. Mr. John Gilbert, having been re-engaged at Wallack's Theatre, New York, does not go the Chestnut.

Harrigan and Hart take the starring field in a new comic Irish drama entitled "The Doyle Brothers."

The Park Theatre will again be under the management of Mr. W. Stuart and Mr. Chandos Fulton next season.

Miss Jenny Lewis, formerly a reader, will join the company of Wallack's next season.

Manager John F. Poole has again entered into the busy arena of active effort, and is marshaling his forces for the 27th, when the Olympic will be re-opened.

English opera bouffe is permanently domiciled at its cosy and prosperous home in Robinson Hall, where "Chilperic" entered on the fourth week of its successful run, on the 9th. Mr. W. H. Woodfield, the new tenor, has satisfactorily replaced Mr. Laurent in the title role.

The Globe Theatre will be re-opened on Saturday, August 28th, under the management of Messrs. R W. Butler and Frank B. Murtha.

A preliminary season was inaugurated at the Union Square Theatre on the 15th of July by John T. Raymond, in his characteristic impersonation of Col. Sellers.

Booth's reopened on the 30th ult. for three weeks of legitimate, followed by the Kellogg Opera Company in the "Lily of Killarney." This will be succeeded by a revival of "Henry V.," which will in turn give way to "Julius Cæsar." The company will comprise Rosa Rand, Mary Wells, Louisa Hibberd, Henry Weaver, Chas. Leclercq, C. B. Bishop, George Vandenhoff, F. C. Bangs, Jas. T. Cathcart, and F. B. Warde.

Mrs. Rousby, says the London Era, is suffering from severe indisposition, which will prevent her reappearance on the stage prior to her return to America to fill an engagement at Booth's Theatre in September next. In the meantime Mrs. Rousby will, by medical advice, seek restoration to health at the seaside.

A limited term of English comic opera under Henderson and Colville was begun at Wallack's on the 14th. The company was entirely new to this country, coming directly from the Gaiety Theatre, London. Miss Julia Mathews was the leading prima donna, and made her debut as Boulotte in an English version of Offenbach's "Blue Beard."

The Bowery Theatre has been lease by J. W. Meath for a term of years, and is now undergoing a thorough course of renovation. The opening will occur September 1st, with the "Lady of Lyons," followed by "A Winter's Tale," "Macbeth" and the "Hunchback."

American managers are hastening back from Europe—Grau, Maretzek, Colville and Henderson, all arrived within a week.

Birch, Wambold and Backus, the popular and jolly trio of San Franciscans, will reopen on the 20th.

The Management of the Metropolitan Theatre, will be in the hands of Tony Pastor during the season of 1875-76.

James Gordon Bennett and W. J. Florence came over from England together, and arrived like brothers, on Monday, the 9th.

New Yorkers do not seem to have taken kindly to Mr. Barry Sullivan. Concerning his opening the Mercury says: In maladroit manner Barry Sullivan has chosen to put up his "Hamlet" as proof of his being the world's greatest tragedian. Had he been shrewder he would have begun with "Richard III." In so extraordinary a creation as Shakspeare's "Hamlet" it is not enough to have art, but the artist must have the physique for the character. Nothing can be more uncongenial than an elderly lady who enacts a youthful part. Fancy, then, Mrs S. H. Gilbert as Ophelia. In no no play is the look of the part more necessary than in "Hamlet." Now, on every feature of Barry Sullivan's face is the stamp of mature talent. All of us remember how well Lawrence Barrett looked the part. Of course we also recall how Edwin Booth gave to it youth and beauty. Irving is yet on the sunny side of forty, and doubtless his youthful grace contributed much toward his recent success in London. Thus we see at the outset that Barry Sullivan, in maintaining his claim to be the world's greatest tragedian, meets with the most ordinary disputing circumstances. As well expect Montague to succeed in "King Lear," as to suppose that Barry Sullivan is to supplant at once the several youthful, graceful and popular Hamlets whom the New York stage has seen.

ELSEWHERE.

The company at the Walnut, Philadelphia, for 1875-76, will include Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walcot, Mrs. E. L. Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chapman, Miss May Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Atkins Lawrence, Mrs. T. A. Creese, and Messrs. Roland Reed, W. H. Baily, W. H. Jones, Frederick Beck, Willis S. Page, W. H. Whitecar and W. B. Turner and G. The following is the company of the Academy of Music, Chicago, for this season: Nellie Jones, leading lady; Millie Sackett, soubrette; Tillie Malvern, juvenile lady; Mrs. H. Ryner, heavy old woman; Tillie O'Dale, walking lady; Miss Ferris, utility; Harry Richmond, leading man; J. Ferris, heavy man; W. T. Melville, low comedian; Nell Gray, character parts; John Armstong, juvenile; E. Howard, and W. B. Murray, responsible utility; Harry Ryner, old men; and J. Caffrey, utility. The lessee is Mr. W. H. Leake.

Charlotte Cushman celebrated her fifty-ninth year, July 23d, at Newport, R. I. A Newport letter-writer speaks of Miss Cushman being in a state of constant pain there through the rapidly encroaching inroads of cancer. She, however, continues to receive and make visits and take rides.

Mr. Raymond, as Col. Sellers, intends to make a professional tour of the South this season. He will give 50 performances, and will visit Baltimore, Richmond, Washington, Columbia, Charleston, Savannah, Augusta, Macon, Columbus and other cities.

The regular season at the Howard Athenæum, Boston, will begin on Monday, August 30. The initial bill will be the "Three Guardsmen," in which Mr. Charles R. Thorne, Jr., will appear.

The Girard brothers had a week's holiday at the Museum, Boston, Julian having sprained his knee in his remarkable descent down the stairway in the centre of the scene. He received the best of care at the residence of Russell Girard, and was able to walk on Thursday.

Mrs. Chanfrau, whose husband celebrated her thirty-third birthday July 31, by presenting her with the title deeds of their magnificent villa at Long Branch, will commence her starring tour at Ford's, Baltimore, September 13, supported by her New Orleans Company, in Tayleure's comedy "Was She Right?"

It used to be leg's diversion that Miss Lydia Thompson illustrated, says the Washington Chronicle—now, it's Meg's. Miss Thompson acted in Mr. Craven's play, in London.

Tony Pastor and troupe opened at the Chestnut, Philadelphia, July 30th, one week.

Maggie Mitchell, F. S. Chanfrau, Frank Frayne, Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, and Baker and Farron will appear next season in plays from Clifton Tayleure's pen.

Miss Katie Putnam, whose success at the Boston Theatre was so marked, has produced a new drama entitled "Blade O'Grass," founded on Farjeon's celebrated story of that name. It is possible that Miss Katie Putnam will appear as Fanchon before the close of her engagement at the Boston Theatre,

Several provincial managers are arranging for the production of Shakespeare's "Henry V.," in very gorgeous style, and there is already a large demand for chimes of bells for the "triumphal entry" scene.

John Dillon, the comedian, produces a new drama at Hooley's Theatre, Chicago, on the 16th.

Miss Lillie Eldridge will begin her season early in September, at Montreal; thence through Canada and the West. She will have two new plays, and will act Juliet in all her engagements.

Baltimore will have five first-class theatre next season.

Mrs. J. B. Booth, Jr., will be leading lady of the Globe Theatre, Boston.

Cleveland, Ohio, will have a new opera house opened on September 6th.

Theatricals in Philadelphia next season will be more brilliant than ever before.

Frank Chanfrau commences the season, August 30, at the Boston Theatre, in a new original drama by C. W. Tayleure, entitled "Rube." He plays eight weeks in N. Y. in the Fall, and proceeds to California in the Spring.

Frank Chanfrau's engagements for next season already cover twenty-eight weeks.

CORRESPONDENCE.

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE,
SAN FRANCISCO, August 18, 1875 }

Mr. C. D. Hess, Director Grand English Opera—Dear Sir: We, the undersigned, members of the Grand English Opera Company, would respectfully suggest that the final performance of the season, on Sunday evening next, be made the occasion of a testimonial benefit to yourself, as a fitting termination of the season which you have so successfully and satisfactorily conducted. With this object in view, we have already prepared a programme, which will employ every member of the company, and in addition are pleased to state that, through the kindness of Madame Inez Fabbri, the name of her successful young protege, Miss Annie Elzer, will appear in the list of attractions for this occasion. The proposed programme will comprise the first and last acts of "Il Trovatore," scenes from "Il Barbiere de Seviglia," in Italian, and the third act of "Faust."

Trusting that the above will meet with your approval, we remain yours very respectfully,

California Theatre.

Somewhat influenced, we expect, by the continuation of well paying audiences, Mr. Hill has decided to continue "The Two Orphans" for yet a little while longer. It will hold the boards until Friday evening when "La Tentation" will be produced.

Maguire's New Theatre.

This evening the Hooley Company opens at this theatre in Barton Hill and Angela Sefton's stiring American drama of "Magnolia." It is a southern drama, is full of interest, contains many strong situations and several well defined characters. The cast will include the whole strength of the company. Much attention has been paid to the setting of the piece and we believe "Magnolia" will make a hit. Last night "The Merchant of Venice" was produced at the Opera House with James O'Neill as Shylock and Miss Hawthorne as Portia. It drew a good house.

Farewell of the Opera Company.

Last night's was a fitting conclusion to a season of English opera, which has been one of exceptional success. We spoke fully on Saturday of the members and of the season, so that now, there is only to say good bye, which we do with the pleasant anticipation of its being but for a twelvemonth at the longest.

Y. M. C. A. Hall.

To-morrow evening, Frank Gilder, undismayed by the attractions of the Fair, gives his 36th Popular Concert. The assisting artists on this occasion will be Miss Marian Singer, Mrs M. R. Blake, Mr. C. Makin and Signor Padovani, the violinist.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"The Naiads of the Ocean" is at lenght to be removed. It will be replaced this evening by "Old Bimble'ack" played by all the members of the company. The rest of the excellent programme remains unchanged.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

"The Two Skeptics," "Professor Fowler" and "The Carnival" with an olio of superior attraction will form the bill for this capital place of amusement to-night.

RIESEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Notes.

This (Monday) evening the friends of Mrs. Rowena Granice Steele will give a concert at Platt's Hall, "to aid her in her efforts to get a new, fair and impartial trial for her son, young Harry Granice, who has been convicted of murder for shooting the man who published an infamous slander on his mother's character."

Wilson's Colossal Roman Hippodrome which we referred to the week before last, is in a fair way to completion. It will be opened on Friday next. The horses are, most of them at the Ocean House Race Track, and the remainder of the stud, together with chariots, trappings and people, will arrive on Tuesday next.

Another week of benefits at the California Theatre. On Monday, August 30th, the City Guard open the ball by presenting "Solid Silver," the comedy of the W. H. Barnes, their Colonel. On Tuesday, Mr. W. T. Porter, the scenic artist and a good fellow, takes his annual benefit when two great attractions will be held out i. e., the first presentation of "Two Lives," a dramatization of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" and the debut of Miss Annie de Montaigu, as Lucie Manette. "Two Lives" will be played on Wednesday evening. On Thursday the Knights of Pythias have a benefit, presenting a mixed bill, and on Friday evening Mr. Barton Hill, whom to praise with common adjectives of quality, would be no compliment and who can well stand alone in public favor without our help, receives his annual benefit and presents Robertson's beautiful military comedy of "Ours."

The announcement that "Henry V" will be produced during Mr. Lawrence Barrett's engagement at the California Theatre is incorrect.

Miss Ella Badger makes her appearance at Maguire's New Theatre as Parthenia in "Ingomar," on Monday evening, September 6th.

DEAR FIGARO.—I notice in Saturday FIGARO that Henri Steuart has put in a Challenge for the Clog Dancers of California, to which he calls my special attention. On the 10th of August last, there was a medal put up for the best clog dancer on the Pacific Coast, "open to all," at Arnheim and Fre nan's benefit. Henri Steuart, at that time, was in the city, and in good health. Why did he not come forward and dance for it? He claims the championship of California, but I wear the medal. If Steuart will be at the Lick House saloon at 9 o'clock on the evening of the 28th of August, to put up a deposit and also to name the time and place, he will find me on hand. MORRIS WELCH, Champion Clog Dancer of the Pacific Coast.

Photographic Art

Is supposed by some to be in its infancy. We doubt it much, as it is impossible to imagine pictures retouched and finished with more artistic skill than those we saw at Brodeck & Co's new Art Gallery, 640 Market street, opposite the Palace Hotel.

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

BIJAH'S SPIRITUAL WELFARE.

A tall, black-eyed woman, sighing drearily, and carrying a crape handkerchief in her left hand, entered the station, laid her hand on Bijah's arm, and feebly inquired:

"What about your future?"

"I'm going on a vacation next week, madam—going out to roll on the new mown potatoes and snuff the fragrant cornfields."

"I'm speaking of your spiritual welfare," she continued.

"I beg pardon," he said, as he hung up the broom; "I thought you wanted to sell me an excursion ticket. I'm trying to be good, madam, but it's mighty hard work to carry a good heart around here when I run across peanut shells on the desk, apple cores on the window-sills and cigar stubs on the floor."

"Are you prepared to die?" she asked.

"Go away, my good woman, and return in about an hour. There comes his Honor, court is ready to open, and I haven't time to talk. Drop in here about ten o'clock and I'll sit down and we'll shed tears together, and together lament the general wickedness of the world."

He gently pushed her out of doors, put up the ropes, and his Honor said that he wouldn't try to keep house if Bijah wasn't around.

HE WILL DO BETTER.

The first man out was a railroad brakeman, who had been celebrating his grandfather's birthday.

"You run on the cars, eh?" asked the court.

"Yes, sir."

"And you belong to that class of men who open the door as the train stops at Pontiac and yell out 'Upontyack!' at the passengers.

The man was silent.

"It makes my bones boil when I think of how I've been used on these railroads," continued his Honor. "The seats are locked, the water-cooler empty, the windows won't stay up, and every few minutes you open the door and cry out, 'Jawkun' for Jackson, or 'Kl-a-zoo' for Kalamazoo. I believe I'll mark you for six months."

"Please, sir," protested the prisoner.

"I must strike a blow at this great evil somewhere, and I might as well commence on you."

"Please, sir, I was never here before, and it's my first drunk in four years."

His Honor leaned back and chewed the corner of a blotting-pad while he reflected. Finally he said:

"Well, I'll let you go, though I'll be blamed for it. Now, sir, after this you want to adopt a different style. When the train approaches a station you want to go through the car like a cat, smile gently, and say, in quiet tones:

"Ladies and gentlemen, this train is now in the outskirts of the beautiful city of Ysilanti, and such of you as desire to step off will please make ready, and may health and prosperity ever attend you.'

"What an innovation that would be, sir! How the traveling public would rush for your road! Will you do this, Mr. Wellington?"

The prisoner promised, and was allowed to go.

Sufficient Ground.

Mr. George Belmore.

"The whole force and majesty of the law," says the London correspondent of the New York Spirit of the Times, "has been turned on to prevent your seeing Mr. George Belmore, an actor you will be sure to admire and appreciate. The sensation manager, Mr. F. B. Chatterton, who possesses two theatres and engages one company to play at either establishment, appears to have some hold upon the services of Mr. George Belmore, and the old, stale question cropped up on the point whether Mr. Belmore was or was not the servant of Mr. Chatterton for the season. Mr. Chatterton applied for an injunction to prevent Mr. Belmore from sailing for America, but the Vice-Chancellor ruled that he could make no such order. No legal power could hinder the departure of Mr. Belmore, but he was told that if he did so he would commit a very grave indiscretion and contempt of court, which might be visited on him hereafter, if ever he came back. I am reminded of the scene in 'Still Waters Run Deep.' 'John Mildmay,' says Hawksley, with a supercilious sneer, 'if ever I come back—well, look to yourself!' But I really do not think Mr. Belmore will remain in England owing to the warning of the worthy Vice-Chancellor, 'Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof,' and Mr. Belmore, hindered once before, is very anxious to visit your country. You will find him a vigorous, nervous impulsive, and, in many respects, admirable character actor. He has a certain quaint but not very unctuous humor, and he has decided pathos. Mr. Belmore's representation of Softy in 'Aurora Floyd' is amongst my treasured theatrical recollections,' and I have seen him play a frenzied old man to perfection. I hear he is to open in 'The Flying Scud,' by Boucicault. It is a bad play, with a clap-trap ending, but the character of the old jockey, as played by Mr. Belmore, is a fine personation. I am bound to say that 'The Flying Scud' once made the fortune of the Holborn Theatre, and the Derby scene is talked of to this day as a wonderful piece of realism. The play is founded on an old novel, written by Angus Reach, and called 'Clement Lorrimer; or, The Book with the Iron Clasps.' The plot turns upon the attempted poisoning of a race-horse by a scoundrel, and the defeat of his villainy by Nat Gosling, the brave old jockey. 'The Flying Scud' is a play with one situation, and that a very good one. But the ballet-scene of jockeys, as introduced at the Holborn, is one of the most ridiculous things I ever saw in my life. I hope that Boucicault has cut it out. Fancy a training stable of girls dressed up as jockeys, and all of them dancing a break-down during their work! Fancy jockeys in their colors in the training stable while oiling the saddles and polishing up the bits. But you know how impossible it is, for many reasons, to make a ballet-girl look like a boy; indeed, it is almost impossible in a jockey costume."

Mrs. Kemble's Gossip.

The first number of a very remarkable series of papers, called "An Old Woman's Gossip," appears in the Atlantic Monthly for August. They are by Mrs. Frances Anne Kemble, and are an account of some of her personal reminiscences. Her remembrance of her aunt, the illustrious Mrs. Sarah Siddons, is interesting, and we quote it in full:

"It was while we were living in Covent Garden that Mrs. Siddons returned to the stage for one night, and acted Lady Randolph for my father's benefit. Of course, I heard much discourse about this, to us, important and exciting event, and used all my small powers of persuasion to be taken to see her. My father, who loved me very much, and spoiled me not a little, carried me, early in the afternoon, into the market-place, and showed me the dense mass of people which filled the whole piazza, in patient expectation of admission to the still unopened doors. This was by the way of proving to me how impossible it was to grant my request. However that might then appear, it was granted, for I was in the theatre at the beginning of the performance; but I can now remember nothing of it but the appearance of a solemn female figure in black, and the tremendous roar of public greeting which welcomed her, and must, I suppose, have terrified my childish senses, by the impression I still retain of it; and this is the only occasion on which I saw my aunt in public. Liston, the famous commedian, was at this time a member of the Durham, company, and, though he began his career there by reciting Collins' Ode to the Passions, attired in a pea-green coat, buckskins, top-boots, and powder, with a scroll in his hand; and followed this essay of his powers with the tragic actor's battle-horse, the part of Hamlet; he soon found his peculiar gift to lie in the diametrically opposite direction of broad farce. Of this he was perpetually interpolating original specimens in the gravest performances of his fellow actors: on one occasion, suddenly presenting to Mrs. Stephen Kemble, as she stood dishevelled at the side scene, ready to go on the stage as Ophelia in her madness, a basket with carrots, turnips, onions, leeks and pot-herbs, instead of the conventional flowers and straws of the stage maniac, which sent the fair representative of the Ophelia on in a broad grin, with ill-suppressed fury and laughter, which must have give quite an original character of verisimilitude to the insanity she counterfeited. On another occasion he sent all the chorister boys on, in the lugubrious funeral procession in Romeo and Juliet, with pieces of brown paper in their hands to wipe their tears with. The suppression of that very dreadful piece of stage pageantry has at last, I believe, been conceded to the better taste of modern audiences; but even in my time it was still performed, and an exact representation of a funeral procession, such as one meets every day in Rome with torch-bearing priests, and bier covered with its velvet pall, embroidered with skull and cross-bones, with a corpse-like figure stretched upon it, marched around the stage chanting some portion of the fine Roman Catholic requiem music. I have been twice in the theatre when persons have been seized with epilepsy during that ghastly exhibition, and think the good judgment that has discarded such a mimicry of a solemn religious ceremony highly commendable. Another evening, Liston, having painted Fanny Kemble's face like a clown's posted her at one of the stage side doors to confront her mother, poor Mrs. Stephen Kemble, entering at the opposite side to perform some dismally serious scene of dramatic pathos, who, on suddenly beholding this grotesque apparition of her daughter, fell into convulsions of laughter and coughing, and half audible exclamations of "Go away, Fanny! I'll tell your father, miss!" which must have had the effect of a sudden seizure of madness to the audience, accustomed to the rigid decornm of the worthy woman in the discharge of her theatrical duties."

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relie by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. B

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. X

GEORGE HAAS & Co. will have their Candy Stand in the Gallery of the Fair.

Mrs. McKee Rankin (Miss Kittie Blanchard) was the heroine of a very sad domestic drama, a few nights since, whilst acting in "The Two Orphans," at Chicago. It seems that her mother, Mrs. True, was lying dangerously ill at the Sherman House. Her poor daughter, during the intervals of her acting, passed her time nursing her dying mother, who expired at ten o'clock, August 5. In the last act of the play, Mrs. McKee Rankin's grief was anything but fictitious, for she was well aware of the precarious state of her parent. It seems that the doctor told her she could go back to the theatre, as her mother was better; but he miscalculated, and when the anxious daughter returned to the hotel it was to learn the sad news that she was an orphan in real life, which had been mercifully withheld from her till after the curtain fell. The late Mrs. True was the wife of a well-known physician of Boston, and was a woman highly respected by all who knew her. She was only in her forty-ninth year. Since her daughter's marriage, she has always lived with her, and she was her only surviving child. Mrs. True was a most devoted mother, who rendered Mrs. Rankin's home circle singularly happy.

Boucicault in London.

The walls of London are already placarded with the announcements of Mr. Boucicault's arrival and the production of "The Shaughraun," at Drury Lane, on September 4. The company is engaged, and some extraordinary selections have been made. For instance, Miss Rose Cullen for an important character. This young lady has hitherto made her sole success in the shop windows. She is the idol of the photographers, but has not shown any dramatic talent whatever. Mr. David Fisher leaves the Mirror, in order to play a priest's character in "The Shaughraun;" and the Mirror Theatre is otherwise decimated.

A Lozenger.

The Vicksburge Herald tells this tale: A day or two ago when a young colored man living in this city took a peppermint lozenge in his teeth, leaned over the gate and motioned for his girl to bite off the other half, she gave her head a proud toss and replied: "No, sah! If you wants to mar'y me jist swaller that candy an' spoke up like a white man!"

The Young Man from the East.

" Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

TUESDAY..............AUGUST 24

In the Detroit Police Court.

HE FARMED.

He was a stogy-looking man, one eye swelled shut, one finger badly bitten, coat torn down the back, hat gone, and his good eye having a wild look. He was a farmer, and he had come in with some produce, sold it for cash down, and sold his cash for whisky.

"Found in an alley, ugly drunk," said the court,

"Well, I feel mean enough about it," replied the prisoner.

"Wanted to have a good time, eh?"

"Yes."

"And I guess you had one! You look purty, you do, Mr. Rambo! You look nice to go home to your wife and little children."

"I made a fool of myself."

"And I'm glad to hear you own the corn. You were as ugly as a Malay when the police brought you in, but as you are all bunged up, repentent and forty dollars out of pocket, I am going to let you go home."

"Much obliged."

"Is your wife an innocent-minded woman, Mr. Rambo? That is, does she always believe everything you say?"

"Yes, sir, most always."

"Well, now, when you reach home you tell her that you were down to the ferry dock to see the little steamers canter back and forth over the foaming billows, when four tugs and a propeller ran into your bows and almost stove you to pieces."

"Yes, sir, I will."

"And she'll believe it?"

"She will."

"Well, go out. Put beef on your eye, and salves on your finger, run your face for a hat, and when you come to Detroit again see if you can't keep from making a fool of yourself."

A WILLING MAN.

"You needn't have no trial over me," said William J. Palmer, as he toed the mark."

"You want to plead guilty, eh?"

"Yes, sir—send me right up."

"I'll send you up, of course, but hasn't the pure air of liberty any charm for you? Hadn't you rather ride on the ferry boats and see the women faint away when their hats blow off than go up to the retreat and make chairs?"

"No, sir—I'm tired out, hungry, strapped and discouraged."

"Will sixty days do you?"

"I dunno."

"Well, say four months?"

"I'd rather you'd make it six. I want to sit down and think, and get fat, and regain my health. I'm all shattered to pieces."

"Six it is, Mr. Palmer, and if I could send you for fifty years I'd do that. I see you haven't got any stamina of character. You are an old log, content to float with the current. When you sit down you want some one to rig a derrick and hoist you up, so as to serve exertion. I'll send word up by the driver, and I'll bet my farm in Canada against a hat that you'll step around high while your sentence lasts."

AS USUAL.

A tow-headed boy of eight Summers was brought out and lectured on the sin of calling names and throwing mud, and when he departed the Maria pranced around, the two prisoners were brought out, and the band warbled:

Her name is Prim and his is Palmer,
He's a dunce and she is smart,
He don't care, but she is weeping
Just as if 'twould break her heart.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relie by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. 8

Don't Help Pay Other People's Debts,

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore the [illegible] have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits. L

GRAND
COLLAR AND ELBOW
Wrestling Exhibition
....BETWEEN....
JOHN McMAHON,
(Champion Wrestler of the United States, and the Victor in the late match with WM. FARRELL,) and
HOMER LANE,
The hero of 116 out of 118 matches, having wrestled in every State in the Union, and with but two exceptions, has been victorious.

The Match will be conducted strictly according to the Detroit rules: right hand on collar and left on elbow, best three in five square back falls; a fall consists of two shoulders and one hip, or two hips and one shoulder touching the ground at the same moment without breaking holds, which will afford the admirers of SCIENTIFIC WRESTLING an opportunity to witness the TWO CHAMPIONS in their athletic display.

This is not a match for money, nor will any pool selling be permitted in the building, but the contest will in every sense be as exciting, as there is a spirit of rivalry between the contestants, which, on each occasion that they meet, prompts them to dispute the honors so equally divided.

During the evening Mr. JOHN McMAHON will give or take, in a friendly bout, one square backfall with any Wrestler in San Francisco.

Doors open at 7.30, Wrestling to commence at 8:30 o'clock.

Don't forget the Date, THURSDAY, AUGUST 26th, 1875. au23

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Magnolia" drew a good house, and bating an occasional halt, went exceedingly well for a first night. It is not our intention to notice the play in full to-day, as we prefer leaving that until the actors shall have settled easily to their parts. But enough has been already seen to warrant us in calling "Magnolia" a thoroughly interesting play. It treats of a social state, now happily no longer in existence, and treats it in such a telling, foricble manner as to show how great and crying was the evil of slavery. There are several good characters in the play, notably those of "Abijah, Bijah or plain Bijh," a Yankee, capitally played by W. H. Crane, Magnolia, the heroine's part, assigned Miss Hawthorne, a couple of representatives of the "first families" taken by Messrs. Kennedy and Hastings, and others to be hereafter mentioned. Miss A. A. Adams made her first appearance last evening as the quadroon Cicely, a part she played effectively and with feeling. Most of the scenery is new, and all the new scenery is good.

California Theatre.

There is no abatement as yet in the public interest felt in the adventures and fate of "The Two Orphans" and we look to a succession of full houses as long as the piece is continued on the boards.

Herold's Matinees.

To-morrow afternoon, Herold's fourth orchestral matinee will be given. Judging from the house of last week, the programme for to-morrow, and the general interest felt in these concerts, we look forward to a crowded house. The features of to-morrow's programme are N. W. Gade's Symphony in C, Wagner's Prelude to "Lohengrin," and Rossini's Overture to "Gazza Ladra."

Y. M. C. A. Hall.

This evening, Frank Gilder, undismayed by the attractions of the Fair, gives his 36th Popular Concert. The assisting artists on this occasion will be Miss Marian Singer, Mrs. M. R. Blake, Mr. C. Makin and Signor Padovani, the violinist.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Frank Mortimer has arranged a good programme, George Foster in songs, Swain and West in character dances, Charley Kimic in specialties, Senate and Price in their acts and other attractions being on it.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

G. W. Jester the man with the Talking Hand, Charley King with his banjo solos Hughey Robinson with his acts, Johnny Cook with his song and dance and all sorts of fun to-night

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

An excellent programme for Saturday and Sunday in addition to the standard attractions. Gonzales and Perez, the Mexican gymnasts, in their extraordinary somersault tight rope dancing; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts in a new act, Miss Linden, Will Stevens, Mlle. Victorini, Milo and his velocipede, and the grand orchestral concerts.

Notes.

Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre company opened at the Salt Lake City Theatre on Friday evening in "Saratoga" and "The Rough Diamond." The house was a crowded one. It was followed on Saturday afternoon with "The Big Bonanza," and on Saturday evening with "Divorce." This closed the engagement, which was thoroughly successful.

Somehow or other, Jennie Lee and J. P. Burnett didn't make things meet exactly at Salt Lake. "May Blossom" was withdrawn on Saturday afternoon, its third presentation, and was followed on Saturday evening by "Kind to a Fault" and "Little Treasure." On Monday, "Caste" was produced with Jennie Lee as Polly. On Wednesday evening Miss Lee took her benefit, but the house somehow, was thin. Absence of money and the hot weather, are put down as the causes.

George D. Chaplin, supported by Mrs. Jean Clara Walters, Miss Augusta Chambers, A. D. Billings, Charles Mestayer, Willie Sims and others commenced the Fall and Winter season at Piper's, Virginia City, on Saturday, in "Enoch Arden" and "An Object of Interest." Mr. Lawrence Barrett opened there last night, but in what or with what success we have not yet learned.

A long table the whole length of a flag be-decked boat-house; the table covered with eatables and drinkables, profuse in quantity and excellent in quality; the guests, the members of the California Theatre Company, from the Manager to the scene shifters; the guests as bright and happy as a set of mud-larks; the guests too, including all those whom it was the pleasure of the President to honor; an introductory speech from the late President, W. A. Mestayer, a "few neat remarks" from Mr. Barton Hill and an earnest, sensible statement of affairs by the present President, Mr. Thomas Gessman, an earnest, sensible man "frae beyant t'Tweed;" the gay company breaking up into parties and floating out on the bay by the aid of the Club boats and the willing and stout arms of the sturdy young men to whom a pull in the hot sunlight was a matter of as much pleasure as perspiration; the gradual falling of the evening and the gradual falling off of the attendance; cordial good byes and the general expression of having had "really and truly a most enjoyable time"—such was the Second Anniversary of the California Theatre Boat Club, held at the boat-house, on Sunday afternoon. To the Club, we too, return thanks for a thoroughly pleasant afternoon, whilst to chronicle its future good standing and successes will be equally as pleasant.

Another week of benefits at the California Theatre. On Monday, August 30th, the City Guard open the ball by presenting "Solid Silver," the comedy of the W. H. Barnes, their Colonel. On Tuesday, Mr. W. T. Porter, the scenic artist and a good fellow, takes his annual benefit when two great attractions will be held out i. e., the first presentation of "Two Lives," a dramatization of Dickens' Tale of Two Cities" and the debut of Miss Annie de Montaigu, as Lucie Manette. "Two Lives" will be played on Wednesday evening. On Thursday the Knights of Pythias have a benefit, presenting a mixed bill, and on Friday evening Mr. Barton Hill, whom to praise with common adjectives of quality, would be no compliment and who can well stand alone in public favor without our help, receives his annual benefit and presents Robertson's beautiful military comedy of "Ours."

Grand Wrestling Match.

Collar and elbow wrestling seems to have fairly taken the place of that known as the Roman style. On Thursday evening next, there will be a grand match at the Palace Amphitheatre, between John McMahon, the champion wrestler of the United States, and victor in the late match with William Farrell, and Homer Lane, who has won 116 matches out of 118, having wrestled in every State in the Union, and with the exception of the two occasions indicated, been successful. The match will be decided by three falls out of five. The match is not for money, nor will there be any pools sold at the building, but is simply intended as an opportunity for witnessing scientific wrestling by two champions.

UNBIASED CRITICISM.

[Had the writer Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony" in his mind, think you?]

In a century departed
From his slumbers gaily started,
Most elatedly behaving,
And with gladsome airs,
A musical composer
(Who was not a heavy dozer),
And he wasn't long in shaving,
And he came down stairs.

He was extra gay and sprightly,
And he wore his troubles lightly,
As his fingers gaily fluttered
O'er the pi-a-no;
For the morning sun was beaming,
And his coffee-pot was steaming,
And his toast was standing buttered
As it might be so.

And he felt in no condition
For impressive composition,
Nor for music grand and pealing
Did he care one fig;
But the thing he had a mind for,
And was thoroughly inclined for—
Was a nice light jig.

It was truly quite suprising
How he played the sun uprising,
And the action of his glitter
On the fly (which flits),
And the quadruped (which grazes),
And the waving of the daisies,
And the funny little twitter
Of the gay tom-tits!

Then a shepherd who was straying
He'd embody in his playing,
And his charges would assemble
By the hawthorn tree;
And you could easily discover
That the shepherd was a lover
By the funny little tremble
In a mi-nor key.

And he found it so delighting
That he took it down in writing,
Giving solos for the fiddles
And the big trombone;
And I'll mention, in addition,
That a gayer composition
Having queerer little twiddles
Never yet-was-known.

* * * * *

When a century had speeded,
In a corner long unheeded,
As a critic of position
Chanced to cast his eye,
He found that scintillation
Of a bygone generation—
The merry composieion
Of a time gone by.

"Oh! how solemnly inspiring!"
Cried the critic, all-admiring;
"The majestic ever-blending
With the calmly grand!
Ever giving the expression
Of a funeral procession,
Having feathers never-ending
And a big brass band!"

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

Mr. George Rignold in addressing the audience at the opening of the Queen's Theatre, London, said: "One word about America. When I started last January I shared in the delusion that there was a great deal of jealousy existing between the two countries. Let me dispel that delusion. I can only tell you this, that an English speaking public on the other side of the Atlantic accorded an English actor in Shakspeare's thoroughly English play of "Henry the Fifth," what I can only term a hearty English welcome; and had I not been born an Englishman, a nationality of which I am proud, I should like to be an American."

Miss Violetta Colville is studying the role of Margarita, in an English version of "Les Huguenots."

Canfield and Booker are performing at the London Pavilion; also Jolly Nash and the Weston Sisters.

The Abbe Liszt has refused a splendid offer for America.

Tamberlik, the tenor, is in Paris, and Zaro Thalberg has gone to Barcelona.

George Augustus Sala is said to be engaged upon a play.

Florence Marryatt (Mrs. Ross-Church), the editor of London Society, is about to make her debut on the public stage.

At a recent concert recently given by Mme. Nilsson at Albert Hall, London, there was seen what the American showman loves to call a "monster combination of talent," when Tietiens, Nilsson, Belocca, Trevelli, Sims Reeves, Campanini, De Reschi, Foli and Behrens sang the well-known prayer from Rossini's "Mose in Egitto."

Salvini appeared, for the last time of his present engagement, at Drury Lane on the 16th of July, playing "Othello." His brief season there was said to have netted $4,000. He is coming there again.

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place o business.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

There is considerable human nature in man, and sometimes a little of it in woman. "What's the use of going out in this muddy weather?" asked a husband of his wife. "And what," she returned, "is the use of having striped stockings?"

Michigan girls are none of your sentimental kind, that go around with croquet and the like, but pitch horse shoes and practice high kicking at the clothes line.

A Fond du Lac widow, bereaved a few days ago, felt the loss of her husband so keenly that she refused to wear anything but a black domino to the masquerade last week.

Upon the death of her husband, a St. Louis woman dyed her Spitz dog black. She had recently purchased a very elegant bonnet, and couldn't afford to go in mourning herself.

It is all nice enough for you to sit in your easy chairs and read that Nilsson is growing fat; but think of poor Rouzeaud rushing off seventeen or eighteen times a day to the corner grocery for pickles.

Young ladies who receive the degree of A. B. have a decided advantage over the young gentlemen. We know one was MA in less than a year from her graduation.

When a Duluth woman asks her husband why he didn't order the wood, he looks at her in a chilling, dignified way, and replies: "I do not wish to go the Black Hills, but do not press me—do not arouse the tiger!"

An Indiana girl wanted to see if her lover really loved her, and she got a boy to yell "mad dog" as they were walking out. The lover flew over a fence and left her to be chewed up, and she went.

To prevent a lover from "going back" on his promise, a Detroit girl introduces him to her friends as "my intended husband."

"My Dear," inquired a young wife of her husband, as she reached up her little mouth to be kissed on his return from business, "have you seen the magnificent set of walnut furniture which the Jenkinses have just bought?" "Hem, no, my love, but I have seen the bill, which quite satisfies me."

TO THE ELECTORS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Without Solicitation on my part I have been nominated for the position of Mayor of San Francisco.

I challenge any gentleman in any of the various Nominating Conventions or Committees, to state that either directly or indirectly, I solicited the vote of any member of the various bodies which have nominated candidates for the respective positions in our Municipal Government.

I believe that for the office of Mayor, an office possessing neither salary nor emoluments sufficient to excite the desire of any man to obtain the office for the pay, that a citizen should not be wanting in dignity, by either soliciting, trading for, or purchasing votes, to secure the position of a candidate for the office of Mayor of San Francisco.

If elected, I will enter the office untrammelled by any pledges; I am under no obligation to any corporation, clique, or individual, which would cause me to betray the people; on all the living issues of the day I am in accord with the people.

I am of the opinion that the city should own its Water and Gas, and I believe that until it does become possessed of suitable works, that the price of both Water and Gas should be regulated and controlled by law.

I am opposed to the extravagant expenditures of the public moneys, and to any expenditure not strictly authorized by law.

I am of the opinion the law at present authorizes (and if it is not explicit enough should be made so) that the chief executive officers should note the manner of the performance of the duties of the various officers. If elected Mayor I should certainly exercise my right of inspection under the law, and report to the proper officers and to the people, any dereliction on the part of any official.

I am of the opinion that San Francisco should have the management of her own local affairs, and being more intelligent as regards what is for her best interests than the public of the other portions of the State could possibly be, should be granted more power.

My private character and public record are open to the criticism of the public. Having lived in your midst for a quarter of a century, identified, as I have been, with the growth of the city, and my interests being identical with the interests of the people, and believing that, if elected, I might be of service to the people in my endeavor to have an honest, faithful, efficient and intelligent administration of the City Government, I solicit the support of citizens of any or all political denominations for the office of Mayor, for which, I repeat, I was nominated without solicitation; and, if elected, I can perform the duties of the office free from political or personal entanglement.

GRAND
Wrestling Exhibition

....BETWEEN....

JOHN McMAHON,

(Champion Wrestler of the United States, and the Victor in the late match with W. J. FARRELL,) and

HOMER LANE,

The hero of 11[illegible] out of 118 matches, having wrestled in every State in the Union, and with but two exceptions, has been victorious.

The Match will be conducted strictly according to the Detroit rules; right hand on collar and left on elbow, best three in five square back falls; a fall consists of two shoulders and one hip, or two hips and one shoulder touching the ground at the same moment without breaking holds, which will afford the admirers of SCIENTIFIC WRESTLING an opportunity to witness the TWO CHAMPIONS in their athletic display.

This is not a match for money, nor will any pool selling be permitted in the building, but the contest will in every sense be as exciting, as there is a spirit of rivalry between the contestants, which, on each occasion that they meet, prompts them to dispute the honors so equally divided.

During the evening Mr. JOHN McMAHON will give or take, in a friendly bout, one square backfall with any Wrestler in San Francisco.

Doors open at 7:30, Wrestling to commence at 8:30 o'clock.

Don't forget the Date, THURSDAY, AUGUST 26th, 1875. au23

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.

"The Two Orphans" drew the usual excellent house, last night, that has attended its every performance. There was an extra attraction for those who were present last evening in the person of General Phil. Sheridan. It should be distinctly remembered that there are only three more presentations of this great play, including Saturday's matinee.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Magnolia" is evidently going to make a third hit, for already has it enjoyed two good runs, once here and once in Chicago where it proved the best paying play of last season. It is capitally presented by the Hooley company, the new scenery, especially the magnolia grove being particularly good. There is also a steamboat race on the Mississippi, ending in the effective tableau of the blowing up of one of the contestants. We have already mentioned several of the principal characters but must not forget E. J. Buckley's quiet and well drawn Maurice.

Herold's Matinees.

This afternoon, Herold's fourth orchestral matinee will be given. Judging from the house of last week, the programme for to-morrow, and the general interest felt in these concerts, we look forward to a crowded house. The features of to-morrow's programme are N. W. Gade's Symphony in C, Wagner's Prelude to "Lohengrin," and Rossini's Overture to "Gazza Ladra."

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts for to-night are "Lucy di Soiree," "Alike as Two Peas," "Dentist's Shop," and "Old Bimbleback," which concludes an enjoyable bill.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

A good bill for to-night as may be seen by referring to the programme. All the members of this strong company are thereon and all in good acts and specialties.

Grand Wrestling Match.

Collar and elbow wrestling seems to have fairly taken the place of that known as the Roman style. To-morrow evening, there will be a grand match at the Palace Amphitheatre, between John McMahon, the champion wrestler of the United States, and victor in the late match with William Farrell, and Homer Lane, who has won 116 matches out of 118, having wrestled in every State in the Union, and with the exception of the two occasions indicated, been successful. The match will be decided by three falls out of five. The match is not for money, nor will there be any pools sold at the building, but is simply intended as an opportunity for witnessing scientific wrestling by two champions.

Reisen Keller.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

An excellent programme for Saturday and Sunday in addition to the standard attractions. Gonzales and Perez, the Mexican gymnasts, in their extraordinary somersault tight rope dancing; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts in a new act, Miss Linden, Will Stevens, Mlle. Victorini, Milo and his velocipede, and the grand orchestral concerts.

Notes.

On Friday next Miss Alice Dunning (Lingard) takes a farewell benefit, when "La Tentation will be produced, with her sister and husband in the cast.

It was the intention of Manager Wilson to open the Mammoth Hippodrome on Saturday evening next, but it is now probable that the opening night will be on that of Monday, so as to begin the week with a fair start.

Another week of benefits at the California Theatre. On Monday, August 30th, the City Guard open the ball by presenting "Solid Silver," the comedy of the W. H. Barnes, their Colonel. On Tuesday, Mr. W. T. Porter, the scenic artist and a good fellow, takes his annual benefit when two great attractions will be held out i. e., the first presentation of "Two Lives," a dramatization of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" and the debut of Miss Annie de Montaigu, as Lucie Manette. "Two Lives" will be played on Wednesday evening. On Thursday the Knights of Pythias have a benefit, presenting a mixed bill, and on Friday evening Mr. Barton Hill, whom to praise with common adjectives of quality, would be no compliment and who can well stand alone in public favor without our help, receives his annual benefit and presents Robertson's beautiful military comedy of "Ours."

Frank Gilder had a good house last night, the Y. M. C. A. Hall being quite crowded. In fact, the only drawback was the small size of the building.

Lawrence Barrett opened at Piper's Opera House, Virginia City, on Monday evening as Alfred Evelyn in Bulwer's comedy of "Money" to a crowded and most enthusiastic house. He was supported by Geo. D. Chaplin as Sir Frederick Blount, A. D. Billings as Sir Jno Vesey, Miss Jean Clara Walters as Clara Douglas, Miss Augusta Chambers as Georgina, and Mrs. Belle Douglas as Lady Franklin. "Harbell, or the Man o'Airlie" is underlined.

Mr. D. G. Waldron, the Manager of the Alleghanians, has just looked in upon us. The troupe returned from Oregon, on board the Oriflamme, yesterday noon, with just sufficient time to take the cars for Redwood City, where they were billed for last night and where they played to a big house. To-night and to-morrow night they play at Santa Clara, Friday and Saturday night, San Jose.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any th [illegible] an be found anywhere, and as everything is a [illegible] manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

UNGATHERED LOVE.

BY PHILIP ROURKE MARSTON.

When the Autumn winds go wailing
  Through the branches yellow and brown,
When the gray sad light is falling,
  And the day is going down—
I hear the desolate evening sing
Of a Love that bloomed in the early Spring,
And which no heart had for gathering.

I and my lover we dwell apart,
  We twain may never be one—
We shall never stand heart to heart,
  Then what can be said or done,
When winds, and waters, and song-birds sing
Of a love that bloomed in the early Spring,
And which no heart had for gathering.

When the day is over and the night descends,
  And dank mists circle and rise,
I fall asleep and slumber befriends,
  For I dream of April skies.
But I wake to hear the silence sing
Of a love that bloomed in the early Spring,
And which no heart had for gathering.

When the dawn comes in with wind and rain,
  And birds awake in the eaves,
And rain drops smite the window pane,
  And drench the eddying leaves—
I hear the voice of the daybreak sing,
Of a love that blooomed in the early Spring,
And which no heart had for gathering.

Cool.

Actors are proverbial for their coolness, yet an anecdote which has just cropped up would seem to prove that Emile Devrient might carry off the palm and deserve a monument in ice. On one occasion when the grand theatre at Vienna was crowded, the Emperor Francis, with several members of his family, being in the Imperial box, the play, Schiller's "Robbers" had reached its third act, when a cry arose that the stage was on fire. Devrient signed at once to the prompter, who lowered the curtain, the actor stepping out in front of it ere it wholly fell. In his clear, clarion voice, he said, "There is no fire. The Emperor has been despoiled of an aigrette of diamonds on entering the theatre. No honest man will object to being searched. You will pass out one by one at each several entrance, and be searched by the police stationed at the several doors. Any man attempting to go out of order will be arrested." The crowd, deceived by the coolness and the charge, poured out. As each reached the door he was simply told to hurry on, and, just as the last rows of the upper gallery were filing out the flames burst through the curtain and enveloped the auditorium; but not a life was lost, though in less than half an hour afterwards the building was in ruins.

Animals on the Stage.

In 1811 the example was set at Covent Garden of introducing horses, elephants and camels on the stage. This was done in the grand cavalcade in "Bluebeard," the first representation of which was attended with a singular accident. A trap gave way under the camel ridden by an actor named Gallot, who saved his own neck or limbs from dislocation or fracture by throwing himself off as the animal sank down. He was unhurt, but the camel was so much injured by the fall that it died before it could be extricated. The elephant, though docile could not be induced to go upon the stage until one of the ladies of the ballet, who had become familiar with the animal during the rehearsals, led it on by one of its ears. This went off so well with the audience, that the young lady repeated the performance at every representation of the spectacle.

Only a Lieutenant.

On his return from a visit by coach, one day, Theodore Hook found two inside passengers—a very pretty but very delicate looking young lady, attended by a very homely looking maid. The coach stopped for twenty minutes to allow of dinner. Hook returned first to his place; the maid next. During the absence of her young mistress, Hook said to her, in a tone of great sympathy:

"Your young lady seems very unwell."

"Yes, sir; she suffers sadly."

"Consumption, I should fear?"

"No, sir; I am sorry to say it is the heart."

"Dear! Aneurism?"

"Oh, no, sir! it is only a lieutenant in the navy."

◆

The Blonde Age.

It is clear, says Arsene Houssaye, that the nineteenth century is to be the century of blondes, like the sixteenth, just as the seventeenth century was that of the wig, and the eighteenth that of powder. All women are blonde now-a-days, South as North. Nestor Roqueplan once said, "God gave blonde hair to the women of the North to console the men for having no sun." But now the Southern women make themselves blonde by the use of fairy waters, or simply by bathing their hair in ammonia. Some of them color, others discolor; it is a miracle of chemistry.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

A Deserving Candidate.

Mr. A. M. Ebbets is the nominee for three parties for Supervisor of the Fourth Ward, and a better man it would be difficult indeed to find. Mr. Ebbets' name is held amongst the voters of the entire city as the synonym for integrity and faithfulness. During the late searching investigations of the Finance Committee, Mr. Ebbets held the position of chairman, and it was mainly through his fearless and impartial action in the various inquiries, that the chief official criminals were unearthed and met their deserts. It is just these non-partizan and straight-dealing men of whom Mr. Ebbets is a right worthy specimen, that we want to fill our Municipal offices.

An Excellent Nomination.

James Denman is on the Democratic ticket for Superintendent of the Public Schools, and there are many reasons for our calling this an excellent nomination. Mr. Denman, being the present incumbent of the position is thoroughly well posted in the routine of the office, whilst during the past two years he has shown himself conscientous in the discharge of his duties, just in his decisions and generally well fitted for the place. In fact the right man in the right place.

Before and After.

"Dear Carrie," she wrote, "To-morrow I am going to the Branch; and I do so want to revel in the billowy embraces of the ocean." The young bride does not leave the altar with more delicious expectation than that with which this young enthusiast for the first time entered the surf. Within four minutes, however, after making the fatal plunge she had turned fourteen involuntary somersaults, got a piece of clam-shell in her eye, got the skin rubbed off both her shoulder blades, been stood on her head seventeen times, was finally rescued and hauled up the bluff in a comatose state, and has been spitting sand, at intervals, ever since.

A Young Methuselah.

The Earl of Shaftesbury told an amusing story at a meeting of the Palestine Exploration Fund. He said that in his part of the country (Dorsetshire) the people had a strong predilection for giving Hebrew names to their children at baptism. Sometimes, however, they went a little too far. In the church-yard of his own parish there was a tombstone which he always showed to his friends who were interested in such matters, on which was engraved, "Methuselah Coney aged 12 months."

TO THE ELECTORS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Without Solicitation on my part I have been nominated for the position of Mayor of San Francisco.

I challenge any gentleman in any of the various Nominating Conventions or Committees, to state that either directly or indirectly, I solicited the vote of any member of the various bodies which have nominated candidates for the respective positions in our Municipal Government.

I believe that for the office of Mayor, an office possessing neither salary nor emoluments sufficient to excite the desire of any man to obtain the office for the pay, that a citizen should not be wanting in dignity, by either soliciting, trading for, or purchasing votes, to secure the position of a candidate for the office of Mayor of San Francisco.

If elected, I will enter the office untrammelled by any pledges; I am under no obligation to any corporation, clique, or individual, which would cause me to betray the people; on all the living issues of the day I am in accord with the people.

I am of the opinion that the city should own its Water and Gas, and I believe that until it does become possessed of suitable works, that the price of both Water and Gas should be regulated and controlled by law.

I am opposed to the extravagant expenditures of the public moneys, and to any expenditure not strictly authorized by law.

I am of the opinion the law at present authorizes (and if it is not explicit enough should be made so) that the chief executive officers should note the manner of the performance of the duties of the various officers. If elected Mayor I should certainly exercise my right of inspection under the law, and report to the proper officers and to the people, any dereliction on the part of any official.

I am of the opinion that San Francisco should have the management of her own local affairs, and being more intelligent as regards what is for her best interests than the public of the other portions of the State could possibly be, should be granted more power.

My private character and public record are open to the criticism of the public. Having lived in your midst for a quarter of a century, identified, as I have been, with the growth of the city, and my interests being identical with the interests of the people, and believing that, if elected, I might be of service to the people in my endeavor to have an honest, faithful, efficient and intelligent administration of the City Government, I solicit the support of citizens of any or all political denominations for the office of Mayor, for which, I repeat, I was nominated without solicitation; and, if elected, I can perform the duties of the office free from political or personal entanglement.

COLLAR AND ELBOW

Wrestling Exhibition

....BETWEEN....

JOHN McMAHON,

(Champion Wrestler of the United States, and the Victor in the late match with WM. FARRELL,) and

HOMER LANE,

The hero of 116 out of 118 matches, having wrestled in every State in the Union, and with but two exceptions, has been victorious.

The Match will be conducted strictly according to the Detroit rules; right hand on collar and left on elbow, best three in five square back falls; a fall consists of two shoulders and one hip, or two hips and one shoulder touching the ground at the same moment without breaking holds, which will afford the admirers of SCIENTIFIC WRESTLING an opportunity to witness the TWO CHAMPIONS in their athletic display.

This is not a match for money, nor will any pool selling be permitted in the building, but the contest will in every sense be as exciting, as there is a spirit of rivalry between the contestants, which, on each occasion that they meet, prompts them to dispute the honors so equally divided.

During the evening Mr. JOHN McMAHON will give or take, in a friendly bout, one square backfall with any Wrestler in San Francisco.

Doors open at 7:30, Wrestling to commence at 8:30 o'clock.

Don't forget the Date, THURSDAY, AUGUST 26th, 1875. au23

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Magnolia" was played last night to a house which warrants the Management in removing it. Crane as Abijah carried the piece, his presence at all times securing the amused attention of everybody. Mr. J. O. Sefton's Toby was a capitally drawn picture of an old negro, his scene with Magnolia in the second act deserving much praise for its faithful portraiture of the pathetic. This evening and to-morrow evening "Lost in London," Saturday and Sunday "Romeo and Juliet." A proof of general versatility if of nothing else.

California Theatre.

To-night is the last night of "The Two Orphans" and we expect there will be a crowded house to say farewell. It will be played at the Saturday's matinee. To-morrow evening "La Tentation" will be produced for the benefit of Miss Alice Dunning (Lingard) on which occasion the cast will include Miss Dickie Lingard and William Horace Lingard. Mrs. Lingard will possibly be glad of a change of parts so decided as this will be and if one tithe of those who have enjoyed her performance as Henriette, will come to see her in "La Tentation," there will be a crowd indeed.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The fourth matinee of the present season was given yesterday afternoon at Platt's Hall to an audience, which both in size and quality must have re assured Mr. Herold's of the fashionable success of his institution. The principal number on the programme was the Symphony in C, by N. W. Gade. Part of this Symphony, two movements if we remember aright, was given during the first season, and at that time we spoke at length on the character of the music. The execution of the whole yesterday afternoon, enabled us to judge of what a marked improvement there was in the orchestra. All that is needed now, is something like regularity in bowing—the first violins zig-zagging in a wonderful manner—and an increased attention to light and shade. The prelude to "Lohengrin" and the overture to "Gazza Ladra," were also on the programme.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

All the attractions come here to-night, Sam Bayis will make his first appearance at this place of amusement in his great Fire Eating act and in his phantasmagorial specialty.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Hughey Robinson's songs are nightly applauded, G. W. Jester's entertainment is amusing, Ned Barry's comic songs are capital and the whole entertainment is good. Re-appearance of Charley Harris and Lon Dixon this evening.

Grand Wrestling Match.

This evening, there will be a grand match at the Palace Amphitheatre, between John McMahon, the champion wrestler of the United States, and victor in the late match with William Farrell, and Homer Lane, who has won 116 matches out of 118, having wrestled in every State in the Union, and with the exception of the two occasions indicated, been successful. The match will be decided by three falls out of five. The match is not for money, nor will there be any pools sold at the building, but is simply intended as an opportunity for witnessing scientific wrestling by two champions.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

An excellent programme for Saturday and Sunday in addition to the standard attractions. Gonzales and Perez, the Mexican gymnasts, in their extraordinary somersault tight rope dancing; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts in a new act, Miss Linden, Will Stevens, Mlle. Victorini, Milo and his velocipede, and the grand orchestral concerts.

Notes.

Another week of benefits at the California Theatre. On Monday, August 30th, the City Guard open the ball by presenting "Solid Silver," the comedy of the W. H. Barnes, their Colonel. On Tuesday, Mr. W. T. Porter, the scenic artist and a good fellow, takes his annual benefit when two great attractions will be held out i. e., the first presentation of "Two Lives," a dramatization of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" and the debut of Miss Annie de Montaigu, as Lucie Manette. Wednesday evening benefit of the Ushers and Doorkeepers, with a strong bill. On Thursday, the Knights of Pythias have a benefit, presenting a mixed bill, and on Friday evening Mr. Barton Hill, whom to praise with common adjectives of quality, would be no compliment and who can well stand alone in public favor without our help receives his annual benefit and presents Robertson's beautiful military comedy of "Ours." We have omitted to note in the above that Miss Ellie Wilton has kindly volunteered to play for the City Guard.

Jack Hudson, the circo-menagerie man, arrived from Panama yesterday, with all his animals after him like a second Noah.

The Alta's record of Mr. John McCullough's movements, furnishes us with the following this morning: Mr. John McCullough will leave England by the next steamer for America, to play an engagement in Louisville, Kentucky, and in other cities in the East. He will return to California in March. He has arranged to play a short season in the English metropolis, and has also engaged special attractions for the Christmas spectacle, which we understand will be written by Mr. Barton Hill.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equal to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The original "Swain's Bakery" is now established in their magnificent new place at 213 Sutter street near Centre Market, and has added a lunch room and ice cream saloon. This is their only place of business.

New and beautiful designs of Carpets at 116 Sutter street, Hall & Lachman's.

"CREDE BYRON."

"I desire that my body may be buried in the vault of the garden of Newstead, without any ceremony or burial service whatever, and that no inscription save my name and age, be written on my tomb or tablet."—Byron's Will. (See Times, July 14th).

What perils posthumous environ
The mighty Poet's radiant fame
Which fools and scoffers sought to shame!
The Churchmen, prejudiced and shabby,
Denied him entrance to the Abbey;
And wherefore so? Because, forsooth,
In Days of Sham he wrote the Truth—
Wrote it with keen, indignant ire,
In letters of eternal fire:
"Crede Byron!"

When that strong soul began to tire on
Its upward flight, its haughty way,
Into the world's where song hath sway,
He, thinking of his final rest,
Dreamt of the spot he loved the best,
Longed that soft earth should crumble o'er him
Where slept his passionate race before him,
Nothing thereon except his name—
Two syllables of deathless fame:
"Crede Byron!"

Clay mingled with his strength of iron:
But he was greater far than they
Who dare to call him wholly clay.
If England wishes something done
For her last Age's strongest son,
Be it his statue, calm and grand,
By the first sculptor of the land.
Touch not his holy churchyard stone—
"My Monument my Name alone:"
"Crede Byron!"

—Punch.

First Use of the Handkerchief.

Until the reign of the Empress Josephine a handkerchief was thought in France so shocking an object that a lady would never have dared to use it before any one. The word even was carefully avoided in refined conversation. An actor who would have used a handkerchief on the stage, even in the most tearful moments of the play, would have been unmercifully hissed; and it was only in the beginning of the present century that a celebrated actress, Mlle. Duchesnoise, dared to appear with a handkerchief in her hand. Having to speak of this handkerchief in the course of the piece, she never could summon enough courage to call it by its true name, but referred to it as a light tissue. A few days later, a translation of one of Shakspeare's plays, by Alfred de Vigny, having been acted, the word handkerchief was used for the first time on the stage, amid cries of indignation from a great part of the house. I doubt if even to-day, French elegantes would carry handkerchiefs if the wife of Napoleon I. had not given the signal for adopting them. The Empress Josephine, although really lovely, had ugly teeth. To conceal them she was in the habit of carrying small handkerchiefs, adorned with costly laces, which she continually raised gracefully to her lips. Of course all the ladies of the court followed her example, and handkerchiefs rapidly became an important and costly part of the feminine toilet; so much so now that the price of a single handkerchief of the trousseau of the duchess of Edinburgh would make the fortune of a necessitous family.

Grotesque Salutations.

The inhabitants of the Philippines, in saluting each other, use a most complex attitude; they bend their body very low, place their hands on their cheeks, and raise at the same time one foot in the air with their knee bent. The islanders, near the Philippines, take the hand or foot of him whom they salute and with it gently rub their face. The Laplanders apply their nose strongly against that of the person they salute. In an island situated in the Straits of the Sound salutations are really gymnastic performances. Houtman said the natives saluted him by raising his left foot which they passed gently over the right leg, and from thence over his face. An Ethiopian takes the robe of another and ties it about his own waist so that he leaves his friend half naked. The salutatory ceremonies of negroes are farcical; the greater part pull the fingers till they crack. When two negro monarchs visit they embrace by snapping three times the middle finger. When the ancient Franks would show a peculiar mark of esteem they tore the hair from their heads and presented it to the person they saluted. The slave cut his hair and offered it to his master. The Chinese are singularly affected in their personal civilities. They even calculate the number of their reverences. They are the most remarkable posturers. The men move their hands in an affectionate manner, while they are joined together on the breast, and bow the head a trifle. If they respect a person they raise their hands joined, then lower them to the earth in bending the body.

How to Open Oysters.

"As to opening oysters," said old Hurricane, "why, nothing's easier, if you only know how." "And how's how?" inquired Straight. "Scotch-snuff!" answered old Hurricane, very sententiously—"Scotch-snuff; bring a little of it ever so near their noses, they'll sneeze their lids off"

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and all epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

GEORGE HAAS & CO. will have their Candy Stand in the Gallery of the Fair.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

FRIDAY..................AUGUST 27

Too Much Technicality.

A Dubuque medical student has come to grief by reason of his remarkable technical knowledge. The young woman to whom he was attached, one morning received the following note: "Dear Angeline:—I am sorry to inform you that in consequence of a circumscribed subcutaneous inflammation, characterized by a pointed, pustular tumor suppurating in the centre of a curunculus, I am unable to enjoy the pleasure of your company to the Hipprodome. Ever, dearest, thine, Augustus." She read it; she rushed to his home in agony of apprehension, and found that he had only one of those things of which Job had so many. When she returned home her sensible mother told her that she had better drop that erudite young man; if married he would, doubtless, beggar his family by buying Latin Dictionaries and such. The maternal advice was followed; and now A. suffers from something worse than a curunculus.

Misapplied.

A boy in one of the public schools a few miles from Boston was recently complained of to his teacher by another teacher in the same building for a special instance of misdemeanor.

His teacher told him that he must inform his mother that he had thus been complained of, and state the cause of complaint.

The next day his teacher said to him: "Did you tell your mother what I told you to!"

"Yes'm," was the reply.

"Well, what did she say?"

"She said she'd like to wring that confounded teacher's neck off."

Queer Friends.

A curious story of animal friendship comes from Newton, Conn., where a black and tan dog has taken charge of a brood of chickens, and with them occupies a basket, barking at every one approaching. He steps into the basket, and, moving the chickens with his paws, secures room to lie down in, when the small balls of down nestle close to him and overrun his body.

TO THE ELECTORS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Without Solicitation on my part I have been nominated for the position of Mayor of San Francisco.

I challenge any gentleman in any of the various Nominating Conventions or Committees, to state that either directly or indirectly, I solicited the vote of any member of the various bodies which have nominated candidates for the respective positions in our Municipal Government.

I believe that for the office of Mayor, an office possessing neither salary nor emoluments sufficient to excite the desire of any man to obtain the office for the pay, that a citizen should not be wanting in dignity, by either soliciting, trading for, or purchasing votes, to secure the position of a candidate for the office of Mayor of San Francisco.

If elected, I will enter the office untrammelled by any pledges; I am under no obligation to any corporation, clique, or individual, which would cause me to betray the people; on all the living issues of the day I am in accord with the people.

I am of the opinion that the city should own its Water and Gas, and I believe that until it does become possessed of suitable works, that the price of both Water and Gas should be regulated and controlled by law.

I am opposed to the extravagant expenditures of the public moneys, and to any expenditure not strictly authorized by law.

I am of the opinion the law at present authorizes (and if it is not explicit enough should be made so) that the chief executive officers should note the manner of the performance of the duties of the various officers. If elected Mayor I should certainly exercise my right of inspection under the law, and report to the proper officers and to the people, any dereliction on the part of any official.

I am of the opinion that San Francisco should have the management of her own local affairs, and being more intelligent as regards what is for her best interests than the public of the other portions of the State could possibly be, should be granted more power.

My private character and public record are open to the criticism of the public. Having lived in your midst for a quarter of a century, identified, as I have been, with the growth of the city, and my interests being identical with the interests of the people, and believing that, if elected, I might be of service to the people in my endeavor to have an honest, faithful, efficient and intelligent administration of the City Government, I solicit the support of citizens of any or all political denominations for the office of Mayor, for which, I repeat, I was nominated without solicitation; and, if elected, I can perform the duties of the office free from political or personal entanglement.

Maguire's New Theatre.

That exciting drama known as "Lost in London" was given at this theatre last evening in capital style. Several of the members were furnished with first-rate characters, principal amongst which, were the Job Armroyd of James O'Neill, the Benjamin Blinker of W. H. Crane, the Nelly Armroyd of Miss Hawthorne and the Tidy Dragglethorpe of Miss Katie Mayhew. Crane had a song or two which were of course loudly applauded. "Lost in London" for the last time to-night.

California Theatre.

"The Two Orphans" was withdrawn last evening after a most prosperous run and revival. It will be produced as a farewell matinee performance to-morrow afternoon. This evening, Miss Alice Dunning (Lingard), a lady whose popularity is as great as her face is well known, takes her benefit when a translation of Octave Feuillet's drama "La Tentation," will be produced with Mrs. Lingard as Camille, Miss Dickie Lingard as Helen and W. H. Lingard as Achille de Keronare.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Sam Baylis with Shadow Dances and Salamanderian feats made a great hit last evening. He will appear every evening together with the other attractions here.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

The acts for to-night are unusually entertaining, the olio embraces any amount of amusement and the whole programme is an excellent one.

The Wrestling Match

Which came off at the Palace Amphitheatre last evening was purely an exhibition of skill, with no suspicious monetary backing about either side. The match was concluded in four falls, the first, third and fourth being won by McMahon. Homer Lane, his opponent, displayed more than the ordinary amount of science, but McMahon's height and strength gave him too decided an advantage.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

An excellent programme for Saturday and Sunday in addition to the standard attractions. Gonzales and Perez, the Mexican gymnasts, in their extraordinary somersault tight rope dancing; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts in a new act, Miss Linden, Will Stevens, Mlle. Victorini, Milo and his velocipede, and the grand orchestral concerts.

City Gardens.

General Sheridan is expected to visit the City Gardens on Sunday, August 26th, to participate in the Reunion of the Irish American Benevolent Society, who have an immense gathering upon that day.

Notes.

Another week of benefits at the California Theatre. On Monday, August 30th, the City Guard open the ball by presenting "Solid Silver," the comedy of the W. H. Barnes, their Colonel. On Tuesday, Mr. W. T. Porter, the scenic artist and a good fellow, takes his annual benefit when two great attractions will be held out i. e., the first presentation of "Two Lives," a dramatization of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" and the debut of Miss Annie de Montaigu, as Lucie Manette. Wednesday evening benefit of the Ushers and Doorkeepers, with a strong bill. On Thursday, the Knights of Pythias have a benefit, presenting a mixed bill, and on Friday evening Mr. Barton Hill, whom to praise with common adjectives of quality, would be no compliment and who can well stand alone in public favor without our help, receives his annual benefit and presents Robertson's beautiful military comedy of "Ours." We have omitted to note in the above that Miss Ellie Wilton has kindly volunteered to play for the City Guard.

There is a letter at this office for T. Kearne, late of White and Kearne's.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Old Mint Restaurant.

At this old-established house, 605 Commercial street, above Montgomery, always noted among the bon vivants for its good things, can be procured the finest and best cooked Oysters, Steaks and Chops, Breakfasts or Dinners, in town. Terrapins and the choicest brands of Wines and Liquors a specialty. Charges Moderate. D. B. Magee, the new proprietor, invites the public to give the "Old Mint" a trial. N. B. Open to 2:30 A. M. Old fashioned boiled dinners every Saturday. 2-L

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

The Antelope Oyster House.

Our specialty, always the best oysters in market served up in the best style of cooking. Our Eastern transplanted oysters excel any other in market. Established in 1864. No. 612 Market near Montgomery. N. B.—Ice Cream, Strawberries and Cream, and all Fruits in season. B

MEMENTOES.

BY J. CHEEVER GOODWIN.

(Loquitor M. A. searching in writing-desk for a crimson tie.)

A little, crumpled, dainty glove!
  Pearl colored once, now mottled;
The cause, a most unlucky shove
  Of champagne badly bottled.
'Twas very small—I mean Maud's hand;
  How it returned my pressure
As I said, "That's you!" when the band
  Was playing "Little Treasure!"
I stole it from her in the square,
  While waiting for the carriage;
Last week I read and didn't care,
  The notice of her marriage.
Although I really think she might
  Have sent an invitation
In memory of that class-day night
  And our half-hour's flirtation.

* * * * * * *

That crimson ribbon—let me see!
  Yes, that belonged to Florence;
She was as jolly as could be,
  Although it rained in torrents.
I met her at her brother's spread;
  How she loved water-ices!
He had the Prez there, and she said,
  Had also all the Vices!
She wished to dance, and so we walked
  Across to Massachusetts;
I pushed, she tore her dress, we talked
  And danced, I think, in two sets,
The ribbon dropped—'twas very queer!
  Unfastened from her shoulder—
She has grown homely, so I hear;
  And I—well, I've grown older.

* * * * * * * * *

A little bunch of faded flowers,
  Pinks, heliotrope, and roses;
Obituary of the hours
  When they—and I—were Josie's;
She was the nicest of them all,
  But would talk slang to mater;
I know she cut me at the ball,
  And almost made me hate her.—
That class-day was almost as hot
  As this one will by noon be—
"Is Papa ready?" Precious Tot—
  Tell mamma that he'll soon be.
Flowers, ribbon, glove, go back again!
  Three days of pleasure summing;
The mem'ries that you bring give pain—
  I hear you, Grace! I'm coming!

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

Mr. Rowe, the comedian, writing from the Lake of Como, July 16th, says: "If Pauline had but got a foretaste of the bad weather that is possible—and now actual—in this place, she would never have taken up with Claude. A deluge of rain, but, even here, glorious hills wrapped in cloud."

Mr. Charles Morton, who was the business manager of the Soldene troupe in this country, has taken the London Opera Comique, and has brought out "Madame Angot" with Mlle. D'Anka and M'lle. Pauline Rita in the cast.

Madame Adelina Patti will sing at the Paris Grand Opera in October for the benefit of the sufferers by the recent floods.

Mr. Joseph Jefferson is now in Paris with his family. He will begin an engagement at the London Princess's Theatre in November.

Mlle. Marco, daughter of the late American actor, Mark Smith, is engaged for the St. Petersburgh Imperial Opera at a salary of 4,000 francs (about $800) a month, by way of commencement.

A site for the new Opera House, London, comprising Nos. 53, 53½, and 54 Parliament street, containing an area of 2,363 superficial feet, was sold by auction for £17,400 (nearly £8 per foot) to Mr. Mr. Mapleson.

Mrs. J. B. Polk nee Julia Parker, of Baltimore, is in Milan, and will appear in that city in opera next month, with the Italian "heading" Signora Guiletta Tasca.

Kate Stanley has been singing in London in a vaudeville entitled "The Three Conspirators," which gives her a chance to display her versatility—and three costumes. She appears as a music-hall singer, an operatic artiste and a Savoyard.

Miss Adelaide Neilson begins an engagement at the London Haymarket, December 27.

Mlle. Tallandiers, the present theatrical star, par excellence, of Paris, has wonderful dark eyes, and is a strange wild creature, half Arab by blood.

W. S. Gilbert, the dramatist and author of the "Bab Ballads," has a father who writes, and he is about to make a sojourn in Egypt with the intention of collecting and publishing the early Christian legends that abound there.

Dean Stanley has declined to assign the smallest space in the cloisters of Westminster Abbey for a monumental tablet to the memory of Balfe. He has received addresses from the leading professors and amateurs of the United Kingdom asking for such an erection.

Mlle. Zulmar Bouffar will create the leading part in Offenbach's "Le Voyage dans la Lune. She is said to be a very good bouffer indeed.

English actors seem to be all on the alert in the matter of American engagements. America is the English player's sheet anchor. If he is not appreciated here he believes that if he can get to America he will be believed in and idolized.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. X

Not to be Put Off.

A farmer on the road between Charlton and Worcester, Massachusetts, having been terriby annoyed by drummers, put up a sign: "No sewing machines wanted here. Got one." It was no use; the next drummer wanted to see the machine, "and perhaps he'd hitch up a trade." So the farmer put up: "Got the small pox here." That worked well for a little while, but then came along a drummer frightfully pitted with the small-pox, who, smilingly said: "Seein' you've got it bad here they have put me on this route."

Work for Naught.

An injudicious burglar worked five hours one night last week, burrowing into one of the railroad buildings at Chester, and after he effected an entrance, exhausted, perspiring, and profane, he had his choice of stealing a hand car or a disabled freight car truck. Long, long hours after he had passed out of sight down the railroad track, the people of Chester could hear him swear.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

SATURDAY..............AUGUST 28

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast!
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Old Mint Restaurant.

At this old-established house, 605 Commercial street, above Montgomery, always noted among the bon vivants for its good things, can be procured the finest and best cooked Oysters, Steaks and Chops, Breakfasts or Dinners, in town. That the HAT he had purchased elsewhere

TO THE ELECTORS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Without Solicitation on my part I have been nominated for the position of Mayor of San Francisco.

I challenge any gentleman in any of the various Nominating Conventions or Committees, to state that either directly or indirectly, I solicited the vote of any member of the various bodies which have nominated candidates for the respective positions in our Municipal Government.

I believe that for the office of Mayor, an office possessing neither salary nor emoluments sufficient to excite the desire of any man to obtain the office for the pay, that a citizen should not be wanting in dignity, by either soliciting, trading for, or purchasing votes, to secure the position of a candidate for the office of Mayor of San Francisco.

If elected, I will enter the office untrammelled by any pledges; I am under no obligation to any corporation, clique, or individual, which would cause me to betray the people; on all the living issues of the day I am in accord with the people.

I am of the opinion that the city should own its Water and Gas, and I believe that until it does become possessed of suitable works, that the price of both Water and Gas should be regulated and controlled by law.

I am opposed to the extravagant expenditures of the public moneys, and to any expenditure not strictly authorized by law.

I am of the opinion the law at present authorizes (and if it is not explicit enough should be made so) that the chief executive officers should note the manner of the performance of the duties of the various officers. If elected Mayor I should certainly exercise my right of inspection under the law, and report to the proper officers and to the people, any dereliction on the part of any official.

I am of the opinion that San Francisco should have the management of her own local affairs, and being more intelligent as regards what is for her best interests than the public of the other portions of the State could possibly be, should be granted more power.

My private character and public record are open to the criticism of the public. Having lived in your midst for a quarter of a century, identified, as I have been, with the growth of the city, and my interests being identical with the interests of the people, and believing that, if elected, I might be of service to the people in my endeavor to have an honest, faithful, efficient and intelligent administration of the City Government, I solicit the support of citizens of any or all political denominations for the office of Mayor, for which, I repeat, I was nominated without solicitation; and, if elected, I can perform the duties of the office free from political or personal entanglement.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—This theatre was closed last evening in respect to the memory of the late W. C. Ralston, who was closely identified with its history. This evening the potsponed benefit of Mrs. Lingard will be held, with the same bill, "La Tentation." This afternoon last production of "The Two Orphans."

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATER.—"Lost in London" was produced for the second time last evening to a fair and attentive house. This afternoon "Magnolia" will be presented for the last time. To night first production of "Romeo and Juliet" with Mr. O'Neill and Miss Hawthorne in the two principal characters, E. J. Buckley as Mercutio, A. H. Hastings as Tybalt, Miss A. A. Adams as Lady Capulet, and Mrs. Chas. Edmonds.

HEROLD'S ORCHESTRAL MATINEES.—The fifth concert of the present season will be given on Wednesday afternoon next, when Vogt's Reverie for stringed instruments and the overture to "Tannhauser" will be repeated by request. In addition to these favorite compositions, Mendelsshon's Italian Symphony and Nicolai's overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," will be found on the programme. The subscription list for the next season is now open.

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—Charley Harris in Dutch specialties, Thompson, Barry and Dixon in their particular acts, George Thompson in his minstrelsy, and all the company in what suits them best on the bill to-night.

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.—Kimic's Dutch songs and dances, Sam Baylis in phantasmagorial and salamanderian feats, Foster, Mortimer and Price in acts and specialties, all for this evening.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Attractions.—An excellent programme for Saturday and Sunday in addition to the standard attractions. Gonzales and Perez, the Mexican gymnasts, in their extraordinary somersault tight rope dancing; Mlle. Gracie, the queen of gymnasts in a new act, Miss Linden, Will Stevens, Mlle. Victorini, Milo and his velocipede, and the grand orchestral concerts.

CITY GARDENS.—In view of General Sheridan's visit to-morrow, Sunday, Aug. 29th, to these gardens to participate in the re-union of the Irish American Benevolent Society a large gathering is anticipated.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

NOTES.

The success of Gilmore's Goncert Garden at New York, has induced Professor George T. Evans to cast about in his mind as to whether such an institution would not flourish here during the four Winter months beginning about the middle of November. He has decided on the building in which to conduct these concerts, should he carry his plan into operation, a building centrally located, easy of access and sufficiently large to alow a cheap rate of admission. Concerts would be given here every afternoon and evening, the musical means being an orchestra of thirty or forty, and two or three good vocalists. As to those attending, full permission would be given them to promenade, chat and if they so choose, to dance, a separated space to be provided for that purpose. Refreshments would be at hand and every convenience afforded the patrons of the place to enjoy themselves to the full. We think such an undertaking would pay and hope to see it soon started.

In consequence of the delay in the arrival of the paraphernalia for Wilson's Monster Hippodrome, the opening night has been postponed from Monday to Thursday next.

After their engagement at the California Theatre which terminates this evening, the Lingard ladies will pack up for Australia, whither they sail by the next steamer. W. H. Lingard will go East to commence his season about the same time, having for agent, R. D. Bogart, late of the Post. Energetic and shrewd, Bogart is just the man.

Especially when we remember Mr. Daly's action in the matter of "The Big Bonanza" and "Ultimo," does his course in the present contest between himself and Messrs. Shook and Palmer as to the production of "Rose Michel," seem clear and unmistakeable. The facts of the matter are given in our New York news.

Just received from M. Gray, the fourth of a series of songs styled "Flowers of Song," the number being "There is a Name I Never Breathe," by M. W. Balfe.

The Alleghanians closed at Santa Clara on Thursday and opened San Jose last evening. They will play there this evening.

From a letter of young Leopold Lichtenberg, the boy violinist, to his parents, we learn that he has made his debut at the Conservatoire of Brussels. He played a concerto of Roth's, and at its conclusion Wieniawski gave him a kiss of satisfaction, he was called out four times, whilst the Director publicly said that he was "glad there was somebody in his Conservatoire that would, in some years, make honor to it."

We have received a communication from Mr. Pierre Bernard, from which we find that the Caroline Richings-Bernard opera and concert company will start upon its new season in New England about the middle of next month, under engagement to the Lecture and Musical Agency of Boston. The chief feature of the company's repertoire will be "The Rose of Tyrol," an opera composed expressly for Mrs. Richings-Bernard by Julius Eichberg, of "The Doctor of Alcantara" fame. "The Rose of Tyrol" is an elaborated translation of "66," which the Galtons played here.

Mr. H. J. Montague was met on his return to England by an order for £733 and costs, the result of the verdict in an action brought against him for two month's rent of the Globe Theatre, London, in 1871.

Emerson's Minstrels are now at St. Louis, where they opened on Monday last for two weeks. Whilst at Cincinnati they made a great hit. The Saturday Night, in speaking of their opening week, says: A class of people have been filling the best seats who are rarely seen in a minstrel entertainment, which is a great compliment to the performers and stamps the show as first-class. Emerson's wit has ripened with the years that have intervened since last he was here, and he has developed into the perfect artist. Arlington's rollicking humor convulses the house. Billy Rice is a sample of the serio-comic darkey that can not be equaled. Emerson's "Muldoon" is immense.

In the view of the following fact it would be wrong to say that there are no longer any bold men. Billy Edwards has started a variety show at San Jose, and Billy Edwards is a hero. We hope the affair will put money in the pockets of the fearless Billy Edwards.

The Pioneer Blind Troupe gave two of their performances at Downieville on Monday and Tuesday last.

Lawrence Barrett opened at Piper's Opera House on Monday last, as Evelyn, in "Money." On Tuesday "The Marble Heart," was given. His reception was most gratifying, but the support is spoken of as being simply wretched. The Footlights says: "For Lawrence Barrett we have nothing but the most decided praise. Everything he does, is, in a manner, the perfection of acting. For the others, with the exception of Billings, Chaplin and Mestayer, we can say nothing commendatory. We regret exceedingly the position of Mr. Piper, who it may be said, has been shamefully imposed upon and deceived in his new company, and we hope that steps will be taken by him to replace it by others, that, will not only betray some familiarity with the stage, but be capable of playing with some degree of mediocrity." So much for the Eastern company.

The Fifth Avenue Company followed Jennie Lee at Salt Lake, closing on Saturday last in "Divorce." Last evening the Hess Grand English Opera Troupe opened there for two nights, this being the only stopping place of the Company on its return to New York. Last evening the bill was "The Bohemian Girl," this evening it will be "Maritana."

Bartley Campbell sends to FIGARO to notify us of the opening of the Brooklyn Opera House, under his management on the 13th of September. The opening play will be Campbell's "Virginians."

The two new theatres are rapidly progressing and both will be opened before Christmas.

Yeterday afternoon Mr. Geo. B. Rieman, the energetic and courteous attache of Mr. Rulofson's staff was surprised by a visit of Messrs. Tom Maguire, W. H. Crane and Welch, all with portenteous faces. Crane's western coat-tail pocket seemed borne down with something, which something when produced proved to be a handsome silver brick weighing little less than a ton and suitably engraved. After a verse of the "Old Sexton," Crane went through the presentation service with commendable gravity and happiness of expression, ably assisted by his accompanists. To their kindness Mr. Rieman begs us to publish the following reply:

SAN FRANCISCO, August 28th, 1875.

Messrs, Crane, Welch and others, Hooley Comedy Company:—GENTLEMEN:—I wish to convey to you, and through you, to the ladies and gentlemen ot the Hooley Comedy Company, my sincere thanks for the very handsome token of esteem they have been pleased to bestow upon me, in the shape of the beautiful silver brick you were kind enough to present me with yesterday. In complimenting me thus (and in so doing the firm of Bradley & Rulofson, with which I have the honor to be connected), I wish to assure you that I shall prize your gift very highly, not alone for its intrinsic value but for the expression of friendship and regard shown thereby, and shall always look upon its presentation as one of the most pleasant incidents of my life. Once more thanking the members of your company for this token of their esteem, I have the honor to remain, Your obedient servant,
GEO. B. RIEMAN.

On Friday evening next, Tom Maguire, Jr., takes a complimentary benefit when he will put up a bill consisting of "The Long Strike" and "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White." "Young Tom," as he is familiary called, is a general favorite in the box office and out of it, and we look for a full house.

Another week of benefits at the California Theatre. On Monday, August 30th, the City Guard open the ball by presenting "Solid Silver," the comedy of the W. H. Barnes, their Colonel. On Tuesday, Mr. W. T. Porter, the scenic artist and a good fellow, takes his annual benefit when two great attractions will be held out i. e., the first presentation of "Two Lives," a dramatization of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities" and the debut of Miss Annie de Montaigu, as Lucie Manette. Wednesday evening benefit of the Ushers and Doorkeepers, with a strong bill. On Thursday, the Knights of Pythias have a benefit, presenting a mixed bill, and on Friday evening Mr. Barton Hill, whom to praise with common adjectives of quality, would be no compliment and who can well stand alone in public favor without our help, receives his annual benefit and presents Robertson's beautiful military comedy of "Ours." We have omitted to note in the above that Miss Ellie Wilton has kindly volunteered to play for the City Guard.

Emerson's Minstrels, the name as it was, but the company an entirely new one, will open at the Opera House, early in October next.

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

Mr. John Dillon of Chicago, will, it is stated, shortly appear at a New York theatre in a play named "Sure."

Miss Rosa Rand has been engaged in the dramatic company at Booth's Theatre.

Managers Shook and Palmer have obtained one year's lease of the Brooklyn Theatre, and propose to run it in conjunction with the Union Square, N. Y. The star system will prevail during a portion of their season.

It is reported that Mr. Strakosch has engaged the new Hungarian prima donna, Mlle. Reszke, to make a tour of this country in 1878, paying her $100,000 for a year's performance.

Three weeks of unmistakable prosperity attended the presentation of Mr. C W. Barry's romantic play of the "Spy," at Wood's Museum, which, owing to prior arrangements, had to give way to other attractions on the 16th.

Long runs of English comic opera at Robinson Hall fully attest the favor accorded to this style of entertainment. The fifth week of Herve's beautiful opera bouffe "Chilperic," was inaugurated on the 16th, with W. H. Woodfield in the title role, and Clara Fisher as Fredigonde. On the 23d, the "Princess of Trebizonde" was produced, with Nellie Larkelle, Clara Fisher, Nellie Allen, Harry Allen, and W. H. Woodfield in the principal characters.

The first in the minstrel field will be Cotton, Reed, and Simpson's new organization at Darling's Opera House, (late Bryant's,) on Twenty-third street.

The debut of Madame Judic and French opera bouffe troupe, is fixed for Sept. 6. Mlle. Descluzas and Mlle. Zulma Buffa will be among its chief vocal features. The Judic company will remain in this country three months, and then will go to [illegible]

Great as was the popularity of the Vokes Family during their previous American tour, it has been eclipsed during their present engagement at the Fifth Avenue. On the 19th, "A Bunch of Berries" succeeded the favorite "Belles of the Kitchen," and was very heartily indorsed by a large and fashionable attendance.

As the Summer is drawing to a close, the popular desire to attend Gilmore's Concert Garden has become intensified, and dense crowds of the creme de la creme of local fashionables fill the spacious promenades every evening.

Shakspeare's "Winter's Tale" is in active rehearsal at the Bowery Theatre, and was produced with new scenery and accessories on the 16th. The old American Drury promises, through the enterprise of Manager Meath, to revive its ancient glories as the cradle of the American drama.

A remarkably gifted and enthusiastic poet of the Billy Nubbs stripe contributes the following little "gag" to the Sunday Mercury, as a trifling tribute to the "world's greatest tragedian." It should be carefully read:

"Talma, and Kean, our Forrest—all in one—Appear again in Barry Sullivan."

Mr Frederick Thorne, who made so pleasant an impression as Fluellen, the Welshman, in "Henry V.," has been re-engaged at Booth's.

Farkas Miska, the leader of the Hungarian Band, has written a letter to the editor of the Gyori Kozlony, a journal published at Raab, Hungary, in which he modestly gives his experiences of the American press and public in the following words: "We appeared at Steinway Hall, the largest in New York, and gave six concerts. Such a triumph has never been realized at any place before, but I drew a very powerful bow in three pieces—'Biro Uram,' 'Prunas Emlek,' and 'Czenzura Emlek,' and was at once recognized as a remarkable artist. The press astonished us so much with such a flood of overwhelming praise after this that I deemed further advertisement as entirely superflous." This would be all very fine, says the Sunday Mercury, if Mr. Farkas Miska and his band were not among the present fixtures of a Bowery lager-beer garden.

A source of gossip has been furnished by the impending legal contest relative to the presentation of "Rose Michel." Messrs. Shook and Palmer, it is reliably asserted, bought the MS. of the play directly from the author, and paid for it a very round figure. This gave them a proprietary right to the original, which had not then been published with the author's consent. Mr. Daly also obtained a copy of the same play from another source, for which he also paid; but here arises a very nice question of both equity and courtesy as between gentlemen and managers. If it is true that Shook and Palmer did obtain their MS. directly from the author, there can be no doubt or hesitation as to what Mr. Daly's course ought to be under the circumstances.

The "Big Bonanza" was revived at Daly's on the 23d, for one week only, and will be followed on the 30th by the Mexican Juvenile Opera Troupe, under the management of Fred Zimmerman.

Among the great theatrical undertakings of the impending season, the Kiralfy Brothers' "Around the World" which was opened at the Academy of Music on Thursday last, promises to surpasses all by its magnitude and brilliancy.

ELSEWHERE.

Mrs. Tracy Titus, better known as Mrs. James A. Oates has filed her petition at Louisville, Ky., in a suit for divorce. She states that she was married to Tracy W. Titus in November, 1872, and since that time the defendant has contracted habits of intemperance accompanied by wasting her estate, and a failure to make any provision for her support The habit of intemperance, she states, is confirmed, and has continued for a period of more than one year. She states that before her marriage with the defendant her name was Alice Oates, and prays for a divorce and the restitution of this name.

Mrs. Oates is at present at Long Branch.

Miss Violetta Colville has been staying of late with one of her cousins, at Lackawaxen, Pa. She lost her balance in stepping from a pleasure boat recently after sailing on the Delaware, and fell into deep water. She sank twice before being rescued, and was taken from the water unconscious. She was resuscitated with difficulty.

Miss Matilda Heron and snap company in "Phedea," were at New Haven, 14th.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol. Smith have accepted engagements in Miss Charlotte Thompson's theatrical company, as first old man and first old woman.

A Boston paper gives currency to the appalling rumor that Miss Fanny Davenport intends to have a try at Lady Macbeth, and that the attack will be made in Philadelphia, at the Arch Street Theatre, in November.

Frank Chanfrau lately visited a camp-meeting at Ocean Grove, Long Island, and delivered a very interesting address.

Mr. C. B. Bishop will travel with the company made up by Messrs. Jarrett & Palmer to represent "Henry V.," and will play Pistol.

That the HAT he had purchased elsewhere

TO THE ELECTORS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Without Solicitation on my part I have been nominated for the position of Mayor of San Francisco.

I challenge any gentleman in any of the various Nominating Conventions or Committees, to state that either directly or indirectly, I solicited the vote of any member of the various bodies which have nominated candidates for the respective positions in our Municipal Government.

I believe that for the office of Mayor, an office possessing neither salary nor emoluments sufficient to excite the desire of any man to obtain the office for the pay, that a citizen should not be wanting in dignity, by either soliciting, trading for, or purchasing votes, to secure the position of a candidate for the office of Mayor of San Francisco.

If elected, I will enter the office untrammelled by any pledges; I am under no obligation to any corporation, clique, or individual, which would cause me to betray the people; on all the living issues of the day I am in accord with the people.

I am of the opinion that the city should own its Water and Gas, and I believe that until it does become possessed of suitable works, that the price of both Water and Gas should be regulated and controlled by law.

I am opposed to the extravagant expenditures of the public moneys, and to any expenditure not strictly authorized by law.

I am of the opinion the law at present authorizes (and if it is not explicit enough should be made so) that the chief executive officers should note the manner of the performance of the duties of the various officers. If elected Mayor I should certainly exercise my right of inspection under the law, and report to the proper officers and to the people, any dereliction on the part of any official.

I am of the opinion that San Francisco should have the management of her own local affairs, and being more intelligent as regards what is for her best interests than the public of the other portions of the State could possibly be, should be granted more power.

My private character and public record are open to the criticism of the public. Having lived in your midst for a quarter of a century, identified, as I have been, with the growth of the city, and my interests being identical with the interests of the people, and believing that, if elected, I might be of service to the people in my endeavor to have an honest, faithful, efficient and intelligent administration of the City Government, I solicit the support of citizens of any or all political denominations for the office of Mayor, for which, I repeat, I was nominated without solicitation; and, if elected, I can perform the duties of the office free from political or personal entanglement.

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Romeo and Juliet" was presented by the Hooley Comedy Company and as example of remarkable versatility was certainly a success. The company that can play "Ultimo," "David Garrick," "Jenny Lind," "Merchant of Venice," "Magnolia," "Lost London" and "Romeo and Juliet" all in two weeks, cannot surely be accused by its patrons of a lack of power in variety. This evening Tennyson's dramatized Idyl of "Dora" and "The Quiet Family."

California Theatre.

"La Tentation" was produced on Saturday evening for the benefit of Mrs. Lingard. The disorganized state of affairs generally, somewhat affected the size of the house, but those who were present proved by the warmth of the reception granted the beneficiare that they were all warm friends and admirers.

To-night has been set apart for the benefit of the City Guard, the oldest and best company of the National Militia troupe. For this evening W. H. L. Barnes' successful play of "Solid Silver," will be revived with Miss Ellie Wilton (having kindly volunteered) as Kate Delaine.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The fifth concert of the present season will be given on Wednesday afternoon next, when Vogt's Reverie for stringed instruments and the overture to "Tannhauser" will be repeated by request. In addition to these favorite compositions, Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony and Nicolai's overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," will be found on the programme. The subscription list for the next season is now open.

Benefit of Mr. Barton Hill.

On Friday evening next, Mr. Barton Hill, the acting Manager of the California Theatre, a favorite actor and a courteous gentleman, will take his annual benefit, when Robertson's military drama of "Ours" will be produced. The play and the occasion are both equally worthy of a great attendance.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Sam Baylis has taken immensely. His fire eating scene attracts as much attention as his living shadows and both attract a great deal. Kimio, Swain, West, Senate and Mortimer are all on the bill.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Lou Dixon and Charley Harris re-appeared here on Saturday evening and were heartily received. The Dutch specialties of the one and the Ethiopean comicalities of the other, proving an acceptable addition to an already excellent programme.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

A number of rare plants are in bloom; the beautiful holy ghost flower, several varieties of orchids or air plants and century plant. Saturday and Sunday first time of Mlle. Herbert in her great act on the corde elastique, Mlle Gracie's blindfold trapeze, Will Stevens with dancing globe, Mlle. Victorini in plate spinning and the usual grand orchestral concert.

Notes.

On Friday evening next, Tom Maguire, Jr., takes a complimentary benefit when he will put up a bill consisting of "The Long Strike" and "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White." "Young Tom," as he is familiary called, is a general favorite in the box office and out of it, and we look for a full house.

In consequence of the delay in the arrival of the paraphernalia for Wilson's Monster Hippodrome, the opening night has been postponed from Monday to Thursday next.

The Kennedys have been playing at Salt Lake to thin houses.

On Wednesday Barrett played Iago to Chaplin's Othello at Piper's, Virginia City. On Thursday "Hamlet," and on Friday evening, Elliot Gray in "Rosedale" for his benefit. "Harebell; or, The Man o' Airlie" will be produced this evening.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

The Old Mint Restaurant.

At this old-established house, 605 Commercial street, above Montgomery, always noted among the bon vivants for its good things, can be procured the finest and best cooked Oysters, Steaks and Chops, Breakfasts or Dinners, in town. Terrapins and the choicest brands of Wines and Liquors a specialty. Charges Moderate. D. B. Magee, the new proprietor, invites the public to give the "Old Mint" a trial. N. B. Open to 2:30 A. M. Old fashioned boiled dinners every Saturday. 2-L

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

I'M GROWING OLD.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

My days pass pleasantly away,
My nights are blessed with sweetest sleep,
I feel no symptoms of decay,
I have no cause to mourn or weep.
My foes are impotent and shy,
My friends are neither false nor cold,
And yet of late I often sigh,
I'm growing old.

My growing talk of olden times,
My growing thirst for early news,
My growing apathy for rhymes,
My growing love for easy shoes,
My growing hate of crowds and noise,
My growing fear of catching cold,
All tell me in the plainest voice—
I'm growing old!

I'm growing fonder of my staff,
I'm growing dimmer in the eye,
I'm growing fainter in my laugh,
I'm growng deeper in my sigh;
I'm growing careless of my dress,
I'm growing frugal of my gold,
I'm growing wise, I'm growing—yes—
I'm growing old!

I feel it in my changing taste,
I see it in my changing air,
I see in my growing waist,
I see it in my snowing hair;
A thousand hints proclaim the truth,
As plain as truth was ever told,
That even in my vaunted youth
I'm growing old!

Ah me! my very laurels breathe
The tale in my reluctant ears;
And every boon the hours bequeath,
But makes me debtor to the years.
E'en Flattery's honeyed words declare
The secret she would fain withhold,
And tell me "How young you are!"
I'm growing old!

Thanks to the years whose rapid flight
My sombre muse too sadly sings!
Thanks for the gleams of golden light
That tint the darkness of their wings—
The light that beams from out the sky
Those heavenly mansions to unfold,
Where all are blest, and none may sigh,
"I'm growing old!"

Gen. H. A. Cobb.

This gentleman is one of the candidates for Mayor of this city, the most important office of our local government, and the city at this time needs just such a man in that position, to guard it from the corrupt schemes of spoiliation that threaten it in the future. There are but few men in the city better known to the business community than General Cobb, and none stand in higher repute. He was formerly a partner in the houses of Cobb & Sinton, Jerome Rice & Co., and, of late years, with Maurice Dore & Co., and possesses all the business talent and experience required for the position, besides peculiar personal requisites. He is a man of quick and decided character, of unflinching honesty and integrity, with rare executive abilities; and, withal, courteous and gentlemanly. Running as Independent candidate, he stands as champion of the people against all cliques and rings of mere political schemers. Since his name has been put forward for Mayor it has been placed at the head of one wing of the Democratic party, he was also endorsed at the meeting held by our German citizens, and it is most probable that the general public will endorse him on Wednesday next to such an extent that he will wake up next morning and find himself Mayor of San Francisco.

Citizens' Union Ticket.

The ticket of the Citizens' Union association appears in our columns this morning. In their address, the Citizens' Union say that it "has indorsed the following ticket, and solicit its support by all voters who are in favor of the continuance of our Unsectarian Public School System, opposed to a Division of the School Fund and to the elevation of the Ecclesiastical over the Civil Power in our Government. We respectfully ask that this ticket may receive the same generous favor extended to our candidates two years ago." The ticket is a very strong one and embraces the names of Charles Clayton for Mayor, Alexander Badlam for Assessor, Wm. McKibbin for Sheriff, T. Rodgers Johnson for Auditor, Jacob F. Miller for Tax Collector, A. A. Hobe for Treasurer, W. C. Guirey for Recorder, J. D. Ruggles for County Clerk, W. C. Burnett for Attorney, H. H. Ellis for Chief of Police and R. B. Cole for Coroner. The names of the Supervisors and Ward nominees can be found in the ticket.

The Assessorship.

Every one will admit that since Alex. Badlam was appointed Assessor in place of Rosener, removed by the Board of Supervisors, that the duties of the office have been performed with rare ability, and unflinching integrity. Mr. Badlam has been tried and has proved to be the right man in the right place, and we have only to add that we hope he may fill it for an indefinitely long unexpired term.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

Here's the kind of Eastern item that makes the San Francisco editor wish Keeley would hurry up and adapt his machine to shot guns: Sixteen Chinese women were sold at auction in California the other day, only Chinese being allowed to bid. Eight dollars was the highest price, and one sold for sixty-five cents, her nose being out of plumb.

A young man in Lancaster sent a dollar to a firm in New York, who advertised a receipt to prevent bad dreams. He received a small slip of paper, on which was printed, "Don't go to sleep."

Nebraska planted twelve million trees last year. This may seem a small number as compared with Nebraska's necessities, but it must be remembered that four horse-thieves can be hung on each tree.

Old Gent—"You don't mean to tell me, waiter, that you can't give me a toothpick?" Waiter—"Well, sir, we used to keep 'em, but the gents almost inwaribly took 'em away with 'em."

Saratoga has such poor gas that compositors put lightning bugs in their cases to enable them to read manuscript. The Utica Herald is authority for this assertion Set up a little light reading.

The model husband lives in Philadelphia. He never allows his wife to do more than half the work. She puts up all the canned fruit in the Summer, and he puts it down in the Winter.

Plimsoll apologized by declaring he did not withdraw any assertion made by him in debate, and Disraeli smiled blandly and said, "The apology is sufficient."

"What comes after T?" asked a teacher of a small pupil who was learning the alphabet. He received the bewildering reply, "U—to see 'Liza."

Some men are like pyramids, which are very broad where they touch the ground, but grow narrower as they reach the sky.

◆

Sympathy Wasted.

One of Detroit's philanthropists saw an old man seated on a salt barrel in front of a grocery store, the other day, and the white locks and sad face touched a tender chord. Laying his hand on the old man's shoulder, he asked, "So you are waiting to be gathered home, are you?" "No, sir, I hain't!" promptly replied the old man. "I'm waiting for the bank to open so that I can gather in $3,200 on this check." He happened to own four or five big farms in the country.

The Intelligent "Comp."

A compositor, in setting up a scientific lecture delivered by Prof. Smith, of Philadelphia, came across a sentence which he put in type thus: "Flirtation is sometimes arrested by the use of aldermen!" Judge of the surprise depicted on the countenance of the professor on reading the proof. The sentence should have been: "Filtration is sometimes assisted by the use of albumen."

GRAY'S NEW MUSIC STORES,

TO THE ELECTORS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Without Solicitation on my part I have been nominated for the position of Mayor of San Francisco.

I challenge any gentleman in any of the various Nominating Conventions or Committees, to state that either directly or indirectly, I solicited the vote of any member of the various bodies which have nominated candidates for the respective positions in our Municipal Government.

I believe that for the office of Mayor, an office possessing neither salary nor emoluments sufficient to excite the desire of any man to obtain the office for the pay, that a citizen should not be wanting in dignity, by either soliciting, trading for, or purchasing votes, to secure the position of a candidate for the office of Mayor of San Francisco.

If elected, I will enter the office untrammelled by any pledges; I am under no obligation to any corporation, clique, or individual, which would cause me to betray the people; on all the living issues of the day I am in accord with the people.

I am of the opinion that the city should own its Water and Gas, and I believe that until it does become possessed of suitable works, that the price of both Water and Gas should be regulated and controlled by law.

I am opposed to the extravagant expenditures of the public moneys, and to any expenditure not strictly authorized by law.

I am of the opinion the law at present authorizes (and if it is not explicit enough should be made so) that the chief executive officers should note the manner of the performance of the duties of the various officers. If elected Mayor I should certainly exercise my right of inspection under the law, and report to the proper officers and to the people, any dereliction on the part of any official.

I am of the opinion that San Francisco should have the management of her own local affairs, and being more intelligent as regards what is for her best interests than the public of the other portions of the State could possibly be, should be granted more power.

My private character and public record are open to the criticism of the public. Having lived in your midst for a quarter of a century, identified, as I have been, with the growth of the city, and my interests being identical with the interests of the people, and believing that, if elected, I might be of service to the people in my endeavor to have an honest, faithful, efficient and intelligent administration of the City Government, I solicit the support of citizens of any or all political denominations for the office of Mayor, for which, I repeat, I was nominated without solicitation; and, if elected, I can perform the duties of the office free from political or personal entanglement.

California Theatre.

The benefit of the City Guard at this theatre last evening was a success in every way. The house was crowded and "Solid Silver" proved a play of unfailing interest from the opening of the first to the close of the last act. Miss Ellie Wilton's appearance was the signal for much unmistakeable applause, whilst all the ladies in the cast received owers.

This evening, Mr. Wm. T Porter, the scenic artist of the California Theatre, takes his annual benefit. Although this gentleman in personally, but little seen by the public, his works are before the people every evening, and are always the cause of pleasure and often the mark of much admiration. For bill he has a doubly attractive one, being the first presentation in California of "The Two Lives," a dramatization of Dickens' "Tale of Two Cities," in which Miss Annie de Montaigu, the atest addition to the company will make her San Francisco debut.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Dora" as presented last evening by the Hooley Comedy Company, was remarkable for two things. First, for the Farmer Allen of James O'Neill, whose assumption of the character of this old home tyrant was something wonderful. In action, in dialect, in the very inflection of the voice even, the portraiture was more than excellent, it was as rigidly accurate as it was artistically clever. Secondly, "Dora," last evening, was remarkable for the way in which Miss Baker and Miss A. Adams assumed the parts of Dora and Mary Morrison, at only a ew hours notice—Miss Hawthorne having been cast for Dora and Miss Baker for Mary,—and the manner in which they were played. We are sure Miss Baker will allow us to say that to Miss Adams belongs the chief praise, as this young lady is a beginner and in Mary had a part which it was thought she would not be able to cope with except in the years' future. Same bill to-night.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The fifth concert of the present season will be given on Wednesday afternoon next, when Vogt's Reverie for stringed instruments and the overture to "Tannhauser" will be repeated by request. In addition to these favorite compositions, Mendelsshon's Italian Symphony and Nicolai's overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," will be found on the programme. The subscription list for the next season is now open.

Benefit of Mr. Barton Hill.

On Friday evening next, Mr. Barton Hill, the acting Manager of the California Theatre, a favorite actor and a courteous gentleman, will take his annual benefit, when Robertson's military drama of "Ours" will be produced. The play and the occasion are both equally worthy of a great attendance. One of the scenic effects of the drama will be the Moonlight March by the Germania Rifles, Company D, Second Infantry, the company with Lieutenant Wm. Brekhoff having kindly volunteered.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts are particularly good, and the olio introduces all the members in the company in their best songs, dances, and specialty performances.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Charley King, a favorite banjo soloist re-appears this evening, and will certainly be well received. The programme is throughout, interesting; as it always is here.

RIESEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one

Woodward's Gardens.

A number of rare plants are in bloom; the beautiful holy ghost flower, several varieties of orchids or air plants and century plant. Saturday and Sunday first time of Mlle. Herbert in her great act on the corde elastique, Mlle Gracie's blindfold trapeze, Will Stevens with dancing globe, Mlle. Victorini in plate spinning and the usual grand orchestral concert.

Notes.

Mr. H. J Montague is at Long Branch.

To morrow evening the benefit of the ushers and doorkeepers of the California Theatre takes place, on which occasion these useful and praiseworthy officials will offer as a bill the play of "Two Lives," with Miss Annie de Montaigu as Lucie Manette.

On Monday evening next, September 6th, Miss Ella F. Badger will make her second appearance on the San Francisco stage, this time at Maguire's Theatre as Parthenia in "Ingomar," and Margery in "The Rough Diamond," supported by the Hooley Comedy Company.

WEIGH YOUR WORDS.

Weigh your words before you speak them;
Never speak one edged with guile;
Never speak a word which with it
Brings a tear instead of smile.

Bear in mind harsh words are arrows,
Gentle ones are sunbeams bright;
While the harsh ones pierce like javelins,
Gentle ones like doves alight.

And as sweet perfume the senses
Lulls into delicious rest,
So the softly spoken sentence
Soothes the pained and troubled breast.

Willing to Go.

A bad little boy, in Portland, had a pack of fire-crackers and threw them into the street to see them "go off." One of Ike Bateman's mules came along and swallowed them before they "went off." The mule walked about fifteen feet and then stopped. Things weren't acting all right inside. He began to smell the smoke of fire-crackers. He laid his left ear around against his ribs and heard something. It was the crackers having fun. The mule picked out about three and a half miles of straight road and started. A negro met him about a mile the other side of the almshouse going south, white with perspiration, with streams of smoke shooting out of his nostrils, mouth and ears, while his tail stuck straight up, and a stream of blue and green smoke about ten feet long followed in the rear. Ike found his mule yesterday morning, sticking half way through a farm house, near Paddy's Run, still smoking. The man had got his family out and put 'em into a lot of trees. Ike hauled his mule home, when he got cool enough, on a dray. The man is going to move his house further back off the road, and his wife and oldest daughter will be baptized when then water gets a little warmer.

Easy Collection.

An ancient darkey leaned over a Clay street gate yesterday, and called to the dusky proprietor of the house: "See heah, Henry, isn't you 'bout ready to pay me dat tu bits?"

"Haven't nuffin' to pay wid," was the reply.

"You borrowed dat money a whole year ago, Henry," continued the old man.

"Can't help dat--can't pay."

"Henry, I believes you dont wan't to pay; I believes you is dishonest, and I nebber ask for the money again; I'll leave the Lord to collect it!"

"Shoo!" exclaimed Henry greatly interested all at once, "you hasn't enny more money to lend on dose terms, has ye!"

Starting a Barber's Shop.

Two women have started a barber-shop in Titusville. We saw one woman start a barber-shop once. She came in with a cowhide in her hand and said she was going to horsewhip the man who had been talking about her; and eight men with towels under their chins and lather on their faces, hustled out of the chairs and started for the back door on a run.

◆

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. * *

The Sultan and the Green Room.

Writing of the Sultan, or Seyyid, of Zanzibar, a Paris correspondent says: On visiting the opera he gave the Europeans by whom he was surrounded a striking lesson of dignity. Between the acts he was invited to go behind the scenes. He asked the meaning of this proposal of men representing in his eyes Western civilization. It was explained to him that in the green room he could get a view of the airy nymphs whose graceful movements he had just been admiring; that there he could form an idea of the mode in which a French-woman prepares to come before the public, of the powder and paint which decorate her face, eyes and mouth, the artificial hair which shows of her forehead and falls over her shoulders, the mechanical means which render her carriage more graceful, and the contributions levied on every quarter of the world for her outfit. The Seyyid, after reflecting a few moments, asked whether Europeans who went there liked people to know it. No, he was told; though they had a strong desire to go they did not generally talk of having been there. "Then," rejoined the Seyyid, "I will not have it said that during my visit to Europe I did a thing which I should be sorry to have known." Probably this honorable trait of his character did not reach certain circles, for fifteen or twenty letters have daily been addressed to him, which, if placed before him with accompanying photographs cannot have given him a high idea of Parisian morality. Happily his interpreter had received his instructions, and these autographs did not reach their destination.

Too Good to be True.

A Paris journal of recent date records that "there is a panic in New York regarding the scarcity of women, and that on this account the male population are beginning to leave; that Congress is disturbed about it, and that there is a proposition to give brilliant fetes there to draw women from all parts of the country, who will then be kept there." Oh that it were true!

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,

A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,

Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

WEDNESDAY........SEPTEMBER 1

A Queer Courtship.

One long Summer afternoon there came to Mr. Davidson's the most curious specimen of old an bachelor the world ever heard of. He was old, gray, wrinkled and odd. He hated old women, especially old maids, and he was not afraid to say so. He and Aunt Patty had it hot whenever chance drew them together; yet still he came, and it was noticed that Aunt Patty took particular pains with her dress whenever he was expected. One day the contest waged unusually strong, and Aunt Patty left in disgust and went out into the garden.

"That bear!" she muttered to herself as she stopped to gather a little flower that had attracted her attention.

"What did you run for?" said a gruff voice behind her.

"To get rid of you."

"You didn't do it, did you?"

"No; you are worse than a burdock burr.

"You won't get rid of me, either."

"I won't eh?"

"Only in one way."

"And that?"

"Marry me."

"What! us two fools get married! What would people say?"

"That's nothing to us. Come, say yes or no; I'm in a hurry."

"Well, no, then."

"Very well; good bye. I shan't come again."

"Stop a bit—what a pucker you are in."

"Yes or no!"

"I must consult—"

"All right; I thought you were of age. Good bye."

"Jabez Andrews, don't you be a fool. Come back, I say. Why, I believe the critter has taken me in earnest. Jabez Andrews, I'll consider."

"I don't want any considering I am going. Becky Hastings is waiting for me. I thought I'd give you the first chance, Patty. All right, good bye,"

"Jabez! Jabez! that stuck up Becky Hastings shan't have him. Jabez, YES! Do you hear—Y-E-S!"

A Presentation.

As a slight token of the esteem in which they held him, some acquaintances of Mr. Robert Granger, of Missouri, recently presented him with a very serviceable pull-back neck-tie. The gentleman was one of the most successful and widely respected horse-thieves in the southwest country.

The Best Beyond all Dispute.
....AT....
GRAY'S NEW MUSIC STORES,

TO THE ELECTORS OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Without Solicitation on my part I have been nominated for the position of Mayor of San Francisco.

I challenge any gentleman in any of the various Nominating Conventions or Committees, to state that either directly or indirectly, I solicited the vote of any member of the various bodies which have nominated candidates for the respective positions in our Municipal Government.

I believe that for the office of Mayor, an office possessing neither salary nor emoluments sufficient to excite the desire of any man to obtain the office for the pay, that a citizen should not be wanting in dignity, by either soliciting, trading for, or purchasing votes, to secure the position of a candidate for the office of Mayor of San Francisco.

If elected, I will enter the office untrammelled by any pledges; I am under no obligation to any corporation, clique, or individual, which would cause me to betray the people; on all the living issues of the day I am in accord with the people.

I am of the opinion that the city should own its Water and Gas, and I believe that until it does become possessed of suitable works, that the price of both Water and Gas should be regulated and controlled by law.

I am opposed to the extravagant expenditures of the public moneys, and to any expenditure not strictly authorized by law.

I am of the opinion the law at present authorizes (and if it is not explicit enough should be made so) that the chief executive officers should note the manner of the performance of the duties of the various officers. If elected Mayor I should certainly exercise my right of inspection under the law, and report to the proper officers and to the people, any dereliction on the part of any official.

I am of the opinion that San Francisco should have the management of her own local affairs, and being more intelligent as regards what is for her best interests than the public of the other portions of the State could possibly be, should be granted more power.

My private character and public record are open to the criticism of the public. Having lived in your midst for a quarter of a century, identified, as I have been, with the growth of the city, and my interests being identical with the interests of the people, and believing that, if elected, I might be of service to the people in my endeavor to have an honest, faithful, efficient and intelligent administration of the City Government, I solicit the support of citizens of any or all political denominations for the office of Mayor, for which, I repeat, I was nominated without solicitation; and, if elected, I can perform the duties of the office free from political or personal entanglement.

Maguire's New Theatre.

In speaking of "Dora" which was repeated last evening, we should not forget to mention the Wm. Allan of M. A. Kennedy, and Luke Bloomfield of E. J. Buckley. Both characters were played with earnestness and talent. In "The Quiet Family," which concludes the bill, W. H. Crane and Mrs. Chas Edmonds are capitally comical. The orchestra programme, arranged by Mr. Harry Widmer has some very fair numbers.

California Theatre.

The benefit of Mr. W. T. Porter, the scenic artist, was not so well attended as the person and occasion demanded. Of Miss Montaigu, who made her debut last evening, and of the play—"Two Lives"—in which she made herde but, we shall have more to say on Saturday, when this cruel war of politics is over.

This evening the benefit of the ushers and doorkeepers of the California Theatre takes place, on which occasion these useful and praiseworthy officials will offer as a bill the play of "Two Lives," with Miss Annie de Montaigu as Lucie Manette and "Black Eyed Susan," with Miss Ellie Wilton as Susan.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The fifth concert of the present season will be given this Wednesday afternoon when Vogt's Reveric for stringed instruments and the overture to "Tannhauser" will be repeated by request. In addition to these favorite compositions, Mendelsshon's Italian Symphony, Nicolai's overture to "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and the Coronation March from "Le Prophete" will be found on the programme. The subscription list for the next season is now open.

Benefit of Mr. Barton Hill.

On Friday evening next, Mr. Barton Hill, the acting Manager of the California Theatre, a favorite actor and a courteous gentleman, will take his annual benefit, when Robertson's military-drama of "Ours" will be produced. The play and the occasion are both equally worthy of a great attendance. One of the scenic effects of the drama will be the Moonlight March by the Germania Rifles, Company D, Second Infantry, the company with Lieutenant Wm. Brekhoff having kindly volunteered.

Frank Gilder's Farewell Concert.

Frank Gilder gives his last popular concert at Platt's Hall on Friday night, when his assistant artists will include Miss Susan Galton, Mrs. Blanche Galton, Herr Carl Formes, Mr. Makin and Mr. Benj. Clarke. Mr. Gilder leaves us in the beginning of next week to travel with W. H. Lingard.

Wilson's Hippodrome.

This colossal affair will be opened to the public on Thursday evening next. The tent, which is situated at the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, is the largest which has ever been erected in the United States, containing as it does, 51,685 feet of canvass, and inclosing a track nearly one-fifth of a mile in extent. The entertainments will consist of racing and sports of all descriptions, and of every style, ancient and modern, given by a corps of racers, both human and equine, in a manner somewhat new to San Franciscans. There will be accommodation under the shade of the Hippodrome tent for ten thousand people.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

"I cut his tail off," "Laughing Gas," "Uncle Jeff," and "The Election" are the acts for to-night, and these alone should draw a full house.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Charley King was well received. Charley Harris' Dutch specialties, Hughy Robinson's songs, and all the best things by the company every night.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

A number of rare plants are in bloom; the beautiful holy ghost flower, several varieties of orchids or air plants and century plant. Saturday and Sunday first time of Mlle. Herbert in her great act on the corde elastique, Mlle Gracie's blindfold trapese, Will Stevens with dancing globe, Mlle. Victorini in plate spinning and the usual grand orchestral concert.

Notes.

On Monday evening next, September 6th, Miss Ella F. Badger will make her second appearance on the San Francisco stage, this time at Maguire's Theatre as Parthenia in "Ingomar," supported by the Hooley Comedy Company.

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under the able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

The Fall and Winter styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Baths

At No. 10 Post Street, Masonic Temple. At this establishment can be had the celebrated Munro bath, combination hot air, steam, medicated, steam, salt, electro, chemical, hot air, plain, steam, mecurial and toilet baths. Office hours, from 8 A. M. to 10 P. M.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

WHO KEEPS DEAD FLOWERS?

Who keeps dead flowers? Not I,—indeed, not I;
The world is wild with blossoms, and the sky
Drops roses, and the regal moon-lamped night
Brings sculptured lilies, carved of perfect light!

Who keeps dead flowers? Thenceforth away with these,
The ashy ghosts of sad anemones!
With dimpled, blushing buds refill the vase,
Dipped in the laughing wine of Summer days!

Who keeps dead flowers? What if a loving friend
Did last Spring give thee these, and now an end
Has come to all his love? Life's full to-day
Of friends,—fresh friends, fresh flowers,—fling these away.

Who keeps dead flowers? Alas! one Summer day,
Teaches how many, many turn away
From life's fresh-blooming and bewildering bowers,
To sigh in secret, and to keep dead flowers!

Who keeps dead flowers? An angel came one night
And passed by all the happy, left the bright
And laughing ones, and took—Oh! was it meet?
Only dead flowers—and laid them at God's feet.

The Rival Cornets,

Levy and Arbuckle played a duet for the first time at Gilmore's the other night. It was "Quis est Homo," which I last heard from the lips of Nilsson and Lucca on that memorable Sunday night at the Academy. This later effort was interesting as showing how, when you take Levy away from bravura music, he is excelled by Arbuckle, whose method is simpler and therefore adapted particularly to music of this order. There was lusty cheering after each passage, and a furore at the close. Levy tried to patronize his towering rival, and performed sundry vivacious pattings on the back and the like to show that he considered him promising—really. I was glad to see that Arbuckle finally did the same thing with infinitely more reason, and certainly more provocation. But they shook hands as a final sign of grace, mercy and peace, and I hope there will never be such a fatal duet as pistols and cornets for two.

A Silly Wager.

A Paris paper tells the story of a young English actor named Walter Hastings, who had just been liberated from a term of ten years' close confinement undertaken on a wager. It seems that in 1865 the actor made the remark to Lord S. at a club meeting that close confinement wasn't such a terrible punishment after all. The lord offered him £10,000 if he would try it for ten years; he accepted the offer, and retired from the stage to a dark cell, fifteen feet by ten. He was allowed candles, books and writing materials and plenty of food. He began his foolishness when 25, and now looks 60; he is spending his money in Paris as fast as he can, and is also making arrangements to appear on the London stage again.

"Rewivalists, indeed!" said Mrs. Partington, "I ain't got no patients with such folks. I made my dear P. promise faithful that if I proceeded him to the grave he would never take another."

My face is rugged, but I am wealthy; will you have me?" said he. "Yes, indeed; it's knotty, but it's nice," said she.

"Ma," said a small boy, approaching his mother and exhibiting unmistakable symptoms of a severe pain in the bowels, "do green apples grow in heaven?"

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

To be Taken with Salt.

Scribe was spending the autumn with friends in the country, whose evening amusement consisted in listening to English novels, read out loud by the governness. One day this lady, during a pause in the reading, said to Scribe, with a sigh—

"Oh, that I could hope some day to possess an income of 1,200 francs, which would give me rest and independence!"

Some days after this, when the last chapter of the novel, which was but a poor one, had been read, Scribe suddenly said to the reader:

"Do you know that story is a capital subject for a one-act comedy—you supplied me with it, will you write it with me?"

It is needless to say the compact was made and carried out. When the piece was about to appear, Scribe said to his dramatic agent—

"Whether this play succeeds or not, the lady who is associated with me in the authorship must receive from it 1,200 francs a year for life; this must be made to appear as a mere matter of business."

And so it was arranged. The governess, however, delighted with her success, continued to find fresh subjects for Scribe who always declined them. Then, when he was praised before her, she would say—

"Yes, he is a charming young man, but rather ungrateful. We once wrote a piece together, which brought us in 1,200 francs a year each, and now he won't write another!"

Earthly Love.

It was a rich old widow who wondered that the handsome young man had fallen in love with her.

"Yes, it is wonderful," said Mr. Spruce-up, "but I do love you to distraction; why, I even love the ground you walk on!"

"I thought so," observed the widow; "but I am not in want of a landlord at present."

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

THINGS ABOUT TOWN.

The Oakland ferry boats will commence running from their slips, foot of Market street, on Saturday morning.

The Australian steamer "Cyphrenes," is 33 days out to-day and is overdue.

The Election was a failure—not more than one candidate in ten will be elected.

The Democrats are jubilant and imbibical over the election of Irwin. We have been asked to drink eleven times this morning.

The election was quiet enough yesterday to satisfy the most Quaker-like citizens. The saloons re-opened at sunset, and wasn't the town lively last night, though!

Alex. Badlam runs clear ahead of all candidates in the field. This shows the public's good sense. The dirty little blast the Printers gave him didn't amount to a toot of a toot-horn.

"A Bunch of Berries."

The New York correspondent of the Baltimore Bulletin, writing under date of the 11th says: "The ray of amusement which has brightened the past week has been again due to those noble animals, the Vokes Family. They drew to the Fifth Avenue Theatre on Monday evening all the summer world and all their all-the-year round wives. Mirth—palpable and palpitating—convulsed the house from the time Rosina, a sweet vision of pink silk and poudre au riz, crept slyly on the stage, and held us with a chain as silken as Love's, and far less costly, until the parting moment when the mellow voice of Victoria solicited a continuance of approval for "A Bunch of Berries." The Vokeses, (the only hisses they could ever get is when you write their name in its sibylant plural) do this burlesque on a pantomime as they do everything—with unfailing vivacity, and with a verve that takes the house with them. As fashionable amateurs, they are not particularly real, for, however fashionable amateurs may be, they could never be half so amusing. The affair is essentially a burlesque, and, as a burlesque, it could not be excelled. Lord Stanberry (Fred), Gooseberry (Fawdon), and the Misses Berry (Victoria, Rosina and Jessie), are supposed to have gotten up a pantomime in a country house during the absence of their host and hostess—a couple of uninteresting persons, who talked a great deal at the beginning, through the medium of Miss Sargent and Mr. Moore, and who received their just deserts in the tumultuous whirl of the pantomime towards the end. The progress of rehearsal is depicted with all manner of pranks, and all matter of song and dance, and a culminative situation in which the pantomimic village, wind-mill and bridge come down with a crash, is even more amusing than that in "The Belles of the Kitchen," which may have dimly suggested it—that where the clothes-horse tower gives way. In this instance, at the close of an operatic gem in which the vocal Victoria appeals brilliantly to the spirit that watches over maidens in distress and staccati, everything flops, and Fred, sustained by his irresponsible legs, and Victoria, held by an unseen power, are left in perilous mid-air. Victoria certainly was as indefatigable as she was charming, the other night—she sang, danced, "talked" and cut around generally and untiringly, and she looked like a Dryad (do Dryads wear green and white-striped hose?) in a vernal robe that—was first vernal as the apple, and then as deep in color as the moss. Rosina bore her body more seeming than she is fond of doing, and than her line fits her for, but it was far from disagreeable to see her chastened by good clothes and a lady-like role. Neither of these restrictions extended power over her dancing, and she swayed in melodious measure with her usual charm. Jessie did her share becomingly, and Fawdon, as the pantaloon, excited unbounded merriment by the manner in which he converted the stage trick of simultaneous slap and pretended blow into a proceeding which bore the mark of falsehood in its retarded hand-clapping.

Making Sure of It.

Thursday a tall and masculine-appearing female, who clung to a diminutive looking specimen of a man whom she called husband, entered a Griswold Street life insurance office, Detroit, and requested to see the insurance man. The agent ushered the couple into a reception room and asked them to be seated. In a few moments the woman opened the conversation with: "Mr. Insurance man, I'll tell you my business here. You see that man there, pointing to the pigmy who was quietly seated at her side; "well, he's my husband—my third husband, and I want to insure his life for three thousand dollars." The smiling agent with an eye to business, rubbed his hands complacently and politely requested the little husband to go with him to the office of the company's examining physician, a short distance up the street. After the Liliputian had been rigidly examined the doctor wrote out a certificate as to his possessing the necessary qualifications which entitled him to a life insurance, when the two returned to the insurance office, where the Amazonian female was impatiently awaiting them. A clerk having drawn up the necessary papers she took out a roll of bills and paid the first installment on the policy, which document she folded carefully together and in the depths of her skirt pocket. On taking their departure the prudent wife turned to the insurance agent and thanking him for his promptness in making out the policy remarked that "she wasn't going to be fooled this time." The agent politely asked for an explanation of this strange remark, whereupon she replied that her first husband had died on her hands before she knew of the existence of such an organization as a life insurance company; her second husband was blown up on a steamboat after they had been married a week, and before she could get a policy made out; and now that she married Joseph that very morning she wasn't going to run another such risk, she therefore concluded to have things fixed up at once. "Now, Joseph, dear," said the affectionate wife as she hustled her spouse down the stone steps leading to the sidewalk, "you and me can spend a honeymoon just like two loving turtle doves."

Mohalbi.

Mme. Mohalbi (nee Miss Penfield), who made such a successful failure in New York as Elvira in "Ernani," on the the 21st of April, and who afterwards took a troupe to travel through the Canadas, has returned to New York, and is thus complimented by the correspondent of the Baltimore Bulletin:

"Mohalbi escaped such indelicate attentions as vegetable bouquets, I believe, but she did not arouse the public to anything more than the pitch of toleration. Fancy her husband and agent having to hear such a remark as this: 'The company is excellent; artists, orchestra and chorus do their work admirably, but the prima donna isn't worth a damson.' Mohalbi was a prey to jealousy throughout the trip. Exasperated beyond all bounds by the encore which nightly greeted Miss Randall's rendering of 'Il tuo Stral' in "Martha," while 'The Last Rose of Summer,' was left blooming without the same enviable distinction, her jealousy became ludicrous when Miss Benziger, joining the company, made a genuine success in "Crispino." Her acting is on a par with her vocalism, and this added gall to the bitter cup of the manageress who found what she chose to consider "off" nights, the nights when something was on. Miss Benzirger also learned the whole of "Martha" at a very short notice, and sang it with complete profficiency. This came on top of Miss Randall's bringing the encomiums of the conductor and artistes for the manner in which she went through "La Favorita" at a rehersal, and altogether Mohalbi began to realize that she had dangerous rivals. Accordingly, on Miss Benziger having consented to sing Martha in Toronto at the solicitation of the agent, and the posters having been issued for a postponement of "La Favorita," owing to Mohalbi's illness and her unwillingness to allow Miss Randall to surpass her as Leonora, the great prima donna got in a rage, and although the stage was set, the chorus quiet dressed for "Martha," and everybody in readiness, Mr. Mohalbi tore down the posters from the door at a late hour and directed a recital of "Crispino" instead. This opera had been sung the night previous; but a goodly audience remained, and Madame, veiling her hoarseness in a private box, had the satisfaction of witnessing an even greater success for Miss Benziger's Nanetta than on the preceding night.

"Tramp! Tramp! Tramp!"

He was travel-stained and weary, and his eyes had a far-off wistful look, as though he knew that rest was not for him below, let his tired heart crave it never so much. And, as he humbly asked the lady of the house for a morsel of food, his venerable appearance and evident want aroused all her womanly generosity, and she presently set the poor tramp down to the remains of the family dinner.

"Poor old man," she murmured, sympathetically, as she saw him lean back in his chair, leaving his food untouched on his plate; "he is too weary to eat," and she asked him if he felt ill.

"Not exackly, mum," was the answer in a humble voice, "but mos' people cooks their roast beef till it's overdone, an' overdone beef don't gener'lly agree with me. Y' hav'n't got any Wooster sauce, have ye?" continued the medicant; "I mos' gener'lly use it when beef ain't cooked to suit me."

Unfortunately the house of McCormick was out of "Wooster sauce," but Mrs. McC. brought the mustard and a plate of nice pickles, observing, with the faintest trace of sarcasm in her tones, that if she'd known that he was coming, she'd have looked out for something better.

"O, I ain't very pertick'ler, mum," said the old man, as he helped himself to another spoonful of gravy and a cucumber pickle, "only I jes' happ'n to mention it, 'cos where there ain't no pie nor nothin' sweet for desert, overdone roast beef's more like to disagree with me," and the meekness in the vagrant's wrinkled face was touching in the extreme, as he looked humbly around the table, as though his former glance might have overlooked the luxuries of which he spoke.

But Mrs. McC. was rather too far gone with speechless indignation to frame a suitable answer, and so the weary old man, with mournful sigh, went on eating, and developed a most singular and wonderful appetite, which was gradually appeased as the four-pound piece of beef was reduced to a mere shapeless fragment, and the last boiled potato had vanished from the dish.

"I hope you've made a dinner," ejaculated Mrs. Mc C., in a fine irony.

"Wall, yes'm; I've eat wus wittles," said the old medicant, with deep humility, as he pushed his chair back from the table, and appeared to seek something on the floor.

"What is it you're a looking for?" demanded Mrs. McC., with a snap in her voice that reminded one of the slamming down of the lid of a chest.

"Nothin', mum—that is, nothin' pertick'ler; I didn't see no napkin, an' thought I might a' dropped it."

But he never finished his speech, and five seconds later his white locks vanished through the doorway with amazing celerity, and an infuriated female, with a mop, followed so close behind, that he got fully a half a mile from the house before pursuit ceased, and he was able to light his cigar.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 410. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish bock."

California Theatre.

The ushers and door-keepers of the California Theatre, had a packed house last evening. The bill consisted of "Two Lives" and "Black Eyed Susan," with Miss Ellie Wilton as Susan and T. W. Keene as William. A better sailor lad and a sweeter sailor's lass, were never seen.

This evening the Knights of Pythias have a benefit when the performance will consist of the comedy of "All That Glitters is Not Gold" and the melodrama of "Nick of the Woods" with T. W. Keene as the Jibbenainosay.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Dora" with Jas. O'Neill in his splendid impersonation of Farmer Allen, and "The Quiet Family," with W. H. Crane as Mr. Barnaby Bibbs, will be given for the last time this evening.

To-morrow evening, Mr. Tom Maguire, Jr., takes a benefit when "The Long Strike" and "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White" will be played. The beneficiare has made himself a favorite with all with whom he has come into contact. He has a difficult portion to fill, yet fills it with credit. We hope to see a crowded house.

Frank Gilder's Farewell Concert.

Frank Gilder gives his last popular concert at Platt's Hall on Friday night, when his assistant artists will be Miss Susan Galton, Miss Blanche Galton, Herr Carl Formes, Mr. Makin, Madame Bianchi, Mrs. Blake, and Signor Bianchi. Mr. Gilder leaves us in the beginning of next week to travel with W. H. Lingard.

Benefit of Mr. Barton Hill.

To-morrow evening (Friday), Mr. Barton Hill, the acting Manager of the California Theatre, a favorite actor and a courteous gentleman, will take his annual benefit, when Robertson's military drama of "Ours" will be produced. The play and the occasion are both equally worthy of a great attendance. One of the scenic effects of the drama will be the Moonlight March by the Germania Rifles, Company D, Second Infantry, the company with Lieutenant Wm. Brekhoff having kindly volunteered.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The fifth concert of the present season was given yesterday afternoon to a house in which there was barely standing room. So much for the pecuniary success of Mr. Herold's creditable undertaking. The orchestra showed a marked improvement, especially noticeable in Vogt's Reverie for string instruments, which was exquistely played and unanimously re-demanded. The overture to "Tannhauser" brought the full power of the orchestra into play, and went with an effect that was very visible in the attentive attitude of every one there. Mendelssohn's Italian Symphony, with its beautiful passages for flute and oboe, French horns and bassoons, and general delicate imagery of music, was a treat for which Mr. Herold deserves everybody's warmest thanks. The new season begins on Wednesday afternoon, September 15th.

Wilson's Hippodrome.

This colossal affair will be opened to the public on Friday evening next. The tent, which is situated at the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, is the largest which has ever been erected in the United States, containing as it does, 51,685 feet of canvass, and incloeing a track nearly one-fifth of a mile in extent. The entertainments will consist of racing and sports of all descriptions, and of every tyle, ancient and modern, given by a corps of racers, both human and equine, in a manner somewhat new to San Franciscans. There will be accommodation under the shade of the Hippodrome tent for ten thousand people.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Swain and West in song and dance, Kimic in his Dutch eccentricities, Sam Baylis in his fire eating feats and shadow pantomimes, and all the members of the company in the acts and olio to-night.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Ned Barry has two new songs to-night, Hughey Robinson continues his Muldoon, Charley King trots out his Ethiopian peculiarities, and the programme is full of good things.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

A number of rare plants are in bloom; the beautiful holy ghost flower, several varieties of orchids or air plants and century plant. Saturday and Sunday first time of Mlle. Herbert in her great act on the corde elastique, Mlle. Gracie's blindfold trapeze, Will Stevens with dancing globe, Mlle. Victorini in plate spinning and the usual grand orchestral concert.

Notes.

For the matinee "East Lynn" will be given at the California Theatre, and "The Lancashire Lass" on Saturday evening. On Monday next Lawrence Barret begins his engagement with "Richelieu."

On Monday evening next, September 6th, Miss Ella F. Eadger will make her second appearance on the San Francisco stage, this time at Maguire's Theatre as Parthenia in "Ingomar," supported by the Hooley Comedy Company.

"The Other Place."

"Good morning, Mrs. Jones." "Good morning, mum." "Do you know that I X L Auction House is a big fraud?" "Why, no!" "But I say, yes! I sent my boy Johnny to get him a hat, and they gave him one big enough for the old man." "Well, it's strange; my children go there for anything they want. I have unbounded confidence in them. Are you sure you went to the southeast corner Kearny and Commercial streets?" "Why, no." "Well, I thought so; you went by mistake to 'the other place.'"

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under [illegible] able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, their assortment is large and well-selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

IN THE ROUGH.

The marble was pure and white
  Though only a block at best,
But the artist, with inward sight,
  Looked further than all the rest,
And saw in the hard, rough stone,
The loveliest statue the sun shone on.

So he set to work with care
  And chiselled a form of grace—
A figure divinely fair,
  With a tender, beautiful face;
But the blows were hard and fast
That brought from the marble that work at last.

So I think that human lives
  Must bear to God's chisel keen,
If the spirit yearns and strives
  For the better life unseen.
For men are only blocks at best,
Till the chiselling brings out all the rest.

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

Lionel Brough, the Blue Beard of Lydia Thompson's company, at the Theatre Royal, Brighton, and a Mr. Charles Collette were recently dining together at a country inn a few miles from that seaside resort, when their meal was interrupted by a sudden and unlooked-for intruder. A large bird dashed through the window, smashed the glass, over-turned wine and sauce-bottles, and, with a sudden pounce, secured a roast fowl upon the table. Mr. Brough nearly blinded Mr. Collette in endeavoring to strike the intruder with the pepper castor, and, after much difficulty, secured the bird, which proved to be a fine specimen of the rock eagle. Mr. James Scanlan, Miss Thompson's acting-manager, had the bird stuffed, and will take it throughout the tour as a bird of good omen.

The season of English opera under Carl Rosa's direction will begin early in September at the Princess Theatre, London, with Mr. Stantley as baritone and Mlle. Rose Hersee, Torriani, and Julia Gaylord as prime donne. The first opera will probably be Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," in which the three soprani, will of course, be heard.

Blondin, who has been on a professional tour through India and Australia, had returned to London, after an absence of two years, and was to appear at the Crystal Palace, 2d.

The Wily Widower.

A rich old widower in Morenci, Michigan, had a blooming and affectionate widow for a near neighbor, and when he was taken sick she very considerately nursed him and supplied his every want. But when he was convalescent, she became aggressive, hinted that he ought to marry her, and that she would sue him if he refused. Then the widower resorted to strategy. One evening when she called, he was in his sitting-room, without lights, and the marriage subject was revived. "But you know I never promised to marry you," whined the wily widower. "That's very true," answered the unsuspecting widow; but I can get big damages from you all the same." Then there was a chuckling noise all around the room, and the lamp was lighted and the widow saw three very respectable married ladies sitting in one corner listening to the conversation. The widow now says she carried the joke a little too far.

In Memoriam.

Mr. Geo. Wight for long time legal partner with Sheridan Corbyn, died yesterday morning from liver complaint. George was a man with fewer faults than good qualities, was liked by everyone, and there are very many who will hear of his death with a sigh of unaffected sorrow. May as much be written of us when we die!

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

A printer is the most curious being living He may have a "bank" and "quoins," and not be worth a cent; have "small caps," and have neither wife nor children. Others may run fast, but he gets along swifter by "setting" fast. He may make "impressions" without eloquence, may use the "lye" without offending, and he may be telling the truth; while others cannot stand while they set, he "sets" standing and does both at the same time; he may have to use "furniture," and yet have no dwelling; may make and put away "pi" and never see a pie, much less eat it, during his whole life; be a human being and a "rat" at the same time; may "press" a great deal, and not ask a favor; may handle a "shooting iron" and know nothing about a cannon, gun or pistol; may spread "sheets" without being a housewife; he may lay his form in "bed" and yet be obliged to sleep on the floor; he may use the "dagger" without shedding blood, and from the earth he may handle "stars;" he may be of a "rolling" disposition, and yet never desire to travel; he may have a "sheep's-foot" and never be deformed; never without a "case" and know nothing of law or physic; may always correct his "errors" and be growing worse every day; have "embraces" without ever having the arm of a lass thrown around him; have his "form locked up," and yet may be far from jail, watch-house, or any other confinement; he might be plagued by the "devil" and yet be a Christian of the best kind.

"The Twa Dogs."

A country dog came into town on business with his master this morning and went down to the steamboat landing to inspect the new slips. There he met two city dogs who were strutting around looking for something to eat or a fight. They proceeded to make the acquaintance of the country dog, but not inclined to such sociability, country walked away, but was followed by the city curs, who were not long in picking a three-cornered fight. The dispute was near the edge of the dock and within three feet of a horse's heels. The horse turned his head to see what the noise was all about, and taking in the situation at a glance, turned partly around, and giving one of the city dogs a broadside, kicked him clear into the river. The unpleasantness between the other two dogs ceased at once. When the kicked dog came out of the river, he trotted down Second street in a reflective mood, whilst his city companion stood behind a pile of lumher, undecided what to do.

Isolation.

Emerson lives mostly to himself, both in body and mind. Somebody asked him why he omitted "Paul Revere's Ride" from Parnassus." He said he never heard of it, and asked, "Who wrote it?" "Why, Longfellow wrote it!" said the questioner. "Did he?" asked the sage, in amazement. An Englishman called on Longfellow one day and asked to see his house, which was Washington's headquarters at Cambridge. He showed him through courteously, and the visitor expressed much satisfaction, and begged to know his host's name? "Longfellow," said the poet, not unreasonably expecting some recognition. "Ah, indeed! an American." But worse even than that is the story of some Cambridge tourists who asked the car conductor to show them Lowell's house? He said he didn't know the name. "James Russell Lowell," explained the visitors. The man shook his head; "there's a baker down town by the name of Lowell," said he, "but the cars don't go anywhere near him."

A Startling Illustration.

"O, Lord, thou knowest," prayed a Connecticut deacon, "that I am afflicted with a most impious and depraved son. Thou knowest that he will swear, and lie, and steal, and do all sinful things. Thou knowest that on the last Sabbath day he was seen walking down the principal street in the village, with his hands in his pockets, whistling the following ungodly tune:"—and the congregation were astounded to hear "Yankee Doodle," flow melodiously from the deacon's pursed-up lips.

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

Some months ago, an Oregon man named his girl baby after Queen Victoria, and wrote to the Queen to that effect. Not hearing from Her Majesty he changed the child's name to Hannah, and went out and pounded the first Englishman he met.

Georgia towns become as peacful as the grave after twelve o'clock at night, as the saloon keepers do not think it profitable to keep open after that hour, and the average Georgian does not think it healthy to keep awake after they close.

We recently read a dramatic criticism which, in speaking of the omission of the music of an operetta, said that "it suffered from the injudicious application of the harmonic pruning-knife!" Harmonic pruning-knife is good; but did not the critic mean to say harmonic tuning-fork?

A Scottish student, supposed to be deficient in judgment, was asked by a professor, in the course of his examination, how he would discover a fool. "By the questions he would ask," was the prompt and highly suggestive reply.

"Warm hearts are what we want now," said one of the brethren, twirling a ten-cent stamp with an air of reckless benevolence, "plenty of warm hearts, that will inspire ready hands to dive deep into full pockets and fork over the balance of that $100,000."

A man who had lost his mother-in-law called at a hat-store to get the requisite crape put on his hat. "How wide do you want it?" was asked. "Well," he replied, "I guess a wide shoe-string will do."

Speaking of the Israelites, were they not to the manna born.

Why is a kiss like a sewing machine? Because it seems so good.

A person who has been to see the basket coffins says he would not be buried in one on any account. He desires not to be associated with wickered people.

A Norristown boy who found a pocket-book containing eighty-five dollars, and returned it to the owner, refused a reward of five-cents for his trouble, explaining that many a man has been ruined by suddenly becoming rich.

"Gentlemen and ladies," said a showman, "here you have the magnificent painting of Daniel in the lion's den. Daniel can be easily distinguished from the lion by the green cotton umbrella under his arm."

An old bachelor, upon reading that "two lovers will sit up half the night with one chair in the room," said, "Loving must be inconvenient, for it could not be done unless one of them sat on the floor."

Never hail a man as a friend who is foggy in his ideas; it's snow good talking to him. Profound melancholy rains while he i present, and when he's gone he's nevers mist.

A distracted Greenpoint widower says he can never come across a flat iron without feeling the back of his head, and thinking of the gulf that separates him from his poor dead and gone wife.

Query—When Dickens wrote his character of Dot, did he have in mind "a girl of the period?"

A head wind—a sneeze.

Dubious weather—Whether or no.

The first thing in a boot is the last.

A Western man who bit his neighbor's nose off was bound over to keep the piece.

A Western paper has this personal item: "Those who know nice old Mr. Wilson of this place will regret to hear that he was assaulted in a brutal manner last week, but was not killed."

It doesn't take long for a man with a small mind to make it up.

Shakspeare's "patience on a monument" doesn't refer to doctors' patients. Because you always find them under a monument.

A person looking at some skeletons asked a young doctor present where he got them. He replied, "We raised them."

"How we done it" is the heading of a Duluth newspaper editorial. Send up some grammars there, quick.

A regular beat—The heart-beat.

What word is that in the English language the first two letters of which signify a man, the first three a woman, the first four a great man, and the whole a great woman?—Heroine.

Turkish tailors are never reproached for misfits. They have only to cut out two bags, hitch them together, and the customer ha first-class pair of pants.

A Boston murderer wants his execution delayed, as he is in poor health.

Why are Panama hats like dumb people? Because you cannot make them here.

In Meriden, Conn., last Friday, two base-ball players, running for the same ball, bumped heads so hard that one of them got brain fever.

Why is a prosy preacher like the middle of a wheel? Because the fellows round him are tired.

"I have very little respect for the ties of this world," as the rogue said when the rope was put around his neck.

Bakers are a crusty lot of fellows, and fond of loafing.

A ragged little urchin came to a lady's door, asking for old clothes. She brought him a vest and a pair of trowsers, which she thought would be a comfortable fit. The young scrape-grace took the garments and examined each; then, with a disconsolate look, said, "There ain't no watch pocket."

Not Used to Kindness.

"Is this the postoffice?" inquired a stranger the other day, as he approached the stamp clerk's window.

"It is," was the reply.

"And you have stamps here?"

"Yes, sir."

"Will you be so kind as to please sell me one?"

"I will."

"I am very sorry to have to trouble you," continued the stranger, while the clerk was tearing off the stamp; "but I want to send a letter out, and I hope you will excuse me."

"That's all right," replied the clerk.

"Yes, I believe it's all right," said the stranger. "I'm a thousand times obliged to you for your courtesy, and now I want to beg one more favor. Can I mail this letter here?"

"Why, of course."

"Can I? Here, give me your hand, young man! I've lived around and about here for forty years, and I've seen hard times. I ain't used to this sort o' kindness, and it goes right to my heart!"

And it could'nt be said that he was drunk.

The Latest.

As we go to press (1 P. M.), the last telegraphic reports at the Police Station, gives Ellis 6890 votes against Crowley's 7491. Badlam is over 2500 ahead of Doolan.

There he met two city dogs who were strutting around looking for something to eat or a fight. They proceeded to make the acquaintance of the country dog, but not inclined to such sociability, country walked away, but was followed by the city curs, who were not long in picking a three-cornered fight. The horse turned his head to see what the noise was all about, and taking in the situation at a glance, turned partly around, and giving one of the city dogs a broadside, kicked him clear into the river. The unpleasantness between the other two dogs ceased at once. When the kicked dog came out of the river, he trotted down Second street in a reflective mood, whilst his city companion stood behind a pile of lumber, undecided what to do..

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of return'ng health.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS

....AND....

Bronchial Affections.

Those suffering from CATARRH, BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION in its first stages, can be assured of a perfect cure by his new method of treatment, which can be testified to by thousands in the United States and British North America.

DR. SPINNEY can detect the slightest disease of the Chest, Lungs or any internal organ, and guarantees a cure in every case he undertakes.

TO THE LADIES

DR. SPINNEY having spent many years in the study of Female Complaints, feels competent to treat them in their most malignant forms, and would therefore cordially invite all who may be wrecked with pain and suffering from any of the great host of troubles with which your sex are so often afflicted, to come and try his method of cure, which has relieved thousands of their sufferings, and saved many from a premature grave.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

So do not longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. Why eke out a miserable existence, suffering all the tortures of a lingering death, when a few weeks' treatment will restore you to vigorous health?

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last.' If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

All Letters and Communications Strictly Confidential.

Consultations Free—A Friendly Chat Costs Nothing.

N. B.—Do not forget, you who are ill, and yet feel unable to pay, that your cases will be properly examined and prescribed for, if you will call any morning between the hours of 10 and 11 A. M. se-8

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"Dora" and the "Quiet Family," were played to an appreciative house for the last time last evening. Before shelving this bill it would be well to remember Miss Katie Mayhew as Snarley in the latter piece. In wonderful make-up and with a complete change of manner and voice, the old woman servant, was there to the life.

This evening, Mr. Tom Maguire, Jr., takes a benefit when "The Long Strike" and "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White" will be played. The beneficiare has made himself a favorite with all with whom he has come into contact. He has a difficult portion to fill, yet fills it with credit. We hope to see a crowded house.

California Theatre.

The Knights of Pythias had a successful benefit last evening, the bill being "All That Glitters is Not Gold" and "Nick of the Woods." Comedy and melodrama and the good standing of the society, whose benefit it was, filled the house.

This evening (Friday), Mr. Barton Hill, the acting Manager of the California Theatre, a favorite actor and a courteous gentleman, will take his annual benefit, when Robertson's military drama of "Ours" will be produced. The play and the occasion are both equally worthy of a great attendance. One of the scenic effects of the drama will be the Moonlight March by the Germania Rifles, Company D, Second Infantry, the company with Lieutenant Wm. Brekhoff having kindly volunteered.

Frank Gilder's Farewell Concert.

Frank Gilder gives his last popular concert at Platt's Hall to-night, when his assistant artists will be Miss Susan Galton, Miss Blanche Galton, Herr Carl Formes, Mr. Makin, Madame Bianchi, Mrs. Blake, and Signor Bianchi. Mr. Gilder leaves us in the beginning of next week to ravel with W. H. Lingard.

Wilson's Hippodrome.

This colossal affair will be opened to the public this (Friday) evening. The tent, which is situated at the corner of Mission and Seventh streets, is the largest which has ever been erected in the United States, containing as it does, 51,685 feet of canvass, and inclosing a track nearly one-fifth of a mile in extent. The entertainments will consist of racing and sports of all descriptions, and of every style, ancient and modern, given by a corps of racers, both human and equine, in a manner somewhat new to San Franciscans. There will be accommodation under the shade of the Hippodrome tent for ten thousand people, and we should not be surprised if to-night that number of people attend. Besides the usual evening performances there will be matinees on Wednesday, Saturday and Sunday afternoons.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Ned Barry has so far proved himself a capital stage manager. The programme is a well-arranged one every evening, and is to-night a first-rate specimen of a variety show bill.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The act entitled "The Election, or how its Worked" is exceedingly funny, and has taken immensely. All the other acts are good, whilst the olio embraces everything that the company does best.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

A number of rare plants are in bloom; the beautiful holy ghost flower, several varieties of orchids or air plants and century plant. Saturday and Sunday first time of Mlle. Herbert in her great act on the corde elastique, Mlle. Gracie's blindfold trapeze, Will Stevens with dancing globe, Mlle. Victorini in plate spinning and the usual grand orchestral concert.

Notes.

For the matinee "East Lynn" will be given at the California Theatre, and "The Lancashire Lass" on Saturday evening. On Monday next Lawrence Barret begins his engagement with "Richelieu."

On Monday evening next, September 6th, Miss Ella F. Badger will make her second appearance on the San Francisco stage, this time at Maguire's Theatre as Parthenia in "Ingomar," supported by the Hooley Comedy Company.

Only the best brands of smoking and chewign tobaccos—Solace, Eureka, Sunnyside, American Eagle, Welcome and Golden Luxury—sold. Four papers for 25 cents. IXL Auction House, 616, 18 and 620 Kearny street, corner Commercial.

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under the able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Don't Help Pay Other People's Debts,

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is: "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits. L

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes the Green Room between the acts. X

THE GAME OF LIFE.

BY JOHN G. SAXE.

There's a game much in fashion—I think it's called Euchre:
(Though I never have played it for pleasure or lucre,)
In which when the cards are in certain conditions,
The players appear to have changed their positions,
And one of them cries, in a confident tone,
"I think I may venture to 'go it alone!'"

While watching the game, 'tis a whim of the bard's
A moral to draw from that skirmish of cards,
And to fancy he finds in the trivial strife
Some excellent hints for the battle of Life;
Where—whether the prize be a ribbon or throne—
The winner is he who can "go it alone!"

When great Galileo proclaimed that the world
In a regular orbit was ceaselessly whirled,
And got—not a convert—for all of his pains,
But only derision and prison and chains,
"It moves, for all that!" was his answering tone,
For he knew, like the Earth, he could "go it alone!"

When Kepler, with intellect piercing afar,
Discovered the laws of each planet and star,
And doctors, who ought to have lauded his name,
Derided his learning and blackened his fame,
"I can wait!" he replied, "till the truth you shall own;"
For he felt in his heart he could "go it alone!"

Alas for the player who only depends
In the struggle of life, upon kindred or friends;
Whatever the value of blessings like these,
They can never atone for inglorious ease,
Nor comfort the coward who finds with a groan,
That his crutches have left him to "go it alone!"

There's something, no doubt, in the hand you may hold,
Health, family, culture, wit, beauty and gold,
The fortunate owner may fairly regard
As, each in its way, a most excellent card;
Yet the game may be lost, with all these for your own,
Unless you've the courage to "go it alone!"

In battle or business, whatever the game,
In law or in love, it is ever the same;
In the struggle for power, or the scramble for pelf,
Let this be your motto—"RELY ON YOURSELF!"
For, whether the prize be a button or throne,
The victor is he who can "go it alone!"

Unwritten Side of Great Men.

We always think of great men as in the act of performing deeds which give them renown, or else in stately repose, grand, silent and majestic. And yet this is hardly fair, because the most gracious and magnificent of human beings have to bother themselves with the little things of life which engage the attention of us smaller people. No doubt Moses snarled and got angry when he had a severe cold in his head, and if a fly bit his leg while he was in the desert, why should we not suppose he jumped and rubbed the sore place.

And Cæsar—isn't it tolerably certain he became furious when he went up stairs in the dark and found that Calphurnia had shoved his slippers under the bed so that he had to sweep around after them with a broom-handle?

And when Solomon cracked his crazy-bone, is it unreasonable to suppose that he ran around the room, and felt as if he wanted to cry? Imagine George Washington sitting on the edge of the bed and putting on a clean shirt, and growling because the buttons were off; or St. Augustine, with an apron around his neck, having his hair cut; or Joan of Arc, holding her front hair in her mouth, as women do, while she fixed her hair. Napoleon jumping out of bed to chase a musquito around the room with a pillow; or Martin Luther in a night-shirt, trying to put the baby to sleep at 2 o'clock in the morning; or Jefferson suddenly getting over a fence to avoid a dog; or Daniel Webster abusing his wife because she hadn't tucked the covers in at the foot of the bed; or Ben. Franklin paring his corns with his razor; or Jonathan Edwards, at the dinner-table wanting to sneeze just as he gets his mouth full of hot beef; or Noah standing at his window at night throwing bricks at a cat.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

A Kentucky Bridal Tour.

There came one day to a little inland town in Kentucky a young rural couple who had just been bound by the "silken bonds." Their destination was the depot, and the bridegroom was evidentally quite impatient for fear the train should arrive before he could reach the office. Buying the ticket, they stood on the platform until the train had stopped. When they entered the car the bridegroom found his bride a seat, kissed her most affectionately, bade her "good bye," and going out, seated himself on a box and commenced whistling most vigorously. He watched the train out of sight, regret depicted on his face, when a bystander, thinking the whole proceedings rather strange, resolved to interview him. Approaching him carelessly, and chewing a straw to keep up his courage he said:

"Been gettin' married lately!"

"Yes," said he, "me and Sallie got spliced this mornin'."

"Was that her you put on the train?"

"Yes," with a sigh.

"A likely lookin' gal," said our questioner. "Anybody sick, that she had to go away?"

"No," but here he grew confidential, "You see me and Sallie had heard that everybody when they got married took a bridal tour. I told Sallie I hadn't money enough for both of us to go, but she shouldn't be knocked out of hern. So I jist brought her down here, bought her ticket and sent her on a visit to some of her folks, and thought I might get some work harvestin' till she got back."

That afternoon found him busily at work, and when in a day or two after Sallie came back, he welcomed her cordially and affectionately, and hand in hand they started down the dusty road to their new home and duties.

The Wily Widower.

A rich old widower in Morenci, Michigan, had a blooming and affectionate widow for a near neighbor, and when he was taken sick she very considerately nursed him and supplied his every want. But when he was convalescent, she became aggressive, hinted that he ought to marry her, and that she would sue him if he refused. Then the widower resorted to strategy. One evening when she called, he was in his sitting-room, without lights, and the marriage subject was revived. "But you know I never promised to marry you," whined the wily widower. "That's very true," answered the unsuspecting widow; but I can get big damages from you all the same." Then there was a chuckling noise all around the room, and the lamp was lighted and the widow saw three very respectable married ladies sitting in one corner listening to the conversation. The widow now says she carried the joke a little too far.

The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

Among the fresh operas to be presented by Grau & Chizzola's opera bouffe company at the Lyceum Theatre, New York, are "Les Canards a Trois Becs" and "Les Pres St. Gervais."

Mr. Alfred Ayres, the adaptor of "Jane Eyre," as acted by Miss Charlotte Thompson, will personate Cardinal Richelieu at the Newark Opera House, Sept 3d, speaking the German text, and supported by a full German company from N. York. This is the first time that a native American has ever essayed this exigeant role in German in this country. The translation of the play is his own.

E. L. Davenport appeared as Hamlet, at the Grand Opera House, New York, August 30th—the night when Barry Sullivan made his bow in the same character at Booth's Theatre. (See Notes.)

A Broadway theatre is negotiating for the production of Bartley Campbell's "Virginian" during the coming season.

The season at the Park Theatre was opened on the 30th Aug. with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence, in Woolf's new play, "The Almighty Dollar."

Niblo's theatre is for rent.

Nilsson refuses an offer of a thousand dollars a night to come back to New York.

Mr. Edwin Booth will positively commence at Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre, October 4.

"Chilperic" having been withdrawn after a run of five weeks at Robinson Hall, was followed by "La Princesse de Trebizonde." The cast included Mr. Harry Allen; his first appearance since his return from California; Mr. W. H. Woodfield, Mr. Geo. Atkins, Miss Clara Fisher and Miss Nellie Larke'le. Mr. Harry Allen will superintend the production of this charming opera bouffe, and, is engaged for the season.

If the return of the Vokes to New York did not realize the financial brilliancy which rewarded their first visit, the fault is due in part to their mistake in withdrawing their best attraction, the "Belles of he Kitchen." It was the standard whereby the public judged their subsequent productions, and as these proved only repetitions of the "Belles of the Kitchen," in other and weaker forms, the magnetism of the Vokes's decreased proportionately. They closed their season on the 20th and 21st, with representations of "The Wrong Man in the Right Place," and Miss Resina as Nan in the "Good for Nothing."

Booth's re-opened on the 30th with "Hamlet" by the following cast: Hamlet, Barry Sullivan; Claudius, King of Denmark, James J. Bartlett; Polonius, Henry Weaver; Laertes, Fred B. Warde; Horatio, Charles Vandenhoff; Rosencrantz, Ed. K. Collier; Guildenstein, Harry B. Bradley; Osrick, George Becks; Marcellus, Frederick Monroe; Bernardo, J. R. Davis; Francisco, Harry Hogan; First Actor, Edmund Sinc'air; Second Actor, C. Kent. First Gravedigger, Charles B. Bishop; Second Gravedigger, Erank Little; Ghost of Hamlet's Father, James Cathcart; Priest, Edward Lacy; Queen, Mary Wells; Ophelia, Louisa Hibberd; Actress; Emma Grattan.

Col. T. Allston Brown has a strong company to commence his management of the Comique. It includes Little Mac, Delehanty and Cummings, Johnny Allen, Barney and Rickey, Ella Wesner, the Girards, Lulu Delmay, E. D. Davies and Jolly Nash.

Sophie and Irene Worrell are at the Olympic, New York.

Darling's (late Bryant's) Opera House, was opened last week, under the management of Messrs. Ben Cotton, Dave Reed and James Simpson. The new company will include Ben Cotton, Dave Reed, Bob Hart, W. H. Broackway, A. E. Voos. J. J. Kelly, Charles Templeton, W. H. Raymond, and Morton and Bernardo.

Wet days and the discomforts of sultry nights seem to have added to the popularity of Gilmores' picturesque Concert Gardens.

ELSEWHERE.

CHICAGO, Aug 28th.—At Hooley's, Mr. John Dillon has presented Dr. O'Callaghan, A Party by the Name of Johnson and Paul Pry. Emerson's Minstrels reopen here next week. On September 6th, the regular season at the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, opens with "The Big Bonanza," in which Mr. Daly's full company will appear for two weeks. This is to be succeeded by E. L. Davenport, who opens on the 20th, and who is to be played against Barry Sullivan, who commences at the same time at the Walnut.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS

....AND....

Bronchial Affections.

Those suffering from CATARRH, BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION, in its first stages, can be assured of a perfect cure by his new method of treatment, which can be testified to by thousands in the United States and British North America.

DR. SPINNEY can detect the slightest disease of the Chest, Lungs or any internal organ, and guarantees a cure in every case he undertakes.

TO THE LADIES

DR. SPINNEY having spent many years in the study of Female Complaints, feels competent to treat them in their most malignant forms, and would therefore cordially invite all who may be wrecked with pain and suffering from any of the great host of troubles with which your sex are so often afflicted, to come and try his method of cure, which has relieved thousands of their sufferings, and saved many from a premature grave.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

So do not longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. Why eke out a miserable existence, suffering all the tortures of a lingering death, when a few weeks' treatment will restore you to vigorous health?

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation, and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy resteration of the genito-urinary organs.

All Letters and Communications Strictly Confidential.

Consultations Free—A Friendly Chat Costs Nothing.

N. B.—Do not forget, you who are ill, and yet feel unable to pay, that your cases will be properly examined and prescribed for, if you will call any morning between the hours of 10 and 11 A. M. se-3

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.—"Ours," delightfully played was given for Mr. Barton Hill's benefit last evening. The house was a splendid one and the performance thoroughly enjoyable. Mr. Hill as Hugh Chalcote, Harry Edwards as Sir Alexander Shendryn, T. W. Keene as Angus McAllister Miss Pateman as Mary Netley, Miss Ellie Wilton as Blanche Haye, in fact, all the characters were taken with charming ease and effect. The setting of the play especially in the last act was good, the curtain being called up twice on the moonlight march of the troops and the concluding tableau. Miss Ellie Wilton sang the song of "Ours" with sweetness and and just that amount of tremulosity which one would look for in a girl quitting her lover—cousin. This afternoon "East Lynne," this evening "The Lancashire Lass," and on Monday Lawrence Barrett in "Richelieu."

MAGUIRE'S NEW THEATRE.—Mr. Tom Maguire Jr., had a good house for his benefit last evening, the bill being "The Long Strike" and "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White." W. H. Crane as Moneypenny in the drama, and Mr. Peter in the farce, was, as he always is, extremely comical, whilst Miss Hawthorne made her re-appearance as Jane Learoyd, playing the part with much natural force. This afternoon "Dora" for the last time, and this and to-morrow evening "The Long Strike" and "Mr. and Mrs. Peter White." On Monday evening, Miss Ella Badger makes her second appearance as Parthenia in "Ingomar, the Barbarian."

WILSON'S HIPPODROME.—The initial performance given at this new place of amusement last evening, presented to the public of San Francisco something entirely new and startling in the amusement line, and was a perfect success throughout. The interior of the immense structure was well filled; the dress circle presenting a very fashionable appearance, and was so crowded that several hundred extra chairs had to be placed in it. Those who have seen the Hippodrome shows in the East say that Manager Wilson has organized one of the best ones in the country, and one that fairly rivals Barnum's great Hippodrome show in dash and daring. The performance commences with an imposing grand entree, in which seventy horses took part; this was followed by an exciting race between blood horses, ridden by the well-known jockeys, Charley Ross, Fred Ross and Hurbert. In the fourth heat Charley Ross, who often rode Thad Stevens under the line in safety, was thrown, and probably lost the heat by this accident. The race was won by "Slasher," and Hurbert, his jockey, pocketed the $10 set aside for the winner. Charley Ross was not injured by his fall, but was mortified at not getting away with the stake money. Wm. H. Morgan made his first appearance in a neat and dashing hurdle act, and was followed by the Roman chariot race, This was very exciting. The drivers stood up in chariots, lashing their powerful horses, who were dashing around the track at the top of their speed, when one of the drivers in trying to take the inside track from the other ran into the inner fence of the course, carrying away post and railings, and injuring one of his best horses very badly in the flank. This ended the chariot race. The Vaquero Race, by California vaqueros was full of characteristic dash and daring. After the vaqueros gave a specimen of their horsemanship throwing their hats on the ground, and picking them up from the saddle while passing at full speed, which was very much applauded. The Jockey Race by four ladies, and the Jockey Hurdle Race by the Rosses and others which followed were also much applauded. "Scenes at Donybrook Fair' brought out a hundred people in the ring, and created great fun. "The Standing Race" in which four men, each standing on the backs of two horses, dash around the course at full speed passing and re-passing each other as the advantages of the "turns" could be taken, was another exciting scene. The intelligence and docility of the trained horses "President" and "Napoleon," exhibited by Omar Kingsley, were pleasant reliefs to excitement caused by the racing contests. The entertainment closed with an Indian peice, in which a mounted vaquero captures an Indian girl from her horse while coursing at full speed, and bears her away in his arms. The whole performance was not only novel, but full of life and spirit. Manager Wilson has done wonders, and deserves great credit for the way in which he has organized his Hippodrome entertainment, and the perfect manner in which he presents it to the public. He has probably struck a show bonanza, and one that will well repay him for the great outlay he has expended in the enterprise. Performances will be given this evening and Sunday evening, and every night next week. Extra matinees will be given on Sunday at 2 P. M. and on Wednesday.

NEW OLYMPIC VARIETY THEATRE.—Ned Barry's new song of "The Workingman's Friend" composed and sung in memory of the late W. C. Ralston, is nightly encored. The bill to-night—an excellent one—will conclude with "The Coal Heaver's Revenge."

BUCKLEY'S NEW VARIETY THEATRE.—"Hard Cheek," "The Wigmakers in Trouble," "The Tobacconist's Daughter" and a banjo act by Sonate and Price are the main dishes of to-night's bill of fare which is throughout a feast of good things.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

WOODWARD'S GARDENS.—Attractions.—A number of rare plants are in bloom; the beautiful holy ghost flower, several varieties of orchids or air plants and century plant. Saturday and Sunday first time of Mllp. Herbert in her great act on th[illegible] [illegible]astique, Mlle Gracie's blindfold trapeze, [illegible] Stevens with dancing globe, Mlle. Victorini in plate spinning and the usual grand orchestral concert.

THE CLIFF HOUSE.—Captain Foster, the genial host of the Cliff House, entertains visitors from all parts of the Globe at his famous sea-side resort. The Cliff House is THE one thing San Francisco has to boast of as different from any thing else in the world. Omnibuses run every day from the terminus of the Lone Mountain railroad.

HEROLD'S ORCHESTRAL MATINEE.—The next concert will be given on Wednesday week, Sept. 15th, which will also begin the new season. The commencement programme will include the Grand March from "Tannhauser, Schumann's Symphonie in B flat, Litolff's Overture to "Robespierre," Lumbye's "Traumbilder," with Zither obligato, and Weber's Overture to "Der Freichutz." A splendid programme.

NOTES.

FROM JENNIE LEE.

NEW YORK HOTEL, August 26th, 1875.

DEAR FIGARO:—Just a line before we leave here, to say how glad we were to get over our railway trip, though we had a pleasant time enough. Mrs. John Sefton was with us all the way from Salt Lake. By the way, what a hot place that is—oh it's simply fearful! We could hardly breathe, and were both prostrated. Our business was not over good, still, it did us no harm. We couldn't play "Jo," one act having been left in 'Frisco, and not arriving in time to give the piece thorough rehearsal. We've been talking with Mr. Shook and Mr. Palmer of the Union Square Theatre to-day. Shook wants us to stay and produce "Jo," but then we should have to wait some little time, and we want to get to London before the end of September. It will, I think, be arranged to produce "Jo" next season. Johnny Raymond and wife are doing big business at the Union Square. We went last night and there was a crowded house. Shook, as I daresay you know, is boss of Gilmore's concerts. They are a great success and the gardens are the most lovely I ever saw for enclosed gardens. What with the band, and Levy, and the gaily dressed folks walking about, the place is quite "high-toned." No lady is admitted without an escort, and, in fact, the best people in New York go; so, of course, I met a great number of friends there(!) I saw Tom Maguire standing on Broadway this morning, looking as handsome as ever. Julia Matthews, at Wallack's, is doing well, I believe. I must now say good night, as it is getting late. With kind love to all at the California Theatre, and to all who remember me, I remain, Yours Truly, JENNIE LEE.

P. S. Send FIGARO to us at Junior Garrick Club Strand, London. J. L.

[Our correspondent was too modest to make mention of the following fact, clipped from a Salt Lake paper:]

At present Miss Lee and Mr. Burnett have not only made many friends unprofessionally, but have so far endeared themselves to the professional people of this city, that Miss Lee became the recipient last evening of a very handsome silver brick, neatly engraved with expressions of regard, and delivered with a very feeling speech by Mr. J. A. Thompson.

Joe Murphy, who is an inveterate fisherman, left some specimens of fine one-pound trout on our desk yesterday as an evidence of his piscatorial skill. Joe knows how and where to catch them, and we flatter ourself that we can do credit to the eating part of the business.

307 WEST TWENTY-EIGHTH STREET,
NEW YORK CITY, August 25th, 1875.

EDITOR FIGARO—DEAR SIR:—Will you kindly mention the fact in your Saturday's issue that Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Carhart have been engaged to support E. L. Davenport in "Hamlet" at the Grand Opera House, New York, who opens on the 30th with a cast entirely American, while Barry Sullivan opens on the same date at Booth's with a cast of 'Hamlet" nearly all English Much curiosity is felt to compare these two performances.

Yours truly, J. L. C.

Alice Harrison, the new soubrette of the California Theatre, arrived in town on Thursday evening.

Joe Murphy starts with a company to-day for a trip in the interior, taking in the Sacramento Valley and northern towns, then working south in time to open the San Jose theatre for the fair week, commencing October 4th. Joe Murphy is deservedly a favorite in the country, as he always amuses.

Work on the new theatre, on Market street is being pushed on rapidly. All the wood work of the third tier is in place, and the walls are almost ready to receive the roof girders. The machinery is being completed at an equally rapid pace, and November the 1st will see the theatre open. Senor G. G. Gariboldi, the celebrated fresco painter of New York, is in town, and will lay on his master brush as soon as the plaster is ready to receive it. Messrs. Baldwin and Maguire are expected to return every day

Madame Fabbri's preparations for her coming season of grand opera are quietly and steadily progressing. The season will positively commence at Platt's Hall on Tuesday, the 21st September.

The Vokes family are getting as celebrated for their hands as their heels. Fred has left two or three evidences at the Bohemian Club of his deftness with the pencil and brush; Miss Victoria has just knocked a fellow down for insulting her, and now Miss Rosina is receiving much credit and attention for a very spirited caricature of Miss Thompson's famous picture of "The Roll Call."

Last week we published a letter from young Leopold Lichtenburg speaking of his success at the annual concours of the Brussels Conservatoire. This translated extract from L'Independence Belge very pleasantly confirms the boy's account of himself "The first allegro of Viotti's twenty-second concerto," says the critic, "brings into prominence the precocious talent of young Lichtenburg. The urchin is charming, and gifted with rare intelligence and superb aplomb, but with the aplomb of a child, without any of the disagreeable infatuation of the infant prodigy. He was literally in the clouds but smiled like a cherubic gamin, quite delighted with his success, and not shamming the modesty of the finished artist. His little left hand runs over the strings like a mouse over a piano, but like a musical mouse, quite incapable of making a false note. The public and his fellow students hailed him with enthusiasm, and the delighted Wieniawski embraced him in the presence of the audience."

Boucicault opens at Drury Lane Theatre, London, as Conn in "The Shaughraun," this very evening. Would we there to see the house.

Emerson's Minstrels closed their St. Louis engagement on Saturday last, and opened at Chicago on Monday. They are still in the Lake City, and will only move from it, we believe, to come on home to 'Frisco.

Although Mr. Joseph Jefferson gave it out as his intention not to play during his two years' visit to Europe, we are not surprised to find that he commences an engagement at the Princess' Theatre London, on the second of November next.

Fred Zimmerman opened at Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre with his Infantile Bouffes on Monday last, but as yet we have not heard of his success. He has our best wishes.

It is said that "Martha" earns seven thousand a year for Flotow. George Washington's Martha never earned that much.

Mr. Dominick Murray, whose engagement follows that of Mr. Lawrence Barrett, at the California Theatre, will present in addition to "The Spy." a new drama adapted for him by Mr. Charles Osborne of London, entitled "Timon the Actor."

Montgomery Queen's Circus shows to-night at Cleveland. James Robinson and Charley Fish are still trying to outdo each other. Fish turns three consecutive somersaults and also three forward somersaults while going once around the ring on a bare-back horse. It keeps him busy.

All old residents of the Pacific Coast, says the Grass Valley Union, remember James Stark, the tragedian. He was one of the pioneers of the drama in California, and also in Nevada, where he at one time became a resident From Lawrence Barrett and the Virginia Chronicle, we learn that poor Stark is living in New York, supported by the actors, his ability to support himself having gone forever. His organs of speech are paralyzed, and it is only by the most painful effort that he can articulate a word.

The Hess English opera troupe left such a good impression here, and are coming to visit us again so shortly, that an item or two respecting the company will be of interest. Miss Anne Montague, the new prima donna secunda, has arrived in New York, and will make her debut at Booth's, this month. Madame Van Zandt will be the leading contralto. Meyerbeer's spectacular opera, "The Star of the North;" will constitute the piece de resistance of the company during the Winter season, Miss Kellogg will present this opera in English for the first time in this country. The music for the new recitatives of Benedict's opera, "The Lily of Killarney" has arrived and is under study.

Efforts are being made to organize an amateur dramatic troupe at Eureka City, and we hope the efforts will be successful.

Miss Lulu Ward a Sacramentan born, and aged but 17, gives a concert at the Metropolitan Theatre, Sacramento, this evening.

The Edward's Variety troupe have taken the San Jose Opera House, and are playing to good biz.

The Salt Lake Theatre company have started out to give a series of entertainments in the Northern towns of Utah.

The new theatre on Mission street does not progress as rapidly as we could wish. However, the plastering is nearly finished, and the first sections of the stage are being laid down.

Mr. Lawrence Barrett concludes his Virginia City engagement this evening, and may be expected in town to-morrow. On Monday he played Cassius in "Julius Cæsar." on Tuesday Richelieu, on Wednesday "Damon," "The Man O' Airlie" was played during the latter part of the week with "Rosedale" for the farewell matinee this afternoon. Mr. Barrett opens at the California Theatre on Monday evening as Richelieu. Tuesday he plays Hamlet, Wednesday Iago, Thursday Lear, Friday and Saturday matinee Elliot Gray in "Rosedale' and Saturday evening Richard III. We look forward to Mr. Barrett's return to San Francisco as an event of importance and confidently expect a season of legitimate successes.

The Australian correspondent of the Alta speaks of a strange sort of being recently arrived there, as part and parcel of Janauschek's retinue. It speaks, so says the correspondent, with a ridiculous "Haw-hawing" accent, and carries itself with much semblance of wisdom. What is It?

Our Australian Letter has come to hand and will be presented to our readers on the first of next week.

We are sorry to hear of the serious illness of Miss Clara Morris, now in Paris, but trust that her malady is not of so serious a nature as has been reported.

"A Regular Nuisance."

He wears a high white hat with a broad black band; strikes you forcibly on the shoulder when your back is turned; you turn, and not being able at first to recognize him. he hurriedly explains who he is. Remembering him now, and in order not to appear impolite, you inquire where he has kept himself of late. "Been to the States," he answers; "how do I look?" You answer, "Quite natural;" when, perceiving he looks very anxious you should notice some part of his wearing apparel, and presuming it to be his hat, it being the most attractive article on him, you inquire where he bought it? This pleases him, and he tells you in confidence, "At Jennings', in New York," at the same time taking it off for your better inspection, when, to his chagrin, you read what is printed inside—"From the great I X L Auction House, 616, 618 and 620 Kearny street, corner Commercial." About this time you hail a car, and while inside you hear his greetings—"I say, George, d'ye think yer'll ever go to the States?"

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescord and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

OUR AUSTRALIAN LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, July 24, 1875.

DEAR FIGARO:—Never in the records of the colony of Victoria have we had such severe winter weather as we have experienced since my last communication. Frosts of more or less severity, and ice taken from the street channels at least three-quarters of an inch thick. Of course your risible faculties will be brought into full play at this statement, but as it is only lately that the denizens of Melbourne and its suburbs have noticed such a peculiarity in this "sunny south" it will hardly excite surprise. Trade of all kinds is in a very languishing condition, owing to the stupidity and idiocy of our fiscal policy, that of "Protection to Native Industry" as against that of God's own natural law of Free Trade. But though the weather has been very severe and business very slack, our places of amusement have all been well patronized. At our Drury Lane,

THE THEATRE ROYAL,

"The Shaughraun" had a most successful run of seven weeks, and would have filled the house for weeks more, but the number of novelties promised by the management almost necessitated its withdrawal from the boards.

"SAM"

Succeeded, and was a most lamentable failure, though all engaged tried their best to make it "go." After six nights it gave place to

"THE TWO ORPHANS,"

Which is now in the full tide of success The first notice of acknowledgment is justly due to

MR. JOHN HENNINGS,

The scene painter to the establishment and one of the lessees of the theatre. The scenes of Paris are magnificent, and most materially assist in the immense success of the play. The performance of

MR. CHARLES WHEATLEIGH,

As Pierre Frochard, the cripple, though a good performance all through, was somewhat disappointing to me. He reminded me too much of Danny Mann, until the duel scene, and then he fairly "brought down the house." The best played part is generally acknowledged to be the La Frochard of

MRS. EDOUIN BRYER.

Her make-up was hideous, and her acting so frequently verged upon the revolting, from its cruelty, that the audience, times out of number, loudly hissed the actress, but at the conclusion of the piece she received the honor of a special call, as a mark of favor and a recognition of her great dramatic abilities. Miss Docy Stewart, too, as Marianne, played especially well, while

MISS ELEANOR CAREY AND MISS BLANCHE STAMMERS,

As Louis and Henriette, fairly divided the honors as the two orphans. With a praiseworthy determination that all the parts should be worthily filled, the management augmented their company by the engagement of Miss Rose Cooper and Mr. W. G. Carey, and these with Miss Jenny Bryce, Miss Nellie Stewart and Miss Maggie Stewart and Messrs. Appleton, Dampier, Greville, Sefton, H. Leston, Stuart O'Brien, Gladstone, Dearwyn, C. H. Taylor, Maynard, Deas, Bartlett, H. Warde and Boleno Brown presented a most efficient cast of the European sensation. The stage management reflects the highest credit on the abilities and attention of

MR. DAMPIER,

Whose advent to that position has been always signalized by the greatest care in even the most minute details behind the curtain. I hear that this gentleman will shortly appear in an original play entitled

"CLAY AND PORCELAIN,"

Which has been written specially for him by a young author of this city.

THE OPERA HOUSE,

At the date of my last, was occupied by the Allen English Opera Company. Towards the end of the season engagements were effected with Signori Baldassari, Leandro Coy and Rosnati, and Signorinas Coy and Baldassari, when a few choice Italian operas were given. Since their secession,

THE UNITED STATES MINSTRELS,

Consisting of Tommy Hudson, G. W. Rockafellar, C. Holly, T. Buckley, J. L. Mavor, O. Conduit, West and Campbell have occupied the boards, and make a really strong and efficient troupe. Engagements were concluded with

MESSRS. LOUIS BRAHAM, T. RAINFORD AND N. FIEULLADE,

And they are now playing to crammed houses. There is no mistake about it, minstrelsy has obtained a firm hold in this city, and if a really good "Home" were built for this class of entertainment it would run the year through, subject of course to a change of faces now and then.

THE APOLLO HALL

Is now closed for repairs and re-decoration, the U. S. Minstrels having removed as above stated to the Opera House.

THE CANTERBURY HALL

With [illegible]ss Annie Nesbitt, Mr. Robson and a few starved out "pros" is still open, but under the strict surveillance of the "gentlemen in blue."

MISCELLANEOUS

Under this head I must write of persons not places as matters have become somewhat mixed. Mr. Charles Weightman, better known as Natator the Man Fish, has created a sensation here by his wonderful aquarium performances. He has done Tasmania and is now playing a starring engagement in the suburbs of Melbourne with Val Vose, the clever ventriloquist. They will then make tour through New Zealand. The Rev. Charles Clark one of the most successful lecturers in this quarter of the globe has been "starring" at Ballarat, Sandhurst, Clunes, Ararat and other inland centers of population. The Allen Opera Troupe are performing at the New Princess Theatre, Sandhurst. A magnificent Opera House has been built immediately opposite Batlis hotel at Ballarat, by Mr. W. I. Clarke, the wealthy squatter. It is called, "The Academy of Music." Mr. Fred Lyster's Opera Bouffe Company played the first season in it prior to their departure to Sydney. Howarth's Hibernicon is a very "multy" affair, the show is cursed with an "Alphabet" agent whose only talent seems to be to "gas" and "blow" of his own superior abilities. They are doing some of the small inland towns. "The Mirror of the Thames" with Messrs. Risley and Humphries have deservedly been doing immense business in that quiet little town Geelong. I think they are bound to make a satisfactory financial trip. Mr. Charles Bright who has for years been connected with the Melbourne press and latterly a popular lecturer on the tenets of Spiritualism, made his first appearance on Saturday as a public lecturer. His subject was "Victoria," and it was most ably handled at the Town Hall, Melbourne. Herr Talmange a new arrival by the St. Osyth, opened last week at the Princess Theatre as a rival of the Davenport Bros., et hoc genus omne. He was from the very first a pronounced failure, in fact, what you would term a "lively fraud." I think he has "caved in."

Some few weeks since two men were blown up by a gas explosion at the Theatre Royal, Melbourne, one of the men being killed on the spot, but the other, a genial fellow named William Millist, the gasman, of the establishment, lingered on in very great agony till last week when he passed in his checks. The case was a deplorable one as he has left a small wife and a large family totally unprovided for. As soon as the sod was closed over his remains, the members of the Theatre Royal Company and the Managers took counsel together and this is the result: That the Managers give the theatre free of all expense for a benefit, the actors their night's salary, Mr. Charles Wheatleigh too, consenting to do likewise. The Theatre Royal proprietors forgo the night's rent, in fact, everybody from the "star" to the stage sweeper gives his mite. The newspapers, printers, bill-posters and others, all give their gratuitous aid. Mr. Harwood the senior lessee of the theatre is Chairman of the Committee and Mr. Stuart O'Brien the honorable Secretary.

HARWOOD AND COMPANY AND J. C. WILLIAMSON.

In a spirit of mischief it was stated in one of our weekly papers that Messrs. Harwood & Co, the lessees of the Theatre Royal, Melbourne, had placed obstacles in the way of Mr. J. C. Williamson and his wife, Miss Maggie Moore, making their final appearance on the stage of their early triumphs. I have carefully enquired into the facts of the case and find that the former gentlemen are not to blame. It must be confessed that the success of Williamson and his talented wife has been unparalleled on this side of the globe, and that they have already netted for themselves a very handsome competency. Wishing to play a few farewell nights in Melbourne, Williamson wrote the managers (H. & Co), but raised his terms from those of his previous engagement. These were not agreed to. To make a long story short, Messrs. Harwood & Co. offered for a month £800 sure. This very liberal offer was declined, and J. C. W. and his wife will play a few nights at the Opera House, prior to the Ristori season.

THE EXODUS TO INDIA.

By the last mail steamer went Madame Carandini and her two daughters, Fanny and Lizzie, and Messrs. Walter Sherwin and Edwin Amery. They will first show at Colombo, and there on to Calcutta. Mr. Raphael, the agent for the Opera Company, (G. Ballens), was also a passenger to Calcutta, as avant courier. By the steamer Pera, which will leave on the 10th prox., the English opera troupe, consisting of Miss Alice May (Mrs. G. B. Allen), Miss Florence Howe, Miss Maggie Liddle (Mrs. Hilton), Miss Lambert. Messrs. H. Hallam, Vernon, Brown, Levison, Fleury, and some thirty others will take passage for Calcutta, to open at the Corinthean Theatre, on the Mardam. This will be the first complete English opera company that has visited the Indian Empire. It is a very heavy undertaking for the speculators who anticipate great things and profits during the projected visit of the Prince of Wales. The energetic and well-known theatrical manager,

MR. G. W. B. LEWIS,

Has also organized a most complete dramatic company consisting of his talented wife, (nee Miss Rose Edouin), who will take the leading business as well as being directress of the theatre, Miss Rosa Cooper, Mme. Ters, Miss Tilly Earl, Miss Rose Vernon, Agnes Bemison, Jessie Brown, Miss Eliza Carey, Emma Lloyd, Florence Phillips, Perriman, Pegerton, Prince, Johnstone, Ruth Grey, Blanche Grey, Messrs. G. W. Carey, H. Aveling, S. Phelps, Snr., T. Musgrave, C. Newbon, Lionel Harding, H. Burton, W. Sweeney, A. Andrews, J. Perriman, John Edouin, G. Pitt, A. Taylor and F. Varley, as scenic painter. Special engagements have also been made with Miss Nelly Wallace and Alice Etherton, and Messrs. Henry and Martin, lately arrived from America, and

MR. J. C. WILLIAMSON AND MISS MAGGIE MOORE,

Who after a short season at Adelaide, will join them by the following September mail. Our genial old friend and clever actor,

JOHN DUNN,

Otherwise that "Rascal Jack," is still as rubicund as ever, and as lively as a cricket. He has written his life and intends to publish it at Christmas. He wishes his American friends, and the old Buck says they are légion, to know that many of them will be referred to in the volume. If the book is as full of wit and anecdote, as dear old John himself, then indeed it will be a truly enjoyable volume.

THE CALIFORNIA MAIL

Steamer "City of Melbourne," arrived as usual behind time on Friday last at Sydney, having on board Madame Ristori and her troupe and the great Hungarian cantatrice,

MLLE. ILMA DE MURSKA

Whose advent to these colonies almost unannounced, has created quite a flutter in our musical circles. It is confidently believed that the enterprising Director

MR. WILLIAM SAURIN LYSTER,

With his usual pluck and energy, will succeed in engaging the great artiste, and as there are still sufficient first class Italian artists disengaged, a short season of opera may soon be looked for.

MADAME RISTORI IS

To open to night in Sydney, in the tragedy of "Medea." The prices charged are considered exorbitant and as they will be the same in this city and elsewhere I venture to prognosticate for this lady and her confreres

A SPLENDID FAILURE,

Though I should be highly delighted to have in my next to record a very different result.

MR. E. D. DAVIES,

The ventriloquist, is in Adelaide, and now and then excites the ire of all sorts of people by his eccentricities, which some attribute to genius, but matter of fact people at once put it down to an overflow of spirits. Davies' language is not very choice when his "eccentricities" are on him. He has not been a success in South Australia.

MADAME ANNA BISHOP,

I very much regret to state, has become "stone broke" in the North. At Queensland, a continued run of ill luck attended her and company. She intends if possible, to go to India by the Torre's Straits route.

H. F. AND AMY STONE,

Are to open next week at the Queen's Theatre in Sydney, following the Williamsons. I fear they will prove a frost. They also have "India during the Prince of Wales visit" on the brain.

THE OPERA BOUFFE TROUPE,

Under the able guidance of Mr. W. S. Lyster, are running an excellent season at the Victoria, Sydney. During the Ristori season, the company will probably visit the North.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS

....AND....

Bronchial Affections.

Those suffering from CATARRH, BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION in its first stages, can be assured of a perfect cure by his new method of treatment, which can be testified to by thousands in the United States and British North America.

DR. SPINNEY can detect the slightest disease of the Chest, Lungs or any internal organ, and guarantees a cure in every case he undertakes.

TO THE LADIES

DR. SPINNEY having spent many years in the study of Female Complaints, feels competent to treat them in their most malignant forms, and would therefore cordially invite all who may be wrecked with pain and suffering from any of the great host of troubles with which your sex are so often afflicted, to come and try his method of cure, which has relieved thousands of their sufferings, and saved many from a premature grave.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

So do not longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. Why eke out a miserable existence, suffering all the tortures of a lingering death, when a few weeks' treatment will restore you to vigorous health?

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

All Letters and Communications Strictly Confidential.

Maguire's New Theatre.

Miss Ella F. Badger makes her first appearance at this theatre and her second appearance in San Francisco this evening. The part she has chosen for this second appeal to the public judgement on her abilities is that of Parthenia in the idyllic play of "Ingomar the Barbarian." In this she will be supported by Mr. Jas. O'Neill as Ingomar. We look for a crowded house and a renewal of that good opinion which Miss Badger created as Julia. The bill will conclude with "The Rough Diamond," Miss Katie Mayhew playing Margery.

California Theatre.

Last night Mr. Lawrence Barrett was serenaded at the Occidental Hotel by the California Theatre orchestra, under the leadership of Charley Schultz, and this evening he will make his first re-appearance at the California Theatre since he left it as Manager. He will present "Richelieu" as his re-introduction to San Francisco, and during the week will present a series of legitimate characters, including Iago and Lear. This evening Barton Hill plays De Baradas, and T. W. Keene De Mauprat

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The first Concert of the new Herold Orchestral Season will be given on Wednesday week. The commencement programme will include the Grand March from "Tannhauser, Schumann's Symphonie in B flat, Litolff's Overture to "Robespierre," Lumbye's "Traumbilder," with Zither obligato, and Weber's Overture to "Der Freichutz." A splendid programme.

Wilson's Hippodrome.

The attendance at this mammoth place of amusement continued on the increase during the performances of Saturday and yesterday. Yesterday's matinee was a full one. On Saturday night the audience was of such a size that the Alta puts it down as being over five thousand! Yes, and there was room for two or three thousand more. So much for the immense building. As for the character of the entertainment we can safely guarantee that no one who goes will be disappointed, — except pleasantly so.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Principal among the attractions of this evening will be the re-appearance of George C. Thompson who will treat those present to an exhibition of his specialties. The remainder of the programme is of an excellent order.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

George Foster makes his first appearance this evening in song and acts. The programme for to-night has been newly arranged and will include the acts "Getting Even," "The Two Tragedians," "Taking the Pledge" and "The Mysterious Restaurant."

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Notes.

At the New England Kitchen this evening, there will be a regular old fashioned spelling skewl, when all the ministers, doctors and lawyers are expected to be present. To-morrow evening there will be a wedding between Patience Goodly and Abijah Alden, when those who attend—and it is expected that all the city and his wife go—will witness the reproduction of a wedding ceremony as passed through by our forefathers and foremothers.

From the Call we learn that Herr Charles Pfluger one of the tenors of the Fabbri Opera Troupe, arrived last evening. The rest of the artistes will be here by the end of next week. The season will begin, positively, on the 19th current, with "La Dame Blanche." The rehearsals of this opera are going on in splendid syle, and carry the promise of a most brilliant performance. The same may be said of Nicolai's "Merry Wives of Windsor." Madame Fabbri is exerting herself to fulfil the pledges made to the public, and she is a lady of sufficient means and of energy of purpose to carry them out to the letter.

The Alleghanians open at Stockton to morrow evening, playing there also on Wednesday. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday they sing, play and ring at Sacramento.

Joe Cochrane and Robert Fitzgerald, for long time connected with Maguire's theatres as officials in the front of the house, will take a joint benefit at the Opera House next week. The programme will consist of drama and olio, and will appear in FIGARO.

Everybody who has had anything to do with "the" profession, knows how hard, how very hard it is to break up and have done away with the old time associations and life. There is a fascination about it that few can resist. Signor Chiarini could not at least. Some few months ago he sold off his entire circus stock by auction, and was going to give up the ring. But a week or two ago he bought back all the stock he could lay hands on, started off for New York to fill the vacancies, and will on the 21st or thereabouts, start for Havanna with a menagerie and circus in full swing. So much for the force of show habits.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. CHICAGO, Aug 28th.—At Hooley's, Mr. John Dillon has presented Dr. O'Callaghan, A Party by the Name of Johnson and Paul Pry. Emerson's Minstrels reopen here next week. Edwin Adams has been playing "Clancarty" to moderate houses at McVicker's. He opens in "Enoch Arden," next week. "Old Heads and New Hearts" is running to fair houses at the New Theatre, an olio company holds the Adelphi, and an Irish panorama is at the Academy of Music.

On September 6th, the regular season at the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, opens with "The Big Bonanza," in which Mr. Daly's full company will appear for two weeks. This is to be succeeded by E. L. Davenport, who opens on the 20th, and who is to be played against Barry Sullivan, who commences at the same time at the Walnut.

Nilsson refuses an offer of a thousand dollars a night to come back to New York.

Mr. Edwin Booth will positively commence at Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre, October 4.

"Chilperic" having been withdrawn after a run of five weeks at Robinson Hall, was followed by "La Princesse de Trebizonde." The cast included Mr. Harry Allen; his first appearance since his return from California; Mr. W. H. Woodfield, Mr. Geo. Atkins, Miss Clara Fisher and Miss Nellie Larkelle. Mr. Harry Allen will superintend the production of this charming opera bouffe, and, is engaged for the season.

If the return of the Vokes to New York did not realize the financial brilliancy which rewarded their first visit, the fault is due in part to their mistake in withdrawing their best attraction, the "Belles of the Kitchen." It was the standard whereby the public judged their subsequent productions, and as these proved only repetitions of the "Belles of the Kitchen," in other and weaker forms, the magnetism of the Vokes's decreased proportionately. They closed their season on the 20th and 21st, with representations of "The Wrong Man in the Right Place," and Miss Rosina as Nan in the "Good for Nothing."

Among the members of Ford's Opera House, Baltimore, are Messrs. J. F. Ward, J. H. Banks, H. Pearson, C. E, Sturgis, G. Denham; and Misses Blanche Chapman, Lottie Francis, Georgie Dickson, Merve Charles, Dolly Lynn and others.

The Vokes Family are at the Boston Museum. Will open at Providence on Monday.

Kennedy's songs of Scotland Troupe, was Omaha, Neb., 30th and 31st.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under the able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
Where you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

"A Regular Nuisance."

He wears a high white hat with a broad black band; strikes you forcibly on the shoulder when your back is turned; you turn, and not being able at first to recognize him. he hurriedly explains who he is. Remembering him now, and in order not to appear impolite, you inquire where he has kept himself of late. "'Been to the States," he answers; "how do I look?' You answer, "Quite natural;" when, perceiving he looks very anxious you should notice some part of his wearing apparel, and presuming it to be his hat, it being the most attractive article on him, you inquire where he bought it? This pleases him, and he tells you in confidence, "At Jennings', in New York," at the same time taking it off for your better inspection, when, to his chagrin, you read what is printed inside—"From the great I X L Auction House, 616, 618 and 620 Kearny street, corner Commercial." About this time you hail a car, and while inside you hear his greetings—"I say, George, d'ye think yer'll ever go to the States?"

OUR AUSTRALIAN LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.]

MELBOURNE, July 24, 1875.

DEAR FIGARO:—Never in the records of the colony of Victoria have we had such severe winter weather as we have experienced since my last communication. Frosts of more or less severity, and ice taken from the street channels at least three-quarters of an inch thick. Of course your risible faculties will be brought into full play at this statement, but as it is only lately that the denizens of Melbourne and its suburbs have noticed such a peculiarity in this "sunny south" it will hardly excite surprise. Trade of all kinds is in a very languishing condition, owing to the stupidity and idiocy of our fiscal policy, that of "Protection to Native Industry" as against that of God's own natural law of Free Trade. But though the weather has been very severe and business very slack, our places of amusement have all been well patronized. At our Drury Lane,

THE THEATRE ROYAL,

"The Shaughraun" had a most successful run of seven weeks, and would have filled the house for weeks more, but the number of novelties promised by the management almost necessitated its withdrawal from the boards.

"SAM"

Succeeded, and was a most lamentable failure, though all engaged tried their best to make it "go." After six nights it gave place to

"THE TWO ORPHANS,"

Which is now in the full tide of success. The first notice of acknowledgment is justly due to

MR. JOHN HENNINGS,

The scene painter to the establishment and one of the lessees of the theatre. The scenes of Paris are magnificent, and most materially assist in the immense success of the play. The performance of

MR. CHARLES WHEATLEIGH,

As Pierre Frochard, the cripple, though a good performance all through, was somewhat disappointing to me. He reminded me too much of Danny Mann, until the duel scene, and then he fairly "brought down the house." The best played part is generally acknowledged to be the La Frochard of

MRS. EDOUIN BRYER.

Her make-up was hideous, and her acting so frequently verged upon the revolting, from its cruelty, that the audience, times out of number, loudly hissed the actress, but at the conclusion of the piece she received the honor of a special call, as a mark of favor and a recognition of her great dramatic abilities. Miss Docy Stewart, too, as Marianne, played especially well, while

MISS ELEANOR CAREY AND MISS BLANCHE STAMMERS,

As Louis and Henriette, fairly divided the honors as the two orphans. With a praiseworthy determination that all the parts should be worthily filled, the management augmented their company by the engagement of Miss Rose Cooper and Mr. W. G. Carey, and these with Miss Jenny Bryce, Miss Nellie Stewart and Miss Maggie Stewart and Messrs. Appleton, Dampier, Greville, Sefton, H. Leston, Stuart O'Brien, Gladstone, Dearwyn, C. H. Taylor, Maynard, Deas, Bartlett, H. Warde and Boleno Brown presented a most efficient cast of the European sensation. The stage management reflects the highest credit on the abilities and attention of

MR. DAMPIER,

Whose advent to that position has been always signalized by the greatest care in even the most minute details behind the curtain. I hear that this gentleman will shortly appear in an original play entitled

"CLAY AND PORCELAIN,"

Which has been written specially for him by a young author of this city.

THE OPERA HOUSE,

At the date of my last, was occupied by the Allen English Opera Company. Towards the end of the season engagements were effected with Signori Baldassari, Leandro Coy and Rosnati, and Signorinas Coy and Baldassari, when a few choice Italian operas were given. Since their secession,

THE UNITED STATES MINSTRELS,

Consisting of Tommy Hudson, G. W. Rockafellar, C. Holly, T. Buckley, J. L. Mavor, O. Conduit, West and Campbell have occupied the boards, and make a really strong and efficient troupe. Engagements were concluded with

MESSRS. LOUIS BRAHAM, T. RAINFORD AND E. FIEULLADE,

And they are now playing to crammed houses. There is no mistake about it, minstrelsy has obtained a firm hold in this city, and if a really good "Home" were built for this class of entertainment it would run the year through, subject of course to a change of faces now and then.

THE APOLLO HALL

Is now closed for repairs and re-decoration, the U. S. Minstrels having removed as above stated to the Opera House.

THE CANTERBURY HALL

With Miss Annie Nesbitt, Mr. Robson and a few starved out "pros" is still open, but under the strict surveillance of the "gentlemen in blue."

MISCELLANEOUS

Under this head I must write of persons not places as matters have become somewhat mixed. Mr. Charles Weightman, better known as Natator the Man Fish, has created a sensation here by his wonderful aquarium performances. He has done Tasmania and is now playing a starring engagement in the suburbs of Melbourne with Val Vose, the clever ventriloquist. They will then make tour through New Zealand. The Rev. Charles Clark one of the most successful lecturers in this quarter of the globe has been "starring" at Ballarat, Sandhurst, Clunes, Ararat and other inland centers of population. The Allen Opera Troupe are performing at the New Princess Theatre, Sandhurst. A magnificent Opera House has been built immediately opposite Batlis hotel at Ballarat, by Mr. W. I. Clarke, the wealthy squatter. It is called, "The Academy of Music." Mr. Fred Lyster's Opera Bouffe Company played the first season in it prior to their departure to Sydney. Howarth's Hibernicon is a very "multy" affair, the show is cursed with an "Alphabet" agent whose only talent seems to be to "gas" and "blow" of his own superior abilities. They are doing some of the small inland towns. "The Mirror of the Thames" with Messrs. Risley and Humphries have deservedly been doing immense business in that quiet little town Geelong. I think they are bound to make a satisfactory financial trip. Mr. Charles Bright who has for years been connected with the Melbourne press and latterly a popular lecturer on the tenets of Spiritualism, made his first appearance on Saturday as a public lecturer. His subject was "Victoria," and it was most ably handled at the Town Hall, Melbourne. Herr Talmaage a new arrival by the St. Osyth, opened last week at the Princess Theatre as a rival of the Davenport Bros., et hoc genus omne. He was from the very first a pronounced failure, in fact, what you would term a "lively fraud." I think he has "caved in."

Some few weeks since two men were blown up by a gas explosion at the Theatre Royal, Melbourne, one of the men being killed on the spot, but the other, a genial fellow named William Millist, the gasman, of the establishment, lingered on in very great agony till last week when he passed in his checks. The case was a deplorable one as he has left a small wife and a large family totally unprovided for. As soon as the sod was closed over his remains, the members of the Theatre Royal Company and the Managers took counsel together and this is the result: That the Managers give the theatre free of all expense for a benefit, the actors their night's salary, Mr. Charles Wheatleigh too consenting to do likewise. The Theatre Royal proprietors forgo the night's rent, in fact, everybody from the "star" to the stage sweeper gives his mite. The newspapers, printers, billposters and others, all give their gratuitous aid. Mr. Harwood the senior lessee of the theatre is Chairman of the Committee and Mr. Stuart O'Brien the honorable Secretary.

HARWOOD AND COMPANY AND J. C. WILLIAMSON.

In a spirit of mischief it was stated in one of our weekly papers that Messrs. Harwood & Co, the lessees of the Theatre Royal, Melbourne, had placed obstacles in the way of Mr. J. C. Williamson and his wife, Miss Maggie Moore, making their final appearance on the stage of their early triumphs. I have carefully enquired into the facts of the case and find that the former gentlemen are not to blame. It must be confessed that the success of Williamson and his talented wife has been unparalleled on this side of the globe, and that they have already netted for themselves a very handsome competency. Wishing to play a few farewell nights in Melbourne, Williamson wrote the managers (H. & Co), but raised his terms from those of his previous engagement. These were not agreed to. To make a long story short, Messrs. Harwood & Co. offered for a month £800 sure. This very liberal offer was declined, and J. C. W. and his wife will play a few nights at the Opera House, prior to the Ristori season.

THE EXODUS TO INDIA.

By the last mail steamer went Madame Carandini and her two daughters, Fanny and Lizzie, and Messrs. Walter Sherwin and Edwin Amery. They will first show at Colombo, and there on to Calcutta. Mr. Raphael, the agent for the Opera Company, (G. Ballens), was also a passenger to Calcutta, as avant courier. By the steamer Pera, which will leave on the 10th prox., the English opera troupe, consisting of Miss Alice May (Mrs. G. B. Allen), Miss Florence Howe, Miss Maggie Liddle (Mrs. Hilton), Miss Lambert. Messrs. H. Hallam, Vernon, Brown, Levison, Fleury, and some thirty others will take passage for Calcutta, to open at the Corinthean Theatre, on the Mardam. This will be the first complete English opera company that has visited the Indian Empire. It is a very heavy undertaking for the speculators who anticipate great things and profits during the projected visit of the Prince of Wales. The energetic and well-known theatrical manager,

MR. G. W. B. LEWIS,

Has also organized a most complete dramatic company consisting of his talented wife, (nee Miss Rose Edouin), who will take the leading business as well as being directress of the theatre, Miss Rosa Cooper, Mme. Ters, Miss Tilly Earl, Miss Rose Vernon, Agnes Bemison, Jessie Brown, Miss Eliza Carey, Emma Lloyd, Florence Phillips, Perriman, Pegerton, Prince, Johnstone, Ruth Grey, Blanche Grey, Messrs. G. W. Carey, H. Aveling, S. Phelps, Snr., T. Musgrave, C. Newbon, Lionel Harding, H. Burton, W. Sweeney, A. Andrews, J. Perriman, John Edouin, G. Pitt, A. Taylor and F. Varley, as scenic painter. Special engagements have also been made with Miss Nelly Wallace and Alice Etherton, and Messrs. Henry and Martin, lately arrived from America, and

MR. J. C. WILLIAMSON AND MISS MAGGIE MOORE,

Who after a short season at Adelaide, will join them by the following September mail. Our genial old friend and clever actor,

JOHN DUNN,

Otherwise that "Rascal Jack," is still as rubicund as ever, and as lively as a cricket. He has written his life and intends to publish it at Christmas. He wishes his American friends, and the old Buck says they are legion, to know that many of them will be referred to in the volume. If the book is as full of wit and anecdote, as dear old John himself, then indeed it will be a truly enjoyable volume.

THE CALIFORNIA MAIL

Steamer "City of Melbourne," arrived as usual behind time on Friday last at Sydney, having on board Madame Ristori and her troupe and the great Hungarian cantatrice,

MLLE. ILMA DE MURSKA

Whose advent to these colonies almost unannounced, has created quite a flutter in our musical circles. It is confidently believed that the enterprising Director

MR. WILLIAM SAURIN LYSTER,

With his usual pluck and energy, will succeed in engaging the great artiste, and as there are still sufficient first class Italian artists disengaged, a short season of opera may soon be looked for.

MADAME RISTORI IS

To open to night in Sydney, in the tragedy of "Medea." The prices charged are considered exorbitant and as they will be the same in this city and elsewhere I venture to prognosticate for this lady and her confreres

A SPLENDID FAILURE,

Though I should be highly delighted to have in my next to record a very different result.

MR. B. D. DAVIES,

The ventriloquist, is in Adelaide, and now and then excites the ire of all sorts of people by his eccentricities, which some attribute to genius, but matter of fact people at once put it down to an overflow of spirits. Davies' language is not very choice when his "eccentricities" are on him. He has not been a success in South Australia.

MADAME ANNA BISHOP,

I very much regret to state, has become "stone broke" in the North. At Queensland, a continued run of ill luck attended her and company. She intends if possible, to go to India by the Torre's Straits route.

H. F. AND AMY STONE,

Are to open next week at the Queen's Theatre in Sydney, following the Williamsons. I fear they will prove a frost. They also have "India during the Prince of Wales visit" on the brain.

THE OPERA BOUFFE TROUPE,

Under the able guidance of Mr. W. S. Lyster, are running an excellent season at the Victoria, Sydney. During the Ristori season, the company will probably visit the North.

RESOLUTIONS

Of Respect to the Memory of

WM. C. RALSTON.

At a Meeting of the Photographic Art Society of the Pacific, held September 3d, 1875, Messrs. Rulofson, Vaughan and Perkins were appointed to draft resolutions expressing the sorrow of this Society for the death of the late William C. Ralston, whereupon the following resolutions were presented and adopted:

WHEREAS, By one of the unforseen and to us inscrutable acts of Providence, the great heart of William C. Ralston has, by an accidental circumstance, ceased to beat, and his presence on earth will be known to us no more; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Society desires to recognize by a public voice, the great amount of gratitude which it owes to its departed friend, and to recall the many kindnesses which it has experienced at his hands. To his energetic and philanthropic spirit many of the photographers of San Francisco are proud to acknowledge material business obligations, and on the recent projected visit of the National Photographic Association in this city, the subscription of Mr. Ralston individually exceeded the amount collected from all other sources together.

RESOLVED, That in view of such an example of public enterprise and encouragement to the profession which we represent, it is our duty, as it is the desire of our sorrowing gratitude to record our sense of his inestimable worth; and to inscribe upon the scroll of his fame this poor tribute to memory.

RESOLVED, that our expression of heartfelt sorrow for the loss which we, in common with the whole community have sustained by his untimely death, be communicated to his widow and family, and with it our hope that they will find consolation for their irreparable loss in the unbounded grief which possesses the hearts of those among whom he so long lived and labored.

RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded, with sincere respect and sympathy, to Mrs. Ralston, and that they be published in The Call, Chronicle and Post.

H. W. VAUGHAN,

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS
....AND....
Bronchial Affections.

Those suffering from CATARRH, BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION in its first stages, can be assured of a perfect cure by his new method of treatment, which can be testified to by thousands in the United States and British North America.

DR. SPINNEY can detect the slightest disease of the Chest, Lungs or any internal organ, and guarantees a cure in every case he undertakes.

TO THE LADIES

DR. SPINNEY having spent many years in the study of Female Complaints, feels competent to treat them in their most malignant forms, and would therefore cordially invite all who may be wrecked with pain and suffering from any of the great host of troubles with which your sex are so often afflicted, to come and try his method of cure, which has relieved thousands of their sufferings, and saved many from a premature grave.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

So do not longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. Why eke out a miserable existence, suffering all the tortures of a lingering death, when a few weeks' treatment will restore you to vigorous health?

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

It has been said of Lawrence Barrett that the smoke of the midnight lamps hangs around him always. And so it is; there is the stamp of great study on every thing he does. Small in stature and thin in frame, he yet, by a masterly knowledge of stage effects and their causes, is enabled to carry off with honor and distinction characters for which he might almost be considered physically incapaciated. For instance his Richelieu was in many respects a great performance, though we look forward to seeing him in characters that may honestly be called greater. In the garden scene there were times when the Cardinal was grand, the curse scene being a startling instance of that human magnetism known as power of superiority. So, too, when he drew the line sharply between his fate and that of Baradas, there was an action wonderfully telling. It was as though he himself, he the Cardinal, had plucked Baradas' head from off his shoulders. The whole play was full of strong lights and shadows, Mr. Barrett evidently holding firmly to the faith of contrasts. At the conclusion of the third act the tableau of Richelieu lying dead was omitted. This gave the scene entirely to De Mauprat, (T. W. Keene), which scene he so vigorously carried off as to win a recall. Mr. Barrett was recalled at the end of every act and twice at the conclusion of the first, when he was presented with several pretty floral arrangements. His reception was most marked and most general, and Mr. Barrett may congratulate himself upon so pleasantly re-taking up the thread of friendship existing between himself and the San Francisco public. "Hamlet" to-night.

Maguire's New Theatre.

There was a very good house present last night to witness Miss Ella F. Badger's second appearance, and there was also a very general opinion that the young lady had, as Parthenia, done more than sustain her reputation acquired as Julia,—that she had brightened it. With a sympathetic voice, with more than a fair knowledge of how to use it, with a modest behavior on the stage that appeals for generous judgement, with nevertheless an ease of manner and grace in action that equally deserve candid praise, Miss Badger may without flattery be said to possess the material out of which an actress of more than ordinary merit may be and is being formed. The support last evening was fair, Mr. O'Neill's Ingomar being a careful, and well drawn character.

To-night "Fanchon" will be given with Miss Katie Mayhew as "the Cricket."

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

Through an error in the advertising we have several times announced that the first Concert of the new Herold Orchestral Season will be given on Wednesday week. This is not so. The present season is not concluded until Wednesday afternoon next, when the programme will include the Grand March from "Tannhauser, Schumann's Symphonie in B flat, Litolff's Overture to "Robespierre," Lumbye's "Traumbilder," with Zither obligato, and Weber's Overture to "Der Freichutz." A splendid programme.

Wilson's Hippodrome.

The attendance here last night was the largest since this mammoth place of amusement has been opened. There will be a matinee to-morrow afternoon, another on Saturday. Everybody is going there.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

The acts for to-night are "Banjo Act," "Manager's Troubles," "The Three Hunters," and "Quiet Lodgings,"—all good.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

George Foster in his specialties. Ned Barry in his songs. Hughey Robinson in his comicalities and all the company in the acts and olio.

The Pioneers.

The twenty-fifth Anniversary of the admission of the State of California into the Union, will be celebrated by the Society of California Pioneers at Badger's Park on Thursday next. The picnics and celebrations of this society are always the pleasantest of the season. They are invariably well conducted and are made to partake of the nature of a family gathering. The exercises at the coming celebration will be of a most entertaining character.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

An immense bill for Saturday and Sunday: First time of Senor Adolph Gonzales, the Chilian wonder and champion tumbler and Mons. Broidk, the man with the iron jaw; Mlle. Gracie in her blindfold trapeze; Will Stevens, the excelsior gymnast; Mlle. Victorine and grand concert. Holy Ghost flower in bloom. On Thursday—Admission Day—grand celebration Sons of the Golden West, escorted by the French Zouaves. Performance at 3 P. M. Oration, poem, songs, chorus and dancing in the evening.

Notes.

At the New England Kitchen this evening, there will be a wedding between Patience Goodly and Abijah Alden, when those who attend—and it is expected that all the city and his wife go—will witness the reproduction of a wedding ceremony as passed through by our forefathers and foremothers.

Mr. McCullough will leave England on Thursday next, and will play in Louisville on the 27th an engagement of one week; plays in Chicago on the 11th of October, continuing two weeks; in Indianapolis on the 25th, for one week; in Cincinnati, November 1st, for one week; in St. Louis, November [illegible]th, for two weeks; in Baltimore, November 2[illegible] one week; in Washington, November 29th, for two weeks; in New Orleans, December 20th, for two weeks; in Cleveland, January 10th, for one week; in Pittsburg, January 17th, for one week; in Boston, January 31st, for two weeks; in Philadelphia, February 21st, for two weeks.

The new Herold orchestral matinee season begins on the 15th. We hear that almost every box and seat have been already taken therefor.

Emile David, for three years one of the musicians of the California Theatre orchestra, and previous to that, musical conductor of the Lea Silly French Opera Bouffe troupe, was yesterday committed to the Stockton Lunatic Asylum. The unguarded use of absinthe has produced a gradual mental alienation, which during the past three weeks has grown into complete aberration of mind. Children he has none—and not nine as the daily papers have it—but he leaves a wife entirely unprovided for.

Mr Jas. A. Leroy has his talents as a dramatist well put to the test at present. We hear that he is engaged in arranging Tennyson's "Queen Mary" for Mrs. Norton Bush, who intends at a fitting time and place to produce it, with herself in the leading character. In addition to this Mr. Leroy has just concluded the dramatization of the novel "Estelle" for Miss Vavasour—sister of the young lady at the California Theatre—who is a pupil of Mrs. Julia Melville, and who intends shortly making her debut.

The Lotta Fountain will be formally given to the City on Thursday next. We have not as yet heard of the order of ceremonies, but would not an address from Mr. Barrett be well in order?

ENCHANTMENT.

The sails we see on the ocean
  Are as white as white can be;
But never a one in the harbor
  As white as the sails at sea.

And the clouds that crown the mountains,
  With purple and gold delight,
Turn to cold grey mists and vapors
  Ere ever we reach the height.

The mountains wear crowns of glory
  Only when seen from afar;
And the sails lose all their whiteness
  Inside the harbor bar.

Stately and fair is the vessel
  That comes not near our beach;
Stately and grand the mountain
  Whose height we may never reach.

O distance, thou dear enchanter,
  Still hold in thy magic vail
The glory of far-off mountains,
  The gleam of the far-off sail!

Hide in thy robe of splendor,
  O mountain cold and gray!
O sail in thy snowy whiteness,
  Come not into port, I pray.

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. The Young Man from the East.

"I'm a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm. *

FOREIGN THEATRICAL NEWS.

Mr. Sothern's re-entree at the London Haymarket will be made October 11th, in a new play by Henry J. Byron—the author sustaining a leading part.

The London Era, of the 8th inst., says that Mrs. Rousby is still sick, and unable for the present to fulfill her engagements.

Arthur Byron, formerly of the London Foundling Chapel Choir, has been engaged as principal tenor at the Teatro Principe Umberio of Florence, for the Autumn.

The names of the pieces M. Offenbach is at work at are the "Boulangere," the "Creole, "Don Quichotte" and "Un Voyage Dans la lune."

Maurice Strakosch denies that he has offered Mlle. de Reszke an engagement in America.

Mr. Arthur Sullivan, it is said, has been commissioned to compose an opera for the Italian Theatre of St. Petersburg, provided Mme. Nilsson can be secured to personate the leading character.

The operas of Richard Wagner are to be brought out under his personal direction at the Vienna Opera House. He is to receive seven per cent. of the receipts of each representation, and this arrangement is to extend to his heirs after his death.

The very last work Sterndale Bennett ever did was to give lessons to four little girls at the Clergy Orphan School, which lessons were his contribution to the institution, and which he would not put off that last Saturday even to hear his own symphony performed at the Crystal Palace. There is a story told at the Academy of how he found a very small boy crying bitterly over the intricacies of chromatic chords, or enharmonic modulation. "Ah!" said the great musician, "I see what you want, my little fellow; it is pudding!" and he took him straight to his own house, where he was regaled magnificently for a fortnight, and perhaps got a little assistance in his musical difficulties, too.

A very amusing incident occurred recently at a concert at the Crystal Palace. The Liverpool choir had just begun to sing Handel's chorus from "Theodora," "He saw the lovely youth," when a side drummer of Colman's Band, who was standing apart from his comrades, lost his drum and his footing, and, tumbling down two or three steps of the orchestra, fell on his back, his legs alone being visible. This contretemps led to a burst of laughter which nearly unnerved the choir, and was renewed with increased hilarity when upon the choir arriving at the words "the youth begins to rise," the unfortunate cause of all the merriment picking himself up and resumed his place, no one laughing more heartily than Mme. Goldschmidt.

At the benefit at the Palais Royal Theatre for the Toulouse fund, Judic, Aimee, Desclauzas, Amiati, Vassor and numerous other popular artists appeared. Judic sang chansonnette, "Bras dessus, bras dessous," by MM. Wilmer, Deiormel, and Blanquette. Amiati gave a military song; Aimee sang "Pretty as a picture," in English; and Aimee and Desclauzas attempted the "slang" duet from "La Fille de Madame Angot." Desclauzas however, was so ill that she could hardly speak a word, and for once the duet lost its effect. During the entr'acte Judic, Amiati, Aimee, and Mlles. Zelie Reynold, Marie Leroux, Linda, Lemercier, De Clery, &c., some of the prettiest girls in the troupe of the Palais Royal went about the audience and coaxed them out of 1,782 francs and seventy centimes for the benefit of the charity.

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under the able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

Photographic Art

Is supposed by some to be in its infancy. We doubt it much, as it is impossible to imagine pictures retouched and finished with more artistic skill than those we saw at Brodeck & Co's new Art Gallery, 640 Market street, opposite the Palace Hotel.

The Fall and Winter Styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Don't Help Pay Other People's Debts,

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is: "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits. L

An Obstinate Mother.

Day before yesterday Mrs. Bliss of Mission street, found a euchre deck in her boy's pocket, and when she took him by the hair he calmly said:

"Hold on, mother—it isn't your play."

"I'll play you!" she hissed, tightening her grip. "How came you, sir, by these cards?"

"Mother, you shouldn't trump me this way?" he exclaimed.

"Trumps! trumps! What do you know about trumps?"

"Why, mother, any fool knows that the right bower will take an ace every time."

"It will, eh?" she hissed as she walked him around.

"Of course it will. If diamonds are trumps, for instance, and I hold the ace and left bow——"

"Bowers! bowers! I'll bower you to death, young man!" she said as she walked him the other way.

"Or, suppose that spades were trumps, and you held the nine spot and King and turned up the ace, what would you do?" he earnestly inquired.

"Oh, I'll show you what I'd do!" she growled as she got in a left-hander, on his ear. "I'll teach you a lesson you'll never forget!"

"That wouldn't be Hoyle, mother; you could pick up the ace and make a point every——"

But she drew him over her knee and played a lone hand.

A Mild Persuader.

It occurred in Oshkosh. "Will you do it?" she said, twisting one end of the strap around her hand and fetching him a stinger across the shoulders with the other. He squirmed and looked frantically at the keyhole of the door, as if he could crawl through it. "Will you do it?" she said, aiming two or three at the calves of his legs, while he skipped around like a great Northwestern grasshopper with the jim-jams. "Will you do it?" she repeated, concentrating her energies for a terrific swoop, and dealing him a blinder over the eyebrows that made the cold perspiration start out of every pore in his body. "I will!" he roared in agony; and they were married.

Getting Even.

A citizen of Gratiot avenue called on the chief of police yesterday and without any skirmishing around he inquired:

"Isn't dere zome law about dot?"

"What is that?" asked the chief.

"Shall dot be dot a vellar schall call hiss dog 'Bismarck?'" replied the man.

"Why, a man can name his dog any name he wants to, I suppose."

"He can?"

"Yes."

"And dot man schall call hiss dog Bismarck?"

"Yes."

"And ze law ish no goot?"

"No."

"Hi! ha! yes! I schall go mit my house and name my dorg Shorge Washington Sheneral Grant, Bostmaster Shewell—booty quick!"

And he was red in the face as he left.

Tit for Tat.

"Sure," said Patrick, rubbing his head delighted at the prospect of a present from his employer, "I always mane to do my duty." "I believe you," replied the employer, "and therefore I make you a present of all you have stolen from me during the year." "I thank your honor," replied Pat; "and may all your friends and acquaintances treat you as liberally."

Miller on the Compliment.

Joaquin Miller says that Olive Logan's mouth is

> "Like Egypt's mouth of old."

He probably alludes to the mouth of the Nile, and was particular, to mention the "old" mouth, because the modern one has got a "mole" on the side of it.

Out of Tune.

In one of the negro churches, the other night, strange to relate, the parson read out a curiously metred hymn, which didn't jingle with any tune known to the congregation. One of the leaders started out from about latitude 45, but failed. An old darkey in the corner rose up and said:

"Parson, I'm purty sartin I kin reach to both ends o' them varses:"

"Brudder —— will raise de time," announced the parson.

And then the old man set out on a wild career with a series of screeches and bellowings, like unto the steam piano of the circus when the engineer is drunk.

"Hold up, brudder; for de sake ob de psalmin' angels, stop!" cried the frantic parson, and when the old man and the congregation had been quieted, he solemnly announced:

"De singing ob de Lord's praise will be adjourned to de next meetin' night!" and the sermon went on.

Rightly Suspicious.

When he came home to supper his wife said: "George, this is my uncle Mr. Walker, from Brooklyn. Mr. Walker will you ask the blessing?" Mr. Walker asked the blessing. George ate sparingly, seemed to be uneasy, and finally muttered to himself: "He ask the blessing and he came from Brooklyn. He may be a minister." After that he didn't say much, but just neglected his business for three or four days and remained around home until Mr. Walker was gone.

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS

....AND....

Bronchial Affections.

Those suffering from CATARRH, BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION in its first stages, can be assured of a perfect cure by his new method of treatment, which can be testified to by thousands in the United States and British North America.

DR. SPINNEY can detect the slightest disease of the Chest, Lungs or any internal organ, and guarantees a cure in every case he undertakes.

TO THE LADIES

DR. SPINNEY having spent many years in the study of Female Complaints, feels competent to treat them in their most malignant forms, and would therefore cordially invite all who may be wrecked with pain and suffering from any of the great host of troubles with which your sex are so often afflicted, to come and try his method of cure, which has relieved thousands of their sufferings, and saved many from a premature grave.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

So do not longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. Why eke out a miserable existence, suffering all the tortures of a lingering death, when a few weeks' treatment will restore you to vigorous health?

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with too frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S. will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

Maguire's New Theatre.

As Mr W. H. Crane made his hit as the Professor, Mr. Kennedy his as the fop De Hass, Mr. James O'Neill his as Farmer Allen, so has Miss Katie Mayhew made hers as Fanchon in the play of that name. Full of flying moods, quick to love and quick to hate, moved herself and moving others twenty different ways in as many minutes, the character is an exigent one. To its exigencies Miss Mayhew proved herself equal, and that too, in such an accomplished manner as—let it be confessed—took the audience by surprise. All whose pleasure it is to witness a graceful and artistic performance should go this evening to see "Fanchon, the Cricket."

California Theatre.

The Hamlet of Mr. Lawrence Barrett is just what one would naturally expect from an actor of his mental standing. It is a thoughtful prince, a prince given to much inter-communing, a prince who if at one time right careful to fit himself to the fashion, was no less a student and gifted with an incisive wit. Mr. Barrett's Hamlet is none the less poetical, however, for bearing about it the signs of more than usual introspection. The play was well put on and the star excellently supported by Henry Edwards as King, T. W. Keene as Laertes Barton Hill as Ghost, Robert Pateman as First Gravedigger, Mrs. Sophie Edwin as Queen, and Miss Pateman as Ophelia. To-night "Othello, with Mr. Barrett as Iago.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The last Concert of the present season will be given this afternoon when the programme will include the Grand March from "Tannhauser, Schumann's Symphonie in B flat, Litolff's Overture to "Robespierre," Lumbye's "Traumbilder," with Zither obligato, and Weber's Overture to "Der Freichutz." A splendid programme.

Wilson's Hippodrome.

This popular and gigantic place of amusement continues to attract its nightly crowds. From five to seven thousand people can be comfortably accommodated, whilst the entertainment is one in a thousand. Matinees this afternoon and on Saturday. One of the features at the Hippodrome is the band, under the leadership of Charles Scheppert, and among the excellent music discoursed, is the Grand Hippodrome March," composed by Hy. Mehden, Esq., and dedicated to Col. John Wilson

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

George C. Thompson's reappearance means good things for those who attend, Price and Senate are immense in their banjo act, Swain and West's song and dance takes with everybody, and Kimie's Dutch eccentricities are delightful.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

George Foster has made a genuine success, Ned Barry's new song is all the talk, Johnny Cook is a favorite in song and dance and Hughey Robinson is good in all he does

The Pioneers.

The twenty-fifth Anniversary of the admission of he State of California into the Union, will be celebrated by the Society of California Pioneers at Badger's Park, to-morrow. The picnics and celebrations of this society are always the pleasantest of the season. They are invariably well conducted and are made to partake of the nature of a family gathering. The exercises at the coming celebration will be of a most entertaining character.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

An immense bill for Saturday and Sunday: First time of Senor Adolph Gonzales, the Chilian wonder and champion tumbler and Mons. Broidk, the man with the iron jaw; Mlle. Gracie in her blindfold trapeze; Will Stevens, the excelsior gymnast; Mlle. Victorine and grand concert. Holy Ghost flower in bloom. On Thursday—Admission Day—grand celebration Sons of the Golden West, escorted by the French Zouaves. Performance at 3 P. M. Oration, poem, songs, chorus and dancing in the evening.

Notes.

Harry Edwards will deliver the address at the the presentation of the Lotta Fountain to the city, to-morrow at 3 P. M.

Miss May Howard has gone East.

Ned Hamilton, the minstrel, died at 121 Welsh treet yesterday. Hamilton came to San Francisco n 1849 and was for some time associated with the old minstrel favorites, Charley Backus, Billy Birch, George Coes and Lew Rattler.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F, Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 8-cj

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vandershce & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

The Green Room.

This popular resort of the profession and al epicures who can appreciate good liquors and a good lunch, is directly opposite the California Theatre. It has just been beautifully frescoed and is now a model of taste and elegance. Everybody goes to the Green Room between the acts. x

A CLOSE COPY.

[It is well known that Shakspeare in his tragedy of "Romeo and Juliet" followed very closely a poem by Brooke—how closely, the following extract from the poem will show:]

An Apothecary sate unbusied at his doore,
Whom by his heavy countenance he guessed to be poore,
And in his shop he saw his boxes were but fewe,
And in his window (of his wares) there was so small a shew,
Wherefore our Romeus assuredly hath thought,
What by no friendship could be got, with money should be bought,
For nedy lacke is lyke the poore man to compell,
To sell that which the cities lawe forbiddeth him to sell.
Then by the hand he drew the nedy man apart,
And with the sight of glittring gold inflamed hath his hart,
Take fiftie crownes of gold (quoth he) I geve them thee,
So that before I part from hence thou straght deliver me,
Somme poison strong, that may in lesse than halfe an howre,
Kill him whose wretched hap shalbe the potion to devowre.
The wretch by covetise is wonne, and doth assent
To sell the thing, whose sale ere long, too late he doth repent.
In hast he poyson sought, and closely he it bounde,
And then began with whispering voyce thus in his eare to rounde,
Fayre syr (quoth he) be sure this is the speeding gere,
And more there is then you shall nede for halfe of that is there.
Will serve, I undertake in lesse then halfe an howre
To kill the strongest man alive, such is the poysons power.

Flotow.

A writer in a Berlin paper gives a painful picture of the composer Flotow, who is scarcely fifty, but looks like an octogenarian, being bent, gray-haired and quite broken down. The cause of this, says the writer, is the opprobrium cast upon him because he married the sister of his divorced wife, which fairly amounted to persecution. It seems that when young and ignorant of his own mind he was induced by his and her parents to wed a girl who was secretly affianced to another. Their life was extremely wretched, and they separated by mutual consent. Then Flotow married her sister, whom he loves and who loves him, and has borne him three children. This is the story of the correspondent, but it seems as if there must be something more to tell to account for the ostracism Flotow suffers. For this the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg (his native country) has withdrawn from him the appointment of chapel-master. He lives in Prenitz, in Austria, quite retired. His wife, the cause of so much bother, is a portly, serene woman of forty, who does not seem to be so much afflicted as he. The composer is in comfortable pecuniary circumstances, and his especial worriment at present is the obstacles in the way of his new opera "Haida," which, it need not be said, has no other resemblance to Verdi's last work except in title. The correspondent says that Flotow played for him some of its melodies, and he thought them better than those of "Martha." Flotow talked of other composers: "Meyerbeer," he said, "was incomparably the greatest of them all. Rossini ruined himself by writing too much. Bellini was a musical confectioner, producing excellent sweetmeats. Donizetti would have been very good had he not been an Italian. Wagner is grand, but often too terrible. Verdi was very promising, but had deteriorated of late. Ambroise Thomas was an imitator of Adam. Gounod had made a great mistake to write anything after Faust. He should have taken warning by Auber's example."

On the Sea Beach.

Pretty young ladies in elaborate bathing costume, kicking around on the beach, about ten feet from the water, in bare feet:

"Oh! o-o! I'm so 'fraid of the watah!"

Chorus of other girls in like toggery, twenty feet away:

"Ah! he-he-he-he—she's a coward—te-he-he-he-he!"

Pretty girl, No. 1, moving a foot nearer the wet:

"Aw, pshaw! come on now, I'll dare ye all."

The rest, advancing to No. 1 stands:

"O-oh! who's afraid—who's afraid?"

And there the dear, brave little angels stand, until a wave breaks a little higher than usual on the beach, and a tiny bit of foam touches the end of their aristocrtic toes, when they all screech out, run into the bathing house, make their toilets, and, appearing at dinner, tell the yawning young gentlemen that they've been having a swim —"Just too awful jolly and nice for anything."

And the yawning young gentlemen believe them?

Opinions Differ.

The New Orleans Republican says of the pull-back style of ladies' dresses: "Were this display produced by the simple wearing of scant skirts in the style of the graceful Josephine, leaving to the wanton wind, in its freakishness, the task of tracing for a fleeting occasional moment the charming outlines in fuller relief, taste would not complain and criticism would be disarmed. For such momentary betrayals of charms which modesty instinctively conceals, being the result of accident, could not be censured. But the dreadful permanency of the display produced by the tying back style and the premeditation which it manifests, defeat their own objects and make that, which accidently seen would be captivating, so common as to lose all charm."

All Out.

Says M. Quad: A Third street woman went out to make a call on a neighbor, just at dusk, the other evening, and finding only a lonesome-looking boy on the steps, she asked:

"Where's your mother, bub?"

"Oh, she's gadded out somewhere."

"Where's your sister?"

"Gone off on an excursion."

"Isn't your father at home?"

"Haven't seen him for two days."

"Well, what's become of the baby?" asked the woman, as she turned to go.

"The baby? Why, some boys took him down on Lewis street to see a dead cat."

"And why don't you go somewhere?" asked the lady, as she shut the gate.

"I am going—waiting now to go with my girl down to Michigan avenue to buy some onions and four cents' worth of cherries."

The family didn't seem to care about callers.

Phoebus, What a Name!

The Akron Beacon says: Miss "Prockie" E. Coggeshall, youngest daughter of the late Hon. W. T. Coggshall of Columbus, who had been spending vacation with his friends in this city, left for Otterheim University, Westerville this morning. The Christian name of this young lady—Proclamation Emancipation—is one in which she well may, as she does, feel a just pride, she having been born on the day that President Lincoln's proclamation of emancipation was issued—her eccentric father thus naming his new born child in honor of the event.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish bock."

STRAY HITS AND STOLEN BITS.

A person of Pike's Peak, writing to a Minnesota journal, says that the miners are greatly discouraged in that region; they have to dig through a solid vein of silver four feet thick before they reach the gold.

"Have you no heart?" groaned a Mission street woman when she was told that beefsteak was seventeen cents a pound. "No; but I haf some lifer which you can puy very cheap," was the learned butcher's consoling reply.

A belle of Marysville has her monogram engraved on her false teeth.

"It is generally the case with bad boys," philosophically remarks Miss Anthony, "that they look like their mother and act like their father."

The ladies have discovered that it is impossible for six of them to fill a street car, nowadays, and have accordingly made up their sweet minds to do away with pullback dresses.

A countryman fell off a ferry-boat at Vicksburg, and his wife, waiting coolly until his head showed above the water, shouted, "There, durn yer, I know'd you'd do it! Bet you never get out, either!"

The difference just now between fishes and girls is, that the former are fin-backed and the latter are pinned back.

A Detroiter was called on as a witness in a case before one of the justices recently, and when the oath was administered he raised both his hands and said, "I shall speak noddings what ain't drew, if I ever hope to die so quick as a minute!" He was so earnest and solemn that the lawyers let him alone.

"When you have a good thing keep it." This motto was invented for the benefit of gentlemen who have seats in crowded street cars.

Mary Jane Brown, of Maine, offers to fight any woman in America for $100, half the gate money to go to the grasshopper sufferers. If Dr. Blackwell has that regard for Kansas and Nebraska people we think she has, we shall hear more of this thing.

The London Lancet says that no person should sit for more than half an hour. S'posin a fellow is sitting on the sofa, with his girl, is he going to be particular to a minute?

They tried to set up the scientific name of the potato bug in Delaware the other day, and it pied the whole form.

Cologne is called the scentimental city,

A man who is always in a stew generally goes to pot.

A Kansas girl says that nothing makes her so mad as to have a grasshopper crawl up and down her back just as her lover has come to the proposing point.

Near Knoxville the other night, a young girl, who was unexpectedly interviewed by the family as she was about eloping with the object of her virgin affections, knocked the old man down, laid out two brothers with a cistern pole, kicked the hired man in the stomach, and got away with her lover and "made the riffle." We wish that heaven had sent us such a woman as that.

You can't speak in a balloon without having high words, but it is death to fall out.

To cure poverty—sit down and growl about it. By so doing you'll be sure to get rich, and make yourself particularly agreeable to everybody.

"Centennialville" is what they are calling Philadelphia now.

A man does not know what it is to be alone in the world until he has grabbed at a nickel on a show-case window and discovered that is fastened to the lower surface of the glass.

This is the way they do it in Leflore county, Ga.: "Dis prar meetin' called togeder for de purpos ub hearin' Breder Stags' splane dose dings which am necessary fur our salvashun; 'nanimously resolbs dat Jake Smif am a fit and proper pussun to represent dis secshun at de Bord ob Supervisors."

The young ladies of Abbot Academy were told by Professor Smith, of Andover, that while he was "not prepared to send them forth as captains in the social ship, there would be no difficulty in their going as first mates."

It don't often happen that you can catch a fat woman walking over a grated cellarway.

There is a village in New Hampshire which has produced twenty-six editors, and it was in allusion to this circumstance that a pious old deacon there remarked: "Yes, there were twenty-six on 'em, but as they've all left town, I reckon the Lord wont lay it up agin us."

It is now announced that in the course of the next thirty years the whole globe will be covered with water to the depth of thirty feet. Select your trees, gentlemen.

At Last!

She has completely cured him. For months she had patiently endured the pangs so many thousands of young wives are compelled to suffer. Almost every morning at breakfast the heartless husband expressed the hope that he might live to see the day when he should get such coffee as he used to have at home, or such corn bread as his mother was wont to make and bake. At dinner the meat was overbaked in the range. To be sure his mother used to roast the meat in an old-fashioned Dutch tin oven, and the piece was always done to a turn—the last turn of the revolving spit. Those days were forever gone. But he might and ought to get such a green apple pie with new cheese as his mother used to give him. At length the long-suffering wife arose in her wrath, upset the table, sending the dishes and their contents crashing to the carpet, strided over to her astounded husband, gave him a box on the ear which knocked him off his chair, and remarked: "There's a clip over the head for you, such as your mother used to give you when you was a boy, goldern yer." Thereafter there was domestic peace and quiet in that house, with never even an allusion to the maternal cookery and comforts of bygone days.

Well Settled.

Two Dutchmen, who built and used in common a small bridge over a stream which ran through their farms, had a dispute concerning some repairs which it required, and one of them positively refused to bear any portion of the expense necessary to the purchase of a few planks. Finally the aggrieved party went to a neighboring lawyer, and placing ten dollars in his hand, said, "I'll give you all dish moneys if yo'll make Hans do justice mit de pridge." "How much will it cost to repair it?" asked the honest lawyer. "Not more ash five tollar," replied the Dutchman. "Very well," said the lawyer, pocketing one of the notes and giving him the other; "take this and go and get the bridge repaired; it is the best course you can take." "Yaas," said the Dutchman, slowly—"yaas, dat ish more better ash to quarrel mit Hans." But as he went along home he shook his head frequently, as if unable, after all, to see quite clearly how he had gained anything by going to law.

WITHOUT THE AID OF MERCURY OR NAUSEOUS DRUGS.

Only ONE INTERVIEW REQUIRED, balance of treatment can be conducted without any interruption to business.

Prescriptions free to all every day, from 10 to 11 o'clock, A. M.

Regular Office Hours, from 10 o'clock to 4 P. M.; from 7 to 8 P. M.

CONSULTATION FREE

DR. SPINNEY is well known as the founder of the MONTREAL, C. E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

DISEASES OF THE LUNGS

....AND....

Bronchial Affections.

Those suffering from CATARRH, BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION in its first stages, can be assured of a perfect cure by his new method of treatment, which can be testified to by thousands in the United States and British North America.

DR. SPINNEY can detect the slightest disease of the Chest, Lungs or any internal organ, and guarantees a cure in every case he undertakes.

TO THE LADIES

DR. SPINNEY having spent many years in the study of Female Complaints, feels competent to treat them in their most malignant forms, and would therefore cordially invite all who may be wrecked with pain and suffering from any of the great host of troubles with which your sex are so often afflicted, to come and try his method of cure, which has relieved thousands of their sufferings, and saved many from a premature grave.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

So do not longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. Why eke out a miserable existence, suffering all the tortures of a lingering death, when a few weeks' treatment will restore you to vigorous health?

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which he undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

MIDDLE-AGED MEN!

There are many of the age of thirty to sixty who are troubled with two frequent evacuation of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight smarting or burning sensation and weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is the second stage of seminal weakness. Dr. S., will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

All Letters and Communications Strictly Confidential.

Consultations Free—A Friendly Chat Costs Nothing.

N. B.—Do not forget, you who are ill, and yet feel unable to pay, that your cases will be properly examined and prescribed for, if you will call any morning between the hours of 10 and 11 A. M. se-3

Amusements, Etc.

Maguire's New Theatre.

We have already spoken somewhat at length of Miss Katy Mayhew's Fanchon and having seen the play entire last night have no withdrawal to make of any words of commendation written yesterday. It is a thoroughly charming performance, a performance which for natural humor, unstrained grace and effective pathos, should take, and does take, with all who have seen it, a high artistic rank. To-night "Ticket-of-Leave-Man," with Miss Mayhew as Sam, Miss Louise Hawthorne as May, James O'Neill as Bob Brierly and W. H. Crane as Green Jones.

California Theatre.

A quick-witted knave is Shakspeare's Iago and a quick spoken, quick-actioned knave is Mr. Barrett's Iago. A man who rather affects a healthy sort of cynicism, yet a good, honest, jovial sort of fellow. A man who trolls a song whilst his thoughts are running swiftly how to ruin the man with whom he is drinking. Mr. Barrett shows such readiness of action and such intensity of nervous purpose that the rhymed impromptu on Desdemona's charms seems but the natural growth of a brain so fertile in plan, thought—and cunning. With Mr. Barton Hill's Othello, Miss Pateman's Emilia, Miss Wilton's Desdemona and T. W Keene's Cassio, we are al most agreeably acquainted. To-night "King Lear."

Opera House.

On Saturday evening next, a complimentary benefit will be tendered to Mr. John Guerin, by his numerous friends. The bill for the occasion is a particularly entertaining one and has been gotten up with every regard to the amusement and pleasure of those attending. A first-part of minstrelsy, a second part of Ethiopean specialties, a general olio will form the staple of the programme, whilst a chief feature will be orchestral selections by the Industrial School Band under the Conductorship of Prof. Mehden, both conductor and band having willingly volunteered.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The last concert of the present season was given yesterday afternoon, the house being as usual full and fashionable. The concert opened with a march from "Tannhauser," which was given with rather less spirit than the selection called for. Following this came Schumann's Symphonie in B flat, a composition not particularly remarkable either for harmony or sequence of themes. Only the last movement seemed to attract the commending attention of the listeners. On the other hand Litolff's overture to "Robespierre" evoked a perfect storm of applause, and for a moment it appeared a matter of doubt whether the overture, long as it is, would not have to be repeated. For startling instrumental effects this overture is almost unique. Following this came Lumbye's "Traumbilder," with the Zither obligato by Herr Homeyer. This was encored. The overture to "Freichutz," concluded the programme. The new Season begins on Wednesday next.

Wilson's Hippodrome.

The matinee yesterday afternoon was well attended and the performance last night was marked by the usual crowded attendance. The racing is the main feature and main attraction and the whole performance is entertaining and exciting. Matinees on Saturdays and Sundays.

The Pioneers.

The twenty-fifth Anniversary of the admission of he State of California into the Union, will be celebrated by the Society of California Pioneers at Badger's Park, to-day. The picnics and celebrations of this society are always the pleasantest of the season. They are invariably well conducted and are made to partake of the nature of a family gathering. The exercises at the coming celebration will be of a most entertaining character.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

In olio and acts the bill for to-night is particularly good. Everything is well arranged and the entertainment is well worth seeing.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

Songs, serious and comic; dances, of all sorts specialties, of every description; acts, long and short and all the programme good.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

An immense bill for Saturday and Sunday: First time of Senor Adolph Gonzales, the Chilian wonder and champion tumbler and Mons. Broidk, the man with the iron jaw; Mlle. Gracie in her blindfold trapeze; Will Stevens, the excelsior gymnast; Mlle. Victorine and grand concert. Holy Ghost flower in bloom. On Thursday—Admission Day—grand celebration Sons of the Golden West, escorted by the French Zouaves. Performance at 3 P. M. Oration, po m, songs, chorus and dancing in the evening.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street. over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits.

COURTSHIP, MARRIAGE, DIVORCE.

Two or three laughs when a lover is near,
Two or three winks with a kind of a leer;
Two or three frowns if he tries to caress,
Two or three "Now don't you rumple my dress!"
Two or three "Ah! wicked man, go away!"
Two or three times if you want him to stay;
Two or three smiles to wheedle him on,
Two or three times to an ice cream saloon;
Two or three "Noes" if invited—and then
Two or three hints, meaning "Ask me again."
Two or three sighs and a little heigh-ho!
Two or three pats when consenting to go;
Two or three whispers fond love to express,
Two or three "Noes" all intended for "Yes!"
Two or three carriage rides, just for the treat,
Two or three hugs in a lonely retreat;
Two or three scoldings, and when that is done
Two or three kisses, though be asked for but one;
Two or three quarrels, and make up again;
Two or three times to church or a ball,
Two or three "Feel rather timid, that's all!"
Two or three blushes, and hang down the head
Two or three times when requested to wed;
Two or three "Noes!" and then "Yes, dearest love!"
Two or three days be as fond as a dove;
Two or three times, then refuse to obey,
Two or three weeks after have your own way:
Two or three months if you follow this course,
Two or three times you may wed and divorce.

A Lively Girl.

"Say, boss, I wants to get a nice bright dress fur a good-lookin' yallar gal 'bout eighteen years ov old."

"Something like that?" pointing to a bright scarlet dress pattern.

"Yes, boss, dat de ticket, shuah."

"How much do you want?"

"Well, I won't say for shuah, but I hearn her sister say she was right smart on—I reckon she's plumb into frackshuns. I know for shuah she's a sight smart beyond mathematings."

"I mean what's her form?"

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under the able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

AT THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

HE.

He is there every night. And he promenades all the time. He doesn't care for the music or the articles on exhibition. But he struts around and exhibits himself to the ladies, and smiles upon them, and sucks the head of a cane. Everybody who has been to the Fair must have seen him. He is young. He dresses in a dull kind of check. He has a moustache—which is more full of promise than performance. He isn't a very large man. But he is very handsome. He thinks so, and he ought to know, for he has seen himself often in the glass. Last Tuesday evening he was more radiant than ever. He had seen a lady smile upon him as he passed, and he knew she was "mashed" beyond recovery. We knew so, too, for we heard her remark to her companion: "Frank, did you see that young man in brown check?" Frank acknowledged that he had enjoyed that supreme felicity. "Don't you think," continued the lady, "that he has a countenance which is remarkably like that of my poor Carlo who died last Winter? When I saw him he brought the poor dead darling to my mind at once." Frank acknowledged that he did perceive a likeness, and then proposed that he should interview the young man, find out if he couldn't hire him to walk upon all fours, bark and wear a blue ribbon round his neck, and relieve her sorrow for the darling Carlo. The young lady declined. It would be an insult to the young man. "All right," said Frank. "If you don't want him, I swear I don't. But I don't think he'd be insulted. He doesn't seem fit for anything but a lady's lap dog."

SHE.

And she is there, too. We mean the very young lady with the very tight dress, the hair flowing down her back, and the front hair looking as though the rats had been chewing it. She is always accompanied by two intellectual youths, who wear large neckties and carry canes about an ounce in weight. She is a pretty young lady, and her face has all that varied expression that lies in the countenance of a boiled turnip. And she talks very lively, indeed. If her conversation isn't so wise as that of Solomon, nor so learned as that of Professor Porson, nor so witty as that of Voltaire, yet it is suited to her audience, "fit though few," and they smile a gentle, weak smile at her prattle. Then she shakes her head, and simpers, and makes eyes at one and then at the other of the young men. And she wriggles herself about as though she had a flea down her back and wanted to give it a chance to escape. It is only occasionally that she casts a glance at any one in the attendance and she never could bend in the one she wears. If she were to try to do so something would burst. She is a self-satisfied young lady, and when she stops to listen to the music she chatters away with the volubility of an auctioneer. One old fellow who was near us got so mad that at last he muttered loud enough to be heard by a few in the vicinity, "If I owned that gal, dern me if I wouldn't spank her and put her to bed." She evidently heard the remark, for she gave her head a toss and sailed away accompanied by her two cavaliers.

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419. opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hook."

FRIDAY…. ………SEPTEMBER 10

What's in a Name?

New forms of old names have the effect of translating some men, like so many Enochs, into a kind of lower immortality. Some years ago there died a Mr. Bean, who left a handsome bequest for building a church. His name, which was to be associated with his liberality, was thought too unclassical to be made historic. Bean therefore was translated into its Latin, Fabius, and the church is known as the Fabius Chapel. Among singers, we have known a Mr. Binfield converting himself into Signor Fabiani, and Mr. Campbell into Signor Campobello. Not long ago, a young Scotchman, of musical promise, known among his friends by the name of George Walker, went to Italy, and, after a short course of instruction, appeared as a new star on the Italian orchestra, no longer George Walker, but Signor Giorgione Valcheri. In Britain's isle there once lived a worthy citizen, fortunate in everything but one—his name. That name was Bug, a name, by the way, which tickled the fancies of many, and bit his own to such a degree that he determined to get rid of it. However, not being a young lady, he could not expect any one to offer him another. He must pay dearly for redress in the Heralds' office; scriveners wrote, lawyers grew rich, document[illegible] went up and parchment came dow[illegible]; at last the odious cognomen of Bug [illegible] dropped off. But poor Bug had no[illegible] no name. In choosing a new o[illegible], he might as well enjoy a good aristocratic appellation, after being stung so many years by such an offensive monosyllable. So he chose two, the very best, and came before the world, as Mr. Norfolk-Howard. It was too late. The landladies in London were in want of a polite name for certain little intruders whose acquaintance they were anxious to disclaim. The phrase of politeness was ready at hand. Henceforward, whenever visitors came to inquire after the bedrooms, the landlady was always sure to add one familiar word, "and sir, we are never troubled with any Norfolk-Howards."

Too Strong an Argument.

One of our subscribers, an elderly lady, wants to know if we won't write something about tobacco, she being very much against the use of the noxious weed. Certainly we will. Everybody is aware that the use of this vile article is most injurious, destroying the vital powers and filling lunatic asylum and graves. It is frightful to contemplate the ravages of the tobacco poison. Would that we wielded the pen of a Dickens, that we might vividly portray the evil effect of the weed. Thousands of persons have—— A friend has just dropped in and offered us a cigar, and as it looks like a good one we won't write any more just at present.

Slips of the Pen.

An Australian sent an order to London lately for some iron safes, and of these it was expressly desired that some should be of Milner's make, which was duly expressed. But the clerk, a junior, who copied the order, was thinking of a sex that is not quite safe, for the order came home with the astounding line in it: "Please forward, per first ship, six Milliners—three with drawers, and three without." This extraordinary order was of course, or ought to have been, sent to the emigration commissioners.

Poetry and Fact.

"From over the desert I come to thee, on a stallion shod with fire, and the winds are left behind, in the speed of my desire," was in the epistle she got from her lover on the Rio Grande, but he didn't come in that way at all. He rode a little mule until he reached the narrow gauge from Denver, and then he sat in a smoking car and chewed tobacco and read a dime novel the rest of the way.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.

When the Fair Closes

And the tired visitors prepare to wend their weary way homeward, they should pause for a moment and consider how much more pleasant it would be to take an ice cream or a nicely served and comfortable supper in the Restaurant, which does not close till 12 o'clock, P. M., and which is under the able supervision of the well-known caterer, A. M. Hepburn.

THE PIONEER'S FESTIVAL.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Admission of California in the Union, as a State, was duly celebrated yesterday by the Society of California Pioneers at Badger's Park, Oakland. The attendance was a most pleasant re-union of old friends and companions of the days of old and the days of gold. The literary exercises were brief and appropriate. The balloon ascension by Prof. Steiner, was quite a sensational one. Being unable to procure gas enough to secure elevating power sufficient to carry up the basket and anchor, he left behind those appendages, tied the ropes of the basket together and went up with nothing but the ropes beneath him.

The balloon had neither anchor, drag-rope or basket attached, and was sent up without a pound of ballast; consequently, the descent would be entirely a matter of chance, and was likely to prove a dangerous one. Much relief was felt when the Professor returned late in the afternoon, begrimed and bedusted, looking as though he had been drawn through a mole-hole, but with exception of a few bruises, perfectly safe. The balloon come down on top of the coast range, some seven miles away. The wind was bowing fiercely, and the balloon, after giving the Professor several flip-flops, broke away and swept on to the Eastward. The social dances and lunches well seasoned with reminiscences of the Pioneer times, which followed, were the most pleasant part of the festivities, and were kept up until night fall. Long may the old boys live to enjoy their Annual Festivals.

John T. Raymond's Jokes.

Before I leave the Sellers field, says the N. Y. correspondent of the Baltimore Bulletin, I must relate a good story which comes in apropos now that three of the persons concerned—Mr. Raymond, Mr. Peakes and Mr. Seymour—are acting at the Union Square Theatre. While Mr. Raymond was playing Micawber in Boston a couple of years ago or so he found, on one occasion, that the "punch" (really lemonade) was impregnated with salt, thanks to Mr. Peakes and Mr. Willie Seymour. He determined that revenge was sweeter than the stuff he had been made to simulate the growing intoxication of Micawber on. Accordingly, through a discreet arrangement at the telegraph office, he got two blanks such as are used for messages for delivery and wrote on one of them a message to Mr. Peakes purporting to be from Miss Carlotta Leclercq, then at Booth's Theatre, asking him to telegraph his lowest terms to come on and prompt at Booth's, and to bring Willie Seymour with him to play a part in "A Scrap of Paper," in which he had made quite a hit. This was delivered duly and caused no end of excitement. Peakes was naturally flattered, and Willie Seymour's mother proudly exclaimed, "See what Miss Leclercq thinks of my boy. He was call boy at Booth's Theatre once, and now they want him to come on specially and play a part for them." But the stage manager wouldn't hear of it, and Peakes telegraphed Miss Leclercq, "Impossible." She was naturally surprised and telegraphed back, "What is impossible?" Peakes rejoined, "I can't come on." Miss Leclercq responded, "Who wants you to?" Peakes was about to send another message requesting an explanation, when Mr. Raymond disillusionized him. He turned pale, and Mr. Seymour's mother failed to see the joke. But Mr. Raymond enjoyed the "after-taste of the lemonade immensely. As for Miss Leclercq, she vowed she never would forgive the mystification. One day, however, she and Mr. Raymond were dining in the same hotel. Unperceived by her, he got up and took the place of the Irish waiter behind her chair. "Hev yees finished your soup, mem?" he asked. "No." "Will yees hand me over that plate, mem?" he said. "I am not done yet." "Give me that plate mem," he cried; "it's enough you've had." She turned at that and relented straight. "Oh, you man, you man," she said; "there, sit down, I forgive you!"

E., MEDICAL INSTITUTE, and late proprietor of the SPINNEYVILLE INFIRMARY, and having given his entire attention, for the past twenty years, to the treatment of Chronic and Special Diseases, incident to both sexes, his success has produced astonishing results. By his new method of treatment, the sick are fully restored to original health. He would call the attention of the afflicted to the fact of his long standing and well-earned reputation as a sufficient assurance of his skill and success. Thousands who have been under his treatment have felt and expressed emotions of gratitude welling up from hearts touched for the first time by the silken cord that whispers of returning health.

Those suffering from CATARRH, BRONCHITIS or CONSUMPTION in its first stages, can be assured of a perfect cure by his new method of treatment, which can be testified to by thousands in the United States and British North America.

DR. SPINNEY can detect the slightest disease of the Chest, Lungs or any internal organ, and guarantees a cure in every case he undertakes.

TO THE LADIES

DR. SPINNEY having spent many years in the study of Female Complaints, feels competent to treat them in their most malignant forms, and would therefore cordially invite all who may be wrecked with pain and suffering from any of the great host of troubles with which your sex are so often afflicted, to come and try his method of cure, which has relieved thousauds of their sufferings, and saved many from a premature grave.

Remember, that Procrastination is the Thief of Time!

So do not longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. Why eke out a miserable existence, suffering all the tortures of a lingering death, when a few weeks' treatment will restore you to vigorous health?

COME AND BE HEALED.

It matters not what your troubles may be, come and let the doctor examine your case. If it is curable, he will tell you so—if not he will tell you that; for he will not undertake a case unless he is confident of effecting a cure. It will cost you nothing for consultation, so please call and satisfy yourselves whether the Doctor understands your case.

YOUNG MEN.

Who may be suffering from the effect of youthful follies or indiscretion, will do well to avail themselves of this, the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

Dr. Spinney will Guarantee to Forfeit $500

For every case of seminal weakness, or private disease of any kind or character, which be undertakes and fails to cure. He would, therefore, say to the unfortunate sufferer who may read this notice, that you are treading upon dangerous ground when you longer delay in seeking the proper remedy for your complaint. You may be in the first stage, remember you are approaching the last. If you are bordering upon the last, and are suffering some or all of its ill effects, remember that if you obstinately persist in procrastination, the time must come when the most skillful physician can render you no assistance; when the door of hope will be closed against you; when no angel of mercy can bring you relief. In no case has the doctor failed of success. Then let not despair work itself upon your imagination, but avail yourself of the beneficial results of his treatment before your case is beyond the reach of medical skill or before grim death hurries you to a premature grave.

Amusements, Etc.

California Theatre.

Mr. Barrett's Lear, like all his impersonations, is scholarly and clever. First arrogant, then pitiable and then very, very sad, every phase well drawn, the whole being masterly. The support included Barton Hill as Edgar, Miss Pateman as Cordelia and Miss Ellie Wilton as Goneril. The attendance was particularly good. This evening Lester Wallack's great play of "Rosedale" will be given with Mr. Barrett as Elliot Gray. The evening will be notable too, for the first appearance of the new soubrette, Miss Alice Harrison.

Maguire's New Theatre.

"The Ticket-of-Leave-Man," as played by the Hooley Company, last evening, was a very creditable performance. The Bob Brierly of James O'Neill, afforded another instance of this actor's skill in dialect. Miss Katy Mahew's Sam was a charming performance, Miss Hawthorne's May Edwards was careful but somewhat lacking in naturalness, whilst the Dalton of Hastings, the Hawkshaw of Buckley, the Melter Moss of Sefton and the Green Jones of Crane were all characters above the average. Same bill to-night. "Fanchon" for to-morrow's matinee.

Opera House.

On Saturday evening next, a complimentary benefit will be tendered to Mr. John Guerin, by his numerous friends. The bill for the occasion is a particularly entertaining one and has been gotten up with every regard to the amusement and pleasure of those attending. A first-part of minstrelsy, a second part of Ethiopean specialties, a general olio will form the staple of the programme, whilst a chief feature will be orchestral selections by the Industrial School Band under the Conductorship of Prof. Mehden, both conductor and band having willingly volunteered.

Wilson's Hippodrome.

The entertainment given here is so novel, so entertaining and of so exciting a character that we may safely speak of it as superior to any kind of ring entertainment ever given in San Francisco. It is not a circus by any means but a huge race track in which every sort of trial of speed is given. It should not be forgotten that besides the two regular matinees on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, there is an extra one every Sunday at two o'clock.

Herold's Orchestral Matinees.

The first concert of the new season will be given on Wednesday afternoon next. Already all the boxes and the greater part of the best seats have been taken for the season.

Buckley's New Variety Theatre.

Swain and West in double song and dance, Kimic in his Dutch specialties, George C. Thompson in his particularities and all the company in the acts and olio.

New Olympic Variety Theatre.

George Foster in his Ethiopean good things, Charley King in comicalities, Ned Barry in capital songs and Hughey Robinson in Muldoon.

REISEN KELLER.—An instrumental concert is given every evening at this mammoth symposium, corner of third and Market streets, under the Nucleus House. The spacious Riesen Keller (giant cellar), combines billiards, bowling alleys, shooting galleries, club rooms, reading rooms, concert hall and beer hall, all in one.

Woodward's Gardens.

An immense bill for Saturday and Sunday: First time of Senor Adolph Gonzales, the Chilian wonder and champion tumbler and Mons. Broidk, the man with the iron jaw; Mlle. Gracie in her blindfold trapeze; Will Stevens, the excelsior gymnast; Mlle. Victorine and grand concert. Holy Ghost flower in bloom. On Thursday—Admission Day—grand celebration Sons of the Golden West, escorted by the French Zonaves. Performance at 3 P. M. Oration, poem, songs, chorus and dancing in the evening.

Managers

Of Amusements, Excursions, Lectures, and Concerts, are directed to the splendid Printing Establishment of B. F. Sterett, 532 Clay Street, over the San Francisco Market. The largest Posters, in Plain or Fancy Colors, are turned out in the shortest possible space of time. Also, Beautiful Programmes, Tickets, etc., etc., printed to suit the most fastidious. Mr. Sterett keeps constantly on hand a fine line of bright colored papers of every shade, and the prices charged for these are very little in advance of plain white paper. Streamers of various sizes, from 18 to 42 inch letters, in stock, of all colors of paper and ink. Theatre Managers are especially invited to call for estimates. This well-known Printing House was established by the present proprietor in 1850 and has been in successful operation ever since. 3-cj

The Old Mint Restaurant.

At this old-established house, 605 Commercial street, above Montgomery, always noted among the bon vivants for its good things, can be procured the finest and best cooked Oysters, Steaks and Chops, Breakfasts or Dinners, in town. Terrapins and the choicest brands of Wines and Liquors a specialty. Charges Moderate. D. B. Magee, the new proprietor, invites the public to give the "Old Mint" a trial. N. B. Open to 2:30 A. M. Old fashioned boiled dinners every Saturday. 2-L

The Fall and Winter styles

Of hats are now being introduced at "The" Hat Store, 647 Washington street, below Kearny, their assortment is large and well selected, all the styles being of a tasty and pleasing shape and of the best material, while the prices are the lowest possible. Don't forget to call and examine their stock at 647 Washington street, below Kearny.

Do Not Suffer from Corns.

The unfortunate sufferers from Corns, Bunions club and Ingrowing Nails, can find instant relief by applying at Dr. R. H. Cowan's Institute, removed to 207 Kearny street, between Sutter and Bush, from 1 to 6 P. M. We speak from experience, having tested the Doctor's capability. Reference given if required. H

The Antelope Oyster House.

Our specialty, always the best oysters in market served [illegible] in the best style of cooking. Our Eastern transplanted oysters excel any other in market. Established in 1864. No. 612 Market near Montgomery. N. B.—Ice Cream, Strawberries and Cream, and all Fruits in season. -8

Ladies About to Furnish Houses

Will do well to call and examine our new and beautiful styles of wood carpets and wainscots, at 16 Geary street.

DOMESTIC DIPLOMACY.

She was watching at the window,
As I hurried down the street,
In the simple brown merino
That I fancy looks so neat,
And her smile I thought portentious,
It was so exceeding sweet.

Then she met me at the threshold
With a very loving kiss,
That recalled the early stages
Of our matrimonial bliss,
And I felt at once a tremor—
Was there anything amiss?

No! The children were all quiet,
And the hearth was very bright,
And my pet—our roguish Charlie—
Was quite festal in his white;
Yet I braced myself for something,
Be that something what it might.

My chair was near the fire
And my slippers by its side,
My pipe was very handy
And my papers open wide,
And she wore the pretty breastpin
That I gave her when a bride.

The dinner was perfection—
It was lavish without waste;
The soup was vermicelli
And exactly to my taste,
While the dessert was a triumph
Of artistic skill in paste.

And when the meal was over,
And the inner man at rest,
She drew her chair beside me,
With the baby on her breast.
I felt, and so I told her,
I was one among the blest.

Oh! the smile of tender radiance
That illumined all her face,
As I clasped her to my bosom
In a lover's fond embrace—
It was then she softly whispered,
"Won't you let me have that lace?"

An Unjust Suspicion.

The other day a Detroit husband went on a fishing excursion with a small party of friends. Returning at midnight he pounded on the door and awoke his wife. As she let him into the hall, she saw that something ailed him, and she cried out:

"Why, Henry, your face is as red as paint."

"Guesser n't," he replied, feeling along down the hall.

"And I believe you've been drinking," she added.

"Whazzer mean by zat?" he inquired, trying to stand still.

"Oh! Henry, your face would never look like that if you hadn't been drinking."

"Mi to blame?" he asked, tears in his eyes. "Sposen big bass jump up'n hit me in the face an' make it red—mi to blame?"

And he sat down on the floor and cried over her unjust suspicions.

Wanted to be Called.

It was the same old lady who was seen walking up and down Levee street, the other day, while the boat was taking on freight. She was ticketed for New Orleans, and the first night aboard the boat she opened her state-room door just before retiring, stuck her nose out and yelled:

"Capting! capting!"

"What's wanted, madam?" inquired that official, as he approached the door.

"I'm a lone woman, capting, as you well know," she squeaked; "and if this boat blows up I depend on you to call me."

He agreed, and she slept soundly and peacefully.

The Ruling Passion.

She had been fishing for trout very long and patiently, without catching any, when her husband espied her, and asked her what sort of flies she used? "O," she answered, "some nice ones that I bought in Paris on purpose." "But," exclaimed her husband, pulling out her line and looking at the flies—"but these flies will never catch trout! Who ever heard of anybody fishing for trout with flies of this color?" "Why," replied the wife, "they are all right—they match my dress, you see!" And so, it seems they did.

A Big Spark.

It's an awful undertaking to go out and spark a girl half the night in Lapland, where the nights are six months long. It takes six months forethought and much labor on the part of a young man to lay in the provisions for a single evening's courting.

Don't Help Pay Other People's Debts,

But go to the Furniture and Bedding Store of J. A. Shaber & Co., 707 Market street, near Third, and save fully 25 per cent. by buying of them. Their motto is: "Buy for cash, and sell for cash," therefore they have no bad debts to make up out of extra profits. L

Photographic Art

Is supposed by some to be in its infancy. We doubt it much, as it is impossible to imagine pictures retouched and finished with more artistic skill than those we saw at Brodeck & Co's new Art Gallery, 640 Market street, opposite the Palace Hotel.

Terrill and Chapman s.

Billiard Parlor, northeast corner of Bush and Kearny streets, entrance on Bush street. The best lighted and most comfortable Billiard Hall in the city—has 17 front windows. Rooms for private parties. Six new tables. Pocket tables for Pool parties. Best of cigars and liquors. m

Laughing Gas.

Dr. Wilson, Dentist, 205 Third street, makes a specialty of extracting teeth without pain by the use of laughing gas, and with twelve years experience in its use can warrant success with entire safety in the most difficult cases.

Only the best brands of smoking and chewign tobacco—Solace, Eureka, Sunnyside, American Eagle, Welcome and Golden Luxury—sold. Four papers for 25 cents. IXL Auction House, 616, 18 and [illegible] Kearny street, corner Commercial.

How They Met.

They had not met for years. Once, they had leaned over the self-same garden gate, and sat side by side on the old-fashioned hair-cloth sofa, whispering those platitudes which young love makes of such breathless interest, while the kerosene lamp was turned down to the faintest glimmer compatible with perfect propriety.

He had said that her image, and hers alone, could fill the void which absence from her left in his heart; and when, after unutterable agonies of broken but impassioned English, he had said that he adored her, she had gently reclined her head upon the home-starched shirt-bosom that creaked above his manly breast, he having, with great presence of mind, placed his handkerchief thereon, in view of possible pomatum.

And then he had taken the assurance that she reciprocated his affection from her own lips, and he remembers, with a sad smile, that her breath was faintly suggestive of fried onions, eaten the previous day; but in those heavily gold-plated moments he thought that the odor of violets in Spring was exhaled from her rosy lips.

He went away to work; they corresponded until, from two letters a week the correspondence dwindled down to the exchange of a casual newspaper, and then silence.

She finally married—so did he.

And now that they had met, before his heart had done beating, he saw that instead of the sweet girl with brown hair and a lithe, willowy grace, which, somehow, he had half dreamed of encountering, there stood a stout lady, with a false front, who said:

"Well, James, I do declare! How old you've growed, an' how gray you be."

And he had replied:

"Well, Hannah, I never should have known you. How stout you are."

"Good heavens, is that fat old woman the girl that I thought I once loved?" he whispered to himself as he turned away; while she murmured, half audibly, "Lemme see, wasn't Jim an' I 'ngaged?"

In the Ring.

A lately-appointed postmaster of a western Massachusetts town went to Boston the other day, to "qualify" and have his bond for $600 approved. The bond was all right, and the regular question was put to the P. M.: "How much are you worth, sir?" "Wal," he replied, "I don't tell haow much I'm worth. Bradstreet sets me at $10,000. I guess you'd better put it down at that figger." "How much do the assessors set you at?" "Wal, the assessors don't set me at quite so high a figger; but (in a confidential whisper), 'tween you'n' me, I'm one of the assessors!"

Urgent.

The Vicksburg Herald relates this sad incident of how a female couldn't go to a watering place: When two African matrons happened to meet on Washington street, the other day, one of them inquired: "Is ye gwine sumwhar fur yer health this season?" "Yes; gwine away next week," was the reply. "Is you gwine?" "Dere's where I feel bad, honey; I'ze chained right down heah; I'ze got two tickets in the Louisiana drawin', and I couldn't get away if de angels were comin'."

A Saratoga belle writes home: "It is horrid here—not a man in town worth over $15,000."

The Young Man from the East.

"Im a stranger in this city,
I'm lately from the East,
And mighty fond of oysters;
Where can I get a feast?
I've been to all the restaurants,
But nowhere could I find,
A plate of Eastern oysters,
Of the old fashioned kind."

"Well, I can tell you," said his friend,
"Exactly where to go,
And where to get your oysters,
Direct from where they grow.
Just take a stroll down PINE STREET,
At 419, opposite the Market,
You'll see a sign, 'THE SADDLE ROCK,
You can't fail to remark it.

"Emerson Corville keeps the place,
The best saloon in town,
There you can get your oysters raw,
Or fried so crisp and brown.
He's the largest oyster dealer
On the Pacific Coast,
And that he keeps the freshest
Has ever been his boast.

"He's got nice little private rooms,
Where you can sit at ease,
And eat your California stew,
Or Eastern if you please.
All the young men of fashion go
Right to the SADDLE ROCK,
To eat their EASTERN OYSTERS
And drink their Rhenish hock."

EASTERN DRAMATIC NEWS.

NEW YORK.

Max Strakosch states that Mlle. Titiens, will not appear in opera during the coming season, for the simple reason that opera has proved to him a chronic loss. It is said by those who know, that he paid nearly $80,000 for the luxury of his last season's campaign, and it is not likely that he cares to indulge again in such extravagance in order to gratify the dainty musical appetites of 200 aristocratic, non-seat-paying, Academy of Music stockholders. Concerts only will be given.

After a two-weeks' run of "Around the World in Eighty Days" to good business, the management of the Grand Opera House presented "Hamlet" on the 30th and 31st ult., with Mr. E. L. Davenport in the title role, supported by a carefully selected American company, to prove that native talent will not be permitted a quiet shelving in New York, nor Sullivan's claim to the title of the world's greatest tragedian to remain undisputed. Miss Laura Don, appeared as Ophelia, and the cast included Jos Wheelock, D. F. Metkiff, Theodore Hamilton, J. P. Sutton, D'Orsay Ogden, Robert Johnson, L. J. Mestayer, T. E. Owens and Mrs. J. L. Carhart. "Richelieu" was presented Sept. 1 and 2, and "Richelieu" on the 3d and 4th.

A positive hit may be recorded for the "Princess of Trebizonde" at Robinson Hall. The features of the opera are Misses Clara Fisher, Nellie Larkelle, Harry Allen and Walter H. Woodfield.

The reproduction of the "Big Bonanza" at Daly's Fifth Avenue proved an exception to the general managerial rule that revivals of ephemeral plays are dangerous. Although the houses were not crowded the receipts were satisfactory. This may be credited to fashionable curiosity, as regards the change of cast, which included Miss Fanny Francis and Mr. Barrymore, two promising debutants.

"Si Slocum" proved a success at Wood's Museum. It has fulfilled its mission in a very satisfactory manner.

Jules Verne and D'Ennery, of Paris, through their agent, Mr. Theodore Michaellis, assigned all right, title, and interest in the romantic drama and spectacle of "Around the World" to Mr. T. J. French, the publisher of plays in New York. Mr. French has, in turn, disposed of his rights in the United States and Canada to the Kiralfy Brothers, and in an advertisement informs all whom it may concern that he will legally protect the Kiralfy Brothers in their exclusive property rights in the play and spectacle in question.

Jolly Nash sails from Liverpool for New York, on September 15th, and will appear, on his arrival, at Mr. Josh Hart's new Eagle Theatre. The Prince of Wales was very anxious to have Mr. Nash accompany him to India; but John was too much delighted with his last trip to America, and preferred to return.

Darling's, late Bryant's Opera House, with Cotton and Reed as principals, is doing good business.

A series of opera bouffe representations was commenced at the Lyceum Theatre, September 6th, with Offenbach's freshest work, "Madame L'Archduc." Mlle. Coraline Geoffrey, Mlle. Florence Duparc, from the Palais Royal, Paris, (her first appearance in America), Mlle. Nardynn, Mme. Guerzy, Mons. De Queroy, and M. Roger (first appearance in America), were included in the cast. October 25th will witness the debut of Ernesto Rossi, the great Italian tragedian.

The opening of the Park Theatre took place Monday, September 6th, when Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Florence appeared in an original American tragedy written for them by Mr. B. Woolf, of Boston, entitled "The Almighty Dollar." It also introduced to the New York stage Miss Annie Edmondson, a young English actress, said to be of rare grace, beauty and dramatic powers.

ELSEWHERE.

The regular season of the Grand Opera House, Cincinnati, opened Sept. 6, with Jennie McClellan, Jennie Johnson, Ella Mayer, Florence Gillette, Miss Lafayette, Little Maud, and a corps de ballet; R. Fulton Russell, John A. Mackey, John Marble, Russell Soggs, R. Graham, H. C. Barton, J. C. Graven, Hugh Guller, F. T. Deneal, D. O'Brien, G. Arnold, Messrs. Garish, Mazold, Brown, Andrews and Mehan.

Mr. and Mrs. McKee Rankin (Kitty Blanchard,) having cancelled their engagement with the Union Square Theatre, N. Y., are now touring the West with a version of the "Two Orphans." Mr. and Mrs. Rankin sustain their original characters of Jacques Frochard and Henriette, supported by a full dramatic company. The troupe opened at Milwaukee for one week, on the 30th ult., thence to St. Paul.

Harrigan and Hart achieved quite a success at the Arch, Philadelphia.

A portion of Mr. Daly's Fifth Avenue Theatre company under Mr. J. C. Duff, started on a tour of the Union, Sept. 6th. They were to first appear at the Arch Street Theatre, Philadelphia, in "The Big Bonanza." The company consists principally of the Misses Sara Jewett, Fannie Francis, Alice Grey, and Stella Congdon, Mrs. Jameson, Messrs. D. Whiting, Maurice Barrymore, Owen Fawcett, B. T. Ringgold, Chas. Rockwell and F. Chapman. Their repertoire will consist of "The Big Bonanza," "Our Boys," "Frou-Frou," "Mons. Alphonse," "Article 47," "Saratoga," and "Divorce."

Macauley's Theatre, Louisville, Ky., will open on Monday with the following stock: Nellie Cummins, Hattie Russell, Charlotte Crampton, Ada Rehan, Mrs. J. W. Fox, Miss Blackford, Miss LeCompt, Miss Josie Fox, Harry Eytinge, J. W. Fox, W. N Griffith, E. T. Goodrich, Rufus Scott, Frank Bosworth, John T. Craven, N F. Edwards, W. J. Cross, Henry A. Moray, G. Henderson, and Messrs. Whitesides, Gould, Carney and Lloyd.

A Chicago paper says that the run of the "Two Orphans," as played by the Union Square Theatre company, was the longest ever achieved by any piece in Chicago, and refers to the presentation as the most remarkable ever known in that city.

Sheridan's 'Rivals'' will be produced during the present season at Field's Boston Museum.

Charlotte Thompson and troupe were at Springfield, Mass., Sept. 10th, will open at Newark, N. J. 24th.

Mrs. [illegible] Dauncey Maskell, the popular English re[illegible]r, will open the star courses this fall at Philadelphia. Mrs. Maskell is also arranging a literary novelty for the Centennial.

Rose Wood and Lewis Morrison, prior to their regular tour, are traveling two weeks through Pennsylvania, ending to-night, supported by the prominent members of the Walnut and Arch companies, of Philadelphia.

Barry Sullivan will open at the Walnut, Philadelphia, Sept. 20th.

Kennedy's songs of Scotland Troupe were at Omaha, Neb., 30th and 31st ult.

Mrs. Charles Walcot is seriously ill in Toronto, with pneumonia.

Tony Pastor and troupe were at Wilmington, Del., Sept. 6th, and Newark, N. J., 8th

Fox's Humpty Dumpty troupe, were at Binghamton, N. Y., 2d; Hornellsville, 4th.

Frank Frayne and family open at Troy, Sept. 13.

Vokes Family were playing at Providence, Sept. 6, making excursions to neighboring cities.

The Kellogg English Opera troupe, commence their season at the Brooklyn Academy, Oct. 18th, playing for one week.

Maggie Mitchell and troupe will play at Hartford, Conn., Sept 14th and 15th.

A Word to the Wise, etc.

It is generally known, but there is not the proper attention paid to the fact, that Messrs. Vanderslice & Co., on Sutter street, a few doors below Kearny street, keep the most elegant assortment of Silverware, of their own manufacture, that can be found on the whole Pacific Coast, and their prices are always at the lowest living figures. Their stock of Watches, Jewelry and Precious Stones are equa to any that can be found anywhere, and as everything is at manufacturer's prices it will be seen that money can be saved by purchasing of the above-named firm.
